A northwest suburban police academy centered in Arlington Heights is now in the planning stage, Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood told Paddock Publications Tuesday.

The proposed police training center, envisioned as a "commuter school," would serve communities along the Northwest Highway from Park Ridge to Barrington.

To be called the Northwest Police Academy, the school will offer training for probationary police officers from sponsoring police departments.

AT A MEETING Friday, 13 area police chiefs expressed a willingness to participate in the proposed training center, Calderwood said. Municipalities represented at the meeting were, Arlington Heights, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Wheeling, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Barrington, Barrington Hills, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Crystal Lake and Wauconda.

"The Chicago Police Academy and other academies in the Chicago area have been very cooperative in the past, but there is a tremendous problem in time used for commuting," Calderwood said. He noted that from three to four hours per day were spent commuting from the suburbs to the downtown location.

Before the projected training center can get off the ground, plans must be approved by the Illinois Law Enforcement Training Board. Mervin G. O'Melia, executive director of the state training board, recently toured the Arlington Heights police station for a look at its facilities.

A CLASSROOM and police pistol range in the village municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road, are planned to accommodate the school.

Calderwood has named Lt. Jack Aldrich, a 14-year-member of the Arlington Heights police department, as director of the proposed school. Aldrich recently graduated from a 10-month course at Northwestern Traffic Institute which qualifies him for the position.

Advantages for a local police school, according to Calderwood, include:

—Improvement of the "esprit de corps" of the respective police departments.

—Better communications in the towns in the northwest area, especially in radio, teletype and records.

—Reduction in transportation, both in miles and time.

—Reducing the loss of a potential recruit to another enterprising department.

CY CAMPBELL, Rolling Meadows police chief, said, "Local police chiefs have agreed there will be no pirating," and explained that often a man-in-training is hired away by another department.

"We would hope to put the school into operation directly after the first of the year for a period of four to six weeks," Calderwood explained.

He anticipates training costs will be $25 a week for each trainee.

SIMILAR SCHOOLS such as the University of Southern Illinois in Carbondale costs $228 a month and a 14-week course at the Chicago Police Academy costs $360.

Calderwood said the academy must meet certain requirements to comply with the Illinois Police Training Act, enacted by the 74th General Assembly of Illinois.

Under this act, the state pays half of the cost, or up to $500 for training a police officer. The sponsoring village pays the other half.

The Arlington Heights chief of police said a Board of Directors of Chiefs from the immediate area would be established. Such a board would set up ground rules in keeping with those recommended by the state training act.

CALDERWOOD SAID, "We have had in-service training programs here for many years. This proposed academy is possible because of the legislative act providing financial assistance for training."

A meeting of area police chiefs was scheduled for yesterday to further plan and discuss the police academy.

Chapman Win Only Bright Spot as Stavros Stumbles

by DAVID J. HANKS
Staff Writer

It was dull, dark and rainy outside Wheeling Township Democratic headquarters Tuesday—and the only bright spot inside the building was Mrs. Eugenia Chapman's lead in her race for re-election to the Illinois House.

The Arlington Heights housewife edged veteran and incumbent Rep. Bernard Peskin, another Democrat, of Northbrook. In this heavily Republican Third District two of the GOP and only one of the two Democrats running could be sent to Springfield.

IN A BUBBLING victory statement, Mrs. Chapman said "I'm proud of the candidates the Democrats put forth. Bernie (Peskin) has an outstanding record that speaks for itself, and I regret that two Democrats couldn't be elected.

"I appreciate the opportunity the voters have given me to serve them," she added. She gave thanks to those who had supported her, especially precinct captains and those in education who worked so hard for her.

The reason why the Democrats were so glum otherwise was that the ticket was taking a sound beating almost everywhere else. Only Adlai Stevenson III had a commanding lead over his opponent Harris Rowe, (R-Jacksonville).

Sen. Paul Douglas, the giant on the ticket, had fallen, and 13th Congressional candidate James McCabe of Arlington Heights had been trounced. And worse yet the Democrats were screaming because of the defeat of Harry Semrow for the Cook County Board presidency.

THIS MEANS some Democrats, some in the northwest suburbs will be without patronage jobs when Republican Richard Ogilvie takes office.

Democratic Committeeman James Stavros' comment again and again was "We're getting whipped everywhere. They came out of the walls today," said Stavros speaking of the huge turnout of voters — mostly Republican.

"I'M THROUGH," he said at one point.

And as if things weren't bad enough dissension in the Wheeling Township Democratic organization broke out in the open.

Herbert Koeneman, defeated in his bid to unseat Republican Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines to the county board, charged that "the Democratic organization here (Wheeling Township) hadn't given him any support."

"I did it all on my own," he added.

Koeneman went on to say that the organization, of which Stavros is the chief, didn't support any Democrat but one "from the top of the party ticket to the bottom." The one he apparently was referring to was Mrs. Chapman, soundly supported by Stavros. (But some Chapman supporters credited her win not to Stavros but to volunteer Chapman workers.)

IN AN EMOTIONAL statement Koeneman went on to say that he and his wife were leaving (about 10 p.m.) to go downtown to Democratic headquarters in Cook County "to tell them what happened out here (in Wheeling Township.)"

There were other grumblings around township headquarters, but none as vocal as Koeneman's and his wife, who is Stavros' secretary.

The Koenemans' unhappiness with the township organization is not unknown. Democrats in both Arlington Heights and Wheeling have heard their complaints for months.

Other comments overheard at the headquarters Tuesday night indicated that Democrats in the township hadn't worked hard enough two weeks ago when "people make up their minds."

Mrs. Koeneman, in a cryptic comment at one point said to another worker, "How many jobs will Chapman get you?"

IN A QUICK check of the precinct-by-precinct vote in Wheeling Township, however, Paddock Publications discovered that the dissension group is small. Mrs. Chapman won almost every precinct and carried the township 14,346 to 9,035 with 61 of 66 precincts reporting. Thus voters apparently followed Stavros' leadership.

She also was leading in Elk Grove, Barrington, Schaumburg, Palatine townships. Peskin was winning in Maine, Hanover and Northfield townships. Some precincts in all townships were missing.

Mrs. Chapman refused to comment on the dissension of the Koeneman's. She simply said she had the full support of "my committeeman and appreciated it."

Unofficial totals from all townships with several precincts missing in each, Mrs. Chapman led 34,893 to 32,371 for Peskin.

Suburbs Play Key Role for Victors

by Dan Pribilski

Four-to-one, 3-to-1, 2½-to-1 margins marked Republican victory returns in northwest suburbia Tuesday.

A Republican sign said: "Lyndon's Bridges Are Falling Down."

With the tumult of election night over, Lyndon's bridges had fallen down. Not all, but some. The margins showed that suburbanites did their best to tumble Democrats.

The "Lyndon" referred to, of course, is President Johnson, and his "bridges" are the parts and pieces of the powerful Democratic Organization.

NOW, THAT organization is not so powerful.

Northwest suburban voters turned out in record numbers for an off-year election with more than 80 per cent in area townships.

The major Democratic "star" as far as suburbanites were concerned was Adlai Stevenson III, candidate for state treasurer. His opponent was the lesser known Harris Rowe.

The Stevenson "loss" in suburbia was consistently less than 3-to-1 while other Democrats were being clobbered 3-to-1 and 4-to-1.

COUNTY-WIDE race of most importance was for county board president and Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie won handily. In northwest suburbia, Ogilvie's Democratic opponent, Harry H. Semrow, was barely in the ball game. Ogilvie margins ran 3½-to-1 and 4-to-1 or better.

The importance of this race is because the county board presidency is variously called the third or fourth most important job in Illinois.

Reason being the size of the government and the amount of patronage. Under out-going Pres. Seymour Simon, Cook County has had as many as two-thirds of county employes on patronage rather than civil service. That amounts to 10,000 to 12,000 employes.

With a Republican victory, a good share of those patronage jobs will fall to the Republicans. In the past, Democrats have relied heavily on patronage in Chicago to get wards manned with many times the number of workers Republicans have been able to field. This has been particularly true in Negro wards.

Considering most major races, townships of Wheeling, Elk Grove and Palatine proved the major northwest Republican power-houses.

SCHAUMBURG AND Hanover township Republicans did not rack up as great GOP victory margins.

Major Democratic incumbent, of course, was Sen. Paul H. Douglas who was thoroughly trounced state-wide by Charles H. Percy.

In Wheeling Township, the senator went down by 3½-to-1. In Elk Grove, the margin was about the same. Palatine Township, the margin was nearly 4-to-1. In Schaumburg and Hanover, the margins were under 3-to-1.

Actually, Stevenson aside, Democrats Clerk Edward Barrett and Assessor P. J. Cullerton did not do badly at all. In Wheeling Township, these two Democrats ran even a little better than Stevenson. In the assessor race, Cullerton was down only 2-to-1 against Homer Fields in Wheeling.

LOCAL Democratic candidates Norman Nelson Jr. (state senate), James L. McCabe (13th Congressional District) and Herman Koeneman (county board) were thoroughly trounced.

State Sen. John Graham, Cong. Donald Rumsfeld and Des Plaines County Commissioner Floyd Fulle could say they barely knew they had opposition.

McCabe, for instance, lost in northwest suburbia by 4-to-1 and 5-to-1 margins. Nelson also was trounced by 4-to-1 margins.

Citizens' Unit Eyes Tax Defeat

A citizens' committee formed to study Arlington Heights Elementary District 25's tax referendum defeat will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 301 W. South St.

Norval Stephens, committee chairman, said he anticipates about 25 volunteers on the committee.

At the organizational meeting, the citizens' group will form subcommittees to deal with specific areas of the school district, Stephens said.

HE ADDED that the group would be made up of persons with strong business backgrounds in such areas as financial analysis, accounting, sales, marketing, planning, and architectural.

"Their work and advice would cost the district a tremendous amount as hired consultants," Stephens pointed out.

He said the volunteers for the committee expressed "a very deep-rooted concern and willingness" to give up their time for the citizens' group. He added no one had turned down his request to participate.

School board and administrative officials have been invited to the Monday meeting.

STEPHENS, chosen by the school board last week to head the citizen's group, said he envisions committee work as a two-way street.

"We will represent the taxpayer at-large in our review of district spending and we will report back to citizens about the school programs," Stephens said.

Displays Must Be Authentic

Begin Planning of Museum

by BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

With a building purchased and the initial leg of the fund drive almost completed, members of the Historical Society of Arlington Heights have begun to talk about what will happen inside the museum.

"We want to begin as a museum," Lido Lucchesi, 408 S. Forrest Ave., said. An employe of the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, Lucchesi is also a member of the local society and has agreed to help the group map out and set up the museum displays.

He explained that the historical society did not want to open a building full of displays that were only half authenticated and not displayed properly.

THE MUSEUM, he said, will concentrate on Arlington Heights' history, but articles from other areas that are similar to those used in Arlington Heights also will be displayed.

Although the historical society does not anticipate having every room in the new museum filled with displays before the building is opened to the public, the museum will open as a complete museum in that only authentic items of the best historical quality will be on display, he said.

The Mueller home, Lucchesi warns, will not be converted into a museum over night.

"It's not like the library where getting the building up is the major work," Lucchesi said.

The historical society will not take possession of the building at 500 N. Vail Ave., until the first of the year. At that time exact dimensions of rooms will be taken and some changes will be made to make the building more suitable for museum use.

Besides adaptation of the building itself, the historical society has a good deal of work to do with the exhibits. Restor-

Residents Rap Sign Proposal

Residents of East Davis Street turned up to protest erection of a new sign on the used car lot west of the Morton Pontiac Agency at 666 E. Northwest Highway.

THE AGENCY ASKED the board for a variance in sign requirements to permit erection of a 22-foot-high neon display sign in front of its car lot. The village ordinance calls for a maximum height of 15 feet 6 inches for ground-mounted signs.

Building commissioner Harold Best explained to the Herald that the sign would be lit with the dimmest type of neon light available--the slim line model, used in office buildings.

It appeared that the variance would be granted when David Rettberg, 607 E. Davis St., asked for recognition, and proceeded to denounce the new sign.

RETTBERG SAID THE sign, to be mounted at right angles to northwest highway, would be a hazard to motorists, and that the present sign provided sufficient identification for the Morton operations.

He suggested that, if the variance should be passed, the board should demand that the sign be of minimum brightness and that a shield be provided to protect residents of Davis Street from the increased illumination.

RETTBERG WAS seconded by Ken Larson, 611 E. Davis, who said that the installation of a new sign on the property flew in the face of village plans to beautify the village railroad right of way through town.

The objectors also charged that the Morton signs were not turned off, as they are said to be, at 9:30 in the evening.

THE MATTER finally was left up in the air by its referral to the public safety committee for further study.

Best described the sign as a very small one compared to others in the area--the proposed size is three by 12 feet--and noted that if it were not above the maximum height allowed by statute, the matter would never have been disputed to begin with. (A

"COME IN AND BROWSE" is the invitation to patrons of the newly-remodeled Hilltop Book Shop, 415 S. Arlington Heights Road. Above, Elizabeth Bauman of 640 S. Pine St. leafs through one of the 14,000 titles stocked by the store.

Browsers Welcomed At New Book Store

Bookworms can have a heyday at the newly-remodeled Hilltop Book Shop, 415 S. Arlington Heights Road in Arlington Heights.

According to the new owner, Mrs. Pearl Bennett, bookstore patrons are encouraged to browse through the books.

"PEOPLE HAVE to look through a book before they buy it," she added.

Some 14,000 titles will be in stock, with titles ranging from American and English literature to bestsellers, travelogues, and dictionaries.

In addition, Hilltop is offering a special ordering service for books not stocked.

BOOKS ARE shelved according to subject for the convenience of customers, said Mrs. Bennett. A selection of greeting cards and a tobacco and cigarette shop are included in the remodeled store.

Mrs. Bennett and her son, Robert, will manage the store. Mrs. Bennett was affiliated with a local bank for the 14 years she has lived in Arlington Heights.

STORE HOURS are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays; 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays; and 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sundays.

The store was originally Hilltop Apothecary and later became Hilltop Apothecary Book Shop under the ownership of Amelia Sharkey. (A

Baptists to See Passover Supper Sunday Evening

Rev. S. J. Haik and Mrs. Haik will give a portrayal of the Jewish Passover Supper at the First Baptist Church of Arlington Heights Sunday.

Rev. Haik, of Syrian birth, attended the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary in Chicago. He was formerly a Pastor but has been working with the American Messianic Fellowship for the past 15 years in Milwaukee, Wis.

The public is invited to the presentation Sunday evening, 7 p.m., at 1211 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights. Nursery is provided for infants to 4 year olds. (A

Residents Rap Sign Proposal

Residents of East Davis Street turned up to protest erection of a new sign on the used car lot west of the Morton Pontiac Agency at 666 E. Northwest Highway.

THE AGENCY ASKED the board for a variance in sign requirements to permit erection of a 22-foot-high neon display sign in front of its car lot. The village ordinance calls for a maximum height of 15 feet 6 inches for ground-mounted signs.

Building commissioner Harold Best explained to the Herald that the sign would be lit with the dimmest type of neon light available--the slim line model, used in office buildings.

It appeared that the variance would be granted when David Rettberg, 607 E. Davis St., asked for recognition, and proceeded to denounce the new sign.

RETTBERG SAID THE sign, to be mounted at right angles to northwest highway, would be a hazard to motorists, and that the present sign provided sufficient identification for the Morton operations.

He suggested that, if the variance should be passed, the board should demand that the sign be of minimum brightness and that a shield be provided to protect residents of Davis Street from the increased illumination.

Jewel Zoning Request Causes Stir During Village Meeting

By DAVE HOYT
News Editor

Huddles, anxious conferences, angry exchanges, and stirring oratory marked the consideration of zoning questions by the Arlington Heights Village board Monday night.

The angry exchanges and stirring oratory came when the council faced a decision on whether to grant a request by Jewel Tea Company for the rezoning of property to the west and north of the service station on the northwest corner of Golf and Arlington Heights Road.

THE MATTER had been discussed at the Oct. 17 board meeting. At that time trustees John White, Frank Palmatier, and Roy Bressler said they would like to see some provision for traffic flow between the proposed Jewel property and property owned by the Kroger food stores, directly to the north of the Jewel land.

The three trustees feared that unless there was some such provision, traffic flow in the area would be adversely affected.

The three again brought up this point, and Palmatier offered an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would require Jewel to provide for an interconnecting driveway between the two properties "so that traffic would be able to move between the existing facilities without driving out onto Arlington Heights Road."

JEWEL'S vice president for real estate, C. R. Johnson, was on his feet to tell the board in stentorian tones and measured delivery, "I have never known of such a proposal which was effective in fact."

Johnson said that it was not possible to tell, as had been suggested, that an interconnecting drive would be to the company's advantage, "especially if the other store had its back to us."

"YOU ARE placing an onus on us for our successful development in the future in this area," said Johnson. "We do not know what our neighbor will do, and I think that such a move will hurt our business."

Trustee White said that it was not unusual to coordinate traffic flow within a shopping center, and Johnson shot back that his company was not building a shopping center, pointing out that his firm and Kroger are competitors in the retail food business.

TRUSTEE John Walsh, who had championed the petition at the October meeting then announced that he could not believe that the board would stand in the way of such a desirable petitioner as Jewel.

Walsh said the board was not qualified to make the sort of recommendation proposed by Palmatier and backed by Bressler and White.

"IF WE COULD impose the same standards on both parties at the same time, fine, but we can't," said Walsh, "and I see no reason for holding up the petitioner."

The Jewel spokesmen announced that their contract with the current owner of the land expired that night.

The board finally voted to okay the rezoning petition but on the condition that the store would erect no barriers which would hamper interconnection of properties in the future.

AS HE TURNED to leave, Johnson again addressed the board, saying, "I am disappointed that the board did not have the confidence in our company and in Kroger, to develop the property in the best interests of the village." He thanked the board for its affirmative action and left.

The extended huddle was the feature of the consideration of a preannexation zoning request made for 60 acres of land lying on the south side of Rand Road, east of Wilke Road, and north of Greenbrier subdivision.

John White gave a lengthy oral report to the board based on a special committee's investigation of the planned use of the land. The land is divided into 32-acre and 28-acre parcels by the Commonwealth Edison right of way. R-5 multiple family zoning had been asked for the north 28, while the R-3 single family had been asked for the south 32 acres.

WHITE reported that his committee was not satisfied with the specific plans for the development, but recommended that the village attorney be instructed to draw up the annexation ordinance. He said that annexation was agreed to on the stipulation that not more than 344 units be put up on the R-5 parcel.

After a prolonged conference at the front desk, the board decided to postpone until the next meeting voting on the ordinance. Trustee Bressler said that he could not vote on the matter on the basis of the oral presentation made by White. White said he would have his report in writing in time for study before the next meeting.

IN OTHER action, the board granted a rezoning request and special use permit to Miller Builders and Kenroy Realty for property to the northeast and northwest of the intersection of Kennicott and Alleghany Drives. Lot 521 will be zoned R-5 from R-3 to expedite building placement and parking in the area.

A spokesman for Miller said that this would permit parking behind the single, proposed apartment building, and thus allow access from Kennicott rather than Alleghany, a residential street.

LOT 524, east of Kennicott was rezoned to provide for a gas station where Kennicott intersects with Rand Road and to permit R-5 multiple family usage on the southern portion of the lot. The R-5 zoning will allow the developers to make better use of more R-5 property just to the south on lot 525.

The ordinance is contingent upon adequate screening and landscaping for the new buildings, upon planned development, an abandonment clause on the gas station, and submission of final plans on the station to the village building commissioner. (A

Woods Declares Education Week In Community

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John G. Woods designated this week as American Education Week in Arlington Heights at Monday's village board meeting.

Saying that education is of paramount importance in a complex civilization, Woods further pointed out that education "adds to human dignity, rational thinking, the creative spirit and self-reliance."

HE SAID the schools are the personal responsibility of each citizen and it is necessary to maintain an educational system that will continue to produce citizens capable of significant contributions to our civilization.

Woods asked that citizens and organizations observe the week.

"AH, WILDERNESS!" Eugene O'Neill's three-act comedy, will be presented Nov. 17, 18, and 19 in Arlington High School's Little Theatre. The family-style show flavored by 1906 settings, has a cast of 15 students under direction of Douglas K. Murphy. Shown above in one scene are Steve Busch, Pat Smith, and Harry Tennant, all of Arlington Heights. Tickets are now on sale from cast members and other students connected with the play. Stephens Heads Unit Named To Probe School Tax Defeat

Norval Stephens, 402 S. Belmont St., will take the helm of a citizens' committee which will examine Arlington Heights Elementary District 25's recent tax referendum defeat.

School board members last Wednesday appointed Stephens as head of the "blue ribbon" committee.

STEPHENS told the board he would report on the progress of seeking committee volunteers at the next meeting. At that time he plans to outline more specific goals of the citizens' group.

Stephens is a member of the village plan commission and library board. A former trustee of Arlington Heights, he received the Arlington Heights "Young Man of the Year" Award in 1963.

Stephens is vice president of Needham, Harper & Steers Inc., Chicago advertising agency.

Setting up a lay committee was one of the recommendations of a special board committee to study the Sept. 26 referendum defeat. The committee will continue to act as a liaison between the school board and the citizens' group.

District 25 officials are directing the citizens' committee to "evaluate and challenge the basis for the past tax referendum and to make recommendations to the board." In addition, the board is asking this group to include the need for additional school construction in its study and recommendations.

Board president Harold Sortor cited several reasons for the defeat. He said, "I was amazed at the number of people standing behind the school system and the board who did not vote at the referendum."

HE SAID other contributing

factors were the confusion between the building and educational fund, failure of the school board to explain consequences of a tax defeat, a normal negative vote against tax increases, and the lack of community involvement in the referendum.

"The school board must lead in school affairs but it must explain its actions to the community," Sortor said.

THEODORE SEILER, chairman of the board's referendum committee, said, "It was the committee's very strong conclusion that the defeat of the referendum was a distinct blow to the school district. The committee believes strongly that the referendum issue must not be abandoned."

He cited four broad conclusions contributing to the defeat.

1) The uncertain economic tenor of the times coincident with local reluctance to approve any further increases in the real estate tax as a result of a series of prior successful referendums.

2) THE CAMPAIGN to inform voters was not carried to enough people on a sufficiently direct basis to overcome the anti-tax sentiment.

3) The campaign did not effectively identify and emphasize the critical educational consequences which would result from a defeat.

4) There was not adequate opportunity for public participation in the development of the need for a referendum.

ACCORDING to Sortor the citizens' group will be asked to participate in the next referendum, if it agrees there is a need for a tax hike.

District 25 citizens voted to defeat a proposed 33.5 cent tax hike Sept. 26, for the educational and building funds. (A

'Country Customs' Open for Business

A new store, Ma and Pa's Country Customs, opened for business Wednesday at Arlington Heights Road and Davis Street, Arlington Heights. Its bright facade and old-fashioned sign duplicate the nostalgic atmosphere of its neighbor, Ma and Pa's Country Candy, Inc.

Proprietor of the new venture is Jean Johansen who, together with her husband, Dick, has been in the dress and interior decoration field here for 12 years. Feeling they know the tastes of the people in this area, the couple developed the idea of this unusual store, designed, Johansen said, "strictly for Arlington Heights people."

A WIDE RANGE of merchandise will be featured. In addition to a diverse selection of "the kind of clothes suburban women like — from knee socks to formals," Country Customs will carry various items of men's apparel, including robes, hand-knit shirts and mufflers and an Italian line of sports coats.

Antique jewelry and refurbished antiques are also for sale, with lamps a specialty, as well as the work of local artists. Some of those represented are Barbara Houskeeper, Sue Kehe, Helen Fisher, Christine Siegfried and Ruthe Karlin.

Johansen, who built the interior of the store, as well as the new upstairs offices of Ma and Pa's Country Candy, plans now to return to his dress and construction businesses. His wife will handle his clothes, in addition to California lines, in the new Ma and Pa Country Customs store. (A

Running a Railroad

Railroads will spend $1.5 billion for fuel and operating materials and supplies in 1966, and $1.8 billion for new rolling stock.

Why 'Cantaloupe'

"Cantaloupe" is derived from Cantalupo, Italy, the area from which the delicacy was brought to America soon after Columbus arrived.

Over 50 Group To Meet Today

The Arlington Heights Branch of the Over 50 Club of Wheeling Township will meet at Pioneer Park today from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There will be a business meeting following lunch. Beverages will be furnished.

The club will go to the Kungsholm Smorgasbord Wednesday for lunch and a puppet show. The show is from Sound of Music and Paint Your Wagon. The bus will leave Pioneer Park at 10 a.m. Reservations close tomorrow. (A

Stonegate Light Money Okayed

The Arlington Heights Village Board appropriated $50,000 Monday night for installation of mercury vapor street lights on streets bordering the Stonegate subdivision.

Money for the improvement will come from the village's allotment of motor fuel tax funds.

VFW Post No. 981 Will Sponsor Ceremonies

Arlington Heights' Veterans' Day ceremonies will be held at the flagpole on Davis Street between Dunton and Evergreen Avenue at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

The ceremonies, sponsored by VFW Post No. 981 and its auxiliary, will include a short address and a firing squad salute in honor of all war veterans, both living and dead.

Edward J. Zaker, 1544 N. Evergreen Ave., commander of the post, has asked local residents to fly the United States flag in honor of the veterans.

Planners Rap Tec Search

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission has recommended that Tec Search, Inc., be reprimanded for its "amateurish" work on the village's new master thoroughfare plan.

"FOR $30,000 WE should have gotten something more professional than this," committee chairman Fred Ainslie told the commission last Wednesday in winding up work on the report.

Ainslie, whose committee has spent almost a year evaluating — and, in some cases, rewriting — the master plan, cited numerous weaknesses in the Tec Search work.

HE SAID THAT the planning firm:

—Provided poorly labelled, too small maps.

—Made no traffic counts of its own before recommending downtown traffic patterns, but relied instead on ones done by the village engineering department three to six years ago.

—PROVIDED information that was "very scattered, incoherent and not well documented."

Tec Search's recommendations for depressing the railroad Chicago and Northwestern tracks through the village were based "almost entirely on a 1959 Consoer Townsend engineering report, Ainslie pointed out.

"There were absolutely no new figures," emphasized Ainslie regarding the recommendation that the tracks be depressed.

TWO COMMENTS made by commission members last Wednesday were disputed this week by L. A. Hanson, village manager.

Sam Rudder, who also serves on the board of local improvements, told fellow commission members that he understood the village had already protested officially to the state about the quality of Tec Search's work.

THIS IS NOT SO, Hanson told Paddock Publications Tuesday.

He said the village had sent one letter regarding the Tec Search work, but that it referred only to the fact that the consultants did not complete the report at the time promised in the contract.

Hanson also disagreed with a suggestion by Harold Carlson, commission chairman, that the village recommend that Tec Search's pay be withheld until they bring the report up to requirements.

Tec Search has already received payment for the work, the village manager explained.

Lattof Is Commended By Village

The Arlington Heights Village Board began its Monday night session by honoring village businessman and civic leader Nicholas Lattof.

Village President John Woods arose to read resolution of commendation to Lattof, which listed the Chevrolet dealers' accomplishments in the community.

These include positions of leadership, such as chairman of the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian Church, chairman of the board of trustees of Northwest Community Hospital, and president of the elementary school board.

Lattof has also been associated with the Northwest Suburban YMCA, the Boy Scouts, the Community Fund, the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution of commendation is signed by all members of the village board. (A

Vandals Break Home Windows

A wave of vandalism Monday night resulted in an estimated $160 worth of damage to windows of homes under construction in Arlington Heights.

Pat La Pierra, 1415 N. Salem Ave., told police a patio door and windows were broken at a home at 1207 W. Thomas Street and windows were damaged on a home at 1311 N. Salem Ave. (A

Local Miss Set for Tour

GI's To Hear Girl Drummer

by BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

GI enthusiasm for traveling musical troops is easily understood if one has met Arlington Heights' own Bobby Golden.

Bobby, a pretty miss who plans to be cheering the boys in Viet Nam at Christmas time, has been an entertainer with the U.S.O. and private groups in the Far East since 1960. A drummer (and part-time flutist and dancer), she packed up her costumes and musical instruments early this week to join her group for practices before their Dec. 1 trip to the Orient.

HOME LAST week for a short vacation between engagements, Bobby celebrated her birthday, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's all at once before rejoining the five-member Abbie Neal show.

The group will spend from "eight to twenty" weeks traveling and entertaining "western-style" in the Far East.

Originally a flutist, Bobby took up the drums after graduating from Arlington High because she liked jazz. Despite her jazz-oriented ambitions, Bobby will be wearing a cowgirl type outfit and playing western music on her drums in Viet Nam.

ALTHOUGH BOBBY is working with an-all girl group this time, she said that in the past her nickname, derived from her Christian name "Barbara," has been a ticket to many otherwise unreachable jobs.

BOBBY GOLDEN

"There just aren't many girls who play a full set of drums," she said. She said that on several occasions she had taken jobs lined up for her by friends without her new bosses imagining that they were getting a lady drummer.

Bobby was a pleasant surprise to them.

BOBBY'S FIRST three trips overseas were with U.S.O. groups. After that, however, she decided to try her luck with privately operated traveling groups.

Once she boarded a freighter from the United States' west coast and sailed to the Philippines. Jobless when she left home, Bobby signed up with a Philippine company and performed with them.

Besides her work in Viet Nam and the Philippines, Bobby has entertained in Korea, Japan, Thailand, Okinawa, Guam, Laos and Taiwan.

WHILE WORKING in Japan she memorized the entire Japanese hit parade and learned the Japanese language so well that speaking English became a chore. She is now studying Vietnamese.

When you're in the Far East, you work according to eastern customs, Bobby said. On a five month stay in Korea, her group worked seven days a week, putting on two shows a night. Adding to their troubles was the fact that the two shows were performed in different towns.

Despite her enthusiasm for entertaining in the Far East, Bobby has decided that her ultimate goal is to further American understanding of the problems and peoples of the Orient.

"PEOPLE HERE just aren't aware of the problems there," she said.

In a commentary on United States policies involving the nations of the Far East, Bobby charges that American tourists are ill-informed of local customs and that some American ambassadors don't speak the language of the people.

She said that Americans don't realize that "customs, historical backgrounds and aptitudes differ greatly in these countries, and we must remember that although they are neighbors, they do not necessarily like each other."

EAGER TO share what she's learned about the Orient with other Americans, Bobby said she feels, "There's no use living if you don't have a challenge."

She said she hopes to meet her challenge by writing about the countries she has come to know and understand. (A

Teen Service To Open AHEAD Week Sunday

AHEAD Week — 1966 starts officially in Arlington Heights Sunday with a teen service and a dramatic presentation of the passion of Christ.

SUNDAY afternoon, from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. teen workers from participating churches will gather at the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, 3201 W. Campbell, Rolling Meadows, for a program of clean-up and entertainment.

The youths will spend three to four hours cleaning and painting a large workshop at the Center, washing all classroom windows, and cleaning and disinfecting teachers' supplies and games.

TWENTY-FIVE of the young people will take 25 Clearbrook students on a hayride followed by a sing-along and doughnut party.

"Christ in the Concrete City," a play written by a young English Anglican priest, will be presented at First Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

OPEN TO ALL village residents, the play is staged by the Presbyterian Players of Arlington Heights. Cast members are Mrs. Robert Tindall, Mrs. Robert Hawley, Mrs. W. Bass Watkins, Mrs. Frederick Brooks and Mrs. James Smith.

A 22-minute film, "The Parable," will be shown three times during the week.

Monday at 8 p.m., there will be a showing at Southminster Presbyterian Church. Thursday at 8 p.m. there will be showings at the First Methodist Church and the Christian Church.

This film, the main attraction at the Protestant and Orthodox Center during the New York World's Fair, is popular with both Protestant and Catholic groups. Because it excites a great deal of comment, the film will be shown once followed by discussion and a re-showing of the film.

A FILMSTRIP, "Modern Art and the Gospel," will be shown at the Congregational United Church of Christ Wednesday 16, at 8 p.m. This filmstrip was designed to help people become more aware of the world in which they live and more appreciative of the vision and language of great modern artists as they observe our world and comment upon it.

A film on narcotics, "Pills, Potions and Penalties," will be given at St. Simon's Episcopal Church, Sunday, Nov. 20, at 3 p.m.

The climax of the ecumenical week will be an interchurch Thanksgiving for Unity Service which will be held at Arlington High School Sunday, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m.

Participating clergy are Rev. Robert Strzelecki, St. James Catholic Church; Dr. Paul Stumpf, First Presbyterian; Rev. Joel Henning, St. Simon's Episcopal Church; Rev. Edward Schreiber, Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church; Rev. Donald Pritz, Our Saviour Lutheran; Rev. Robert McDonald, St. John United Church of Christ, and Rev. Gerald Robinson, First Methodist Church.

The committee for AHEAD week includes the Rev. W. Rowland Koch, Congregational United Church of Christ; Father Strzelecki; Rev. Robinson; Rev. Larry Cartford, Lutheran Church of the Cross; Rev. Leon Haring, Jr., First Presbyterian; James Bailey, Our Saviour Lutheran; Gene Shull, Southminster Presbyterian; J. Kemp Blackwell, St. Simon's; Mrs. Thomas Grisell, First Presbyterian, and Mrs. Richard Frisbie, St. James. Rev. Koch is chairman. (A

New Horizons Will Hear Talk On Creativity

The New Horizons lecture-film series will feature a program of "educational entertainment" Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the St. Viator High School Cafeteria, 1213 E. Oakton St., Arlington Heights.

GUEST SPEAKER, Father Martin Thommes, C. P., will propose "Techniques for Creative Thinking."

Father Thommes, Vocational Director of the Passionist Order in the Midwest, is presently in attendance at the Institute of Pastoral Theology at Loyola University, Chicago. He has a B. A. in Liberal Arts and has done graduate work in psychology and counselling at Loyola University in Los Angeles. He received his theological training in Chicago, St. Louis, Des Moines and Louisville.

FATHER THOMMES will present the techniques for creative thinking which he learned at the Creative Problem Solving Institute in Buffalo, N. Y.

Tickets will be available at the door for $1. (A

Local Miss Set for Tour

GI's To Hear Girl Drummer

by BETTY FORRESTER

BOBBY GOLDEN

GI enthusiasm for traveling musical troops is easily understood if one has met Arlington Heights' own Bobby Golden.

Bobby, a pretty miss who plans to be cheering the boys in Viet Nam at Christmas time, has been an entertainer with the U.S.O. and private groups in the Far East since 1960. WORRIED LADY — Mrs. Eugenia Chapman (Arlington Heights) did not have a worriless Tuesday election night as she slipped to victory over Bernard Peskin (Northbrook). The two Democrats were vying for the third state representative seat in the 3rd Illinois House District. Mrs. Chapman had been the underdog candidate, and one source of her victory is attributed to good volunteer support. Organized support was considered to be more for Peskin. (Staff Photo)

POLITICAL HAPPINESS—Happiness for a politician, male or female, is victory. Rep. Eugenia Chapman, who was extremely active in the final days of campaigning, will join Republicans David Regner and Rep. Eugene Schlickman in the Illinois House. This will be her second term. She won the third seat in the 3rd District by edging out fellow-Democrat Bernard Peskin. Peskin ran a quiet campaign in seeking a fifth term. Apparently, his being well-known and being an eight-year veteran of the House could not overcome Mrs. Chapman's enthusiasm and volunteer workers. (Staff Photo)

ing the items and moving them into the museum will take a considerable amount of time, according to Lucchesi. At the present time, most of the historical pieces are stored in the home of society curator Mrs. Milton Daniels, but parts of the collection are scattered.

"OUR JOB will be the same as all museums; it is essentially a problem of communication," Lucchessi said. "Each exhibit has to tell a story; it's got to unfold; it's got to open like a book."

Some of the restoration work will have to be done by experts such as chemists, Lucchesi explained. He himself will be able to handle much of the work on the wood and metal items.

The historical background of all displays will be researched. This historical information along with the name of the donor will be put on a card identifying each display.

One display that Lucchesi said he was particularly interested in setting up is one centered around the soft drink factory that used to be located in the building that the museum is moving into. He said there will also be a niche in the house dedicated to the history of the family that owned it until the museum purchase in late September.

LUCCHESI SAID he hoped to set up life size scenes depicting one or two eras. If enough items can be collected to set up the scenes, one or two small rooms in the biulding may be closed off that they can be looked into but not entered.

Present plans call for the two adjoining rooms over the attached garage to be converted into a lecture room for visiting school classes. Lucchesi said he felt the museum would be tied in very closely with the education of Arlington Heights youngsters.

If a teacher brings a class to the museum to learn about local history, the correct information should be available there, he said.

"We hope to build a consciousness of tradition here in Arlington Heights," Lucchesi said.

He said he felt it should be part of the community conscience to preserve some of the things from the old homes that are being torn down to make way for newer buildings.

Arlington Is Tops In Safety

Arlington Heights rated first in Illinois and fourth in the nation in traffic safety for 1966, according to "Traffic Safety," a national safety council publication.

Listed with municipalities of 25,000 to 50,000 population, Arlington Heights recorded no motor-vehicle deaths resulting from traffic accidents for the first eight months of the year.

Arlington Heights was led only by Casper, Wyo.; Englewood, Colo.; and Idaho Falls, Idaho, in the nation.

According to Arlington Heights Police Chief, L. W. Calderwood this is the first time the village has rated so highly.

In addition to the number of deaths per 10,000, population rankings were based on other traffic safety aspects—educating the public, engineering, and law enforcement.

The Republican Yell: 'Winning Everything!'

By DAVE HOYT
News Editor
Staff Writer

"We're winning everything," shrieked an ecstatic teenage Republican as he rushed pell-mell from room to room in Wheeling Township Republican headquarters election night.

"Well, I don't think that's quite true," observed an older party hand.

But, as it became apparent that the Republicans were making a good showing in the area and around the country, eyes began shifting to the race between Eugenia Chapman and Bernard Peskin for the Third District House seat. Republicans David Regner and Eugene Schlickman were already in.

Pundits in the crowded Arlington Heights Knights of Columbus hall looked at the big Wheeling Township precinct board and bet on Peskin.

"PESKIN'S gonna murder her," predicted one confidently.

"Really, I'm all busted up," guffawed another, and most people in the room were saying that Mrs. Chapman should have done better in her own township.

"She shoulda taken Wheeling by three to one to have a hope," people muttered.

"Watch Peskin's smoke in Elk Grove. Bye, bye Genie."

By the end of the evening the pundits discovered, to their surprise, that the Democratic darling of the PTA's would be accompanying their two men to the Illinois legislature.

Applause punctuated the noisy throng as TV announcers told of Republican victories on the state, county and national level.

There were two entirely different breeds of Republicans in the hall: workers and watchers.

THE WORKERS sat behind a 30-foot-long table, recording the votes from the precincts as they reported, and trying to keep a running total of the township voting as well. Occasionally they would scuttle back and forth to one of the other rooms.

The watchers stood around with various potions in their hands and provided the smoke and noise necessary to an election night.

Eugene Schlickman was the general host, and seemed to enjoy himself as the crowds swirled about him.

Then, at last, when it was all sewn up, Schlickman took the stage for a short speech of thanks to his precinct captains.

"HAVE A GOOD time," he told the crowd, "and go watch Douglas make his concession speech." There were cheers, and he ducked out of the lights.

Honest relief filled his wife's voice when she commented, "It's been a wonderful night, and it's been so long coming."

All through the evening John Walsh and John Gillen toiled at the big board, sweating under the bright lights and occasionally bellowing at the size of the Republican vote in the precinct they were recording.

It was a happy headquarters; the noisy level was proof of this. People bellowed happily of the GOP comeback, and conversation in groups larger than four people was simply unmanageable.

More roars and shrieks as computer predictions favored Hatfield and Reagan in the west. "We're gonna do 'er," bellowed an ecstatic watcher.

"WAS THAT Reagan?" asked a worker. Yes it was. "Oh good," she breathed and fled back to the adding machines on the 30-foot table of toil.

Watchers began to sit on chairs in front of the TV sets. The crowd began to thin and after two hours of being drowned out by the hubbub, the adding machines could again be heard chattering, and the workers scuttled back and forth.

Better Mail Service Is Promised

The Arlington Heights Post Office will begin improved mail delivery for some 150 families this Saturday.

The homes, the first of 750 families to be included in the conversion, will receive their mail at the door rather than at the curb. With the new service, mail will be delivered by foot with parcels arriving by truck at a separate time. Presently these residents receive both letters and parcels through truck delivery to boxes set up at the curb.

Postmaster Virginia Dodge said all families involved in the conversion will be notified. She asked that residents not take the curbside boxes down before receiving notification from the post office.

She said the post office hopes to bring the improved service to more families each week. The speed with which the conversion is accomplished will depend upon the number of people that can be hired and the funds available, she said.

BOLI Will Consider Eastman St.

Members of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) will meet with attorney Stephen Jurco tonight to discuss the right-of-way on Eastman Street.

Jurco, representing George Poole, owner of the land immediately north of the present street right-of-way, will bring Poole's views on a proposed land dedication to BOLI.

At an earlier meeting Jurco and BOLI discussed the possibility of working out an agreement whereby Poole would dedicate a strip of land 33 feet wide and 244 feet long and the village would in turn install the street.

The land dedication is needed to straighten out a jog in the present street right-of-way.

Civilization Is Lit Gas Station

by DAVID HOYT
News Editor

Trying to find a gas station open after 11:15 p.m. in Mount Prospect is like hunting for an Israeli flag in the streets of Cairo—a fruitless task. I know. I drove my sputtering beast all over that quaint area to the east of us last Thursday night, and if I counted one dark station, I counted eleven.

So I dog trotted merrily down Northwest Highway waving furiously every now and then at passing autos. Some of the drivers stared. Others waved frantically back. None stopped, and I wound up running (it was cold, Maud) the whole distance from my car to the Arlington Police Station, where I was given a ride home. Noted on the way in that Lou's Standard was brightly lit up: Civilization. The Mount Prospect area is a charming one. Somebody should really consider building a town there one day.

And, speaking of Mount Prospect, I do give a cheer every time trustees Walsh and White raise their eyebrows at a proposal for R-5 multiple family zoning in Arlington. Not that I have anything against such zoning. In fact we need it.

But, talk about grim, take a look at some of the townhouses in the Mount Prospect area or that gaggle to be found in back of Randhurst. These structures are built with as little imagination as possible, with as little landscaping as possible, for as much profit as possible. The builders should be made to live in them. These men have paved the way for urban renewal in the suburbs by building ready-made slums.

The price for renting one of these units is often higher than the rental cost of a decent home in the area. But with homes so scarce, there is often no place for the newcomer to go. So, swallowing his hopes, he moves his family into a building with pealing paint, no view and no trees in back or front. There may even be no lawn. No sense in going on, but I'm sure the builders will.

Trick or treat for UNICEF is a perversion of an innocent holiday. I do not generally take issue with my favorite causes, but professional charity should not be a part of any holiday, especially when it involves collection during the time of celebration. It is a rude imposition, even on Halloween.

Give me dogs and fountain pens. Cats and ballpoints are too quick to serve any who pick them up.

Report Scarsdale Leans More Toward Annexation

The people of Scarsdale Estates have had a significant change of mind and are much more receptive to annexation than in the past, a Scarsdale Estates spokesman told the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night.

"Their septic tanks overflowed, that's what made 'em change their mind," sneered a voice in the audience.

And this, it seems, is true because, according to the figures presented by Scarsdale Estates president Russell Lockwood, 54 per cent of the people in the area want sanitary sewer service, and only 39 per cent are opposed to the idea.

LOCKWOOD SAID that those who have applied for service have agreed to annexation when their property becomes contiguous with the village.

The greatest concentration of property owners wanting the sewer service is found along Burton, Belmont, Bristol and Orchard streets.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson recommended going ahead with the sewer project on a "per-lot-tap-on basis."

This, he said, would involve the village's paying 39 per cent of the cost of installing the service, while 61 per cent of the tab would be picked up by the property owners who have requested the sewers.

THEN, AS OTHER owners tap on to the new sewers, the village would be reimbursed for the money it spent in installation.

This system was used with success in the Arlington Knolls subdivision, according to Hanson.

Hanson told the Herald that before work begins on the sewer, the owners will put money in escrow, as a guarantee to the village. At this time they will be required to sign an annexation agreement.

After examining the exhibit showing the homes in Scarsdale Estates requesting sewer service, Hanson said that it would be possible for the village to annex nearly 90 per cent of the total area, if it wished to do so.

The one area in Scarsdale Estates which did not faver the sewer service was a strip along Central Road, and the village, at present, has no plans for extending present sewer lines into the area.

Send Xmas Mail Today

Overseas Christmas packages may not make it in time for Christmas if they're not in the mail today.

The United States Postal Department cannot guarantee Christmas delivery of packages mailed overseas later than Nov. 10, according to a spokesman from the Arlington Heights Post Office.

Air mail packages may be mailed as late as Dec. 10, the spokesman said. They should be mailed between Dec. 1 and Dec. 10. (AF

Improvements Eyed At Hasbrook Park

The Arlington Heights Park Board is considering a number of improvements for Hasbrook park.

The changes, suggested by Hasbrook Civic Association Park Chairman William Gardner, 320 W. Maude St., were first discussed at last month's meeting.

Reporting on Gardner's requests, Park Supt. Thomas Thornton said Tuesday night that he did not think that at this time, or at any other, a park such as Hasbrook would merit having a resident director.

HE SAID HE felt Gardner's request for a full-time recreation director was prompted by the fact that the park district offers very little supervision to Hasbrook area children during the month of September, between the summer and fall recreation programs.

Thornton said there is no recreational supervision of the park on weekends.

Commenting on Gardner's other suggestions, Thornton said he felt it would be impractical to try to hire youths to do the park maintenance work.

In answer to Gardner's suggestion that the park's emphasis be on providing activities for youth rather than adult use, Thornton said, "I don't think we can exclude adult use of the building. I think we have hit a happy medium."

Thornton said he thought that Gardner's suggestion that the basketball backstops and tennis courts be separated should be included in next year's budget.

Thornton also agreed with Gardner that the park was too dark at night.

The board took no formal action on Thornton's report.

High Water Bill? Here Are Reasons

High Water bills can usually be explained on an individual basis, according to Arlington Heights officials.

Village finance director Stuart Grant said he and director of public works Gene Wilroth had gone out Friday to speak to people who had noticed a sizable increase in their water bills.

Grant said he found that most people who complained had no idea of how much water they were using. Once they started measuring the water consumption of dishwashers, showers, water softener flushes, leaky faucets and outside hoses, the reason for the higher bills became apparent.

The village water rates were changed late in the summer of 1965. The current charges are based on a two-step rate. The first 50,000 gallons cost 55 cents a thousand gallons. Each 1,000 gallons over 50,000 cost 50 cents.

Criminal Complaints Take Dip in October

The number of criminal complaints in Arlington Heights showed a downward trend in October, according to Police Chief L. W. Calderwood's monthly report to the village manager.

For the first time since May the number of complaints registered by police was below the 500 mark. In October police recorded a total of 462 criminal complaints.

That brings the year's total to 4,844 complaints for a 10-month period.

POLICE RECORDED 720 offenses in June; 731 in July; 604 in August, and 303 in September.

The number of burglaries decreased in October as police received four residential and two commercial burglary complaints. Last month there were ten residential and six commercial burglaries reported.

The October report listed no offenses of homicide, rape, robbery or aggravated assault.

Seven cases of grand larceny and 16 reports of petty larceny (under $50) were registered by police.

One suicide was reported in October, bringing to 13 the number of suicides and attempts in 1966.

Police recorded 49 complaints of criminal damage to property in October.

THE ARLINGTON Heights department handled 47 juvenile complaints — 40 by station adjustment, six in adult court and

The number of automobile accident reports declined from 72 in September to 67 in October. Sixty-two of the accidents involved property damage and five accidents were reported with injuries.

This brings the year's total to 740 auto accidents. (A

Developer Follows Up

Although the Arlingdale Garden Apartments Inc., suit against Arlington Heights was dismissed in Circuit Court last week, an intervening petitioner will be heard today (Thursday).

Anthony Giannini, a developer, will be heard by Circuit Court Judge John J. Lupe at 9:30 a.m. Giannini is asking that $3,000 which he deposited with the village for street light installation be refunded.

In the primary case Arlingdale Garden Apartments, Inc. had charged that the village's 1959 ordinance requiring developers to dedicate 10 percent of the land in new subdivisions for parks and schools was both illegal and unconstitutional.

THE ARLINGDALE corporation had asked that the $10,000 it had paid the village in lieu of land dedication be refunded.

Edward L. S. Arkema, attorney for the Arlingdale firm, said he would know if the firm intended to appeal last week's dismissal after the intervening petitioner had been heard. (A

NORTHERN ILLINOIS GAS

WORRIED LADY — Mrs. Eugenia Chapman (Arlington Heights) did not have a worriless Tuesday election night as she slipped to victory over Bernard Peskin (Northbrook). The two Democrats were vying for the third state representative seat in the 3rd Illinois House District. Mrs. Chapman had been the underdog candidate, and one source of her victory is attributed to good volunteer support. Organized support was considered to be more for Peskin. (Staff Photo)

POLITICAL HAPPINESS—Happiness for a politician, male or female, is victory. Rep. Eugenia Chapman, who was extremely active in the final days of campaigning, will join Republicans David Regner and Rep. Eugene Schlickman in the Illinois House. This will be her second term. She won the third seat in the 3rd District by edging out fellow-Democrat Bernard Peskin. Peskin ran a quiet campaign in seeking a fifth term. Apparently, his being well-known and being an eight-year veteran of the House could not overcome Mrs. Chapman's enthusiasm and volunteer workers. (Staff Photo)

The Republican Yell: 'Winning Everything!'

By DAVE HOYT
News Editor
Staff Writer

"We're winning everything," shrieked an ecstatic teenage Republican as he rushed pell-mell from room to room in Wheeling Township Republican headquarters election night.

"Well, I don't think that's quite true," observed an older party hand.

But, as it became apparent that the Republicans were making a good showing in the area and around the country, eyes began shifting to the race between Eugenia Chapman and Bernard Peskin for the Third District House seat. Republicans David Regner and Eugene Schlickman were already in.

Pundits in the crowded Arlington Heights Knights of Columbus hall looked at the big Wheeling Township precinct board and bet on Peskin.

"PESKIN'S gonna murder her," predicted one confidently.

"Really, I'm all busted up," guffawed another, and most people in the room were saying that Mrs. Chapman should have done better in her own township.

"She shoulda taken Wheeling by three to one to have a hope," people muttered.

"Watch Peskin's smoke in Elk Grove. Bye, bye Genie."

By the end of the evening the pundits discovered, to their surprise, that the Democratic darling of the PTA's would be accompanying their two men to the Illinois legislature.

Applause punctuated the noisy throng as TV announcers told of Republican victories on the state, county and national level.

There were two entirely different breeds of Republicans in the hall: workers and watchers.

THE WORKERS sat behind a 30-foot-long table, recording the votes from the precincts as they reported, and trying to keep a running total of the township voting as well. Occasionally they would scuttle back and forth to one of the other rooms.

The watchers stood around with various potions in their hands and provided the smoke and noise necessary to an election night.

Eugene Schlickman was the general host, and seemed to enjoy himself as the crowds swirled about him.

Then, at last, when it was all sewn up, Schlickman took the stage for a short speech of thanks to his precinct captains.

"HAVE A GOOD time," he told the crowd, "and go watch Douglas make his concession speech." There were cheers, and he ducked out of the lights.

Honest relief filled his wife's voice when she commented, "It's been a wonderful night, and it's been so long coming."

All through the evening John Walsh and John Gillen toiled at the big board, sweating under the bright lights and occasionally bellowing at the size of the Republican vote in the precinct they were recording.

It was a happy headquarters; the noisy level was proof of this. People bellowed happily of the GOP comeback, and conversation in groups larger than four people was simply unmanageable.

More roars and shrieks as computer predictions favored Hatfield and Reagan in the west. "We're gonna do 'er," bellowed an ecstatic watcher.

"WAS THAT Reagan?" asked a worker. Yes it was. "Oh good," she breathed and fled back to the adding machines on the 30-foot table of toil.

Regner and Senator John Graham turned up for confident picture posing and conversation with Schlickman. Then they left, and later Schlickman left the hall.

Watchers began to sit on chairs in front of the TV sets. The crowd began to thin and after two hours of being drowned out by the hubbub, the adding machines could again be heard chattering, and the workers scuttled back and forth.

Better Mail Service Is Promised

The Arlington Heights Post Office will begin improved mail delivery for some 150 families this Saturday.

The homes, the first of 750 families to be included in the conversion, will receive their mail at the door rather than at the curb. With the new service, mail will be delivered by foot with parcels arriving by truck at a separate time. Presently these residents receive both letters and parcels through truck delivery to boxes set up at the curb.

Postmaster Virginia Dodge said all families involved in the conversion will be notified. She asked that residents not take the curbside boxes down before receiving notification from the post office.

She said the post office hopes to bring the improved service to more families each week. The speed with which the conversion is accomplished will depend upon the number of people that can be hired and the funds available, she said.

BOLI Will Consider Eastman St.

Members of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) will meet with attorney Stephen Jurco tonight to discuss the right-of-way on Eastman Street.

Jurco, representing George Poole, owner of the land immediately north of the present street right-of-way, will bring Poole's views on a proposed land dedication to BOLI.

At an earlier meeting Jurco and BOLI discussed the possibility of working out an agreement whereby Poole would dedicate a strip of land 33 feet wide and 244 feet long and the village would in turn install the street.

The land dedication is needed to straighten out a jog in the present street right-of-way.

Civilization Is Lit Gas Station

by DAVID HOYT
News Editor

Trying to find a gas station open after 11:15 p.m. in Mount Prospect is like hunting for an Israeli flag in the streets of Cairo—a fruitless task. I know. I drove my sputtering beast all over that quaint area to the east of us last Thursday night, and if I counted one dark station, I counted eleven.

So I dog trotted merrily down Northwest Highway waving furiously every now and then at passing autos. Some of the drivers stared. Others waved frantically back. None stopped, and I wound up running (it was cold, Maud) the whole distance from my car to the Arlington Police Station, where I was given a ride home. Noted on the way in that Lou's Standard was brightly lit up: Civilization. The Mount Prospect area is a charming one. Somebody should really consider building a town there one day.

And, speaking of Mount Prospect, I do give a cheer every time trustees Walsh and White raise their eyebrows at a proposal for R-5 multiple family zoning in Arlington. Not that I have anything against such zoning. In fact we need it.

But, talk about grim, take a look at some of the townhouses in the Mount Prospect area or that gaggle to be found in back of Randhurst. These structures are built with as little imagination as possible, with as little landscaping as possible, for as much profit as possible. The builders should be made to live in them. These men have paved the way for urban renewal in the suburbs by building ready-made slums.

The price for renting one of these units is often higher than the rental cost of a decent home in the area. But with homes so scarce, there is often no place for the newcomer to go. So, swallowing his hopes, he moves his family into a building with pealing paint, no view and no trees in back or front. There may even be no lawn. No sense in going on, but I'm sure the builders will.

Trick or treat for UNICEF is a perversion of an innocent holiday. I do not generally take issue with my favorite causes, but professional charity should not be a part of any holiday, especially when it involves collection during the time of celebration. It is a rude imposition, even on Halloween.

Give me dogs and fountain pens. Cats and ballpoints are too quick to serve any who pick them up.

ing the items and moving them into the museum will take a considerable amount of time, according to Lucchesi. At the present time, most of the historical pieces are stored in the home of society curator Mrs. Milton Daniels, but parts of the collection are scattered.

"OUR JOB will be the same as all museums; it is essentially a problem of communication," Lucchessi said. "Each exhibit has to tell a story; it's got to unfold; it's got to open like a book."

Some of the restoration work will have to be done by experts such as chemists, Lucchesi explained. He himself will be able to handle much of the work on the wood and metal items.

The historical background of all displays will be researched. This historical information along with the name of the donor will be put on a card identifying each display.

One display that Lucchesi said he was particularly interested in setting up is one centered around the soft drink factory that used to be located in the building that the museum is moving into. He said there will also be a niche in the house dedicated to the history of the family that owned it until the museum purchase in late September.

LUCCHESI SAID he hoped to set up life size scenes depicting one or two eras. If enough items can be collected to set up the scenes, one or two small rooms in the biulding may be closed off that they can be looked into but not entered.

Present plans call for the two adjoining rooms over the attached garage to be converted into a lecture room for visiting school classes. Lucchesi said he felt the museum would be tied in very closely with the education of Arlington Heights youngsters.

If a teacher brings a class to the museum to learn about local history, the correct information should be available there, he said.

"We hope to build a consciousness of tradition here in Arlington Heights," Lucchesi said.

He said he felt it should be part of the community conscience to preserve some of the things from the old homes that are being torn down to make way for newer buildings.

Arlington Is Tops In Safety

Arlington Heights rated first in Illinois and fourth in the nation in traffic safety for 1966, according to "Traffic Safety," a national safety council publication.

Listed with municipalities of 25,000 to 50,000 population, Arlington Heights recorded no motor-vehicle deaths resulting from traffic accidents for the first eight months of the year.

Arlington Heights was led only by Casper, Wyo.; Englewood, Colo.; and Idaho Falls, Idaho, in the nation.

According to Arlington Heights Police Chief, L. W. Calderwood this is the first time the village has rated so highly.

In addition to the number of deaths per 10,000, population rankings were based on other traffic safety aspects—educating the public, engineering, and law enforcement.

Report Scarsdale Leans More Toward Annexation

The people of Scarsdale Estates have had a significant change of mind and are much more receptive to annexation than in the past, a Scarsdale Estates spokesman told the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night.

"Their septic tanks overflowed, that's what made 'em change their mind," sneered a voice in the audience.

And this, it seems, is true because, according to the figures presented by Scarsdale Estates president Russell Lockwood, 54 per cent of the people in the area want sanitary sewer service, and only 39 per cent are opposed to the idea.

LOCKWOOD SAID that those who have applied for service have agreed to annexation when their property becomes contiguous with the village.

The greatest concentration of property owners wanting the sewer service is found along Burton, Belmont, Bristol and Orchard streets.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson recommended going ahead with the sewer project on a "per-lot-tap-on basis."

This, he said, would involve the village's paying 39 per cent of the cost of installing the service, while 61 per cent of the tab would be picked up by the property owners who have requested the sewers.

THEN, AS OTHER owners tap on to the new sewers, the village would be reimbursed for the money it spent in installation.

This system was used with success in the Arlington Knolls subdivision, according to Hanson.

Hanson told the Herald that before work begins on the sewer, the owners will put money in escrow, as a guarantee to the village. At this time they will be required to sign an annexation agreement.

After examining the exhibit showing the homes in Scarsdale Estates requesting sewer service, Hanson said that it would be possible for the village to annex nearly 90 per cent of the total area, if it wished to do so.

The one area in Scarsdale Estates which did not faver the sewer service was a strip along Central Road, and the village, at present, has no plans for extending present sewer lines into the area.

Overseas Christmas packages may not make it in time for Christmas if they're not in the mail today.

The United States Postal Department cannot guarantee Christmas delivery of packages mailed overseas later than Nov. 10, according to a spokesman from the Arlington Heights Post Office.

Air mail packages may be mailed as late as Dec. 10, the spokesman said. They should be mailed between Dec. 1 and Dec. 10. (AF

Improvements Eyed At Hasbrook Park

The Arlington Heights Park Board is considering a number of improvements for Hasbrook park.

The changes, suggested by Hasbrook Civic Association Park Chairman William Gardner, 320 W. Maude St., were first discussed at last month's meeting.

Reporting on Gardner's requests, Park Supt. Thomas Thornton said Tuesday night that he did not think that at this time, or at any other, a park such as Hasbrook would merit having a resident director.

HE SAID HE felt Gardner's request for a full-time recreation director was prompted by the fact that the park district offers very little supervision to Hasbrook area children during the month of September, between the summer and fall recreation programs.

Thornton said there is no recreational supervision of the park on weekends.

Commenting on Gardner's other suggestions, Thornton said he felt it would be impractical to try to hire youths to do the park maintenance work.

In answer to Gardner's suggestion that the park's emphasis be on providing activities for youth rather than adult use, Thornton said, "I don't think we can exclude adult use of the building. I think we have hit a happy medium."

Thornton said he thought that Gardner's suggestion that the basketball backstops and tennis courts be separated should be included in next year's budget.

Thornton also agreed with Gardner that the park was too dark at night.

The board took no formal action on Thornton's report.

School Starts Nature Court

by NANCY BENCO
Staff Writer

An idea planted by a group of school teachers is taking root in an outdoor courtyard at Thomas Junior High School.

The Nature Court—a microcosm of Illinois plant life—was started this fall with tree planting. When full-grown, it will contain representations of the state's three major environments—prairie land, forest region, and sand dunes.

THE IDEA began last spring at a science department meeting. Teachers were asked to make suggestions for developing a courtyard created by the school's new building addition.

According to science department chairman, Frank Dzikonski, teachers discarded plans for a well-trimmed, well-pruned central court.

INSTEAD THEY adopted blueprints for a courtyard where nature could go unrestrained and children could learn outside the limits of a textbook.

"The court is an irreplaceable learning center," said Dzikonski. "It could never be duplicated in a classroom."

According to him, the nature court can be used for numerous courses, from conservation and plant classification to a weather station and bird and insect study. He added that art students could paint in the natural surroundings, math students could compute heights and distances, and English students could go outdoors to view a tree about which they read.

THE COURTYARD, a 140-foot area, is enclosed on four sides by classrooms and hallways.

Robert Spinks, principal of Thomas Junior High, noted the cost of the nature court is less than the $3,000 needed for constructing an average classroom.

He estimated about $2,500 for development of the area, with upkeep costs at a minimum.

ALREADY STUDENTS have organized into a Nature Study Club to take care of the courtyard. They have picked up stones, and have staked out sites for tree planting. Industrial arts students designed and constructed signs for the trees.

During the fall months, maintenance workers excavated the ground and staked out a footpath with woodchips.

PLANTING AND growing prairie grass will be one of the more challenging projects for the Nature Study Club, according to Dzikonski. The tall grass, which has become extinct in parts of the country, requires a rich soil, and careful hand weeding.

Seedlings of prairie grass will be transplanted into the court area in the spring.

Some 50 trees, representing 22 varieties, were planted in October. Shrubs, and wild flowers will come next, Dzikonski said.

LANDSCAPING was done by A. Tyznik of Morton Arboretum.

The Nature Study Club is planning to compile a guidebook, listing characteristics and history of each plant. (A

Three Hurt In Accident

Three persons were injured Sunday evening in an auto accident at Golf and Arlington Heights Roads in Arlington Heights.

Treated and dismissed from Northwest Community Hospital were: August Busse, 86, of 101 S. Owen, Mount Prospect and his wife, Ella, 75; Garry Ball, 26, of 504 S. Darthmouth Lane, Roselle.

Police said the Busse car was traveling east on Golf Road and was making a left turn onto Arlington Heights Road when the collision occurred. Ball told police he was going south on Arlington Heights Road and as he entered the intersection, the Busse car turned in front of him.

Police ticketed Busse for failure to yield and Ball for going too fast for conditions.

Wayside School Sets Open House

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, will hold open house for parents of grade school children this Sunday. The following Sunday, November 20, junior high parents will be welcomed.

Between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m. parents are invited to visit their child's classroom. The teachers will be present to outline work being done in the various classes and answer questions. Most of the grades will display projects and assignment which have been done since school started.

Room mothers will be on hand as hostesses, guiding and welcoming visitors to the different rooms. (A

Woman Hurt In Accident

A Rolling Meadows woman was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital Friday afternoon following an auto accident at Arlington Heights and Algonquin Roads in Arlington Heights.

Susie E. Odegaard, 36, of 2902 Thrush, suffered a bump on her arm when her auto was struck by a car operated by Eugene W. Aguirre, 18, of 209 N. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

Police ticketed Mrs. Odegaard for failure to yield when making a left turn and Aguirre for going too fast for conditions and having no vehicle sticker.

Village Draws Bid For Salt From Hat

Arlington Heights will finally get its winter salt supply thanks to action by the village board Monday night, despite the fact that all the bids—four of them—were identical.

Village manager L. A. Hanson told the board that he had picked International Salt Co. as supplier for the village simply by drawing one of the salt companies from a hat.

BOARD PRESIDENT John Woods said he thought that was a fair way of doing business, since all four had bid a price of $12.80 per ton for the 1,500 ton contract.

At this point Larry Wisman, 102 N. Forrest Avenue, a highway manager for Morton Salt Company, one of the bidders, asked to be heard.

WISMAN TOLD the board that he is from Arlington Heights. Wisman told the board that 16 employees of Morton live in Arlington Heights. He was proceeding with more information when a question came from one of the trustees, "Why are all the prices the same?"

Wisman said he could not tell the board just how the price was arrived at because he had nothing to do with pricing.

"WELL," chimed in trustee Roy Bressler, "They sent the wrong man."

Wisman was asked if he thought the contract should be awarded on the basis of the number of employees a company has in a given community. He answered in the affirmative, and was laughed back to his seat.

He later told the Herald that his and the other salt companies use the same facilities and the same truckers. He said that if a community understands this, it is often willing to give a break to the company which has employees residing in and paying taxes in the community.

HANSON SAID that he was satisfied that the price he had been quoted was the going price for salt in the area, and said that he had not been able to find out whether any of the companies would have dropped their prices had the number of tons contracted for been higher.

"There is no fairer way to select a bidder than to pull the names out of a hat," said Woods. "If that's the ball game you're playing, then that's the way to proceed."

A REPRESENTATIVE of Cargill Salt, who also identified himself as a citizen of Arlington Heights, took the floor to defend the pricing practices of the salt companies.

DICK RADEMACHER, 2222 S. Goebbert Road, said that the situation with the salt companies was very much like the situation in the steel industry—the price of the commodity was pretty well fixed by the prices set by the largest firm in the field.

Trustee Bressler said he still could not understand the situation, and noted that even on such a bulk commodity as gasoline, the buyer could still find differences in price.

Trustee John White said he thought the matter should be brought before the northwest municipal conference, since other towns in the area—notably Des Plaines and Mount Prospect—had received the same treatment.

THE MATTER was finally brought to a vote, and International Salt was awarded the contract.

Just before the vote trustee John Walsh told the board, "As a tire salesman, I don't care if you buy the salt or not, and I'm a citizen of Arlington Heights." An "in" joke had been established for the evening. (A

School Starts Nature Court

by NANCY BENCO
Staff Writer

MEMBERS of the Nature Study Club test their knowledge of trees in their winter state. Thomas Junior High School's will serve as an outdoor classroom year around. Nature Center, encircled on four sides by the school building,

An idea planted by a group of school teachers is taking root in an outdoor courtyard at Thomas Junior High School.

The Nature Court—a microcosm of Illinois plant life—was started this fall with tree planting. When full-grown, it will contain representations of the state's three major environments—prairie land, forest region, and sand dunes.

THE IDEA began last spring at a science department meeting. Teachers were asked to make suggestions for developing a courtyard created by the school's new building addition.

According to science department chairman, Frank Dzikonski, teachers discarded plans for a well-trimmed, well-pruned central court.

INSTEAD THEY adopted blueprints for a courtyard where nature could go unrestrained and children could learn outside the limits of a textbook.

"The court is an irreplaceable learning center," said Dzikonski. "It could never be duplicated in a classroom."

According to him, the nature court can be used for numerous courses, from conservation and plant classification to a weather station and bird and insect study. He added that art students could paint in the natural surroundings, math students could compute heights and distances, and English students could go outdoors to view a tree about which they read.

THE COURTYARD, a 140-foot area, is enclosed on four sides by classrooms and hallways.

Robert Spinks, principal of Thomas Junior High, noted the cost of the nature court is less than the $3,000 needed for constructing an average classroom.

He estimated about $2,500 for development of the area, with upkeep costs at a minimum.

ALREADY STUDENTS have organized into a Nature Study Club to take care of the courtyard. They have picked up stones, and have staked out sites for tree planting. Industrial arts students designed and constructed signs for the trees.

During the fall months, maintenance workers excavated the ground and staked out a footpath with woodchips.

PLANTING AND growing prairie grass will be one of the more challenging projects for the Nature Study Club, according to Dzikonski. The tall grass, which has become extinct in parts of the country, requires a rich soil, and careful hand weeding.

Seedlings of prairie grass will be transplanted into the court area in the spring.

Some 50 trees, representing 22 varieties, were planted in October. Shrubs, and wild flowers will come next, Dzikonski said.

LANDSCAPING was done by A. Tyznik of Morton Arboretum.

The Nature Study Club is planning to compile a guidebook, listing characteristics and history of each plant. (A

Three Hurt In Accident

Three persons were injured Sunday evening in an auto accident at Golf and Arlington Heights Roads in Arlington Heights.

Treated and dismissed from Northwest Community Hospital were: August Busse, 86, of 101 S. Owen, Mount Prospect and his wife, Ella, 75; Garry Ball, 26, of 504 S. Darthmouth Lane, Roselle.

Police said the Busse car was traveling east on Golf Road and was making a left turn onto Arlington Heights Road when the collision occurred. Ball told police he was going south on Arlington Heights Road and as he entered the intersection, the Busse car turned in front of him.

Police ticketed Busse for failure to yield and Ball for going too fast for conditions.

Hanson Calls Parking Big Stumbling Block

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson calls parking requirements the current "stumbling block" to downtown redevelopment.

The requirements, which he says have stalled several "substantial" projects in the downtown area, will be reviewed this evening (Thursday), by a special village government committee.

THE "BLUE Ribbon" committee — drawn from the plan commission, board of zoning appeals and board of trustees — will meet at 8 p.m. in the village hall's conference room.

Village Pres. John G. Woods has asked the committee to consider:

—Whether the village is "unrealistic" in asking downtown developers to provide one parking space for every 300 square feet of building space.

—If such requirements are too high, what should they be changed to?

—IF THE requirements are proper, are there ways the builder's burden can be eased? Could parking be provided at varying distances? Could partial cash payments be made in lieu of providing spaces? Could the payments be spaced out over several years?

Village Trustee John White will head the committee, which is hoping to make recommendations ready in early December.

SERVING WITH him will be Trustees Jack Walsh and Frank Palmatier, plan commission members Harold W. Carlson, Fred Ainslie and Darcy Sullivan, and board of zoning appeals members John Kirkland, A. A. Berg and Fredric Marks.

Rounding out the group are Hanson and Building Commissioner Harold (Red) Best.

Hanson is currently collecting information from other cities, including Evanston and Skokie, on how they handle downtown parking needs.

Possibilities of providing downtown parking through a special assessment project is one of the alternatives to be explored. Whether it's legal — or fair to merchants who have already done their "bit" to ease the parking problem — will be factors the committee will consider.

Hanson told Paddock Publications Tuesday that he sees the downtown parking needs as falling into three categories: for commuters, downtown employees and business patrons.

HE SAID HE feels it would be advantageous to get employee parking "out of the critical area" of the business district.

The village manager would not pinpoint the "couple substantial projects" that are being held up in addition to the proposed Prassas office building at the northeast corner of Evergreen Avenue and Wing Street other than to say that they were on the south side of the tracks. (A

Bank Parking Plan Approved by Unit

The First Arlington National Bank's parking expansion plan has been passed on to the board of zoning appeals with the plan commission's blessing.

Expected by many observers to be held up till the village takes a general look at downtown parking requirements, the bank proposal was instead approved by plan commission members last Wednesday.

THE BOARD of zoning appeals will act on the bank's request for a variance in the 1,000-foot distance requirements for parking facilities at its Nov. 28 meeting.

If the zoning board also gives its okay the bank will use two blocks at Eastman and North Arlington Heights Road for parking 53 cars. Provision for the additional parking must be okayed before village issues a building permit for expansion of the bank facilities.

COMMISSION Chairman Harold W. Carlson noted that 50 per cent of the parking spaces in the two lots proposed for bank use are within 1,000 feet of the lending institution.

"As the crow walks, that is," he added with a chuckle.

Carlson told his board that he considered that because 50 per cent of the stalls are close enough, the bank would have a good case for appeal if their variance is denied by the zoning board.

The plan commission approved, subject to their attorney's okay on the wording, an agreement that would hold the two lots for parking use "until the bank building is no longer used" or until substitute parking is approved by the village.

Expect To Fill School Board Vacancy Monday

A successor to resigned board member William F. Griffith will probably be picked at next Monday's High School District 214 board meeting.

The board will interview two candidates for Griffith's post before the 7:30 p.m. meeting and then go into executive session later to make its choice.

Griffith, an Arlington Heights insurance man who strongly opposed use of federal school funds, resigned last month because of press of business. His term on the board would have expired next April.

FINAL PLANS for Hersey High School, the district's sixth school, will be brought in for approval at the 7:30 p.m. meeting in Slichenmyer Administration Center.

Approval of plans will make it possible for the district to advertise for bids for the new school, estimated to cost $6.5 million.

Introduced at the school board meeting will be editors of the five student newspapers—Arlington High's John Simmons of 614 W. Sigwalt, Arlington Heights; Elk Grove High School's Sandra DePalma of Route 1, Roselle; Forest View's Arlene Iversen of 2803 Martin Lane, Rolling Meadows; Prospect High's Bobbi Butz of 807 Dresser Drive, Mount Prospect, and Wheeling High's Maryann Keeney of 1001 Ironwood Dr., Mount Prospect.

Two new staff utilization projects — designed to provide enrichment to their school's curriculum — will be presented for approval.

One project, planned by Wheeling High School Spanish teacher Grant Lawrence, involves students' after-school discussion of Spanish novels, essays and short stories.

THE OTHER, proposed by the Elk Grove High School division of humanities, calls for a series of lectures, films and demonstrations in the fine arts area.

Board members also will be asked to cast a district ballot for trustees of the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, which provides pensions for non-teaching employees of the district.

Personnel Are Added In Lattof Expansion

Seven men have been added to the staff of Lattof Chevrolet, 800 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights, since June.

According to one of them, Bill Haeger Jr., general sales manager, the increase in personnel is part of Lattof's recent expansion program which has as its goal "the largest volume and biggest facilities in the northwest part of Illinois."

Haeger, his wife and five children, now live at 1634 S. Highland, Arlington Heights, after nine years' residence in Hoffman Estates. He assumed his new position in September, having been employed previously at Brigance Chevrolet, Oak Park, where he was assistant sales manager.

New finance and insurance manager is Max Madsen, who held a similar post at McKeown-Phalin for five years. He is married, has two children, and lives in Glen Ellyn.

FOUR NEW-CAR salesmen have also been added to the staff. One is Ralph B. Schroeder, former Hoffman Estates resident, now living in Evanston. During the eight years he and his family lived in Hoffman Estates, he was on the police force and also on the police and fire commission board. Schroeder was leading salesman in the United States for Eagle Lock Corporation, and also worked for GMAC before joining Lattof Chevrolet.

Ed Novak, former sales manager of Chicago Health Clubs in Mount Prospect, is another newcomer to the Lattof organization. Novak, who lives in Bellwood, includes among his previous experience three and a half years at Hejhal Olds in Elmhurst and almost four years at Fencl Chevrolet, Oak Park.

John C. Wierec worked for Frite-Lay Corporation for 11 years prior to his new position. He, his wife and three children live in Niles.

Ron Schleser, 310 S. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, is a former Chicagoan who worked for six years at Nickey Chevrolet as one of their top salesmen. A friend of TV's Hoss Cartwright, and somewhat similar in appearance and build, he is known as "Hoss" to his fellow employees. Schleser is married and has two children. He joined the Lattof sales force in June.

A RECENT addition to the used-car sales force is John Butero of Des Plaines, who was formerly employed for five years by Svitak Buick in Cicero.

Lattof Chevrolet's increased staff and enlarged facilities are available to serve the public six days a week, Haeger said, but are closed for business Sundays. The firm can "get and keep better employees by giving them a day off," the general manager asserted, adding that "there is plenty of time during the week to buy an automobile."

"Never on Sunday, but try us Monday through Saturday," Haeger quipped. "In fact, that's our new slogan — 'Try Us!' "

Topic At Seminar: 'The Police Image'

"The Police Image" will be explored by members of the police departments of more than 25 north and northwest suburban communities at a one-day seminar to be sponsored by the Forest Hospital Foundation of Des Plaines, Nov. 16.

The seminar will be at Forest Hospital, 555 Wilson Lane, Des Plaines, at 8:45 p.m.

CHARLES SIRAGUSA, executive director of the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission, will deliver the keynote address. He is expected to discuss the police image as it appears to the public, as it really is, and as it should be.

Other speakers scheduled are Dr. Joseph Satten, a Menninger Clinic psychiatrist; Dr. Vladimir Urse, medical director of the Cook County Mental Health Clinic; and Dr. Hyman Pomp, acting superintendent of Chicago State Hospital. (B10

Judges To Tap 4 Winners

The 19 finalists in Paddock Publications' Junior Miss Pageant will demonstrate their creative or performing abilities for the panel of 12 judges Sunday evening at Elk Grove High School, Arlington Heights Road and Elk Grove Boulevard.

Finals of the 1966-67 Pageant will begin at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the new high school in Elk Grove Village.

The public is invited to attend the judging event that will determine which four of the 19 girls will represent their home towns in the Illinois Junior Miss Pageant Dec. 26-30 at Mill Run Theatre, Niles.

Competing for this honor will be the following high school senior girls, chosen earlier on the basis of poise and appearance, mental alertness, youth fitness and scholastic achievement:

PAULA SCHOMBURG, 305 S. Evergreen; Carol Ann Spomer, 222`S. Walnut; Lyda Phillips, 608 W. Central; Linda Heffernan, 616 S. Burton Place, and Elizabeth Hughes, 410 S. Lincoln, all of Arlington Heights;

Sharron Sawicki, 306 W. Kenilworth, Prospect Heights; Karen White, 417 N. Russell St.; Susan Courtney, 606 S. Pine, and Jo Rogers, 1117 Juniper Lane, all of Mount Prospect;

Katherine Philippe, 224 E. Hicks Place, and Peggy Swanson, 2115 W. Hickory Lane, both of Palatine; Kathy Molbeck, 134 Kingman Lane; Liza Christiansen, 260 Ashley Road; Janis Fortman, 207 Frederick Lane, and Carole Kuk, 109 Ashland, all of Hoffman Estates;

Jean Minar, 184 S. Bloomingdale Road, Bloomingdale; Linda Marshalla, 5N041 Medinah Road, Addison; Kathleen Carter, 126 Aspen Lane, Elk Grove Village, and Donna Rautenkranz, 1184 S. Hewitt, Des Plaines.

SERVING as master of ceremonies for the Pageant will be Stuart R. Paddock Jr., vice president of Paddock Publications. Representing the Illinois Junior Miss Pageant and Scholarship Foundation will be Jack Hilton, chairman, Ray Van DeWalle, vice president, and A. M. Linderman, secretary-treasurer.

Present to help present trophies to Sunday's winners will be Kathy Benysh of Roselle, winner of the Illinois Pageant last year and a runner-up in the national Pageant. Miss Benysh, now a freshman at Northwestern University, was named Roselle's Junior Miss in one of six local pageants sponsored last fall by Paddock Publications.

At the state Pageant winners of local Pageants in approximately 40 Illinois communities will compete for $4,500 in scholarships plus the right to represent the state in America's Junior Miss Pageant next March. Sponsors of the state contest are Chicago's American and Chevrolet Division, General Motors Corp. (A15

Diabetes Test Kits To Be Distributed

Mothers of diabetic children in the northwest suburban area will distribute free diabetes test kits during Diabetes Detection Week Nov. 13 through Nov. 19 with cooperation of Sun Drugs at Randhurst and other druggists.

A special booth set up on the mall will be manned by mothers who are members of the Service Unit of the Diabetes Association of Greater Chicago. This booth will be open every day during that week from 10:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The kits will also be available at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and at the following area pharmacies: Harris Pharmacy, 20 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights; Lohr's Pharmacy, 210 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights; Snyder Hoffman Drugs, 7 Hoffman Plaza, Hoffman Estates; Dorette Prospect Pharmacy, 143 N. Prospect, Mount Prospect; Prospect Heights Pharmacy, 4½ N. Elmhurst Road, Prospect Heights.

The hospital has distributed these kits to all their employees which are to be used at home then mailed to a laboratory for processing. All positive tests will be notified, and it is then suggested that the testee see his private physician. The diabetes test kit is the most effective testing unit for screening entire families and large groups of people.

One American in every 20 is an actual diabetic or a potential diabetic.

Increase in thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, easy tiring, changes in vision and slow healing of cuts and scratches are symptoms.

Mrs. F. Vernon Schlexer, Arlington Heights, is a co-chairman of the drive for the northwest suburban area. (B-10

Duro Children Plan Family Party

Mayor's Proclamation Honors Couple on 65th Anniversary

When a married couple are 87 years young and in good health, life becomes sweeter day by day, and a 65th wedding anniversary isn't complete without a gathering of the clan. In the case of Mr. and Mrs. Gennaro Duro of Arlington Heights, their four children planned a family party for last Sunday at Tiffiny's Restaurant, Golf Mill, to honor the Nov. 3 ceremony in Italy in 1901.

The Duros were honored not only by the family, but also by a proclamation issued by Mayor Daley proclaiming Nov. 3 as "Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Duro Day." Particularly touching was the conclusion of this proclamation which read:

"WHEREAS . . . a moving saga of the fulfillment of the eager dreams and ambitions of courageous young immigrants who have firmly planted their roots in the land of their adoption . . . therefore, I, Richard J. Daley, mayor of the City of Chicago, do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 3, to be Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Duro Day in Chicago and urge all citizens to take cognizance of the observance of this inspiring example of connubial happiness and family life."

The proclamation bears the seal of the City of Chicago and will be framed as a lasting remembrance of the anniversary.

Gennaro Duro and Josephine Balletta grew up in Acerra, a suburb of Naples, and were married there when both were 22. A baker by trade, Mr. Duro emigrated to the United States in 1914 but grew lonesome for his family and returned to Italy for a time.

He came back to Chicago in 1920, returned again to his homeland, but his next trip back to America in 1922 was permanent, since this time he brought along his wife and four children.

THE FAMILY settled in Chicago while Mr. Duro baked delicacies in a shop at Racine Avenue and Congress Street. Eleven years ago, after their son, Carmen Duro, moved to Arlington Heights, the parents decided to try suburban living, too. Mr. Duro had then been retired for several years and after living for a while in Arlington Heights, he and his wife moved to Sauganash, only to return to Arlington Heights to their present home.

For the past four years, the Duros have been sharing their home with a daughter, Amalia, and her husband, Jack Cassese, and also their bachelor son, Vess.

The Duros feel fortunate in having their other two sons, Carmen and Jerry, also living in Arlington Heights. Carmen is the founder of the House of Duro, a custom tailored men's apparel shop on Michigan Avenue, Chicago, and he and Jerry each have five children.

The Casseses have presented the Duros with four granddaughters.

With 14 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren invited to the Sunday anniversary party, it was a large gathering of "just family." Nothing pleased the anniversary pair more than having four generations present, all of them emanating from this union 65 years ago in the small town of Acerra, Italy.

The anniversary dinner was preceded by the couple's blessing at 12 o'clock mass in Our Lady of the Wayside Church.

But after all the festivities were over, it was back to his fall garden chores for Mr. Duro and back to the kitchen for his wife. While Mr. Duro raises a bumper crop of tomatoes each year, Mrs. Duro's specialty is using those tomatoes to make a family favorite, Italian spaghetti.

Mrs. Duro also does a bit of reading and is never too busy to interrupt her daily routine to chat with neighbors or any of her grandchildren or great-grandchildren who drop in for a visit. (S

Special Meeting To Explore Need For Youth Group

Wheeling Township auditor Mrs. Ethel Kolerus has set the date for a special meeting to explore the needs for a youth committee at the township level.

She told Paddock Publications Tuesday that the township officials will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 29, with Joseph Junta, area representative for the Illinois Youth Commission's community services division.

ALSO ATTENDING will be John Lacey of Bremen Township, which operates an extensive youth program, and representatives of Palatine Township, which set up a youth committee several years ago.

Mrs. Kolerus said Bremen Township was instrumental in getting legislation passed to give townships the power to set up committees on youth and to allocate excess funds for use by those committees.

Junta, whose division serves as an advisory agency to local delinquency-prevention projects, has an office in Rolling Meadows. (ACM

Camping Group Will Discuss Fire Prevention

"Fire Prevention and First Aid" will be discussed at the next meeting of the "Wheel-Go-Camping" chapter, to be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the fieldhouse at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights. Members are urged to bring guests.

The board of directors will meet at 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday) in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robertson, 470 Knollwood Drive, Timberlake, Barrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Christiansen are formulating plans for a Christmas potluck. Besides its regularly scheduled meetings, the chapter will be planning several special outdoor activities during the winter months.

Report Brightening Home Mortgage Picture

by KAY HAWLEY
Staff Writer

That things are looking up in the home mortgage market seems to be the concensus among savings and loan associations, banks and Realtors in this area. White most admitted a serious problem existed only a little more than a month ago, the picture is definitely brighter today.

Bell Savings and Loan Association, Chicago, attributes its optimistic outlook to the recent increase in dividends to depositors — now 5¼ per cent for savings certificates and 4¾ per cent on regular savings accounts —which in October resulted in an all-time record gain in deposits of new money and made an additional $7 million available for home mortgages. The prior record was just in excess of $4 million for any monthly period.

Bell president Harold P. Halleen said that while many institutions were not lending a month ago, Bell is now placing loans in good, qualified areas, such as the northwest suburbs, and that there is no problem for buyers seeking to borrow up to 80 per cent of the purchase price of a home.

LOCALLY, THE future was never all black, according to several sources. Don Morton, executive vice president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association, 25 E. Campbell, said that prospective borrowers could have obtained a loan any week during 1966 at his institution.

Morton explained that the tight money situation started when the Federal Reserve Bank raised discount rates last December. Through the extensive publicity following this move, the public came to think there was no money available, which never has been true, he said, although rates, of course, are up.

The dividend rate to depositors, Morton said, did not produce the results locally that it did elsewhere in the industry. However, with fewer real estate sales, availability of mortgage money has never been a problem at Arlington Federal. "It's the law of supply and demand at work," he asserted.

The situation at The Bank of Arlington Heights, 900 E. Kensington, was stated by Jerry Milligan, assistant vice president, who said, "We have never been in a position where money was not available for mortgage loans. We have never held up the purchase of a home for lack of money."

MILLIGAN added that although the demand for mortgages increased slightly when borrowers found them unobtainable elsewhere, the bank's income and deposits were sufficiently high to meet the need. Since the bank lends only about 60 per cent on a mortgage, the demand has never been excessive.

The Bank of Arlington Heights also makes FHA loans, which will provide 90 to 95 per cent of the purchase price of property, not because these involve a discount, most sellers are unwilling to accept them.

Mrs. Vera Brockington, secretary of Palatine Savings and Loan Association, 4 N. Brockway, feels that the demand for mortgages has fallen off because people are resisting buying in the hope that rates will go down. She said the tight money situation chiefly hurts people who do not have a good down payment, for while Palatine Savings and Loan a year ago could grant a loan up to 90 per cent of the cost of a home, they now handle nothing over 80 per cent.

MRS. BROCKINGTON emphasized, however, that people in good positions with 20 per cent down can still get an attractive loan. Another possibility for the prospective purchaser is the assumption of a current mortgage, which is feasible on good property where not too high a percentage of the mortgage is still unpaid, she said.

The Realtors' point of view came from Jim Warriner, president of MAP Multiple Listing Service, who stated that there is more money around today, due to the increased dividends being paid to depositors.

"THE HIGH cost of borrowing only influences local people looking to better themselves—say, moving from a $25,000 to a $30,000 home," Warriner said. "Others, who have to move because of transfers, etc., pay the same rates here as where they came from, so the going rate is not holding them back."

The real factor, he said, was lack of money for mortgages, now loosening up.

"We can take anyone today, who is a good loan risk and get a mortgage up to 80 per cent and some places beyond," he concluded. "The outlook now is very definitely optimistic."

Current rates on mortgage loans vary somewhat among savings and loan associations. Bell Savings quotes its going interest rate at 6¾ per cent, about 1½ per cent higher than a year ago, an increase comparable to the prime rate given by banks to their biggest borrowers.

Palatine Savings and Loan is now lending at 6½ and 6¾ per cent, with the lower rate reserved for very good loans, while Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan has never gone over 6½ per cent, according to Morton. He qualified this, however, by adding that the firm issues mostly 75 per cent loans.

NONE OF THE four sources held out much hope for interest rates declining in the near future, stating that some knowledgeable sources feel they may go even higher.

"With the continuing rise in the cost of construction," Mrs. Brockington said, "people will get a better deal now than if they wait and prices are higher."

With dividend rates at their present level, interest rates cannot go down, opined Morton. However, if the general markets in government and municipal securities go down, dividends and interest will go down together.

"Everything in the economy is relative," he asserted. "People should and could go out today and get a loan. We're looking for loans." (RE

Construction Permits Top $4 Million in Oct.

Construction permits for apartment buildings valued at more than $4 million were issued in October according to the Arlington Heights monthly building report.

Eleven construction permits for the Prince Charles apartment development on Algonquin and Goebbert roads were issued, according to Harold (ed) Best, village building commissioner.

Nkne more permits were issued to developers of a Knob Hill apartment project on Palatine Road. Total value of building permits for the multi-family residences was $4,045,000 in October. That compares with $274,000 valuation in September.

MORE THAN $1.6 million worth of building permits were issued for 62 single family residences in October.

The building report showed total construction permits issued were valued at $6,037,800 last month.

During the first 10 months of the year, $32,538, 977 worth of building permits was issued in the village.

Other permits issued in October were: $257,000 valuation for business additions (the addition to Illinois Bell Telephone Company) $63,500 in permits for home alterations and additions; and $29,800 in permits for residential garages. (A

Theater Is Dedicated To Editor

Arlington High School's Little Theater will be officially dedicated as Helene Bristol Theater next Thursday, Nov. 17.

The name honors Mrs. Helene Bristol, Paddock Publications education editor who died late last December.

A plaque designating the theater as Bristol Theater will be placed near the high school theater entrance before the 7:15 p.m. ceremony, school officials said.

THE SHORT dedicatory ceremony will preceed the 7:30 p.m. opening of "Ah Wilderness," Arlington High School's first play of the school year.

Naming of the theater in honor of Mrs. Bristol was approved by the school board last spring.

Other libraries, gymnasiums and theaters in district high schools may also be named in honor of noted area residents, a board policy approved at the same time stated. No other selections for honoring have been approved, however, so far. (A

Street Designation May Mean Sidewalks

A street designation that may someday bring sidewalks to Scarsdale subdivision has been okayed for Park Street by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

Final approval to recommend designation of Park as an "intermediate collector" from Fernandez east to Cleveland, in Scarsdale, was given by the plan commission Wednesday.

Sam Rudder, who also serves on the board of local improvements, commented that there was interest among other BOLI members regarding the plan commission's intent for Park.

FRED AINSLIE retorted, "I think what he was worried about is that as soon as the designation changes, they'll have to put sidewalks in Scarsdale."

Rudder answered, "I'm not going to put words in someone's mouth."

Commission chairman Harold Carlson ended the exchange. "With a lighted crossing and a junior high school to the west, it would seem this would be a prime target," he declared.

The plan commission, reviewing master thoroughfare plan recommendations under the direction of Fred Ainslie, also discussed making specific recommendations for traffic lights at intersections.

Then they decided, instead, to approve a general policy statement putting the commission on record as favoring use of traffic engineers' studies in determining "safe and efficient" intersection signals.

O. V. ANDERSON, Pure Oil executive who serves on the commission, struck a blow for his industry at Wednesday's meeting. "I take very strong exception," he asserted, to the reports of comments linking "pedestrian hazards" with filling station entrances and exits. The commission voted to take out the objectionable phrases.

Need for a Dundee Road crossing from Arlington Heights' proposed sanitary landfill project was discussed by the commission briefly at the request of village engineering aide John Best.

Best asked the commission to consider several exit possibilities, among them:

—Extension of Kennicott Avenue north to the property.

—Extension of Arlington Heights Road (north of Dundee, where it is jogged to the west) south to join with University Avenue in the Kenroy industrial park.

The commission liked neither suggestion and tabled the item with the recommendation that no other crossing of Dundee Road be developed "at this time." (A

Elsinore Offers Custom Lines in 3 New Models

A new line of three model homes is being opened this weekend in Elsinore, a community of 45 custom-built residences in the Sherwood section of Arlington Heights. The new homes, a two-story Colonial and two split-levels range in price from $34,900 to $38,500 including a fully improved homesite. According to the developers, Mor-Well Builders, Elsinore has the largest in-town lots available along the Northwestern commuter lines, with homesites ranging from 75 by 150 feet to 135 by 150 feet.

"Our homebuyers are looking for more than just a home. They are concerned a great deal with the school system, nearness to transportation facilities, and above all, the neighborhood," said Irving Miller, sales vice president of Mor-Well Builders. "Arlington Heights is an established, progressive commnuity with a school system recognized for its excellence, established churches of every faith, outstanding shopping and recreational facilities, and fine commuter rail and highway systems. The large homesites of the Sherwood area offer space between houses, affording the privacy and appearance one expects in this price range," he continued. "All our homes are built to order from a variety of plans we have available, giving each buyer complete flexibility of selection."

THE NEW Colonial, the Salem, is a four bedroom, two and a half baths home with a penaled family room, two-car garage, basement, formal dining room and a kitchen equipped with oven, range, dishwasher and waste disposer. The home has a 21 foot kitchen with spacious breakfast area and a 20 by 14 family room with insulated glass patio doors and is priced, with lot, at $38,500.

The Warwick, a four bedroom, two and a half bath split-level, offers a 25 foot paneled family room, a raised living room with a bay window, a separate breakfast area overlooking the family room, a basement, a formal dining room, a completely equipped kitchen, and an attached two-car garage. Full price is $37,900.

The $34,900 Morgan split-level includes 3 large bedrooms, 2½ baths, two-car garage, basement, fully equipped kitchen and finished family room.

The Elsinore models are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to dark. Take Rand Road (Rt. 12) to Thomas (1½ miles north of Euclid) and turn left (west) two miles to Elsinore. (RE

Report Brightening Home Mortgage Picture

by KAY HAWLEY
Staff Writer

That things are looking up in the home mortgage market seems to be the concensus among savings and loan associations, banks and Realtors in this area. White most admitted a serious problem existed only a little more than a month ago, the picture is definitely brighter today.

Bell Savings and Loan Association, Chicago, attributes its optimistic outlook to the recent increase in dividends to depositors — now 5¼ per cent for savings certificates and 4¾ per cent on regular savings accounts —which in October resulted in an all-time record gain in deposits of new money and made an additional $7 million available for home mortgages. The prior record was just in excess of $4 million for any monthly period.

Bell president Harold P. Halleen said that while many institutions were not lending a month ago, Bell is now placing loans in good, qualified areas, such as the northwest suburbs, and that there is no problem for buyers seeking to borrow up to 80 per cent of the purchase price of a home.

LOCALLY, THE future was never all black, according to several sources. Don Morton, executive vice president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association, 25 E. Campbell, said that prospective borrowers could have obtained a loan any week during 1966 at his institution.

Morton explained that the tight money situation started when the Federal Reserve Bank raised discount rates last December. Through the extensive publicity following this move, the public came to think there was no money available, which never has been true, he said, although rates, of course, are up.

The dividend rate to depositors, Morton said, did not produce the results locally that it did elsewhere in the industry. However, with fewer real estate sales, availability of mortgage money has never been a problem at Arlington Federal. "It's the law of supply and demand at work," he asserted.

The situation at The Bank of Arlington Heights, 900 E. Kensington, was stated by Jerry Milligan, assistant vice president, who said, "We have never been in a position where money was not available for mortgage loans. We have never held up the purchase of a home for lack of money."

MILLIGAN added that although the demand for mortgages increased slightly when borrowers found them unobtainable elsewhere, the bank's income and deposits were sufficiently high to meet the need. Since the bank lends only about 60 per cent on a mortgage, the demand has never been excessive.

The Bank of Arlington Heights also makes FHA loans, which will provide 90 to 95 per cent of the purchase price of property, not because these involve a discount, most sellers are unwilling to accept them.

Mrs. Vera Brockington, secretary of Palatine Savings and Loan Association, 4 N. Brockway, feels that the demand for mortgages has fallen off because people are resisting buying in the hope that rates will go down. She said the tight money situation chiefly hurts people who do not have a good down payment, for while Palatine Savings and Loan a year ago could grant a loan up to 90 per cent of the cost of a home, they now handle nothing over 80 per cent.

MRS. BROCKINGTON emphasized, however, that people in good positions with 20 per cent down can still get an attractive loan. Another possibility for the prospective purchaser is the assumption of a current mortgage, which is feasible on good property where not too high a percentage of the mortgage is still unpaid, she said.

The Realtors' point of view came from Jim Warriner, president of MAP Multiple Listing Service, who stated that there is more money around today, due to the increased dividends being paid to depositors.

"THE HIGH cost of borrowing only influences local people looking to better themselves—say, moving from a $25,000 to a $30,000 home," Warriner said. "Others, who have to move because of transfers, etc., pay the same rates here as where they came from, so the going rate is not holding them back."

The real factor, he said, was lack of money for mortgages, now loosening up.

"We can take anyone today, who is a good loan risk and get a mortgage up to 80 per cent and some places beyond," he concluded. "The outlook now is very definitely optimistic."

Current rates on mortgage loans vary somewhat among savings and loan associations. Bell Savings quotes its going interest rate at 6¾ per cent, about 1½ per cent higher than a year ago, an increase comparable to the prime rate given by banks to their biggest borrowers.

Palatine Savings and Loan is now lending at 6½ and 6¾ per cent, with the lower rate reserved for very good loans, while Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan has never gone over 6½ per cent, according to Morton. He qualified this, however, by adding that the firm issues mostly 75 per cent loans.

NONE OF THE four sources held out much hope for interest rates declining in the near future, stating that some knowledgeable sources feel they may go even higher.

"With the continuing rise in the cost of construction," Mrs. Brockington said, "people will get a better deal now than if they wait and prices are higher."

With dividend rates at their present level, interest rates cannot go down, opined Morton. However, if the general markets in government and municipal securities go down, dividends and interest will go down together.

"Everything in the economy is relative," he asserted. "People should and could go out today and get a loan. We're looking for loans." (RE

Elsinore Offers Custom Lines in 3 New Models

A new line of three model homes is being opened this weekend in Elsinore, a community of 45 custom-built residences in the Sherwood section of Arlington Heights. The new homes, a two-story Colonial and two split-levels range in price from $34,900 to $38,500 including a fully improved homesite. According to the developers, Mor-Well Builders, Elsinore has the largest in-town lots available along the Northwestern commuter lines, with homesites ranging from 75 by 150 feet to 135 by 150 feet.

"Our homebuyers are looking for more than just a home. They are concerned a great deal with the school system, nearness to transportation facilities, and above all, the neighborhood," said Irving Miller, sales vice president of Mor-Well Builders. "Arlington Heights is an established, progressive commnuity with a school system recognized for its excellence, established churches of every faith, outstanding shopping and recreational facilities, and fine commuter rail and highway systems. The large homesites of the Sherwood area offer space between houses, affording the privacy and appearance one expects in this price range," he continued. "All our homes are built to order from a variety of plans we have available, giving each buyer complete flexibility of selection."

THE NEW Colonial, the Salem, is a four bedroom, two and a half baths home with a penaled family room, two-car garage, basement, formal dining room and a kitchen equipped with oven, range, dishwasher and waste disposer. The home has a 21 foot kitchen with spacious breakfast area and a 20 by 14 family room with insulated glass patio doors and is priced, with lot, at $38,500.

The Warwick, a four bedroom, two and a half bath split-level, offers a 25 foot paneled family room, a raised living room with a bay window, a separate breakfast area overlooking the family room, a basement, a formal dining room, a completely equipped kitchen, and an attached two-car garage. Full price is $37,900.

The $34,900 Morgan split-level includes 3 large bedrooms, 2½ baths, two-car garage, basement, fully equipped kitchen and finished family room.

The Elsinore models are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to dark. Take Rand Road (Rt. 12) to Thomas (1½ miles north of Euclid) and turn left (west) two miles to Elsinore. (RE

Limited Prejudice Reported in Arlington Heights Survey

By MARY SCHLOTT
Staff Writer

Fewer than three in ten Arlington Heights residents would mind if "a Negro with the same income and education" moved into their block.

THIS IS A key finding in an attitude survey taken in the village last spring by Loyola University students under the direction of Dr. Paul Mundy of Glenview, a sociology professor at Loyola.

Dr. Mundy will report on the survey--a random sampling conducted with the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee as sponsors--at an 8 p.m. meeting next Tuesday in Pioneer Park Fieldhouse.

The human relations committee, a volunteer group, is sponsoring the meeting, which is open to the public.

"ONLY ONE PERSON in 16 interviewed seemed deeply prejudiced," Mundy said in a preliminary report released today (Thursday).

"Deep prejudice" was measured in the Arlington Heights residents' survey by such questions as: "Do you think Negroes should have as good a chance as white people to get any kind of a job?" Of the local villagers interviewed, just 6.3 per cent answered "No."

THE LOYOLA professor also found a "strikingly large number--35 per cent--disagreed with the statement that 'White people have a right to keep Negroes out of their neighborhoods if they want to, and Negroes should respect that right.'"

Some 52.5 per cent agreed with the statement, and the others had no opinion.

Among other findings in the human relations opinion survey were:

--ABOUT FOUR persons in every five (78.7 per cent) believed that "white students and Negro students should go to the same schools."

--About six out of ten (58.7 per cent) thought that Arlington Heights schools "should seek to hire more well-qualified Negro teachers."

--THREE IN EVERY four (73.7 per cent) believed that Negroes with the same education and training are as intelligent as whites.

Dr. Mundy said the study was based on personal interview. Eighty persons, almost equally divided between men and women, were questioned. He noted that this was a relatively small sample and said, "The study, therefore, should be considered as indicative or suggestive rather than definitive."

Mundy noted, however, that the answers given by Arlington Heights residents were "strikingly parallel" to those reported in a similar but larger sampling last year in west suburban seat.

Wheaton, the DuPage county

IN THE preliminary report turned over to Arlington Heights Human Relations committee by Mundy, the professor remarked on the high income level of the Arlington Heights sample. Forty per cent reported they earned $15,000 or more annually. Politically, 58.7 per cent were Republicans, 17.5 per cent Democrats and 21.3 per cent independents. Two in every three were Protestants.

The main income for 81.2 per cent of those interviewed came from outside Arlington Heights.

AS A MEASURE of "white backlash," 28.5 per cent of those interviewed last spring said they were less sympathetic toward Negroes than they were a year earlier.

On the other hand, only 7.5 per cent believed that "Negroes should be satisfied with their present lot in life." Ninety per cent disagreed.

HOWEVER, 73.8 PER cent agreed with the statement that "Negroes shouldn't push themselves where they're not wanted."

On the question of regarding acceptance of Negroes as neighbors, there was little difference among villagers of different religious affiliation. Of the Catholics, 26.9 per cent turned "thumbs down" on Negro neighbors--and so did 27.4 per cent of the Protestants.

THERE WAS little difference by income level but a sharp difference among different age brackets.

Of those under 30 years, only 20 per cent indicated they would object to Negroes as neighbors. Among those over 50, the percentage soared to 50 per cent. (A

Village Compared With Other Towns

Arlington Heights residents rank with those from Wheaton—but are more prejudiced than residents of the North Shore.

This is the conclusion reached when the local village's human relations survey is compared to similar ones made in Wheaton and the posher northern suburbs.

SOME 28.8 PER cent of the 205 Wheaton residents questioned in that city's human relations survey said they would object if a Negro moved into a home on their block.

Only 18 per cent of 1,560 North Shore residents surveyed last summer said they would be opposed to having Negro neighbors.

That figure is reported by the North Shore Organization for Fair Housing, which made many interviews last summer in efforts to convince Realtors they should treat all home-seekers alike.

THE NORTH SHORE figure comes closest to a Gallup poll finding. Nationally, the Gallup poll reported, 80 per cent of Americans questioned would "take no action" if a Negro family moved into their neighborhood.

Rev. Emory Davis of the North Shore project told Paddock Publications he thinks the north suburban survey finding is particularly significant because the families questioned were all in neighborhoods where houses were for sale at that time.

WHEATON'S survey, conducted by Wheaton College students with the assistance of the city's human relations council, asked questions almost identical to those used in the Arlington Heights survey.

Only 7.8 per cent in Wheaton thought Negroes were not entitled to the same chances for jobs as white people. Some 53 per cent thought "White people should have a right to keep Negroes out of their neighborhoods if they want to, and Negroes should respect that right."

A higher number of Wheaton residents--85.8 per cent--thought white and Negro students should attend school together. Some 57 per cent thought Wheaton schools should seek more well-qualified Negro teachers. (A

Warning to Homeowners

Beware of the Phony Heating Contractor

Don't scare—don't hurry—don't sign without knowing what you're signing.

That's the essence of the advice offered every Chicago-area homeowner by the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council (CHBC) in a recent radio interview.

CBHC is concerned about the reappearance in the Chicago area this fall of individuals masquerading as heating contractors in order to cheat homeowners out of thousands of dollars every day.

They have a wide variety of tactics, such as:

—They may try to sell you something you don't need, simply by claiming that you need it.

—They may contract with you to install a quality product, but actually put in a substandard substitute and pocket the difference in cost.

—They may dismantle your boiler or furnace for what they call "inspection"—and then refuse to put it together again unless you buy a lot of expensive and unnecessary new parts.

—Still worse, they sometimes botch a job so badly—if you let them get that far—that fuel leaks and fumes or even the possibility of explosion are likely to result.

Any modern heating system is complex, and reputable heating contractors and their employes spend a high percentage of their time and money on a continuing program of professional education.

They know what makes a modern heating system tick—and what makes it stop. They know how to comply with building codes designed for your protection. They know how to keep a good system running as economically as possible. And, most important of all, they know that your satisfaction with their efficiency, know-how and economy is what keeps them in business.

It's sometimes difficult to tell the "good guys" from the "bad guys," but there are a few rules which, if carefully observed, can help you protect your pocketbook, your home, your health and maybe even your life.

If an unsolicited "heating man" comes to your door or calls you without your having contacted him first, follow all 10 of these basic rules,

(1) First of all, don't let yourself be pressured into doing anything before you have time to fully investigate both the salesman and your heating situation.

(2) Then, find out where this salesman or serviceman came from. Call his office, and find out who sent him to you. If the office doesn't answer, send the man away. If the story you're given by the man or by his office doesn't sound completely convincing, send him away until you have time to completely investigate the situation.

(3) If, on the other hand, the story "holds water," then get pencil and paper and start to gather a few facts.

(4) Find out what the company wants to do for you—and why they think you need it done. Make them tell you verbally at this stage of the game: don't let the man touch your heating plant yet. Don't let them frighten you with stories like, "Your boiler's about to blow up" or "Fumes are poisoning your family."

(5) Find out how long the company has been in the same business at the same address.

(6) Get the names of several other families in your neighborhood for whom the company has done work—then call a few of these to verify that the company has satisfactorily done what it contracted to do, and has done it at a fair price agreed on in advance.

(7) Get other "professional" references. If a firm can prove to you that it's a member of a respected industry organization—such as the Mechanical Contractors Chicago Association or the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council—that's a good sign that the firm is legitimate.

(8) Then, if you're convinced that the man had some good reason for calling on you, and that his company is respectable, you may want him to show what he proposes to do for your heating system.

Let's say that he convinces you that work should be done. Then it's time for an estimate of what it will cost you.

(9) Don't take a verbal estimate. Make the man give you a written estimate that you clearly understand. Make sure that every piece of equipment he proposes to sell you is accurately specified in that estimate. Make sure that the total cost, for parts and labor, is clear, and that nothing can be tacked onto your bill later without your specifically agreeing to it. Then make sure that you can keep a copy of this estimate without signing it.

It isn't time to sign anything yet.

(10) Demand the time needed for considering—and investigating. Then use that time wisely. A legitimate firm will give you—willingly—time now to fully consider the situation before acting on it. You may still want to talk to another heating contractor—especially if the cost estimate indicates a substantial investment for you. Comparing two separate opinions, and two separate estimates, is no less important in buying a heating job than in buying a car. (O

"Yeah, that's right, I think 15 cents is too much for a paper."

Backyard Poll

It's true that 15 cents is too much for "a newspaper."

However, we believe 15 cents for one of our editions is one of the few bargains left in this world.

Average size of our papers is almost 90 pages. On occasion we hit 112-120.

But a good newspaper is more than just pages, it's complete coverage of the news in a professional manner; it's a full report of advertising from the area; it's a service to the community.

Sure, it costs 15 cents, but think of all the pleasure and information you get out of it for a week, then you can cover the floor with it while painting; you can wrap the garbage for seven days; you can pack two barrels of dishes when moving; you can . . .

Garden Hose as Aid In Wallpaper Removal

Bring your garden hose into the house and spray the walls—not to clean them but as the first step in loosening and removing wallpaper, advises an article in a recent issue of the "Journal of Property Management."

"If a garden-type pressure sprayer is available, wet all four walls, then go back and wet the first wall a second time and start scraping," explains Howard Sonn, certified property manager of New York City.

The "Journal of Property Management" is published bimonthly by the Institute of Real Estate Mangement, an affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and contains data of particular importance to professional property managers which is often of interest to home owners also.

In his article, Sonn points out that there are four possible aids in making wallpaper removal a less laborious and time-consuming task.

The first step in removing wallpaper is to be sure that the walls are thoroughly wet. It is helpful to use a wetting agent as an additive to the water. If such a wetting agent is not available, however, it is not that important to go out of the way to purchase it," Sonn says.

If you don't have a garden-type sprayer, Sonn continues, a sponge or wide brush will work almost as well. If using either of these, wet just one wall at a time as the labor of applying water is much slower and the paste has a tendency to dry and harden.

USE A commercial-type kerosene or propane-heated steamer to keep the paper from drying out. If using a steamer, it is important to use this type, as an electric steamer does not generate steam fast enough for anything but a small room.

A problem that might be encountered is that of removing coated paper, which resists the penetration of moisture, Sonn points out.

The best method of removal of this type of wallpaper is to score the surface so that the moisture can spread behind and get at the paste, according to Sonn. Use the coarsest sandpaper available. The sandpaper should be folded over a square of wood.

UNDER NO circumstances should an automatic sanding machine be used, since any slip will gouge out the plaster, he warns.

After the paper is removed, the small nodules of paper and paste must be washed off by hand, followed by sanding with a coarse sandpaper. (O

Panel Door Is Gateway To Elegance

A door can be the key to decorative elegance for any room in the house.

Many interior decorators are using wood panel doors as a luxurious highlight for living rooms, bedrooms, even kitchens and baths. Although they have a custom look, modern panel doors of ponderosa pine are readily available in stock sizes at local lumber dealers, and come in a variety of styles to suit either traditional or contemporary decor.

What's more, wood panel doors lend themselves to individualized decorative treatment. Painted or stained to bring out their rich, natural grain, they offer a beautiful blend or contrast with a formal room's color scheme. Or, the panels can be treated as frames for interesting and amusing decals or appliques in children's rooms, family or recreation rooms.

Panel doors of ponderosa pine come in a wide range of styles. Among them are stock units with three, six or nine solid panels, some with lights (or glass) panels, and others with decorative panel inserts. (O

Dishwasher Fits Built-In Decor

If you're moving into a new home, or remodeling your kitchen, you can complement the modern "built-in" look with new major appliances.

The undercounter or built-in type of automatic dishwasher, for example, is especially suitable for modern decor. It puts the dish racks at a handy height, and fits into the space of an average 24-inch wide base cabinet so it doesn't take up extra space.

Most new dishwashers are available with colored, textured or patterned fronts, in addition to white, to match the kitchen color scheme. (O

Cattle Sale For 4-H'ers Is Planned

Beef breeders from suburban Cook and Will counties will offer about 50 head of beef calves to 4-H club members at a sale this Saturday.

The 1966 sale will be held at Francis 4-H Field near New Lenox starting at 7 p.m.

Only 4-H boys or girls wanting the calves for 4-H projects will be eligible to purchase the animals. (A15

An Ordinance

AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

SECTION ONE: The Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights, as amended, is hereby further amended by reclassifying from the R-1 One-Family Dwelling District to the B-2 General Business District, the following described territory:

PARCEL 1

That part of Lot 5 in the subdivision of Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Beginning at a point in the south line of said Section 9, which point is 512.26 feet West of the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence North parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road, 300 feet; thence West parallel with the South line of said Section 9, 100 feet; thence South parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road, 300 feet to the South line of said Section 9; thence East along said South line of Section 9, 100 feet to the place of beginning in Cook County, Illinois.

PARCEL 2

That part of Lot 5 in Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Beginning at a point in the South line of said Section 9, which point is 712.26 feet West of the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence North parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road 300 feet; thence East parallel with the South line of said Section 9, 100 feet; thence South parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road 300 feet to the South line of said Section 9; thence West along said South line 100 feet to the place of beginning in Cook County, Illinois.

That part of Lot 5 in the subdivision of Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Commencing at the intersection of the South line of said Section 9 with the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence West along the South line of said Section 9 a distance of 225.17 feet for a place of beginning; thence continuing West along the South line of Section 9 a distance of 287.09 feet; thence Northerly parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road a distance of 300.0 feet; thence East parallel with the South line of said Section 9 a distance of 287.09 feet; thence Southerly parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road a distance of 300.0 feet to the place of beginning, excepting therefrom that part thereof heretofore dedicated for Illinois Route 58 by Document Number 10488007, in Cook County, Illinois; also that part of Lot 5 in the Subdivision of Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Commencing at the intersection of the South line of said Section 9 with the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence West along the South line of said Section 9 a distance of 225.17 feet; thence Northerly parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road a distance of 226.45 feet; for a place of beginning; thence continuing North along said parallel line a distance of 73.55 feet to a point on a line 300.0 feet North as measured along the center line of Arlington Heights Road, of the South line of said Section 9; thence East along said line a distance of 225.17 feet to the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence Southerly along said center line a distance of 74.92 feet; thence West along a line parallel with the North line of Illinois Route 58 as dedicated by Document Number 10488007, a distance of 225.08 feet to the place of beginning, excepting therefrom that part thereof lying East of the West line of Arlington Heights Road as dedicated by Document Number 10488007, in Cook County, Illinois, and the corresponding changes in designation on the zoning district map are hereby made. This rezoning shall be conditioned upon the property owner not erecting any barrier which would prevent the interconnection between the subject property and the adjacent parcels in the future.

SECTION TWO: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

Notice of Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held Monday, November 28, 1966 at 8:00 P.M. by the Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals in the Municipal Building, 33 South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Ill: to consider a request for a variation from the strict terms of the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance with respect to off-site parking.

The First Arlington National Bank, petitioner, has petitioned for a variation of Section 10.3-3 of the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights to enable the use and operation of the property hereinafter described for required parking, the parking spaces to be established thereon in part to be in excess of 1000 feet of the use served. The subject property is located at the S. E. corner of Eastman Street and Arlington Heights Road, measuring approximately 132 feet along Eastman Street and 132 feet along Arlington Heights Road. Property is legally described as follows:

Lots 1 and 2 in Block 13 in the Town of Dunton, being a subdivision of the West Half of the Southwest Quarter of Section 29, Township 42 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois.

The applicant presently conducts its banking facility at 14 E. Campbell Street, Arlington Heights, Ill. Applications for building permits to enable expansion of the banking facilities have been filed with the Building Commissioner of the Village of Arlington Heights. The proposed enlargement requires the furnishing of 53 parking spaces under the Zoning Ordinance. No on-site parking space is available for this purpose, the contiguous parking lot having been reserved for public purposes pursuant to contract and covenant with the Village of Arlington Heights. The subject property at the S. E. corner of Eastman Street and Arlington Heights Road can accommodate 53 spaces being the amount required by the ordinance. A portion of the spaces so installed would be beyond 1,000 feet from the main entrance of the bank building. The subject property is within the B-5 Central Business District.

Interested persons desiring to be heard will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Ordinance No. 1176

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING WRECKED OR DISCARDED VEHICLES

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: Chapter 25 of the Municipal Code of Mount Prospect of 1957, as amended, is hereby further amended by adding thereto a new Article, Article VI, and said new Article VI to be and read as follows:

SECTION 25.601: Definitions. The following definitions shall apply in the interpretation and enforcement of this Ordinance:

(1) "Person" shall mean any person, firm, partnership, association, corporation, company or organization of any kind.

(2) "Vehicle" shall mean a machine propelled by power other than human power designed to travel along the ground by use of wheels, treads, runners, or slides and transport persons or property or pull machinery and shall include, without limitation, automobile, truck, trailer, motorcycle, tractor, buggy and wagon.

(3) "Street or Highway" shall mean the entire width between the boundary lines of every way publicly maintained when any part thereof is open to the use of the public for purposes of vehicular travel.

(4) "Property" shall mean any real property within the Village of Mount Prospect which is not a street or highway.

SECTION 25.602: Abandonment of Vehicles. No person shall abandon any vehicle within the Village of Mount Prospect and no person shall leave any vehicle at any place within the Village of Mount Prospect for such time and under such circumstances as to cause such vehicle reasonably to appear to have been abandoned.

SECTION 25.603: Leaving of Wrecked, Non-Operating Vehicle on Street. No person shall leave any partially dismantled, non - operating, wrecked, or junked vehicle on any street or highway within the Village of Mount Prospect.

SECTION 25.604: Disposition of Wrecked or Discarded Vehicles. No person in charge or control of any property within the Village of Mount Prospect, whether as owner, tenant, occupant, lessee, or otherwise, shall allow any partially dismantled, non-operating, wrecked, junked, or discarded vehicle to remain on such property longer than 72 hours; and no person shall leave any such vehicle on any property within the Village for longer time than 72 hours; except that this Ordinance shall not apply with regard to a vehicle in an enclosed building; a vehicle on the premises of a business enterprise operated in a lawful place and manner, when necessary to the operation of such business enterprise; or a vehicle in an appropriate storage place or depository maintained in a lawful place and manner by the Village.

SECTION 25.605: Impounding. The Chief of Police or any member of his Department designated by him is hereby authorized to remove or have removed any vehicle left at any place within the Village of Mount Prospect which reasonably appears to be in violation of this Ordinance or lost, stolen, or unclaimed. Such vehicle shall be impounded until lawfully claimed or disposed of in accordance with Chapter 95-½, Illinois Revised Statutes 1965, paragraphs 42-49.

SECTION 25.606: Penalties. Any person violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in an amount not exceeding $500.00. Each day such violation is committed or permitted to continue shall constitute a separate offense and shall be punishable as such hereunder.

SECTION TWO: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval, and publication in the manner provided by law.

Ordinance No. 1178

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING SECTION 17.106 AND SECTION 17.107 OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE OF MOUNT PROSPECT

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: Section 17.106 of the Municipal Code of Mount Prospect of 1957, as amended, is hereby further amended by deleting in line six of said Section the words "twenty-four (24) hours" and in place provide the words "thirty (30) days" so that the said Section 17.106 shall thereafter, in its entirety, be and read as follows:

Section 17.106. Time of Payment - License Year. Such license fee shall be due and payable annually in advance on the first day of January of each year. Where a resident applicant acquires a vehicle after the first day of January or where an applicant has established residence within the Village after the first day of January then said license fee shall be due and payable within thirty (30) days. All such licenses shall expire on the 31st day of December following the date of issuance. Where the said fee becomes due six (6) months after the start of the license year, then upon timely application being made to the Clerk, a license shall be issued for the remainder of the year upon payment of one-half (½) of the fee provided for in Section 17.103.

SECTION TWO: Section 17.107 of the Municipal Code of Mount Prospect of 1957, as amended, is hereby further amended by adding thereto a new paragraph (c) to follow paragraph (b) of said Section 17.107, so that the said paragraph (c) of the said Section 17.107 shall thereafter be and read as follows:

(c) The due date for display of current Village windshield sticker in accordance with provisions set forth in Section 17.107 (a) shall be February 16 of each year.

SECTION THREE: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

Notice of Public Hearing

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PLAN COMMISSION WILL CONSIDER A REQUEST FOR REZONING WITH A SPECIAL USE PERMIT TO ALLOW A MENTAL HEALTH CLINIC ON PROPERTY PRESENTLY ZONED FOR SCHOOL, PARK & PUBLIC USES IN SURREY RIDGE SUBDIVISION, ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS.

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held Wednesday, November 30, 1966 at 8:00 P.M. in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 33 South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Illinois by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission to consider the request of the Northwest Cooperative Community Mental Health Clinic to rezone the following legally described property from its present zoning classification to R-5 Multiple Family classification with a special use permit to operate a Mental Health Clinic:

Lot 194 and the East 5.5 feet of Lot 195 in Surrey Ridge Unit Three, being a resubdivision in the S. E. Quarter of Section 9, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois.

The property is presently zoned for schools, parks and other public uses. Under Section 5.9 of the zoning ordinance, a use of the premises for purposes other than those designated results in a reversion of the property to a single family dwelling zoning classification. The petitioner proposes to operate a Mental Health Clinic on the above described parcel and thus petitions for a rezoning of the tract to multiple family classification, wherein a special use permit for hospitals and sanitariums may be granted upon proper application and consideration by the Plan Commission and the Village Board of Trustees. Further, the petitioner requests a variation from the 2-acre tract size as a prerequisite for rezoning.

Interested persons desiring to be heard will be given an opportunity to be heard.

An Ordinance

AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

SECTION ONE: The Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights, as amended, is hereby further amended by reclassifying from the R-1 One-Family Dwelling District to the B-2 General Business District, the following described territory:

PARCEL 1

That part of Lot 5 in the subdivision of Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Beginning at a point in the south line of said Section 9, which point is 512.26 feet West of the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence North parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road, 300 feet; thence West parallel with the South line of said Section 9, 100 feet; thence South parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road, 300 feet to the South line of said Section 9; thence East along said South line of Section 9, 100 feet to the place of beginning in Cook County, Illinois.

PARCEL 2

That part of Lot 5 in Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Beginning at a point in the South line of said Section 9, which point is 712.26 feet West of the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence North parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road 300 feet; thence East parallel with the South line of said Section 9, 100 feet; thence South parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road 300 feet to the South line of said Section 9; thence West along said South line 100 feet to the place of beginning in Cook County, Illinois.

That part of Lot 5 in the subdivision of Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Commencing at the intersection of the South line of said Section 9 with the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence West along the South line of said Section 9 a distance of 225.17 feet for a place of beginning; thence continuing West along the South line of Section 9 a distance of 287.09 feet; thence Northerly parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road a distance of 300.0 feet; thence East parallel with the South line of said Section 9 a distance of 287.09 feet; thence Southerly parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road a distance of 300.0 feet to the place of beginning, excepting therefrom that part thereof heretofore dedicated for Illinois Route 58 by Document Number 10488007, in Cook County, Illinois; also that part of Lot 5 in the Subdivision of Joseph A. Barnes' Farm in Sections 9, 15 and 16, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: Commencing at the intersection of the South line of said Section 9 with the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence West along the South line of said Section 9 a distance of 225.17 feet; thence Northerly parallel with the center line of Arlington Heights Road a distance of 226.45 feet; for a place of beginning; thence continuing North along said parallel line a distance of 73.55 feet to a point on a line 300.0 feet North as measured along the center line of Arlington Heights Road, of the South line of said Section 9; thence East along said line a distance of 225.17 feet to the center line of Arlington Heights Road; thence Southerly along said center line a distance of 74.92 feet; thence West along a line parallel with the North line of Illinois Route 58 as dedicated by Document Number 10488007, a distance of 225.08 feet to the place of beginning, excepting therefrom that part thereof lying East of the West line of Arlington Heights Road as dedicated by Document Number 10488007, in Cook County, Illinois, and the corresponding changes in designation on the zoning district map are hereby made. This rezoning shall be conditioned upon the property owner not erecting any barrier which would prevent the interconnection between the subject property and the adjacent parcels in the future.

SECTION TWO: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

Notice of Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held Monday, November 28, 1966 at 8:00 P.M. by the Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals in the Municipal Building, 33 South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Ill: to consider a request for a variation from the strict terms of the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance with respect to off-site parking.

The First Arlington National Bank, petitioner, has petitioned for a variation of Section 10.3-3 of the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights to enable the use and operation of the property hereinafter described for required parking, the parking spaces to be established thereon in part to be in excess of 1000 feet of the use served. The subject property is located at the S. E. corner of Eastman Street and Arlington Heights Road, measuring approximately 132 feet along Eastman Street and 132 feet along Arlington Heights Road. Property is legally described as follows:

Lots 1 and 2 in Block 13 in the Town of Dunton, being a subdivision of the West Half of the Southwest Quarter of Section 29, Township 42 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois.

The applicant presently conducts its banking facility at 14 E. Campbell Street, Arlington Heights, Ill. Applications for building permits to enable expansion of the banking facilities have been filed with the Building Commissioner of the Village of Arlington Heights. The proposed enlargement requires the furnishing of 53 parking spaces under the Zoning Ordinance. No on-site parking space is available for this purpose, the contiguous parking lot having been reserved for public purposes pursuant to contract and covenant with the Village of Arlington Heights. The subject property at the S. E. corner of Eastman Street and Arlington Heights Road can accommodate 53 spaces being the amount required by the ordinance. A portion of the spaces so installed would be beyond 1,000 feet from the main entrance of the bank building. The subject property is within the B-5 Central Business District.

Interested persons desiring to be heard will be given an opportunity to be heard.

SECTION 25.603: Leaving of Wrecked, Non-Operating Vehicle on Street. No person shall leave any partially dismantled, non - operating, wrecked, or junked vehicle on any street or highway within the Village of Mount Prospect.

SECTION 25.604: Disposition of Wrecked or Discarded Vehicles. No person in charge or control of any property within the Village of Mount Prospect, whether as owner, tenant, occupant, lessee, or otherwise, shall allow any partially dismantled, non-operating, wrecked, junked, or discarded vehicle to remain on such property longer than 72 hours; and no person shall leave any such vehicle on any property within the Village for longer time than 72 hours; except that this Ordinance shall not apply with regard to a vehicle in an enclosed building; a vehicle on the premises of a business enterprise operated in a lawful place and manner, when necessary to the operation of such business enterprise; or a vehicle in an appropriate storage place or depository maintained in a lawful place and manner by the Village.

SECTION 25.605: Impounding. The Chief of Police or any member of his Department designated by him is hereby authorized to remove or have removed any vehicle left at any place within the Village of Mount Prospect which reasonably appears to be in violation of this Ordinance or lost, stolen, or unclaimed. Such vehicle shall be impounded until lawfully claimed or disposed of in accordance with Chapter 95-½, Illinois Revised Statutes 1965, paragraphs 42-49.

SECTION 25.606: Penalties. Any person violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in an amount not exceeding $500.00. Each day such violation is committed or permitted to continue shall constitute a separate offense and shall be punishable as such hereunder.

SECTION TWO: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval, and publication in the manner provided by law.

Notice of Public Hearing

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PLAN COMMISSION WILL CONSIDER A REQUEST FOR REZONING WITH A SPECIAL USE PERMIT TO ALLOW A MENTAL HEALTH CLINIC ON PROPERTY PRESENTLY ZONED FOR SCHOOL, PARK & PUBLIC USES IN SURREY RIDGE SUBDIVISION, ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS.

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held Wednesday, November 30, 1966 at 8:00 P.M. in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 33 South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Illinois by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission to consider the request of the Northwest Cooperative Community Mental Health Clinic to rezone the following legally described property from its present zoning classification to R-5 Multiple Family classification with a special use permit to operate a Mental Health Clinic:

Lot 194 and the East 5.5 feet of Lot 195 in Surrey Ridge Unit Three, being a resubdivision in the S. E. Quarter of Section 9, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois.

The property is presently zoned for schools, parks and other public uses. Under Section 5.9 of the zoning ordinance, a use of the premises for purposes other than those designated results in a reversion of the property to a single family dwelling zoning classification. The petitioner proposes to operate a Mental Health Clinic on the above described parcel and thus petitions for a rezoning of the tract to multiple family classification, wherein a special use permit for hospitals and sanitariums may be granted upon proper application and consideration by the Plan Commission and the Village Board of Trustees. Further, the petitioner requests a variation from the 2-acre tract size as a prerequisite for rezoning.

Interested persons desiring to be heard will be given an opportunity to be heard.

FROM RIDGE PARK

There was a family celebration at the Duane Krolls', 918 N. Chicago, on Nov. 6 to honor Garin who was 4.

Houseguests of the John Collins at 818 N. Harvard are Mary's mother, Mrs. Behrens, and her grandmother, Mrs. Lyall, both of New York. They are here for a short stay. Besides visiting with the family, they celebrated Cathleen's second birthday Nov. 6 and are getting acquainted with their newest grandchild and great-grandchild, Lisa Ann.

On Oct. 29, a few friends of Marcy Michalski and her sister, Margot, were her luncheon guests for her fourth birthday celebration. Marcy is the daughter of the Richard Michalskis, 1008 N. Illinois.

THE RICHARD Andrews of 941 N. Salem took their boys into Chicago for a day on the town to celebrate Greg's 12th birthday Oct. 30. One of their stops was to visit the Field Museum.

A recent guest of the Andrews was Dick's cousin, John Andrew of Chicago, who just returned from a European trip.

The John Morrisons, 803 N. Harvard, recently attended a party in Des Plaines given in honor of their grandson, John Morrison, who entered the Marine Corps.

Betty and Arthur Hughes and their daughter, Deedee, of 647 N. Kaspar were guests of Arthur's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harmon of Chicago, at a performance of the Ice Follies on Nov. 3. It was a belated birthday treat for Deedee from her aunt and uncle.

A family celebration was held at 1120 W. Northwest Hwy. on Nov. 6 when Susan, daughter of the Richard Adams, was 2. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard McGuire of Arlington Heights.

At 1615 W. Oakton on Nov. 4, a family celebration took place in honor of the Walter Nystroms' son, Paul, for his 14th birthday. Celebrants included his grandfather, Walter Nystrom, and an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walk, all of Melrose Park.

THE PHILIP Reshegers' daguther, Penny, celebrated her sixth birthday Oct. 22. Guests for the occasion at 807 N. Kennicott included her sisters, Pam and Patti, Joyce Mills, Shari Argust, Marilyn Eitemiller and Lisa Jo Etherton.

Grandparents, aunts and uncles arrived at the Joseph Ruanes', 949 N. Ridge, on Oct. 16 to celebrate Sharon's first birthday.

The Robert Schmidts' daughter, Lisa, celebrated her fourth birthday Oct. 8 at 1011 N. Harvard with her brother, Robert, grandmother, Mrs. Janet Hamming of Chicago, aunts Mrs. Fern Schmidt of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Jean Frey of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Elaine Bridge of Northbrook, and cousins, Carrie, Billy and Cathy Schmidt, Lynn and Tommy Frey, Kim and Bobbie Dore and Cheryl, Susan and Bobbie Bridger.

A family get-together was held at the Walter Schulers', 926 N. Kennicott, on Oct. 29 in honor of their son, Russ, who turned 3. Guests included his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schuler Sr. of Wheeling and Mrs. Delia Berlin of Palatine, plus aunts, uncles and cousins.

Sympathy is extended to Joseph Ruane, 949 N. Ridge, on the recent death of his father, Mr. Philip Ruane.

FROM SHERWOOD

Sunday, at 6 p.m., the Vance Voorhees of 1300 W. Clarendon were watching TV to get a glimpse of their daughter, Sue, a cheerleader at Elmhurst College, which was featured on the program "Campus."

The Raymond Collins family of 1010 W. Clarendon left Nov. 3 for a weekend trip to Atchison, Kan., to see their daughter, Jean, and attend Parents' Week at Mount St. Scholastica College.

Michigan State University in East Lansing was the destination of the Robert Jakubiecs of 1014 Watling Road on Nov. 4. Mary Lou and Jim attend college there. Most important reason for their going was for Dad's Day celebrated by the Delta Gamma Sorority. Highlight of the weekend was Dad being treated to dinner and a Powder Puff football game.

ARTHUR TRAVERS' family welcomed him back at 1115 N. Yale recently, upon his return from a trip around the world. On a business trip, he was gone 2½ weeks but covered a good bit of territory. Stops included Paris, France, Naples and Rome, four days in Istanbul, Behruit, Lebanon, New Delhi, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Osaka, Nagoya, Tokyo and Seattle.

Newcomers to Sherwood are Judy and Robert Fivian and their baby, Karen, 2½ months old. Formerly of Minneapolis, Mr. Fivian is with Bache and Co. and a member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

1112 N. Princeton is the new address of Betty and Merrill Clark, formerly of Des Plaines. Mr. Clark teaches biology at Prospect High School. (A

Modern Etiquette

Q. Should a businesswoman rise to greet a man who enters her office, and she is already talking with someone else?

A. This depends upon circumstances. If seated at her desk with others around her, she would be unlikely to rise, but would merely motion to an empty chair. If, however, all are seated casually, she could rise, shake hands, introduce him, motion him to a chair, then reseat herself.

Q. At which side of a person seated at a dinner table are the beverages placed, filled, and removed?

A. At his right.

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Mary O'Leary CL 9-3827

Maryann Buczek CL 5-5033

As the autumn vacationers among the Sidelighters return from their journeys, they bring with them accounts of their good times abroad. Meanwhile, they and we look to see what has been happening on the local scene during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carns, 106 Stratford, are home following a jaunt through Europe which lasted about five weeks. They and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kean of Los Angeles, flew overseas the last week in September and began their tour through the continent. The Carnses seemed to think that their method of touring Europe afforded them the best opportunity possible to see the people and the countryside, as well as the traditional tourist attractions. The foursome did most of their sightseeing and traveling throughout Europe by car—through England, Scotland, Amsterdam, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and France—and flew home from Paris two weeks ago.

ALSO RETURNED recently from a trip to Europe are Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones, 215 S. Stratford. Mrs. Jones accompanied her husband on what was, for both of them, a first trip to Europe. Included in their three-week itinerary were five days in Paris, five days in Amsterdam, three days in London and visits to Rome, Milan, Stockholm and Germany. They returned a week ago, having paid a series of pleasant visits to all of the tourist "musts" in Europe.

Participating in a unique travel program are Mr. and Mrs. G. Baumet, 102 Derbyshire, who returned Sunday night from a brief jaunt to Nassau in the Bahamas, which was arranged by Prop Set, a flying group which sponsors, throughout the year, a number of short vacations within and outside of the United States.

The parents of William Forestell are currently visiting in the Forestell home at 122 S. Brighton. Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Forestell, from Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, plan to stay about a week.

MR. AND MRS. Eugene St. John recently returned from a 10 day vacation trip to Pierre Verde Island, off the coast of Florida. They drove down to visit relatives and during the two days they spent on the road, sights that most impressed them included Chattanooga's Lookout Mountain and a tourist favorite, Busch Gardens in Tampa.

While the St. Johns were in Florida, the Peter Ericksens of 5 W. Orchard took a week's vacation to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. James Graves of 910 S. Dunton accompanied the Ericksons on the trip to Jamaica. The two couples enjoyed a raft trip down the Rio Grande, then on to their last stop at Montego Bay, where they stayed in the atmospheric Ocho Rios (Eight Rivers) Plantation Inn.

JUST FOR A vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Humbold took the popular auto trip through the historic areas of the eastern United States. They were gone for 10 days and toured Gettysburg, Williamsburg, Washington, D.C., and Monticello.

Vacations seem to be a popular activity this month. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mueller also took a two-week trip to Florida and Virginia, first stopping at Gibson's Island, Md., just 10 miles from Annapolis.

As the Muellers are attracted to museums and historical sights they spent a few days touring the area, then it was back to the road for the trip to Tampa.

AFTER BRIEF stops in Charlottesville, Savannah and St. Augustine, the Muellers visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reitmeyer in Tampa. The Reitmeyers are former residents of S. Mitchell in Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sesterhenn of 316 W. Hawthorne have just returned from a trip west. First stop was Denver, then on to Oakland and San Francisco, where they visited a niece and family. They also went to San Diego to see Mr. Sesterhenn's brother, and back to Los Angeles for a tour of Disneyland. On the way back they stopped in Las Vegas and were fortunate in having sunny weather the entire time.

The Stephen Jurco family had very important guests in their home. Madame Subilackshmi of India, with her husband and two daughters, stayed with the Jurcos for three days last week, during her first visit to the United States.

Madame Subilackshmi came to this country as part of a United Nations annual international cultural program presented for 2,000 people in the State Department Auditorium. She is India's foremost vocal artist with the further distinction of having been Mahatma Gandhi's favorite vocalist.

EARLY LAST week Madame Subilackshmi and her family stayed with the Jurcos while she gave concerts at the Illinois Institute of Technology. She travels with an accompanying troup of five musicians and several other performers who also stayed in Arlington Heights last week.

Last weekend Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keller enjoyed a visit from the Paul Welters of Elkhart, Ind., former high school friends. The Kellers' daughter, Kathy, was home from Drake University, too.

M. Hermann, father of Mrs. William C. Klingenmaier, visited his daughter and her husband recently. Mr. Hermann was here from Panama, where he lives with his son for part of each year. While he was here Mrs. Klingenmaier gave a surprise party for his 80th birthday and all of Mr. Hermann's old friends were invited.

Greetings went to Robert Letzel, 1237 N. Chestnut, on his Nov. 7 birthday.

The William Bennets had their new baby christened last week in Faith Lutheran Church, after which they entertained at a family party. (A

Rosemary Shellander 259-0566

VIRGINIA TERRACE

The Terrace bids farewell to Joe and Dorothy Clavin and daughter, Katy. The Clavins moved Wednesday from 1247 N. Wilke to Wilmette. They were original Terrace residents and lived in their Wilke Road home for more than 12 years.

Traveling to Washington, D. C., last week on a combined business and pleasure trip were Al and Rosemary Shellander, 1716 W. Olive. They left Monday. Al attended a three-day paint technology convention; Rosemary went on a sightseeing tour and did some shopping. On the way home, they visited Al's sister and family, the Hugh Cowdins, in their new home in Pittsburgh.

While their parents were away, Tom, Mary and Margaret Shellander visited their grandparents, the Walter Jonases in Lake Geneva; Nancy and Jim went to Fond du Lac to be with their aunt and uncle, the David Floods. The family returned home Sunday.

JERRY AND Nancy Pollard and children, Paula and Bradley, 1400 N. Yale, spent Sunday at Starved Rock. Nancy's parents, the Francis Cooks of Barrington, were on a camping trip at the park and invited the Pollards to spend the day with them.

Nov. 1 was the second birthday of Kathy Gasser, daughter of the Ronald Gassers, 1255 N. Chicago. Kathy celebrated with her parents and brothers, Tommy and Michael.

Beverly Malinka, daughter of the Clem Malinkas, 1239 N. Race, was 6 Nov. 3. She celebrated with a party attended by Marcia and Marty Krueger, Kathy and Susie Chernesky, Peter and Heather Jessen, and a Prospect Heights friend, Alex Mueller. Mothers of her guests were also present.

Driving to Joliet Sunday to spend the day with their son, Ronald, and family were the Werner Beckers, 1440 N. Race.

THE BARTON Barrows, 1244 N. Illinois, celebrated his birthday Oct. 19. The special dinner ended up being served in front of the TV set, as Barton is an avid hockey fan, and a game was scheduled for that evening.

Spending the weekend in Oshkosh were Rich and Judy Koopman and children, Ricky and Amy, 1216 N. Chicago. They visited Judy's parents, the Richard Mangolds.

Pat Van de Merkt, daughter of the Eugene Van de Merkts, 1231 N. Wilke, will celebrate her 18th birthday away from home Saturday. She is a student at Central College in Pella, Ia. Her mother is having a cake delivered to Pat's dorm so she can celebrate with her dorm friends.

THE DON Kennedy family visited the Bernard Rosers, 1447 N. Race, on Saturday. The Kennedys, former Terrace residents, now live in Aurora.

Nov. 8 was the third birthday of Debbie Grabe, daughter of the Donald Grabes, 1425 N. Chicago. She celebrated at a family party Sunday. Also present were her aunt, uncles and cousins, the Robert Doessel family of Streamwood and Fred Grabe, Jr. and children.

All four members of the Jack Gleeson family, 1239 N. Illinois, have birthdays between Oct. 28 to Nov. 9. They celebrated at a family party Sunday. Vicki Gleeson was 4 Nov. 9; Marc was 3 Oct. 28; Jack and Debbie just state that their birthdays are Oct. 29 and Nov. 4, respectively. Relatives present were the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Mackenroth of Glenview, and three aunts and an uncle and their families.

Notes from Arlington Acres

The recreation room in the Carl Schmidt home, 515 S. Gibbons, might better be called a trophy room, as each of Carl's hunting expeditions brings its own share of mementos to add to his collection. Latest additions are the antlers of a deer and an antelope bagged on a recent trip to Caribou Lodge in the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Retzlaff, 2116 E. Gregory, took note of Paul's Oct. 18 birthday and the Nov. 1 birthday of their son, David, when they drove to Akron, Ind., over a recent weekend to be with the senior Retzlaffs for the celebration.

More recently they entertained Helen's sister and brother-in-law, the William Shaws of Markham, for dinner and to hear about the Shaws' six-month tour of Europe and their prolonged visit to Inverness, Scotland, where Mr. Shaw was born and grew up.

MISSING FROM the family get-togethers was Elizabeth Retzlaff, who writes that she is starting her term of practice teaching in a high school in Hobart, Ind. Elizabeth, a senior at Valparaiso University, has been nominated for a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Runge, 525 S. Phelps, were married 10 years Nov. 3. They celebrated quietly at home with the senior Mrs. Runge as a dinner guest.

Sharon Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Thompson, 508 S. Phelps, marked her 12th birthday Nov. 2 at a festive dinner for the immediate family. A further celebration Sunday brought many of her friends to the Thompson home for cake and ice cream followed by a trip to Beverly Lanes for an afternoon of bowling. Grand prize went to Cindy Straub with lesser awards for Missy Shields, Pam Johnson, Linda Richardson, Patsy Truelove and Bonnie May.

THE DINNER party hosted Sunday by the Robert Hoffmans, 537 S. Phelps, was in honor of the fifth birthday of their son, Doug. Guests were Doug's grandmother, Mrs. Florence Osborne, and several aunts and uncles who came from Rockford to join the birthday boy's parents and brothers, Bobby and Brad.

Debby Kunz, who had a birthday Nov. 1, has given up competing with Halloween as a cause celebre and settled on having her friend, Kris Knutsen, in for dinner as well as having her grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Kunz of Elmwood Park, over for the day. Birthday cake and coffee encored Saturday evening with the arrival of close family friends, the James Haanels of Arlington Heights.

Debby is the 12-year-old daughter of the Robert Kunzes, 505 S. Forrest.

Ray Kleinhuizen, 512 S. Phelps, was offered congratulations on his Oct. 6 birthday at a quiet family dinner Sunday. (A

Women Voters Will Hear Talk On Government

The concept of local government, structure of government in Illinois, and municipal services will be discussed at the local League of Women Voters general meeting.

THE MEETING will be at 9:15 a.m. November 16 in the Congregational Church, Kirchoff and Kennicott, Arlington Heights. Babysitting facilities are available.

Mrs. Bill Marier and Mrs. Frank Psota, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Tom Lunak, Des Plaines, will lead discussion. They are members of the metropolitan study committee of the Arlington Heights League.

THE COMMITTEE is taking an overall look at planning in the Chicago metropolitan region. They hope to be able after a two-year study to determine if there is a need for coordinated planning.

Unit meetings in May will finish the study. Other members of the committee are Mrs. George Schroeder, chairman, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Roger Tobin, Des Plaines.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

There was a family celebration at the Duane Krolls', 918 N. Chicago, on Nov. 6 to honor Garin who was 4.

Houseguests of the John Collins at 818 N. Harvard are Mary's mother, Mrs. Behrens, and her grandmother, Mrs. Lyall, both of New York. They are here for a short stay. Besides visiting with the family, they celebrated Cathleen's second birthday Nov. 6 and are getting acquainted with their newest grandchild and great-grandchild, Lisa Ann.

On Oct. 29, a few friends of Marcy Michalski and her sister, Margot, were her luncheon guests for her fourth birthday celebration. Marcy is the daughter of the Richard Michalskis, 1008 N. Illinois.

THE RICHARD Andrews of 941 N. Salem took their boys into Chicago for a day on the town to celebrate Greg's 12th birthday Oct. 30. One of their stops was to visit the Field Museum.

A recent guest of the Andrews was Dick's cousin, John Andrew of Chicago, who just returned from a European trip.

The John Morrisons, 803 N. Harvard, recently attended a party in Des Plaines given in honor of their grandson, John Morrison, who entered the Marine Corps.

Betty and Arthur Hughes and their daughter, Deedee, of 647 N. Kaspar were guests of Arthur's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harmon of Chicago, at a performance of the Ice Follies on Nov. 3. It was a belated birthday treat for Deedee from her aunt and uncle.

A family celebration was held at 1120 W. Northwest Hwy. on Nov. 6 when Susan, daughter of the Richard Adams, was 2. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard McGuire of Arlington Heights.

At 1615 W. Oakton on Nov. 4, a family celebration took place in honor of the Walter Nystroms' son, Paul, for his 14th birthday. Celebrants included his grandfather, Walter Nystrom, and an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walk, all of Melrose Park.

THE PHILIP Reshegers' daguther, Penny, celebrated her sixth birthday Oct. 22. Guests for the occasion at 807 N. Kennicott included her sisters, Pam and Patti, Joyce Mills, Shari Argust, Marilyn Eitemiller and Lisa Jo Etherton.

Grandparents, aunts and uncles arrived at the Joseph Ruanes', 949 N. Ridge, on Oct. 16 to celebrate Sharon's first birthday.

The Robert Schmidts' daughter, Lisa, celebrated her fourth birthday Oct. 8 at 1011 N. Harvard with her brother, Robert, grandmother, Mrs. Janet Hamming of Chicago, aunts Mrs. Fern Schmidt of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Jean Frey of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Elaine Bridge of Northbrook, and cousins, Carrie, Billy and Cathy Schmidt, Lynn and Tommy Frey, Kim and Bobbie Dore and Cheryl, Susan and Bobbie Bridger.

A family get-together was held at the Walter Schulers', 926 N. Kennicott, on Oct. 29 in honor of their son, Russ, who turned 3. Guests included his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schuler Sr. of Wheeling and Mrs. Delia Berlin of Palatine, plus aunts, uncles and cousins.

Sympathy is extended to Joseph Ruane, 949 N. Ridge, on the recent death of his father, Mr. Philip Ruane.

FROM SHERWOOD

Sunday, at 6 p.m., the Vance Voorhees of 1300 W. Clarendon were watching TV to get a glimpse of their daughter, Sue, a cheerleader at Elmhurst College, which was featured on the program "Campus."

The Raymond Collins family of 1010 W. Clarendon left Nov. 3 for a weekend trip to Atchison, Kan., to see their daughter, Jean, and attend Parents' Week at Mount St. Scholastica College.

Michigan State University in East Lansing was the destination of the Robert Jakubiecs of 1014 Watling Road on Nov. 4. Mary Lou and Jim attend college there. Most important reason for their going was for Dad's Day celebrated by the Delta Gamma Sorority. Highlight of the weekend was Dad being treated to dinner and a Powder Puff football game.

ARTHUR TRAVERS' family welcomed him back at 1115 N. Yale recently, upon his return from a trip around the world. On a business trip, he was gone 2½ weeks but covered a good bit of territory. Stops included Paris, France, Naples and Rome, four days in Istanbul, Behruit, Lebanon, New Delhi, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Osaka, Nagoya, Tokyo and Seattle.

Newcomers to Sherwood are Judy and Robert Fivian and their baby, Karen, 2½ months old. Formerly of Minneapolis, Mr. Fivian is with Bache and Co. and a member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

1112 N. Princeton is the new address of Betty and Merrill Clark, formerly of Des Plaines. Mr. Clark teaches biology at Prospect High School. (A

Modern Etiquette

Q. Should a businesswoman rise to greet a man who enters her office, and she is already talking with someone else?

A. This depends upon circumstances. If seated at her desk with others around her, she would be unlikely to rise, but would merely motion to an empty chair. If, however, all are seated casually, she could rise, shake hands, introduce him, motion him to a chair, then reseat herself.

Q. At which side of a person seated at a dinner table are the beverages placed, filled, and removed?

A. At his right.

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Mary O'Leary CL 9-3827 Maryann Buczek CL 5-5033

As the autumn vacationers among the Sidelighters return from their journeys, they bring with them accounts of their good times abroad. Meanwhile, they and we look to see what has been happening on the local scene during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carns, 106 Stratford, are home following a jaunt through Europe which lasted about five weeks. They and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kean of Los Angeles, flew overseas the last week in September and began their tour through the continent. The Carnses seemed to think that their method of touring Europe afforded them the best opportunity possible to see the people and the countryside, as well as the traditional tourist attractions. The foursome did most of their sightseeing and traveling throughout Europe by car—through England, Scotland, Amsterdam, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and France—and flew home from Paris two weeks ago.

ALSO RETURNED recently from a trip to Europe are Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones, 215 S. Stratford. Mrs. Jones accompanied her husband on what was, for both of them, a first trip to Europe. Included in their three-week itinerary were five days in Paris, five days in Amsterdam, three days in London and visits to Rome, Milan, Stockholm and Germany. They returned a week ago, having paid a series of pleasant visits to all of the tourist "musts" in Europe.

Participating in a unique travel program are Mr. and Mrs. G. Baumet, 102 Derbyshire, who returned Sunday night from a brief jaunt to Nassau in the Bahamas, which was arranged by Prop Set, a flying group which sponsors, throughout the year, a number of short vacations within and outside of the United States.

The parents of William Forestell are currently visiting in the Forestell home at 122 S. Brighton. Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Forestell, from Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, plan to stay about a week.

MR. AND MRS. Eugene St. John recently returned from a 10 day vacation trip to Pierre Verde Island, off the coast of Florida. They drove down to visit relatives and during the two days they spent on the road, sights that most impressed them included Chattanooga's Lookout Mountain and a tourist favorite, Busch Gardens in Tampa.

While the St. Johns were in Florida, the Peter Ericksens of 5 W. Orchard took a week's vacation to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. James Graves of 910 S. Dunton accompanied the Ericksons on the trip to Jamaica. The two couples enjoyed a raft trip down the Rio Grande, then on to their last stop at Montego Bay, where they stayed in the atmospheric Ocho Rios (Eight Rivers) Plantation Inn.

JUST FOR A vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Humbold took the popular auto trip through the historic areas of the eastern United States. They were gone for 10 days and toured Gettysburg, Williamsburg, Washington, D.C., and Monticello.

Vacations seem to be a popular activity this month. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mueller also took a two-week trip to Florida and Virginia, first stopping at Gibson's Island, Md., just 10 miles from Annapolis.

As the Muellers are attracted to museums and historical sights they spent a few days touring the area, then it was back to the road for the trip to Tampa.

AFTER BRIEF stops in Charlottesville, Savannah and St. Augustine, the Muellers visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reitmeyer in Tampa. The Reitmeyers are former residents of S. Mitchell in Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sesterhenn of 316 W. Hawthorne have just returned from a trip west. First stop was Denver, then on to Oakland and San Francisco, where they visited a niece and family. They also went to San Diego to see Mr. Sesterhenn's brother, and back to Los Angeles for a tour of Disneyland. On the way back they stopped in Las Vegas and were fortunate in having sunny weather the entire time.

The Stephen Jurco family had very important guests in their home. Madame Subilackshmi of India, with her husband and two daughters, stayed with the Jurcos for three days last week, during her first visit to the United States.

Madame Subilackshmi came to this country as part of a United Nations annual international cultural program presented for 2,000 people in the State Department Auditorium. She is India's foremost vocal artist with the further distinction of having been Mahatma Gandhi's favorite vocalist.

EARLY LAST week Madame Subilackshmi and her family stayed with the Jurcos while she gave concerts at the Illinois Institute of Technology. She travels with an accompanying troup of five musicians and several other performers who also stayed in Arlington Heights last week.

Last weekend Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keller enjoyed a visit from the Paul Welters of Elkhart, Ind., former high school friends. The Kellers' daughter, Kathy, was home from Drake University, too.

M. Hermann, father of Mrs. William C. Klingenmaier, visited his daughter and her husband recently. Mr. Hermann was here from Panama, where he lives with his son for part of each year. While he was here Mrs. Klingenmaier gave a surprise party for his 80th birthday and all of Mr. Hermann's old friends were invited.

Greetings went to Robert Letzel, 1237 N. Chestnut, on his Nov. 7 birthday.

The William Bennets had their new baby christened last week in Faith Lutheran Church, after which they entertained at a family party. (A

Notes from Arlington Acres

The recreation room in the Carl Schmidt home, 515 S. Gibbons, might better be called a trophy room, as each of Carl's hunting expeditions brings its own share of mementos to add to his collection. Latest additions are the antlers of a deer and an antelope bagged on a recent trip to Caribou Lodge in the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Retzlaff, 2116 E. Gregory, took note of Paul's Oct. 18 birthday and the Nov. 1 birthday of their son, David, when they drove to Akron, Ind., over a recent weekend to be with the senior Retzlaffs for the celebration.

More recently they entertained Helen's sister and brother-in-law, the William Shaws of Markham, for dinner and to hear about the Shaws' six-month tour of Europe and their prolonged visit to Inverness, Scotland, where Mr. Shaw was born and grew up.

MISSING FROM the family get-togethers was Elizabeth Retzlaff, who writes that she is starting her term of practice teaching in a high school in Hobart, Ind. Elizabeth, a senior at Valparaiso University, has been nominated for a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Runge, 525 S. Phelps, were married 10 years Nov. 3. They celebrated quietly at home with the senior Mrs. Runge as a dinner guest.

Sharon Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Thompson, 508 S. Phelps, marked her 12th birthday Nov. 2 at a festive dinner for the immediate family. A further celebration Sunday brought many of her friends to the Thompson home for cake and ice cream followed by a trip to Beverly Lanes for an afternoon of bowling. Grand prize went to Cindy Straub with lesser awards for Missy Shields, Pam Johnson, Linda Richardson, Patsy Truelove and Bonnie May.

THE DINNER party hosted Sunday by the Robert Hoffmans, 537 S. Phelps, was in honor of the fifth birthday of their son, Doug. Guests were Doug's grandmother, Mrs. Florence Osborne, and several aunts and uncles who came from Rockford to join the birthday boy's parents and brothers, Bobby and Brad.

Debby Kunz, who had a birthday Nov. 1, has given up competing with Halloween as a cause celebre and settled on having her friend, Kris Knutsen, in for dinner as well as having her grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Kunz of Elmwood Park, over for the day. Birthday cake and coffee encored Saturday evening with the arrival of close family friends, the James Haanels of Arlington Heights.

Debby is the 12-year-old daughter of the Robert Kunzes, 505 S. Forrest.

Ray Kleinhuizen, 512 S. Phelps, was offered congratulations on his Oct. 6 birthday at a quiet family dinner Sunday. (A

Women Voters Will Hear Talk On Government

The concept of local government, structure of government in Illinois, and municipal services will be discussed at the local League of Women Voters general meeting.

THE MEETING will be at 9:15 a.m. November 16 in the Congregational Church, Kirchoff and Kennicott, Arlington Heights. Babysitting facilities are available.

Mrs. Bill Marier and Mrs. Frank Psota, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Tom Lunak, Des Plaines, will lead discussion. They are members of the metropolitan study committee of the Arlington Heights League.

THE COMMITTEE is taking an overall look at planning in the Chicago metropolitan region. They hope to be able after a two-year study to determine if there is a need for coordinated planning.

Unit meetings in May will finish the study. Other members of the committee are Mrs. George Schroeder, chairman, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Roger Tobin, Des Plaines.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

The Terrace bids farewell to Joe and Dorothy Clavin and daughter, Katy. The Clavins moved Wednesday from 1247 N. Wilke to Wilmette. They were original Terrace residents and lived in their Wilke Road home for more than 12 years.

Traveling to Washington, D. C., last week on a combined business and pleasure trip were Al and Rosemary Shellander, 1716 W. Olive. They left Monday. Al attended a three-day paint technology convention; Rosemary went on a sightseeing tour and did some shopping. On the way home, they visited Al's sister and family, the Hugh Cowdins, in their new home in Pittsburgh.

While their parents were away, Tom, Mary and Margaret Shellander visited their grandparents, the Walter Jonases in Lake Geneva; Nancy and Jim went to Fond du Lac to be with their aunt and uncle, the David Floods. The family returned home Sunday.

JERRY AND Nancy Pollard and children, Paula and Bradley, 1400 N. Yale, spent Sunday at Starved Rock. Nancy's parents, the Francis Cooks of Barrington, were on a camping trip at the park and invited the Pollards to spend the day with them.

Nov. 1 was the second birthday of Kathy Gasser, daughter of the Ronald Gassers, 1255 N. Chicago. Kathy celebrated with her parents and brothers, Tommy and Michael.

Beverly Malinka, daughter of the Clem Malinkas, 1239 N. Race, was 6 Nov. 3. She celebrated with a party attended by Marcia and Marty Krueger, Kathy and Susie Chernesky, Peter and Heather Jessen, and a Prospect Heights friend, Alex Mueller. Mothers of her guests were also present.

Driving to Joliet Sunday to spend the day with their son, Ronald, and family were the Werner Beckers, 1440 N. Race.

THE BARTON Barrows, 1244 N. Illinois, celebrated his birthday Oct. 19. The special dinner ended up being served in front of the TV set, as Barton is an avid hockey fan, and a game was scheduled for that evening.

Spending the weekend in Oshkosh were Rich and Judy Koopman and children, Ricky and Amy, 1216 N. Chicago. They visited Judy's parents, the Richard Mangolds.

Pat Van de Merkt, daughter of the Eugene Van de Merkts, 1231 N. Wilke, will celebrate her 18th birthday away from home Saturday. She is a student at Central College in Pella, Ia. Her mother is having a cake delivered to Pat's dorm so she can celebrate with her dorm friends.

THE DON Kennedy family visited the Bernard Rosers, 1447 N. Race, on Saturday. The Kennedys, former Terrace residents, now live in Aurora.

Nov. 8 was the third birthday of Debbie Grabe, daughter of the Donald Grabes, 1425 N. Chicago. She celebrated at a family party Sunday. Also present were her aunt, uncles and cousins, the Robert Doessel family of Streamwood and Fred Grabe, Jr. and children.

All four members of the Jack Gleeson family, 1239 N. Illinois, have birthdays between Oct. 28 to Nov. 9. They celebrated at a family party Sunday. Vicki Gleeson was 4 Nov. 9; Marc was 3 Oct. 28; Jack and Debbie just state that their birthdays are Oct. 29 and Nov. 4, respectively. Relatives present were the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Mackenroth of Glenview, and three aunts and an uncle and their families.

Symphonia Performs at St. Viator

A classical presentation of the beauty of stringed instruments was given last week at St. Viator High School by the Chicago Symphonia.

The Symphonia, conducted by Russell Harvey, consisted of 10 violins, two cellos, and one base fiddle. The 14 members of the symphonia are also members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Performed were pieces by Handel, Bach, Vivaldi, Gillis and Ganz. Pianist Doris Frederickson gave a solo of a Mozart concerto.

The one-hour performance marked the Symphonia's second appearance at St. Viator. (11Y

Individual Speech Events Described

By JOY ANDRUP

Individual Speech Events at Prospect High School consists of students participating in a series of contests from November to May. The Illinois High School Speech Association sponsors the program.

The ten speech events in which students participate may be broken down into several groups. Dramatic events include serious and comedy play reading. Prose and verse reading are considered oral interpretation.

Forensics includes original oratory, radio speaking, extemporaneous speaking, oratorical declamation and after-dinner speaking. The remaining field is original monologue.

Ten to 20 schools participate in a contest. A speaker takes part in three rounds of his event. Points are then given to the speaker according to the quality of his presentation. Awards are than given to individuals and schools.

SENIOR PARTICIPANTS are Greg Schmidt, Dave Hunter, Joe Boerman, Ken O'Dell and Sue Courtney, Representing the juniors are Pam Baker, Linda Marwedel, Dan O'Keefe and Frank Psota.

Participating sophomores are Lynne Hedke, Donna Hutchings, Mary Hutchings, Jacquie Luke, Chuck Hunter and Dave Hoppe. Freshmen who have expressed an interest are Pat McGrath, Diane May, Marilyn Bryant, Terri Lederleitner, Linda Williams, Christine Robinson, Beverly Gliege, Dan Ashley and Karen Bierdeman.

Counselors' Trips To Aid Students

By NANCY PONTONI

Two counselors from Prospect High School have recently made trips that will benefit many of their college-bound students.

In October, Clarence Feiereisel attended the meetings of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB), held in New York. The purpose of the CEEB is to create uniformity in college admission procedures.

Part of the program consisted of a panel of six college students who discussed the good and bad points of present college admission procedures in general. This panel agreed that a student should visit the college before deciding whether or not to apply to it.

THE ISSUES VOTED on by the CEEB members attending were the dates of the various college entrance exams for 1967-68; a resolution against racial discrimination in colleges and the use of computors to tell which colleges a student would be best suited for by analyzing personality and intelligence test scores. The latter was not passed.

David Lindemann, college counselor at Prospect, joined several other counselors from this area on a trip to Annapolis, Md., to meet with the Naval Academy officials. The purpose of their trip was to find out exactly what they are looking for in prospective students.

Prospect Debaters Launch the Season

By MARY HUTCHINGS

Prospect High School debaters on the varsity, junior varsity and novice levels are attending their first tournaments of the season during the first weeks of November at area high schools and colleges.

The high school debate proposition is: Resolved: That the foreign aid program of the United States should be limited to nonmilitary assistance.

On Nov. 5, the varsity squad, under the guidance of Harold McNabb, traveled to Carthage College. Defending the proposition were juniors Dan Jackson and Dan O'Keefe, and seniors Greg Schmidt and David Hunter argued the negative side of the question. The same team will participate in four rounds of traditional debate at Northern Illinois University Saturday.

THE JUNIOR varsity squads will open their season on Nov. 12 and 19. One team, which consists of four debaters, will travel to Niles West; the next week, another team will debate at Evanston High School. Miss Helen McGuigan, their coach, has not yet announced who will attend these tournaments.

Charles Heller, novice debate coach, has been working with his beginning debaters, explaining to them the essentials of debate. Bob Karlicek, David Stitt, Dan Ashley and Ron Herman are preparing for their first tournament on Nov. 12 at Niles West High School.

On Nov. 19, Lyons Township High School will host a tournament for novices only.

The same four boys will debate at the Nov. 19 tournament. In addition, Marsha Ashley and Jean Meihsner will argue the affirmative, and Christine Robinson and Shari McGinn will speak for the negative.

Backing up the novice negatives are freshmen Dane Hartley and Bill Hutton. (16Y

Four Named To District Band Groups

By CAROLE CAMERON

Four members of Prospect High School's Symphonic Band have been chosen to participate in the All-District Band and Orchestra.

Selected for participation in the All-District Band were seniors James R. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Johnson, 312 N. Elmhurst; Bill Doolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Doolan, 512 N. Prospect Manor; and Colleen Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mojzis, 711 Forest. All are from Mount Prospect.

Eric Nielson, 210 N. Owen, Mount Prospect, has been chosen for the All-District Orchestra.

Selected on the basis of a recommendation from their band directors, they are now eligible for the All-State Band and Orchestra audition to be held on November 19 at Downers Grove South High School.

Symphonia Performs at St. Viator

A classical presentation of the beauty of stringed instruments was given last week at St. Viator High School by the Chicago Symphonia.

The Symphonia, conducted by Russell Harvey, consisted of 10 violins, two cellos, and one base fiddle. The 14 members of the symphonia are also members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Performed were pieces by Handel, Bach, Vivaldi, Gillis and Ganz. Pianist Doris Frederickson gave a solo of a Mozart concerto.

The one-hour performance marked the Symphonia's second appearance at St. Viator. (11Y

Individual Speech Events Described

By JOY ANDRUP

Individual Speech Events at Prospect High School consists of students participating in a series of contests from November to May. The Illinois High School Speech Association sponsors the program.

The ten speech events in which students participate may be broken down into several groups. Dramatic events include serious and comedy play reading. Prose and verse reading are considered oral interpretation.

Forensics includes original oratory, radio speaking, extemporaneous speaking, oratorical declamation and after-dinner speaking. The remaining field is original monologue.

Ten to 20 schools participate in a contest. A speaker takes part in three rounds of his event. Points are then given to the speaker according to the quality of his presentation. Awards are than given to individuals and schools.

SENIOR PARTICIPANTS are Greg Schmidt, Dave Hunter, Joe Boerman, Ken O'Dell and Sue Courtney, Representing the juniors are Pam Baker, Linda Marwedel, Dan O'Keefe and Frank Psota.

Participating sophomores are Lynne Hedke, Donna Hutchings, Mary Hutchings, Jacquie Luke, Chuck Hunter and Dave Hoppe. Freshmen who have expressed an interest are Pat McGrath, Diane May, Marilyn Bryant, Terri Lederleitner, Linda Williams, Christine Robinson, Beverly Gliege, Dan Ashley and Karen Bierdeman.

Counselors' Trips To Aid Students

By NANCY PONTONI

Two counselors from Prospect High School have recently made trips that will benefit many of their college-bound students.

In October, Clarence Feiereisel attended the meetings of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB), held in New York. The purpose of the CEEB is to create uniformity in college admission procedures.

Part of the program consisted of a panel of six college students who discussed the good and bad points of present college admission procedures in general. This panel agreed that a student should visit the college before deciding whether or not to apply to it.

THE ISSUES VOTED on by the CEEB members attending were the dates of the various college entrance exams for 1967-68; a resolution against racial discrimination in colleges and the use of computors to tell which colleges a student would be best suited for by analyzing personality and intelligence test scores. The latter was not passed.

David Lindemann, college counselor at Prospect, joined several other counselors from this area on a trip to Annapolis, Md., to meet with the Naval Academy officials. The purpose of their trip was to find out exactly what they are looking for in prospective students.

Prospect Debaters Launch the Season

By MARY HUTCHINGS

Prospect High School debaters on the varsity, junior varsity and novice levels are attending their first tournaments of the season during the first weeks of November at area high schools and colleges.

The high school debate proposition is: Resolved: That the foreign aid program of the United States should be limited to nonmilitary assistance.

On Nov. 5, the varsity squad, under the guidance of Harold McNabb, traveled to Carthage College. Defending the proposition were juniors Dan Jackson and Dan O'Keefe, and seniors Greg Schmidt and David Hunter argued the negative side of the question. The same team will participate in four rounds of traditional debate at Northern Illinois University Saturday.

THE JUNIOR varsity squads will open their season on Nov. 12 and 19. One team, which consists of four debaters, will travel to Niles West; the next week, another team will debate at Evanston High School. Miss Helen McGuigan, their coach, has not yet announced who will attend these tournaments.

Charles Heller, novice debate coach, has been working with his beginning debaters, explaining to them the essentials of debate. Bob Karlicek, David Stitt, Dan Ashley and Ron Herman are preparing for their

On Nov. 19, Lyons Township first tournament on Nov. 12 at Niles West High School.

High School will host a tournament for novices only.

The same four boys will debate at the Nov. 19 tournament. In addition, Marsha Ashley and Jean Meihsner will argue the affirmative, and Christine Robinson and Shari McGinn will speak for the negative.

Backing up the novice negatives are freshmen Dane Hartley and Bill Hutton. (16Y

Four Named To District Band Groups

By CAROLE CAMERON

Four members of Prospect High School's Symphonic Band have been chosen to participate in the All-District Band and Orchestra.

Selected for participation in the All-District Band were seniors James R. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Johnson, 312 N. Elmhurst; Bill Doolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Doolan, 512 N. Prospect Manor; and Colleen Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mojzis, 711 Forest. All are from Mount Prospect.

Eric Nielson, 210 N. Owen, Mount Prospect, has been chosen for the All-District Orchestra.

Selected on the basis of a recommendation from their band directors, they are now eligible for the All-State Band and Orchestra audition to be held on November 19 at Downers Grove South High School.

Exchange Students A Double Blessing

by TERRY MALONE

Every year Arlington High School students eagerly await the arrival of the new foreign exchange student. This year, however, AHS was doubly blessed by receiving two foreign students, Katerina Kaludi from Greece, and Mike Paelmo from the Philippines.

Katerina, called Kathy, arrived from Athens the second week of August. She is living with Senior Ruth Dougan and her family.

Kathy transferred from First Lykiom of Athens. "In my country, school is much different," she said.

"We study 14 subjects six days a week. We don't have school-sponsored activities although different classes plan things. Lst year, our class had lectures and things."

ENGLISH presents no problem to the affluent Kathy. She studied English at a language conservatory for two years.

"It was really fun because there were students of all different ages there. I am surprised that I can understand anything," she confided, "because I never opened a book the whole time I was there!"

"So many times I go to say something, I try to find the right word and can't. This is my biggest problem!" she continued. Kathy said that it is harder to learn a language if you try to translate everything you say. You have to learn to think in the language.

Kathy quickly adjusted to the customs and way of life here. "At first, I was homesick," she admitted. Kathy is very close to her family. Because of the air line strike, she received no letters her first few weeks here. "It was awful!" she said.

"But the first day of school, when I felt so lost, I came home and found five letters!" she continued.

She likes the food here. Ruth reported that one day Kathy ate six desserts. "I have gained already five pounds," she confided. "By the time I leave this country, I will have gained 50 pounds!"

Kathy said that she is afraid that people feel uncomfortable with her because she is a foreign exchange student. "I would really like to meet the kids. Just because I am an AFS student, people think I am a good student only. I am not always myself with them because they are uncomfortable with me."

MIKE PAELMO definitely looked like himself while he was being interviewed. (Well, at least he looked comfortable.) He was surrounded by five girls.

Michael Navarro Paelmo, of Paife, Laguna, Philippines, came to Arlington Heights August 6. He is staying with junior Dave Palmatier and his family.

Mike is a high school grad at age 16, without skipping any school. "In my country, we have no junior high," he explained. "Philippine school systems require only six years of the elementary and four years of the high school."

Mike is the third youngest member of a family of ten boys and girls. "We are Catholic!" he laughed. "There are only four children in the Palmatier family, so it is a little different."

When asked if he was homesick, he replied: "Would you believe 'no'?"

Mike was selected as a foreign exchange student after passing three sets of interviews and tests. "They asked many questions and picked me," he said.

Although there is a great difference in the languages of the two countries, Mike says that he has no problems with English. "I studied English for five years first. I have no trouble with words, but I have much trouble remembering names," he confessed. (16Y

An Editorial

1966 and the Draft

(High School Highlights editorials reflect the majority opinion of the Highlights staff after much discussion and research, if needed. This editorial was written by Sharon Orchard of Palatine High School.)

The year is 1966. The place is Anywhere, U.S.A. The scene is a teenage marriage. The reason? The draft.

The year, 1966. The place, Anywhere, U.S.A. The scene, a high school senior trying to decide whether to begin college in the fall. The reason? The draft.

These are the possible alarming results of a draft system, which if continued, will result in thousands of young men uneducated for our present world and thousands of "war babies" similar to those born in the 1940s.

What is the solution? The best one, it seems to us, is to limit the draft to those young men who have completed their formal education, who are over 21 and who are childless—unless they themselves choose to go.

BY NOT BEING DRAFTED until after his formal education is finished, the young man is given an all-important chance to develop his mind, to contribute in whatever way he can during his formative years. That it may all be wasted by a Viet Cong bullet is not as important as the fact that everyone should have the chance to reach his full potential through the early formal education that he wants.

And this chance may never come unless the opportunity is taken before one is drafted. Afterwards, he may not want to spend those four years in college when he is older and can see an immediate income before him. College may then seem unnecessary.

Or, again, the young man may never return from his "tour of duty." Either way, he loses an education which, in our fast-paced world, is imperative to every American citizen.

Therefore, we believe that the draft should be saved for those men over 21 years of age, at least until the supply of over 21 males is exhausted.

LASTLY, WE believe the draft should be kept, not only for the unmarried because many young people get married to "beat the draft," but also for the childless married men .It takes more time to give the draft boards evidence of young dependents than it does to give evidence of a wife and it is also more expensive.

There is a theory that military duty clears the streets of "troublemakers" and turns young boys into fine young men, molding their characters, and their minds. But is that the purpose of our armed forces—a playpen in which to keep unruly 18-year-olds, where they can learn to "behave" before they enter into the great big game of life?

Service in the armed forces is a serious business, and we believe the early draft would impede the mental growth of many young men before they have a chance to reach their full potential.

Palatine Lettermen In New Lair

by CHRISTI EBERT

Choose any letterman, follow him down the main corridor, around the corner into the gym, across the left shelf, and through the first set of doors off to the left, and you're there: the new Palatine High lettermen's lounge.

From all four white walls gleam various impressive plaques and trophies. The Golden Helmet, presented to the 1965 football team by the Coca-Cola Co., a picture of the same team, photographs of wrestling champs, and numerour plaques from 1935 to today, represent Palatine's fine tradition.

TO COMPLETE the picture of the transformed weight room, look under the mats and cushions covering the freshly painted floor. In the middle of a bright red field of cement lies a huge, proud P. Chairs and lettermen add the final touch.

Now the newly elected president of the Lettermen's Club, Wayne Render, has a spot to hold meetings. Bill Gill, vice president; Bob Young, secretary; and John Ekeberg, treasurer, will assist in leading the club of 40, which includes 10 new members.

The athletes joining this fall are Dick Smith, Al Bisantz, Dick Meister, Hugh Frey, Brian Trent, Phil Samuels, Howie Tuttle, Dennis Denton, Doug Sheldon and Bob Hoffman.

More lettermen will be initiated after the annual athletic banquet Tuesday in the Fremd cafeteria. Sponsored by Boosters, parents and friends of the athletes, awards and citations for performance in fall sports are made at this time.

Among the club's regular activities is the election of an athlete-of-the-month. Each coach nominates one athlete from his sport and writes something about him.

This write-up is read at the club meeting, and the lettermen vote for one nominee. The meetings are held the first Wednesday of each month.

To start the year, lettermen are selling 500 decals, 500 shield stickers for book covers, folders, etc., and 250 senior buttons, for 35 cents each.

"Profits from these sales will probably be used for a club banquet at the end of the year," said Wayne.

Education Week In Full Swing

by KAY FRANCE

The 1966 American Education Week is being observed throughout the nation and at Wheeling High School this week.

Sponsored by the American Legion, National Education Association and the U. S. Office of Education, this week of activities is focused on the objective of making the community, the parents and officials, as well as the teachers and students, more aware of the serious task of educating our citizens. It hopes to create a feeling that education encompasses more than an eight hour day.

Wheeling's Hostess Club is conducting guided tours throughout the school during the regular school day from 8:40 a.m.-3:40 p.m. Parents are visiting classes while in session, including the Special Education courses.

THE THEME this year is "Education Adds Up." Each day of the week has a special meaning. Topics for the week are "Human Dignity," "Rational Thinking," "Creative Spirit," "Self Reliance," "Economic Competence," "Informed Citizenship," and "Lifelong Opportunity."

The general theme of "Education Adds Up" emphasizes the necessity for education in an age of automation and change.

Morning announcements explain the special meaning for each day during the week at Wheeling.

Parents were urged to visit classes throughout the week, especially the special facilities available to the music and art classes, the practical and industrial arts, and the language and reading labs, according to Robert Sang, head of the Division of English and Fine Arts and chairman of A.E.W. at Wheeling.

Other faculty members on the A.E.W. committee are Miss Tamara Arbetman, Alan Aimone, Miss Janet Adams, Mrs. Elizabeth Loughrin, Lyle Grooters and Mrs. Halcyon Peters.

Parents interested in visiting W.H.S. yet this week are requested to report to the main office.

An Editorial

1966 and the Draft

(High School Highlights editorials reflect the majority opinion of the Highlights staff after much discussion and research, if needed. This editorial was written by Sharon Orchard of Palatine High School.)

The year is 1966. The place is Anywhere, U.S.A. The scene is a teenage marriage. The reason? The draft.

The year, 1966. The place, Anywhere, U.S.A. The scene, a high school senior trying to decide whether to begin college in the fall. The reason? The draft.

These are the possible alarming results of a draft system, which if continued, will result in thousands of young men uneducated for our present world and thousands of "war babies" similar to those born in the 1940s.

What is the solution? The best one, it seems to us, is to limit the draft to those young men who have completed their formal education, who are over 21 and who are childless—unless they themselves choose to go.

BY NOT BEING DRAFTED until after his formal education is finished, the young man is given an all-important chance to develop his mind, to contribute in whatever way he can during his formative years. That it may all be wasted by a Viet Cong bullet is not as important as the fact that everyone should have the chance to reach his full potential through the early formal education that he wants.

And this chance may never come unless the opportunity is taken before one is drafted. Afterwards, he may not want to spend those four years in college when he is older and can see an immediate income before him. College may then seem unnecessary.

Or, again, the young man may never return from his "tour of duty." Either way, he loses an education which, in our fast-paced world, is imperative to every American citizen.

Therefore, we believe that the draft should be saved for those men over 21 years of age, at least until the supply of over 21 males is exhausted.

LASTLY, WE believe the draft should be kept, not only for the unmarried because many young people get married to "beat the draft," but also for the childless married men .It takes more time to give the draft boards evidence of young dependents than it does to give evidence of a wife and it is also more expensive.

Honesty and Beauty In 'Ah, Wilderness'

"I Guess I'll Have To Telegraph My Baby," "Bedelia," "Waiting at the Church," and "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie."

These are typical songs that will flavor the 1906 setting of "Ah, Wilderness!" a three-act comedy to be presented at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 17, and 8 Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18 and 19 in Arlington High School's Little Theatre.

The creation of Nobel Prize winner Eugene O'Neill, "Ah, Wilderness!" stands in sharp contrast to darker, more dramatic works of the author such as "Long Day's Journey into Night," "Anna Christie," "The Hairy Ape," "Desire Under the Elms" and "Mourning Becomes Electra."

First presented by the Theatre Guild on Broadway in 1933, the original production of "Ah, Wilderness!" starred George M. Cohan as Nat Miller. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer brought the story to the screen in 1935 with Spring Byington, later known as Mrs. Miller in television's "December Bride." Mickey Rooney played 11-year-old Tommy Miller.

"TAKE ME ALONG," the musical comedy version of the play, became a vehicle for Jackie Gleason when it opened on Broadway in 1959. The role of Sid Davis was expanded into the lead role for Gleason. The lead role of Richard Miller was compressed so that Robert Morse, in that role, sang only one song.

Starred with Gleason in the musical version was Walter Pidgeon as Nat and Eileen Herlie as Nat's sister Lily. William Bendix starred in a Chicago production which played the Melody Top Theatre as a summer attraction.

Douglas K. Murphy, director of the Arlington High production, stated that "O'Neill, in this play, writes honestly and beautifully about things that are so commonplace that few writers can express them truthfully and effectively. Television family relationships, for example, are usually reduced to an absurdity."

The 15-member cast of "Ah, Wilderness!" consists of five seniors, seven juniors, and three sophomores. "Audiences should find the cast interesting and refreshing," Murphy stated. "Several cast members are appearing for the first time in a play. Most of them who have been in plays have had only one small role prior to this show."

PRESIDING over the family is Nat Miller, owner of the "Evening Globe," played by Harry Tennant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Tennant, 119 S. Kaspar. Harry previously appeared as Cusins in "Major Barbara."

Harry's wife Essie is played by Nancy Harris, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Irvin T. Harris, 717 S. Belmont, who is making her first appearance in an Arlington play.

Patricia Smith, the most experienced member of the cast plays Nat's sister, Lily Miller. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Smith, 305 E. Euclid, Patricia's previous appearances include "Blithe Spirit," "The Philadelphia Story," "Bye, Bye, Birdie," and "The Admirable Crichton." She was an assistant to the director for "The Fantasticks" and appeared in the Capri Players' production of "The Women."

The lead role of Richard Miller, on whom the story focuses, will be played by Stephen Busch, son of Mrs. Betty K. Busch, 119 S. Evergreen. Stephen, a junior, previously appeared as Snobby Price in "Major Barbara." He was the assistant to the director for "Othello."

MILDRED MILLER, the 15-year-old daughter, will be played by senior Susan LeBeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack T. LeBeau, 906 N. Yale. Sue was a member of the chorus in last year's music department production of "Oklahoma!"

Arthur Miller, a Yale undergraduate, will be played by senior Stephen Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Clark, 921 N. Princeton. As a freshman, Steve appeared in a reader's theatre production of "Lord of the Flies." Other stage appearances at Arlington have included only musicals, "The Fantasticks," "Bye, Bye, Birdie," and "The Music Man."

Sid Davis, the role musicalized by Jackie Gleason, will be played by Curtis J. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, 1014 E. Marion. A sophomore, Curt was an understudy and actor in "The Admirable Crichton." He played a lead in "The Fantasticks."

Junior Robert Ekstrand, who plays Tommy Miller, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Ekstrand, 914 N. Princeton. Robert's only other appearance in a play was unusual in that he only touched the floor for the curtain call.

In "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," Robert, as the seriously ill son of a frontiersman, was held by his father during the entire time he was onstage.

SENIOR CATHY Ford, as Nora, is making her second appearance in an Arlington play as a maid. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ford, 830 S. Mitchell.

As Belle, Candace Gerts, a junior, is a newcomer to the Arlington stage. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wolter, 1523 N. Harvard. Another newcomer to Arlington plays is Cindy Johnson, a junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Johnson, 415 E. Grove.

Appearing in minor leads after brief appearances in "The Admirable Crichton" are John St. Germaine and James Mayhercy. John, who plays a bartender, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. St. Germaine, 913 E. Frederick. A sophomore, Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Mayhercy, 230 S. Reuter Drive.

Junior Robert Kindler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kindler, 630 N. Dunton, portrays David McComber, a dry goods merchant. Robert's previous appearance was in "The Fantasticks."

SOPHOMORE David Ewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Ewart, 349 S. Bristol, makes his first stage appearance as Went Selby. For his role as a Yale student, David will appear in the Yale sweater worn by his father while a student at the university.

Tickets at $1 are now on sale by cast members and other students connected with the play. Although some tickets will be available at the door for all performances, Lyovonne Trad, faculty director of ticket sales and director of speech activities, recommends purchasing in advance because of the limited seating in the Arlington Little Theatre. In "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," Robert, as the seriously ill son of a frontiersman, was held by his father during the entire time he was onstage.

SENIOR CATHY Ford, as Nora, is making her second appearance in an Arlington play as a maid. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ford, 830 S. Mitchell.

As Belle, Candace Gerts, a junior, is a newcomer to the Arlington stage. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wolter, 1523 N. Harvard. Another newcomer to Arlington plays is Cindy Johnson, a junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Johnson, 415 E. Grove.

Appearing in minor leads after brief appearances in "The Admirable Crichton" are John St. Germaine and James Mayhercy. John, who plays a bartender, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. St. Germaine, 913 E. Frederick. A sophomore, Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Mayhercy, 230 S. Reuter Drive.

Junior Robert Kindler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kindler, 630 N. Dunton, portrays David McComber, a dry goods merchant. Robert's previous appearance was in "The Fantasticks."

SOPHOMORE David Ewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Ewart, 349 S. Bristol, makes his first stage appearance as Went Selby. For his role as a Yale student, David will appear in the Yale sweater worn by his father while a student at the university.

Tickets at $1 are now on sale by cast members and other students connected with the play. Although some tickets will be available at the door for all performances, Lyovonne Trad, faculty director of ticket sales and director of speech activities, recommends purchasing in advance because of the limited seating in the Arlington Little Theatre. High School Highlights

Donna Reigns in the Rain At Elk Grove Homecoming

by SHIRLEY SERINI

Joy and cheers were in order at the coronation assembly held last week in the Elk Grove High School gym. At the Thursday assembly, junior Donna Ellery was crowned the first Grenadier sweetheart.

Crowned in gold and draped in an elegant green velvet cape, Queen Donna led her court consisting of Leslie Lowing, Pat Hurley, Pat Mullen and Wendi McRae and their escorts in the queen's procession.

Each of the girls represented one of the five EGHS symbols. Donna Ellery represented the musket, Leslie Lowing the banner, Pat Hurley the saber, Pat Mullen the grenade and Wendi McRae the panache.

On Friday, the first pep rally was held. The cheerleaders started the rally off with the competition yell. Three Orchesis numbers were presented, along with speeches by varsity football coach Dick Mudge, Grenadier sweetheart Donna Ellery, and Dr. Donald Thomas, principal.

The juniors presented a skit about a kidnapped grenadier. The rally was brought to a close by the EGHS victory song.

IMMEDIATELY following the rally was the Varsity Club sock hop featuring entertainment by the Druids.

Elk Grove grid fans, braving rain and freezing weather, were well rewarded as the Varsity Grenadiers defeated the Fremd Vikings 7-0 in their first win of the season. The Grenadier sweetheart and her court reigned over the Homecoming game.

"La Fete du Bal," held Saturday from 8-11 p.m. in the cafeteria, was a French-inspired evening of fun and dance as the belles of Elk Grove and their escorts participated in the first EGHS semi-formal dance.

79 Named To Conant Honor Roll

Seventy-nine Conant High School students were named on the A honor roll of the first grading period of the 1966-1967 school. Named were 19 seniors, 12 juniors, 22 sophomores, and 26 freshmen who maintained a 4.50 grade average or higher.

They are as follows:

Class of 1968: David Olson, Dennis Biedrzycki, William Marthinsen, Linda Mayeda, James Quella, Alex Vasauskas, Robert Fullerton, Robin Gephart, Robert Majewski, William Peters, Peter Poltun, Joellen Schuller.

Class of 1969: Lorane Dick, Natalie Klemek, Laura Marcus, Malcolm Winkler, James Olson, Richard Borczak, Vicki Charleston, Roesia Gerstein, Bernard Roggenbuck, William Schlitzkus, Deborah Wheeler, Nancy Arnold, Arlene Castle, Lynn Churchill, Paula Culpepper, Michael Golubski, Judith Kroll, Elizabeth Lehman, Kathleen Linskey, Cynthia Payson, Kathleen Reynolds, Teri Taylor.

Class of 1970: Cynthia Crane, Norman Helsper, Linda Golec, Frank Hansen, Cherry Hicks, Peter Kirchhoff, Deborah Horsfall, Kristen Anderson, Joseph Baksha, Philip Bethke, Suzanne Cayez, John Diehl, Patricia Ferguson, Scott Fisher, Barbara Green, Jefferson Haag, Patricia Jann, Keith Kramer, Nancy Labno, Deborah Lucheck, Michelle Macy, Kathryn McCormick, Jan Mersman, Carol Robinson, Albert Roggenbuck, Kathleen Sheehy.

Faculty-Student Forum Held

Elk Grove High School held its first faculty-student forum in the Little Theatre last week. Dr. Donald Thomas, Elk Grove principal, Donald Fyfe, assistant principal and several members of the faculty presided over the open meeting.

Approximately 60 students attended. Smoking, detentions, and passing time between classes were the main topics discussed. (11Y

LSD: Thrill, Escape...Or Mistake?

by Terry Malone and Maryann Buczek

The following article includes a condensation of the results of a poll taken of junior and senior student opinion in some area high schools. This is not a Highlights editorial, but merely a sampling of student reactions.

LSD 25 was originally synthesized in 1938 by a Swiss biochemist looking for a pain killer for migraine headaches. By 1962 it had caused a national uproar, bringing with it a deluge of complications, both psychological and legal.

What is LSD, what are its effects and what are the opinions regarding it?

Lysergic acid diethylamide — colorless, odorless, and tasteless —is one of the most feared and demanded mental stimuli known to man. A dosage in micrograms given on a sugar cube is so potent that it can cause the user to lose rational control of his mind for a period averaging from eight to 12 hours. His mental processes speed up to such a degree of perception that he can barely keep up with them. All traces of existence surrounding him converge on his mind at one time, through all the senses, and completely overwhelm him with the appreciation of complex beauty.

Most teens have been told that LSD is nonhabit forming, but they are under the mistaken assumption that it is not at all dangerous to use. LSD can cause brain damage to those who are not mentally healthy, and the effects of taking LSD can reoccur at any time.

MOST AREA teens questioned through a student poll expected to see weird illusions or hallucinations as a result of taking LSD.

Some of them had read magazine or newspaper stories describing the effect of these drugs, and two had heard first-hand accounts.

One boy said he would like to paint or write while under the influence so that he could see the results after his experience was over. Another boy said that he was tired of liquor and expected a bigger thrill from drugs.

Thirteen per cent said they knew someone who was positively using drugs. Ten per cent more said they had heard that someone they knew used drugs.

Five per cent said they think a great majority of kids have taken drugs at some time. The other 95 per cent think that very few high school kids do so, but some college kids do because of greater pressures, strains and unhappiness. They believe that college kids have more freedom, more opportunities to get the drugs and more money.

Most of the group agreed that drugs are easily obtained if one really wants them. Only 12 per cent said they would know where to get LSD or marijuana but 80 per cent said they thought it would be easy to find someone who could tell them how to get it.

THE REASONS for using drugs ranged from . . . "to get a thrill," to "I'd like to get away from life." Most of those who would try the drugs would do so in order to experiment or because they had nothing better to do at the time. Most of them felt that under the influence of such drugs, they would "experience different things . . . a life that is not real and yet is reality." One senior girl thought she would experience beauty.

One boy explained it this way: "Lots of times I don't know what to do with myself; and if I had the chance, I think this type of thing would be kicks. I think a lot of kids take these drugs to escape from what they are or what they are supposed to be."

One senior girl said that in her opinion anyone who would take drugs for any reason would have to be a very weak character. She said that anyone who cannot take his life situation and face up to it should find some other way of getting professional help.

In essence, most people of our age seem to be afraid of drugs, but have read or heard so much about the attractiveness of the drugs that they want to experiment with these things in order to feel adult or important.

If such is the case, what is the basis of authoritative objection?

MAINLY, MOST adults have passed the age at which they are game to take on something of this sort. Timothy Leary, ex-Harvard professor and sponsor of LSD, feels that middle-aged Americans immediately relate drugs with disease, fiendishness, and instant insanity, while people under 25 relate it with revelation, ecstasy, sensual unfolding, religious experience, illumination, and contact with nature. LSD to them does not stick to the established rules of society, but it does offer the opportunity of life and experience to a degree far beyond that which any author can offer.

The dangers are there, but the problem is that they do not reveal themselves until it is often too late. LSD does not harm the stable person but it destroys the unstable. For those on the edge of mental instability, just a sliver away from being psychotic, LSD can be the breaking point. However, under proper circumstances, it can be used by psychiatrists as effective mental therapy. Thus the danger does not lie in LSD but in the individual.

Although some researchers claim that LSD has no value in diagnosis and little use in therapy, others claim that using the chemical is like putting the subject under a magnifying glass. Deeply buried aspects of a patient's personality are unmasked and problems he may have tried to hide become obvious.

The seemingly meaningless hallucinations are actually a short cut to the most relevant psychological reactions. LSD can be a most valuable tool for exploring the hidden facets of human psyche.

TWO OF THE major medical uses of LSD in experimental stages have been the treatment of alcoholism and schizophrenia. Schizophrenics have improved through daily supervised use of the drug and alcoholics have shown short-term improvement. The reason for the limited effect in these cases was the patients' reluctance to take the drug because of its black market reputation, which proved to be disturbing to the men.

It is an accepted fact in the medical profession that LSD should be administered only by an extremely confident and competent physician in a hospital.

The setting in which the treatment is administered is perhaps the most important single factor in the treatment.

No method of LSD therapeutic treatment has met with rigid scientific requirements, which include long term follow-up and comparison of patients receiving LSD with those undergoing the same treatment but without the drug.

The National Institution of Mental Health is supporting 13 grants which total nearly half a million dollars for studies of LSD in selected research centers.

These centers and a few state hospitals are the only places where the drug is available to doctors. At present, LSD is not accepted as a safe therapeutic tool by the psychiatric community.

Whether it ever will be depends on the outcome of the research now under way. (16Y

High School Highlights

Wheeling Play Rolls Tomorrow

Wheeling High School's fall play production, "Arsenic and Old Lace," will be presented Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 11 and 12, at 7:45 p.m.

The comedy-mystery is the story of two sisters, Abby and Martha Brewster, and their kindness toward lonely widowers. Instead of letting them live in misery, the two sisters neatly dispose of them with a little arsenic in their elderberry wine.

Also included in the plot are the spinsters' three brothers. One is a playwright, a second is a psychopathic criminal, and the third thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt.

DIRECTOR of the play is Mr. David Stiles. Student directors include Carolyn Perez, Prospect Heights, Janet Buerger, Wheeling, and Lynette Olson, Wheeling. Mr. Eric Lidh, the technical director, is in charge of the construction of scenery.

Cast members for the play are Marcia Taugner, Mt. Prospect, and Chris Hoffer, Mt. Prospect, as the two sisters, Abby and Martha; Scott Decker, Prospect Heights, the Rev. Dr. Harper; Clark Anderson, Wheeling, Teddy Brewster; Craig Taylor, Arlington Heights, Officer Brophy; Jim Kellogg, Prospect Heights, Officer Klein; and Margo Franklin, Elaine Harper, Wheeling.

Other characters are David Spung, Buffalo Grove, Mortimer Brewster; Jeff Soronsen, Prospect Heights, Mr. Gibbs; John Smart, Buffalo Grove, Jonathan Brewster; Bill Cason, Wheeling, Dr. Einstein; Mike McLean, Arlington Heights, Officer O'Hara; Lori Mitchell, Arlington Heights, Lt. Maud Rooney; and Garry Lovell, Arlington Heights, Mr. Witherspoon.

Tickets for the play will be on sale during the lunches in November. The cost is 75 cents for students and $1 for adults.

Prospect Band to Play At Montreal Exposition

By NANCY PONTONI

The Symphonic Band of Prospect High School has been chosen to represent the United States at the Canadian World Exposition (EXPO 67) in Montreal, Canada, on June 20, 1967.

The band will perform under the direction of Howard Sandlund, director of bands at Prospect, at the U.S. Pavillion as part of the special events program. Official notification of the band's selection came from the office of the U.S. Commissioner General. Approval for the trip from the Administrative Council of District 214 was passed last week.

Sandlund applied for this honor at the beginning of the school year. In order to be considered to play for the Exposition, he was required to submit to the screening committee an application, a professionally recorded tape of the band's playing, a suggested 30-minute program and a picture of the band.

SELECTIONS TO BE played for EXPO 67 are a John Philip Sousa march; "On The Trail" from the "Grand Canyon Suite" by Ferde Grofa; selections from "West Side Story" by Leonard Bernstein; "Buglers Holiday" by Leroy Anderson; "Dixie" by Morton Gould, and "America, The Beautiful" by Samual Ward and Carmen Dragon.

This particular program was selected by Sandlund because he felt that, if they were chosen to represent the United States, they should play the music of outstanding American composers. Also, the music was requested to be of a lighter nature.

EXPO 67 opens in Montreal on April 28 and will run until Oct. 27. Talent from 70 countries will perform. Taking part in the U.S. special events program will be bands, choirs, glee clubs, dance troups, gymnasts and orchestras.

Members of the Symphonic Band who will attend the world exposition are: Oboes- Linda Nash, Carolyn Kulick, Donn Valentine; piccolo-Becky Johns; Flutes-Deanna Sealock, Jan Enberg, Nancy Bornhoeft, Paula Moose, Laura Parkhurst, Beth Pohlmann, Lani Baehr, Marica Johns, Rosyln Dahlstrom, Mary Edwards, Char Kieffer; E-flat clarinet-Larry Bloom, Jean Ellis, Colleen Campbell, Carol Knechtal, Steve Ekrhardt, Kurt Schoenburg, Mike Smith, Frank Psota, Wade Abbot, Diane Long, Kathy McNeit, Wendy Bachhuber, Kathy Levon, Joyce Bootz, Connie Foster and Steve Larson, and bass clarinets-Dan Young and Christine Michela.

ALSO ATTENDING are: E-flat contralto clarinet-Becky McNabb; Bassoon-Barbara Hjelm; Alto saxaphone-Mike Kiermas and Terry Horler; Baritone saxophone-Dany Ray; French horns-Steve Beck, Bill Doolan and Jon Pohlman; Coronets and trumpets-James R. Johnson, Mark McRae, David Baxter, Roger Willis, Phil Freyman, Becky Wallies, Alan Soderstrom and Kim Stahnke; Trombones-James D. Johnson, Mike Chakoian, Greg Schmidt and Bill Barnes; bass- Paul Hoffman; String bass-Erick Nilsen; Percussion- Tom Blomquist, George Andoniadis and Glenn Bottje; Bells and mallets-Dean Stanley, and Tympani- Ed Neiweem.

The band members will finance the trips themselves. Final plans have not yet been made for the trip. (16Y

LSD: Thrill, Escape...Or Mistake?

by Terry Malone and Maryann Buczek

The following article includes a condensation of the results of a poll taken of junior and senior student opinion in some area high schools. This is not a Highlights editorial, but merely a sampling of student reactions.

LSD 25 was originally synthesized in 1938 by a Swiss biochemist looking for a pain killer for migraine headaches. By 1962 it had caused a national uproar, bringing with it a deluge of complications, both psychological and legal.

What is LSD, what are its effects and what are the opinions regarding it?

Lysergic acid diethylamide — colorless, odorless, and tasteless —is one of the most feared and demanded mental stimuli known to man. A dosage in micrograms given on a sugar cube is so potent that it can cause the user to lose rational control of his mind for a period averaging from eight to 12 hours. His mental processes speed up to such a degree of perception that he can barely keep up with them. All traces of existence surrounding him converge on his mind at one time, through all the senses, and completely overwhelm him with the appreciation of complex beauty.

Most teens have been told that LSD is nonhabit forming, but they are under the mistaken assumption that it is not at all dangerous to use. LSD can cause brain damage to those who are not mentally healthy, and the effects of taking LSD can reoccur at any time.

MOST AREA teens questioned through a student poll expected to see weird illusions or hallucinations as a result of taking LSD.

Some of them had read magazine or newspaper stories describing the effect of these drugs, and two had heard first-hand accounts.

One boy said he would like to paint or write while under the influence so that he could see the results after his experience was over. Another boy said that he was tired of liquor and expected a bigger thrill from drugs.

Thirteen per cent said they knew someone who was positively using drugs. Ten per cent more said they had heard that someone they knew used drugs.

Five per cent said they think a great majority of kids have taken drugs at some time. The other 95 per cent think that very few high school kids do so, but some college kids do because of greater pressures, strains and unhappiness. They believe that college kids have more freedom, more opportunities to get the drugs and more money.

Most of the group agreed that drugs are easily obtained if one really wants them. Only 12 per cent said they would know where to get LSD or marijuana but 80 per cent said they thought it would be easy to find someone who could tell them how to get it.

THE REASONS for using drugs ranged from . . . "to get a thrill," to "I'd like to get away from life." Most of those who would try the drugs would do so in order to experiment or because they had nothing better to do at the time. Most of them felt that under the influence of such drugs, they would "experience different things . . . a life that is not real and yet is reality." One senior girl thought she would experience beauty.

One boy explained it this way: "Lots of times I don't know what to do with myself; and if I had the chance, I think this type of thing would be kicks. I think a lot of kids take these drugs to escape from what they are or what they are supposed to be."

One senior girl said that in her opinion anyone who would take drugs for any reason would have to be a very weak character. She said that anyone who cannot take his life situation and face up to it should find some other way of getting professional help.

In essence, most people of our age seem to be afraid of drugs, but have read or heard so much about the attractiveness of the drugs that they want to experiment with these things in order to feel adult or important.

If such is the case, what is the basis of authoritative objection?

MAINLY, MOST adults have passed the age at which they are game to take on something of this sort. Timothy Leary, ex-Harvard professor and sponsor of LSD, feels that middle-aged Americans immediately relate drugs with disease, fiendishness, and instant insanity, while people under 25 relate it with revelation, ecstasy, sensual unfolding, religious experience, illumination, and contact with nature. LSD to them does not stick to the established rules of society, but it does offer the opportunity of life and experience to a degree far beyond that which any author can offer.

The dangers are there, but the problem is that they do not reveal themselves until it is often too late. LSD does not harm the stable person but it destroys the unstable. For those on the edge of mental instability, just a sliver away from being psychotic, LSD can be the breaking point. However, under proper circumstances, it can be used by psychiatrists as effective mental therapy. Thus the danger does not lie in LSD but in the individual.

Although some researchers claim that LSD has no value in diagnosis and little use in therapy, others claim that using the chemical is like putting the subject under a magnifying glass. Deeply buried aspects of a patient's personality are unmasked and problems he may have tried to hide become obvious.

The seemingly meaningless hallucinations are actually a short cut to the most relevant psychological reactions. LSD can be a most valuable tool for exploring the hidden facets of human psyche.

TWO OF THE major medical uses of LSD in experimental stages have been the treatment of alcoholism and schizophrenia. Schizophrenics have improved through daily supervised use of the drug and alcoholics have shown short-term improvement. The reason for the limited effect in these cases was the patients' reluctance to take the drug because of its black market reputation, which proved to be disturbing to the men.

It is an accepted fact in the medical profession that LSD should be administered only by an extremely confident and competent physician in a hospital.

The setting in which the treatment is administered is perhaps the most important single factor in the treatment.

No method of LSD therapeutic treatment has met with rigid scientific requirements, which include long term follow-up and comparison of patients receiving LSD with those undergoing the same treatment but without the drug.

"Stop it, Dino"

This is part of one of the scenes from Conant High School's fall presentation of "Dino." The play, written by Reginald Rose, will be performed on November 18 and 19 at 8 p.m.

Dino, to be portrayed by Frank Phillips, is a boy who returns home after spending four years in a reform school. He must decide whether to make a change in his life or return to crime. The way he meets his problems and faces up to them makes this play warmly moving.

SHIRLEY, THE shy girl who loves and understands Dino, will be played by Lyn Letsinger.

The cast also includes:

Mr. Sheridan, Brian Herzog; Jackie, Claire Caprile; Miss Haines, Connie Rosencrantz; Steve, Tom McQuire; Danny, Terry Pederson; Sylvia, Pam Depaul; Pat, Rebecca Davis; Bea, Jan Mersman; Della, Brenda Libman; Mr. Mandel, Jon Ellithorpe; Tony Falcaro, Mark Cramer; Mrs. Falcaro, Denise Hauptman; Mr. Falcaro, Joe Tortorici, and Mrs. Mekula, Kathy Scanlon.

Miss Nancy Saggars, director of the play, will be assisted by LeRoy Mulcrone, technical director, and Joe Marquart, student director. (16Y

GOLD CARD CLUB

The Gold Card Club is the name of a new High School District 214 organization. Residents of the district 65 years of age or over are invited to become members.

Members of this club will be able to attend all student activities to which the public is invited (musicals, athletic events and plays) free of charge. Also they may receive free tuition for adult education courses.

If interested, prospective members may contact Jack Martin, assistant to the superintendent, in the administration Center of District 214.

SACRED HEART OF MARY HIGH SCHOOL

Intergroup Conference

The Fourteenth Annual High School Intergroup Relations Conference, will take place tomorrow (Friday), 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., at Thornton Township High School in Harvey.

The theme is "Man, what are you scared of?!' Keynote speaker will be Dr. William Graham Cole, president of Lake Forest College.

Participating will be teachers' workshop with panelist Ellert Ranson, "Breaking the Housing Barrier in Chicago;" David Chancer, "White Backlash and Political Extremism;" Dr. Paul Mundy, "The White Problem in America;" and Gerald McWorther, "Black Power and the American Dream."

Discussing these topics will be the main concern of the "Let's Talk" groups — 40 students per group. Ending the conference will be a dramatic presentation by the Spartan Players, cuttings from the play "The Pieces." Directed by Father Berry, the Spartan Players are from Hales Franciscan High School.

Attending the conference from Sacred Heart of Mary High School will be 12 students: Pat Strohmeyer, Chris Lonze, Kathy Devlin, Mary Lynch, Ellen Starke, Mary O'Leary, Donna Klein, Cathy Leone, Joanne Siffermana, Mary Lee Barton, Margo Weber and Mary Brand.

Student Assembly

The Sacred Heart of Mary student body heard a performance of the Chicago Symphonia Friday.

Under the direction of Russel Harvey, the 15-piece string orchestra presented five classical compositions: Vivaldi's "Concerto in three movements;" Handel's "Concerto Grosso No. 2;" "Bach's Air for G String;" Mozart's "Concerto First Movement" (with Dolores Fredrickson as piano soloist); and Mozart's serenade entitled "Night Music."

Three pieces composed by American artists were "Strings and Variations" by Rudolph Ganz; "Enchantment" by Gillis and an Omaha Indian tribal song.

Combo to Play

The "Huns" will invade Sacred Heart of Mary High School tonight (Thursday). The group will play for a sock-hop from 8-11 p.m. The event is sponsored by the senior class. Admission will be 75 cents.

Students Attend Comedy

Sixty second- and third-year French students and nine faculty members will attend Miles Malleson's adaptation of Jean Moliere's "Tartuffe, the Hypocrite," at Barat College's Drake Theatre in Lake Forest today (Thursday).

The comedy will be presented by the Barat College Players at 8 p.m.

The star director is Val Bettin of 200 Navajo, Buffalo Grove, the father of Annette Betten, a sophomore at Sacred Heart of Mary.

Student Council Workshop

Since the Student Council is seen as a vital part of life at S.H.M., the counselors organized on Nov. 6, a workshop devoted to an intensive study of various aspects of the Council's role.

Briefly outlined, the purpose of the workshop for the Council was threefold:

To become more aware of its role in relation to the student body and faculty; To evaluate the progress made since the first workshop in August; and to adapt and make more practical the guidelines established at the workshop.

All student counselors were present at the meeting. The girls were divided into different committees. Each committee was given a different topic to study and discuss at the workshop.

FOREST VIEW HIGH SCHOOL

Clubs Are Active

Language clubs at Forest View are busy organizations.

The Russian Culture Club attended an area Russian club mixer on Oct. 30 at Lyons Township High School. At the mixer, the other clubs presented skits, sang, danced and did readings in Russian. Forest View's club showed the slides from their trip to Russia.

The Latin Club will be going to an Italian movie and then to an Italian restaurant sometime in the future. German Club will be singing at Maryville orphanage and at an old folk's home in mid-December. Along with the public service will be some plain old fun—otherwise known as a Christmas Party.

Forest View's Spanish Club is writing to friends of its AFS foreign exchange student in South America. At the present time the club is engaged in interpreting Spanish poetry. Future plans for the club include a trip to a Mexican restaurant, a picnic with Spanish clubs from area schools and a Christmas party.

Orchesis Plans

"Dance-dance-dance"

This year, Forest View High School's Orchesis will entertain the students at various events. With the basketball season approaching, the student body will see the girls perform at halftime.

For the season they will demonstrate their skills at three home games—December 9, Jan. 20, and Feb. 10.

To complete the year, Orchesis will give their annual show on April 7-8. April 17 through April 21, girls are welcomed to try out for the coming year.

Alumni News

Glenn Alan Jobe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Jobe, 606 Woodview Avenue, Elk Grove Village, is a member of his college Glee Club.

A second quarter student at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tennessee, he sings bass in the Lipscomb Men's Glee Club directed by Henry O. Arnold, Jr.

Members of the Glee Club are chosen by audition, and membership in the group is highly selective.

Jobe is a graduate of Forest View High sSchool, where he was a member of the Band and the Track Team.

The National Honor Society is headed by seniors Bruce Allison, president; Jeff Bates, vice-president; Charli Kreusch, secretary; and Corrine Hugh, treasurer.

Leading Mu Alpha Theta, the math club, are Corrine Hugh, president; Larry Stein, vice-president; and Nancy Pontoni, secretary-treasurer, all seniors.

Varsity Club officers are Jeff Bates, president; Bob DeStefanis, vice-president; Pete Smith, sergeant-at-arms; Jeff Hansen, secretary; and John Phillips, treasurer. All are seniors.

The National Thespian Society chapter has for officers seniors Roger Krupa, president; Sofia Andoniadis, vice-president; Marcie Morton, secretary; Debbie Colosimo, treasurer; and junior Sam Adkins, clerk.

ELK GROVE HIGH SCHOOL

Tournament Debate

Elk Grove High School placed third in the junior varsity practice tournament debate held Saturday, Oct. 29, at Holy Cross High School in Chicago.

The negative team, consisting of Therese Harris and Tom Neri won two out of three debates. Peter Tullio and Andy Lesniak, affirmative team members, won one out of three debates.

Peter Tullio won the second place speaker award, and Therese Harris and Andy Lesniak received honorable mention.

PALATINE HIGH SCHOOL

Battle of the Bands

Out of ten groups auditioning at the Battle of the Bands Oct. 22 for Palatine High dances, students chose The Mist as the best group, according to appearance, sound, audibility, and music selection. Members of the Mist, all students or former students of Palatine High, are George Jones, Angelo Coduto, Bruce Atkinson, Bill Dickson and Rick Matthews.

The second ranking group, Society's Children, has already performed at one dance, the recreation night Saturday at Palatine. The Good Tymes, which disbanded since the audition passes third place on to The Good Part. These combos will be hired for all informal dances and possibly for the Turn About.

Jim Ebert, second vice president of Student Council and chairman of auditions, remarked that he was pleased with the winning groups and the success of the band battle.

Students Attend Conference

Palatine High School will send 20 representatives tomorrow to the 14th annual High School Intergroup Relations Conference at Thornton High School.

Anne Chalfant and Jan Mitchell will represent the Cutlass, and Inge Bremer, Palatine's foreign exchange student, from West Germany, will also attend the conference.

From the Palatine Student Human Relations Council will be Larry Mueller, John Bell, Bill Gibbons, Sue Schrickel, Sharon Orchard, Pat Meyer, Lynda Baker, Sue Peterson, Barb Lethem, Dirk Fuqua, Nancy Crabtree, Hollis Wachs, Dale Freise, Mark Brennan, Lynn Shorb, Debbie Beilat, Larry McDonald and Tom Tobin.

Girls Break Records

Breaking two records this fall in Palatine High's girls' PE classes was Jeri Lind. Jeri ran the 50-yard dash in 6.5 seconds and extended the softball throw record to 177 feet.

The flexed arm hang, held for a short while by Barb Bragg at 53 seconds, was endured for 57 seconds by Terri Kull.

"I'm going to try for 60 seconds and, after that, maybe a minute and a half," Terri revealed. "I came to school the next day with terribly sore muscles, after breaking the record, so my unmerciful gym teacher made me do sit-ups!"

Speaking of sit-ups, Linden Finnegan's 123 was beaten by Carol Chupich's and Lynda Baker's 200. A leap of 7 feet 7 inches won the standing broad jump record for Pam Wittenburg.

Senior Is Honored

Larry Mueller is the senior chosen student-of-the-month for October by the National Honor Society at Palatine High. Larry did most of the offbeat, humorous posters promoting school spirit and social events that can be seen in the corridors of Palatine High. He and senior John Bell formed an organization pushing school spirit. He also spent many hours on decorations for homecoming.

NHS chooses a senior each month who stands out in at least one of the four qualifications for NHS, leadership, scholarship, service, and character. The organization also manages a bookstore near the cafeteria which is open every noon.

Books to be sold are chosen according to literary and entertainment value, reported Ross Parker, NHS president.

New Club

A DO club has been organized at Palatine High to compensate for the social activities students of diversified occupations have to miss.

Mark Ingebretson was elected president; Marla Neidert, vice president; Mike Dove, secretary; and Phil Wenzel, treasurer.

Delegates will be chosen to attend an area meeting for DO clubs. A candy sale is being held this month for raising funds.

French Club Meeting

A summer in France will be the topic of a program at the Palatine High French club meeting today (Thursday). Connie Coursen and Debbie Hodgson will show slides and talk about their trip to France with the French Abroad program.

Students interested in the tour and their parents will be able to get the details on the program from the movies which the French Abroad leaders will present later this month.

Seniors Honored

Letters of commendation were received from the National Merit Scholarship Test by 16 Palatine High seniors. The awards were sent to high-scoring students who didn't quite place as semi-finalists.

Students thus honored were Beata Abbs, James Boughner, Pamela Brown, Robert Browning, Anne Chalfant, John Ekeberg, Barry Fitzgerald, John Jensen, Barbara Lethem, Lewis Luyster, Jan Maycan, Ross Parker, Katherine Philippe, Pamela Ramser, Mary Rorex and Stephen Kowalski.

Delegates to Conference

Delegates from Conant High School will attend the 14th annual High School Intergroup Relations Conference at Thornton High School in Harvey on Nov. 11.

"Man, what are you scared of?" is the theme which will be carried through first in the keynote address by Dr. William Cole, President of Lake Forest College, and later in 40 student discussion groups. The Spartan Players from Hales Franciscan High School will present cuttings from the play, "The Pieces." There will be a noontime program of folk singing and student reports.

This project, sponsored by over a dozen national, state, and metropolitan organizations, such as the National Council of Christians and Jews, is designed to bring together students of different backgrounds so they can discuss information concerning high school life in the Chicago area.

Hospitality Night

Twenty-one members of the Conant High School Student Council travelled to Niles West High on Tuesday, Nov. 1, to attend a Hospitality Night. The event was one of the fall activities of the Mid-Suburban League of Student Councils.

The league is an organization comprised of 14 suburban high schools whose purpose it is to foster and promote the principles of student councils. The hospitality night is a variation from the usual business format of most league activities. It allows members of different schools the opportunity to get together on an informal social level.

THE EVENT at Niles West featured a buffet dinner followed by selected entertainment acts and dancing.

Those from Conant were Miss Diane Stoewer and Miss Marilyn Fox, council advisors; Rick Ferguson, Sam Culpepper, and Linda Mayeda, council officers; Kathy Clifford, Joe Marquart, Sharron McJunkins, Sue Potempa, Beth Radosta, Carole Kuk, Barb Knight, Katy Hoopper, Gail Helsper, Kathy Molbeck, Gary Larson, Sandy Helsper, Pat Whitaker, Pam Klopf, Sue Fabing, Sue Barnett, Ray Zabielski and Jane Jaraczewski.

FENTON HIGH SCHOOL

For their first activity of the year, Fenton's junior class will hold its annual dance this evening at the high school's cafeteria. The proceeds from the dance will go toward the cost of the junior-senior prom, held at year's end.

Congratulations on Play

Fenton extends its congratulations to Robert Dahlstrom for his recent production of "Macbeth." Working unrecognized were Donald Bridenthal, technical director, and Mrs. Dahlstrom and Mrs. Vick, on costumes.

Class Ring

The junior class has chosen its class ring — a round, college-style design, with black, blue and colorless stones. The cost will range from $20-$28 depending on the type each individual desires.

Cheerleaders Practice

Fenton's varsity and frosh-soph wrestling cheerleaders recently began practicing for the upcoming mat campaign. Varsity yell leaders are Sandy Schulze and Jan Menelascino, cheered by Sandy Sheldon and Linda Harper.

District Officers Elected

Two Stevenson High School students were elected officers of the area organization for Distributive Education Clubs of America recently. The district covers more than a dozen high schools in Lake, Cook and DuPage Counties.

Chris McCann was named vice president and Dan DeMarco was elected treasurer of the DECA group. Wallace Jenson is Stevenson's Distributive Education instructor. (16Y

Conant's 'Dino' 'Warmly Moving'

"Help!"
"Stop it!"
"The guy's nuts"
"Stop it, Dino"

This is part of one of the scenes from Conant High School's fall presentation of "Dino." The play, written by Reginald Rose, will be performed on November 18 and 19 at 8 p.m.

Dino, to be portrayed by Frank Phillips, is a boy who returns home after spending four years in a reform school. He must decide whether to make a change in his life or return to crime. The way he meets his problems and faces up to them makes this play warmly moving.

SHIRLEY, THE shy girl who loves and understands Dino, will be played by Lyn Letsinger.

The cast also includes:

Mr. Sheridan, Brian Herzog; Jackie, Claire Caprile; Miss Haines, Connie Rosencrantz; Steve, Tom McQuire; Danny, Terry Pederson; Sylvia, Pam Depaul; Pat, Rebecca Davis; Bea, Jan Mersman; Della, Brenda Libman; Mr. Mandel, Jon Ellithorpe; Tony Falcaro, Mark Cramer; Mrs. Falcaro, Denise Hauptman; Mr. Falcaro, Joe Tortorici, and Mrs. Mekula, Kathy Scanlon.

Miss Nancy Saggars, director of the play, will be assisted by LeRoy Mulcrone, technical director, and Joe Marquart, student director. (16Y

GOLD CARD CLUB

The Gold Card Club is the name of a new High School District 214 organization. Residents of the district 65 years of age or over are invited to become members.

Members of this club will be able to attend all student activities to which the public is invited (musicals, athletic events and plays) free of charge. Also they may receive free tuition for adult education courses.

If interested, prospective members may contact Jack Martin, assistant to the superintendent, in the administration Center of District 214.

SACRED HEART OF MARY HIGH SCHOOL

Intergroup Conference

The Fourteenth Annual High School Intergroup Relations Conference, will take place tomorrow (Friday), 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., at Thornton Township High School in Harvey.

The theme is "Man, what are you scared of?" Keynote speaker will be Dr. William Graham Cole, president of Lake Forest College.

Participating will be teachers' workshop with panelist Ellert Ranson, "Breaking the Housing Barrier in Chicago;" David Chancer, "White Backlash and Political Extremism;" Dr. Paul Mundy, "The White Problem in America;" and Gerald McWorther, "Black Power and the American Dream."

Discussing these topics will be the main concern of the "Let's Talk" groups — 40 students per group. Ending the conference will be a dramatic presentation by the Spartan Players, cuttings from the play "The Pieces." Directed by Father Berry, the Spartan Players are from Hales Franciscan High School.

Attending the conference from Sacred Heart of Mary High School will be 12 students: Pat Strohmeyer, Chris Lonze, Kathy Devlin, Mary Lynch, Ellen Starke, Mary O'Leary, Donna Klein, Cathy Leone, Joanne Siffermana, Mary Lee Barton, Margo Weber and Mary Brand.

Student Assembly

The Sacred Heart of Mary student body heard a performance of the Chicago Symphonia Friday.

Under the direction of Russel Harvey, the 15-piece string orchestra presented five classical compositions: Vivaldi's "Concerto in three movements;" Handel's "Concerto Grosso No. 2;" "Bach's Air for G String;" Mozart's "Concerto First Movement" (with Dolores Fredrickson as piano soloist); and Mozart's serenade entitled "Night Music."

Three pieces composed by American artists were "Strings and Variations" by Rudolph Ganz; "Enchantment" by Gillis and an Omaha Indian tribal song.

Combo to Play

The "Huns" will invade Sacred Heart of Mary High School tonight (Thursday). The group will play for a sock-hop from 8-11 p.m. The event is sponsored by the senior class. Admission will be 75 cents.

Students Attend Comedy

Sixty second- and third-year French students and nine faculty members will attend Miles Malleson's adaptation of Jean Moliere's "Tartuffe, the Hypocrite," at Barat College's Drake Theatre in Lake Forest today (Thursday).

The comedy will be presented by the Barat College Players at 8 p.m.

The star director is Val Bettin of 200 Navajo, Buffalo Grove, the father of Annette Betten, a sophomore at Sacred Heart of Mary.

Student Council Workshop

Since the Student Council is seen as a vital part of life at S.H.M., the counselors organized on Nov. 6, a workshop devoted to an intensive study of various aspects of the Council's role.

Briefly outlined, the purpose of the workshop for the Council was threefold:

To become more aware of its role in relation to the student body and faculty; To evaluate the progress made since the first workshop in August; and to adapt and make more practical the guidelines established at the workshop.

All student counselors were present at the meeting. The girls were divided into different committees. Each committee was given a different topic to study and discuss at the workshop.

FOREST VIEW HIGH SCHOOL

Clubs Are Active

Language clubs at Forest View are busy organizations.

The Russian Culture Club attended an area Russian club mixer on Oct. 30 at Lyons Township High School. At the mixer, the other clubs presented skits, sang, danced and did readings in Russian. Forest View's club showed the slides from their trip to Russia.

The Latin Club will be going to an Italian movie and then to an Italian restaurant sometime in the future. German Club will be singing at Maryville orphanage and at an old folk's home in mid-December. Along with the public service will be some plain old fun—otherwise known as a Christmas Party.

Forest View's Spanish Club is writing to friends of its AFS foreign exchange student in South America. At the present time the club is engaged in interpreting Spanish poetry. Future plans for the club include a trip to a Mexican restaurant, a picnic with Spanish clubs from area schools and a Christmas party.

Orchesis Plans

"Dance-dance-dance"

This year, Forest View High School's Orchesis will entertain the students at various events. With the basketball season approaching, the student body will see the girls perform at halftime.

For the season they will demonstrate their skills at three home games—December 9, Jan. 20, and Feb. 10.

To complete the year, Orchesis will give their annual show on April 7-8. April 17 through April 21, girls are welcomed to try out for the coming year.

Why Not Buy An Interesting Home

With Acreage, On Waterfront, Or Golf Course

I. Beautiful big, white, four bedroom, 2½ bath New England style home located on east bank of Fox River on Woodland Park only five minutes from McHenry C&NW commuter station. Well-to-do family has kept home in excellent condition—lovely lawn with big trees, new large pier, big steel & concrete sea wall, new summer house right on river's edge. This is one of the finest waterfront properties available and the cost is only $59,500 with favorable financing.

II. English ranch, lannon stone home on 1½ acres facing Crystal Lake Country Club Golf Course. 3 bedrooms (could easily add more), 3 baths, dining room, family room with fireplace, all carpeted, all air conditioned. Rear patio and attractive maching summer house with fireplace. Estimated replacement cost of this relatively new home over $120,000, but it's now for sale at $48,500!

III. You can live on four acres in attractive four bedroom ranch near shopping and walking distance to grade school. Family room with fireplace, full basement, screened porch, two car garage—all for $28,500.

IV. Want to raise cattle or horses and live modern in estate-like, four bedrooms, situated on 68 acres just 7 minutes from Crystal Lake & 22 commuter trains daily to Chicago. Improvements include big barn, 3 car garage, other buildings and good fencing. Home has beautiful kitchen, paneled dining room, numerous extras, including major appliances, carpeting, etc. A lovely place for family living and a good investment—now at a reduced price.

V. Several good farms available for land investors and happy farm living from 60 acres to over 500 acres from $340 an acre to $2,000 an acre. Contract sale terms usually available for convenient financing.

Why Not Buy An Interesting Home

With Acreage, On Waterfront, Or Golf Course

I. Beautiful big, white, four bedroom, 2½ bath New England style home located on east bank of Fox River on Woodland Park only five minutes from McHenry C&NW commuter station. Well-to-do family has kept home in excellent condition—lovely lawn with big trees, new large pier, big steel & concrete sea wall, new summer house right on river's edge. This is one of the finest waterfront properties available and the cost is only $59,500 with favorable financing.

II. English ranch, lannon stone home on 1½ acres facing Crystal Lake Country Club Golf Course. 3 bedrooms (could easily add more), 3 baths, dining room, family room with fireplace, all carpeted, all air conditioned. Rear patio and attractive maching summer house with fireplace. Estimated replacement cost of this relatively new home over $120,000, but it's now for sale at $48,500!

III. You can live on four acres in attractive four bedroom ranch near shopping and walking distance to grade school. Family room with fireplace, full basement, screened porch, two car garage—all for $28,500.

IV. Want to raise cattle or horses and live modern in estate-like, four bedrooms, situated on 68 acres just 7 minutes from Crystal Lake & 22 commuter trains daily to Chicago. Improvements include big barn, 3 car garage, other buildings and good fencing. Home has beautiful kitchen, paneled dining room, numerous extras, including major appliances, carpeting, etc. A lovely place for family living and a good investment—now at a reduced price.

V. Several good farms available for land investors and happy farm living from 60 acres to over 500 acres from $340 an acre to $2,000 an acre. Contract sale terms usually available for convenient financing.

A Column Devoted Exclusively to Your Spare-Time Activities

This week at the New Place, you can see The Cyrcle tonight (Thursday); The Buckinghams, Friday; and The Squires Saturday.

The Pink Panther will present The Del-Vets tonight, The Dirty Wurds Friday and The Idd Saturday.

Featured at the Green Gorilla will be The Malibus tonight, and The Cryan Shames Friday. The club will be closed on Saturday.

If you go to The Purple Penguin, you'll be entertained by The Flock tonight, The Revelles Friday and The Dirty Wurds on Saturday.

The Crimson Cougar will present The Cyrcle tonight, The Malibus Friday and The Byrds on Saturday.

Tonight at The Cellar, the entertainment will be provided by The Mauds; tomorrow will feature Saturdays Children and The Souls, a new young group from Glenview.

The Bots will be back at The Cellar on Saturday.

It's The Shadows Again!

The Shadows of Knight have released their second record album "Back Door Men," a distinct improvement over their first album "Gloria."

The overall tone of the album is more professional. The songs are well matched and perhaps represent the better side of the group.

Three original tunes are included: "Gospel Zone," "Three for Love," and "I'll Make You Sorry!" The first was written by drummer Tom Schiffour and the others by guitarist Joe Kelley.

In four bands Dave Wolinski, known as the Hawk and formerly one of "The Males," plays piano and organ to add a little variety to the Shadows' appealing style.

Two cuts, "The Behemoth" and "New York Bullseye" are instrumentals. In the five minutes devoted to these numbers, the Shadows prove beyond a doubt their skill and originality as musicians. No other parts of the record illustrate so well the group's personal "sound," a phenomenon for which every recording artist strives, but few attain.

"Peepin' and Hidin' " is a rough sounding solo by Kelley that could perhaps be improved upon, but is still appealing in a unique way.

Also on the record is a bit of noise that sounds like several records taped over each other but is actually a beautiful ballad called "Willie Jean." The difficulty in identifying the cut may be due to the fact that it is recorded backwards. There are those who will tell you that the song is perfect the way it was written — frontwards, but to each his own.

The highpoint of the album is a 5½-minute cut called "Hey Joe." The song boasts a tremendous beat, no message, and thoroughly enjoyable listening.

In the album, the Shadows demonstrate more of their instrumental and vocal ability, and rhythm guitarist Jerry McGeorge displays a fairly unusual talent in his ability to employ the "feedback" technique. Feedback is a process by which superfluous amplifier sounds are turned into an integral part of the song.

If you are not familiar with the Shadows of Knight, this album is a good introduction to their performance. If you are already acquainted with their sound, "Back Door Men" will further convince you that this group is setting an example to follow in the music world.

A Movie Review

A combination of the world's most famous jawbone and the best known blue eyes, Paris, Art, and Givenchy make up this comedy, "How To Steal A Million," starring Audrey Hepburn and Peter O'Toole.

The object of the theft is worthless, a fake Venus, actually sculpted by a forebearer of a master forger, portrayed by Hugh Griffith.

Miss Hepburn persuades Peter O'Toole to steal the Venus from a burglar-proof museum, armed only with a magnet, mop bucket and a boomerang. The theft must "come off" before the Venus is examined and Miss Hepburns family's discreet profession found out.

The museum guards, a very funny bunch comparable to the Keystone Cops, and Eli Wallach, portraying an art-collecting businessman who goes into a frenzy at the mere thought of possessing the famed Venus, provide good comedy and a laugh a minute.

This comedy, at first glance, seems to be the all-too-common romance farce played breezily in Paris or Rome. But the acting skills of Miss Hepburn and Peter O'Toole's good interpretation of the romantic-comedy male lead make this picture entertaining and well worth seeing.

Homemakers To Compete

by KATHY TRZNADEL

Future homemakers will compete in a test sponsored by Betty Crocker, a division of the General Mills Co., on December 6, at Forest View High School and other eligible high schools in the area.

All senior girls interested in home economics and careers in that field can take the test.

This test, composed of 100 multiple choice questions and one essay question, is 50 minutes long and covers all areas of home economics and family living.

The girl having the highest test score in her high school will win that school's contest and will be qualified to enter the state contest.

AS THE winner of her school contest, she will receive a silver charm award and a certificate.

The test papers of all high school winners will then be judged to determine two state scholarship winners.

As the outstanding state winner, the first ranking applicant will receive a $1,500 scholarship and tours of Washington, D. C. and Colonial Williamsburg, accompanied by her school sponsor.

The second ranking applicant will receive a $500 scholarship to be used at the college or university of her choice.

On their tours, the 51 semi-finalists, one from each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia, will be judged on the basis of personal appearance and poise, a series of interviews with the judges and their original test scores.

THE FINALISTS will then be chosen and the nation's first-ranking and most outstanding applicant will be named the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and will receive $5,000 in scholarship awards.

Scholarship awards of $4,000, $3,000, and $2,000 will be received by the second-, third-, and fourth-ranking homemakers.

Mrs. Aili Combs, Mrs. Dorothy Scharf, and Miss Marcia Stine are sponsors at Forest View High School for this contest. (16Y

The Donkeys Take to the Gym Floor

By MEREDYTH BUCKHOLZ

What's funnier than a circus and wilder than a rodeo? The world's craziest sport yet, donkey basketball.

Forest View High School will hold an evening of donkey basketball games Nov. 19 beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the main gym.

There will be three games: the coaches vs. the Letterman's Club; the cheerleaders vs. the women faculty; and a play-off game between the winning teams of the first two games.

GENERAL ADMISSION for adults will be $1.25 and for students and children, 75 cents. Roger Steingraber, Forest View coach is in charge of the affair. Senior Steve DeHaven is student chairman.

The donkeys are booked through the Buckeye Donkey Ball Co. of Columbus, Ohio.

Steingraber said that the respective teams will ride the donkeys and that the donkeys will have protective padding on their feet so that the gym floors will not be damaged.

"Of course, we will have a clean-up committee available," Steingraber added.

"We invite the public to come and thoroughly enjoy themselves," Steve said. (16Y

Miami Convention Topics Cover a Broad Spectrum

"What Makes Women Buy," "Real Estate As I Saw It In Hong Kong," and "White House Decisions —How Will They Affect Our Future?" are speech titles that indicate the wide spectrum to be covered during the 59th annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards Nov. 13-17 in Miami Beach.

Nearly 9,000 Realtors and their guests are expected to attend the convention, which will make it the largest ever held by NAREB, according to L. Allen Morris, Miami, chairman of the Convention Committee. Jack Justice, Miami Beach, president will preside. New officers will be elected and policy set for 1967.

THE QUESTION, "White House Decisions — How Will They Affect Our Future?" will be answered by Hugh Sidey, feature editor of Life magazine, at a general session Nov. 17. Mr. Sidey will be joined by three other news media leaders on the panel discussion of "Today's News — What It Means for Tomorrow."

James J. Cook, recently back from a year at Newsweek magazine's Saigon bureau, will discuss "Our War in Viet Nam—Where Is It Leading?" The associate editor of Saturday Review, W. D. Patterson, will cover "Social and Economic Turmoil—How Is It Shaping Our Destiny?", and Jess Ballew, publisher of the Saturday Evening Post, will give a summary in his remarks on "Today's Events — How They Cast Their Shadows."

Dr. Robert C. Weaver, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will speak to a general session the morning of Nov. 17. Philip N. Brownstein, assistant secretary for mortgage credit, and Don Hummel, assistant secretary for renewal and housing assistance in the department, will speak also.

"Real Estate As I Saw It In Hong Kong" will be one of five addresses by members of the American Chapter, International Real Estate Federation, describing real estate practices and potential in various countries visited by chapter members en route to the IREF congress in Japan last spring. The American Chapter's open session Nov. 13 will be highlighted by discussions on real estate in New Zealand, Australia, Hong Kong, The Philippines, and Japan. The chapter is one of nine professional affiliates of the national association.

"WHAT MAKES Women Buy" is the topic to be covered by Mrs. Edna A. Lundberg, Realtor, Arcadia, Calif., at an educational program sponsored by the Women's Council, another affiliate of NAREB.

Hundreds of speakers are scheduled to address the many panel discussions, roundtable conferences, lecture groups, and other sessions to be sponsored by NAREB, and its institutes during the convention.

Close Driver Test Sites on Saturdays

Beginning this week, driver license examining stations will no longer be open on Saturdays, according to Secretary of State Paul Powell. He added that all divisions of his office, including the examining stations, will be closed tomorrow (Friday) in observance of Veterans Day.

Powell blamed the Saturday closing on lack of cooperation on the part of the public, who swarmed to take driving tests on Saturdays when they "could easily have taken the examination during the week."

The result, he said, was overcrowding to the point where applicants presenting themselves later than 10 a.m. had to be turned away in many cases, while those who could be accepted had to take the examination under "extremely distracting circumstances." (A15

Style Show, Slides on Club Agenda

"Flights to Fashion," the luncheon-fashion show planned by Prospect Heights Woman's Club, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16, in Itasca Country Club. Proceeds of the show will go to the club's philanthropies, Seventh District and Federated projects.

Reservation deadline has been set for Friday, Nov. 11, according to Mrs. Todd Olson, LE 7-1155, reservations chairman.

Tonight (Thursday) at 8, members of the club will be meeting in the Prospect Heights Ann Sullivan School at Schoenbeck and Palatine Roads, for a lecture and slide demonstration by Lt. William Andrew. Lt. Andrew has just returned from active duty in Viet Nam. Admission is free and all area residents are invited. (S

They Find Speech Rewarding

By BARBARA ROMANO

The art of being able to speak well can be rewarding. This has been shown to approximately 40 students through the speech program being offered at Forest View High School.

There are about nine categories in which students can participate. They are verse, prose, serious play reading, comedy play reading, original monologue, original oration, oratorical declamation, after-dinner speaking, and radio speaking.

Under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Cadle and Mrs. Sherry Adams, Forest View will attend 10 or 12 individual events contests during the year.

THE STUDENTS are judged on presentation, the quality of their voices, and interpretation.

The first event will be held Saturday at Niles North. Next Forest View will tackle Thornridge on Nov. 19. The third event will be on Dec. 3 at Waukegan.

On Jan. 14, District 214 hosts a tournament at Elk Grove High School. Then on Feb. 11 there will be a district speech contest and on Feb. 25, Forest View hosts a sectional individual events. March 4, another sectional speech contest will be held.

To end the year will be the state speech contest on March 31 and April 1 and Forest View hopes to be represented in this event.

On June 1 a Forensics Fine Arts Banquet will be held, at which time two awards will be presented in speech: the first to the person who scored the most points and the second to the person who has contributed the most to the program.

Mrs. Cadle and Mrs. Adams added, "We're still looking for freshman and sophomores to join the team." (16Y

From State Baton Champion To Speech Correctionist

By KATHY TRZNADEL

The Illinois senior baton twirler championship for 1959 went to Mrs. Corey Dowling, the speech correctionist at Forest View and Arlington high schools and holder of over 200 awards for her outstanding twirling ability.

In 1960 Mrs. Dowling also competed for the national title and placed 4th out of 50 contestants.

With the scholarships she had won as Illinois champion twirler and as a national winner, Mrs. Dowling completed four years of college at Eastern Illinois University.

Beginning her training in first grade with private lessons, her first real competition came when she was 8 years old.

She remembers many travels to competitions all over the nation.

These competitions and exhibitions were held in 23 states and Canada and the national competition was held in St. Paul, Minn., in January at the St. Paul Winter Carnival.

IN COLLEGE, Mrs. Dowling, a registered NBTA (National Baton Twirlers of America) judge and teacher, taught twirling and now has clinics and teaches at summer camps.

MRS. COREY DOWLING

Her judging, which she does in her spare time, is at local contests held on an open basis.

At these open contests, no title is awarded to the winner and no requirements are necessary, but an entry fee.

The state competitions are held in the summer and some of the different types of exhibitions a contestant may enter are the solo competition, the two-baton competition, military marching, fancy routines, and flag baton.

The contestant is only judged in the solo competition for the state and national championships but she must place first or second in the state competitions to enter as a national contestant.

The three different age brackets are the juvenile competition, ages 5-8; junior competition, ages 9-14; and senior competition, ages 15-21.

When asked what she felt was her greatest gain from her training and experiences, Mrs. Dowling replied, "The opportunity to travel and to meet so many people and the valuable experiences gained from all the activities were things I most profited from.

"Because of the opportunities afforded and the competitive spirit that is so worthwhile for almost anything else one can do, I encourage teens to compete in extracurricular activities whenever they are given the chance." (16Y

Tonight at The Cellar, the entertainment will be provided by The Mauds; tomorrow will feature Saturdays Children and The Souls, a new young group from Glenview.

The Bots will be back at The Cellar on Saturday.

It's The Shadows Again!

The Shadows of Knight have released their second record album "Back Door Men," a distinct improvement over their first album "Gloria."

The overall tone of the album is more professional. The songs are well matched and perhaps represent the better side of the group.

Three original tunes are included: "Gospel Zone," "Three for Love," and "I'll Make You Sorry!" The first was written by drummer Tom Schiffour and the others by guitarist Joe Kelley.

In four bands Dave Wolinski, known as the Hawk and formerly one of "The Males," plays piano and organ to add a little variety to the Shadows' appealing style.

Two cuts, "The Behemoth" and "New York Bullseye" are instrumentals. In the five minutes devoted to these numbers, the Shadows prove beyond a doubt their skill and originality as musicians. No other parts of the record illustrate so well the group's personal "sound," a phenomenon for which every recording artist strives, but few attain.

"Peepin' and Hidin' " is a rough sounding solo by Kelley that could perhaps be improved upon, but is still appealing in a unique way.

Also on the record is a bit of noise that sounds like several records taped over each other but is actually a beautiful ballad called "Willie Jean." The difficulty in identifying the cut may be due to the fact that it is recorded backwards. There are those who will tell you that the song is perfect the way it was written — frontwards, but to each his own.

The highpoint of the album is a 5½-minute cut called "Hey Joe." The song boasts a tremendous beat, no message, and thoroughly enjoyable listening.

In the album, the Shadows demonstrate more of their instrumental and vocal ability, and rhythm guitarist Jerry McGeorge displays a fairly unusual talent in his ability to employ the "feedback" technique. Feedback is a process by which superfluous amplifier sounds are turned into an integral part of the song.

If you are not familiar with the Shadows of Knight, this album is a good introduction to their performance. If you are already acquainted with their sound, "Back Door Men" will further convince you that this group is setting an example to follow in the music world.

A Movie Review

A combination of the world's most famous jawbone and the best known blue eyes, Paris, Art, and Givenchy make up this comedy, "How To Steal A Million," starring Audrey Hepburn and Peter O'Toole.

The object of the theft is worthless, a fake Venus, actually sculpted by a forebearer of a master forger, portrayed by Hugh Griffith.

Miss Hepburn persuades Peter O'Toole to steal the Venus from a burglar-proof museum, armed only with a magnet, mop bucket and a boomerang. The theft must "come off" before the Venus is examined and Miss Hepburns family's discreet profession found out.

The museum guards, a very funny bunch comparable to the Keystone Cops, and Eli Wallach, portraying an art-collecting businessman who goes into a frenzy at the mere thought of possessing the famed Venus, provide good comedy and a laugh a minute.

This comedy, at first glance, seems to be the all-too-common romance farce played breezily in Paris or Rome. But the acting skills of Miss Hepburn and Peter O'Toole's good interpretation of the romantic-comedy male lead make this picture entertaining and well worth seeing.

Homemakers To Compete

by KATHY TRZNADEL

Future homemakers will compete in a test sponsored by Betty Crocker, a division of the General Mills Co., on December 6, at Forest View High School and other eligible high schools in the area.

All senior girls interested in home economics and careers in that field can take the test.

This test, composed of 100 multiple choice questions and one essay question, is 50 minutes long and covers all areas of home economics and family living.

The girl having the highest test score in her high school will win that school's contest and will be qualified to enter the state contest.

AS THE winner of her school contest, she will receive a silver charm award and a certificate.

The test papers of all high school winners will then be judged to determine two state scholarship winners.

As the outstanding state winner, the first ranking applicant will receive a $1,500 scholarship and tours of Washington, D. C. and Colonial Williamsburg, accompanied by her school sponsor.

The second ranking applicant will receive a $500 scholarship to be used at the college or university of her choice.

On their tours, the 51 semifinalists, one from each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia, will be judged on the basis of personal appearance and poise, a series of interviews with the judges and their original test scores.

THE FINALISTS will then be chosen and the nation's first-ranking and most outstanding applicant will be named the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and will receive $5,000 in scholarship awards.

Scholarship awards of $4,000, $3,000, and $2,000 will be received by the second-, third-, and fourth-ranking homemakers.

Mrs. Aili Combs, Mrs. Dorothy Scharf, and Miss Marcia Stine are sponsors at Forest View High School for this contest. (16Y

The Donkeys Take to the Gym Floor

By MEREDYTH BUCKHOLZ

What's funnier than a circus and wilder than a rodeo? The world's craziest sport yet, donkey basketball.

Forest View High School will hold an evening of donkey basketball games Nov. 19 beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the main gym.

There will be three games: the coaches vs. the Letterman's Club; the cheerleaders vs. the women faculty; and a play-off game between the winning teams of the first two games.

GENERAL ADMISSION for adults will be $1.25 and for students and children, 75 cents. Roger Steingraber, Forest View coach is in charge of the affair. Senior Steve DeHaven is student chairman.

The donkeys are booked through the Buckeye Donkey Ball Co. of Columbus, Ohio.

Steingraber said that the respective teams will ride the donkeys and that the donkeys will have protective padding on their feet so that the gym floors will not be damaged.

"Of course, we will have a clean-up committee available," Steingraber added.

"We invite the public to come and thoroughly enjoy themselves," Steve said. (16Y

Miami Convention Topics Cover a Broad Spectrum

"What Makes Women Buy," "Real Estate As I Saw It in Hong Kong," and "White House Decisions —How Will They Affect Our Future?" are speech titles that indicate the wide spectrum to be covered during the 59th annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards Nov. 13-17 in Miami Beach.

Nearly 9,000 Realtors and their guests are expected to attend the convention, which will make it the largest ever held by NAREB, according to L. Allen Morris, Miami, chairman of the Convention Committee. Jack Justice, Miami Beach, president will preside. New officers will be elected and policy set for 1967.

THE QUESTION, "White House Decisions — How Will They Affect Our Future?" will be answered by Hugh Sidey, feature editor of Life magazine, at a general session Nov. 17. Mr. Sidey will be joined by three other news media leaders on the panel discussion of "Today's News — What It Means for Tomorrow."

James J. Cook, recently back from a year at Newsweek magazine's Saigon bureau, will discuss "Our War in Viet Nam—Where Is It Leading?" The associate editor of Saturday Review, W. D. Patterson, will cover "Social and Economic Turmoil—How Is It Shaping Our Destiny?", and Jess Ballew, publisher of the Saturday Evening Post, will give a summary in his remarks on "Today's Events — How They Cast Their Shadows."

Dr. Robert C. Weaver, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will speak to a general session the morning of Nov. 17. Philip N. Brownstein, assistant secretary for mortgage credit, and Don Hummel, assistant secretary for renewal and housing assistance in the department, will speak also.

"Real Estate As I Saw It In Hong Kong" will be one of five addresses by members of the American Chapter, International Real Estate Federation, describing real estate practices and potential in various countries visited by chapter members en route to the IREF congress in Japan last spring. The American Chapter's open session Nov. 13 will be highlighted by discussions on real estate in New Zealand, Australia, Hong Kong, The Philippines, and Japan. The chapter is one of nine professional affiliates of the national association.

"WHAT MAKES Women Buy" is the topic to be covered by Mrs. Edna A. Lundberg, Realtor, Arcadia, Calif., at an educational program sponsored by the Women's Council, another affiliate of NAREB.

Hundreds of speakers are scheduled to address the many panel discussions, roundtable conferences, lecture groups, and other sessions to be sponsored by NAREB, its committees, and its institutes during the convention.

Close Driver Test Sites on Saturdays

Beginning this week, driver license examining stations will no longer be open on Saturdays, according to Secretary of State Paul Powell. He added that all divisions of his office, including the examining stations, will be closed tomorrow (Friday) in observance of Veterans Day.

Powell blamed the Saturday closing on lack of cooperation on the part of the public, who swarmed to take driving tests on Saturdays when they "could easily have taken the examination during the week."

The result, he said, was overcrowding to the point where applicants presenting themselves later than 10 a.m. had to be turned away in many cases, while those who could be accepted had to take the examination under "extremely distracting circumstances." (A15

Style Show, Slides on Club Agenda

"Flights to Fashion," the luncheon-fashion show planned by Prospect Heights Woman's Club, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16, in Itasca Country Club. Proceeds of the show will go to the club's philanthropies, Seventh District and Federated projects.

Reservation deadline has been set for Friday, Nov. 11, according to Mrs. Todd Olson, LE 7-1155, reservations chairman.

Tonight (Thursday) at 8, members of the club will be meeting in the Prospect Heights Ann Sullivan School at Schoenbeck and Palatine Roads, for a lecture and slide demonstration by Lt. William Andrew. Lt. Andrew has just returned from active duty in Viet Nam. Admission is free and all area residents are invited. (S

Nab Youth In Chase

A 14-year-old Mount Prospect youth was the object of an early morning police chase through streets of Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows Monday.

Arlington Heights police gave the boy four traffic tickets when the chase ended in the 1600 block of W. Central Road.

ONE POLICE squad car and several residential lawns were damaged before the teenager was captured after the 90 mile an hour chase, police said.

Police charged the youth for driving with no operators license, attempting to elude police officers, reckless driving and damage to village property.

He is scheduled to appear in Family Court Nov. 30 at 9 a.m.

Zoning Battle Goes To Court Monday

Arlington Heights' legal battle against county zoning practices is slated to come before Circuit Court Judge Daniel A. Covelli Monday at 2 p.m.

The village, joined in its fight by Mount Prospect, is suing six parties involved in county rezoning of a tract located between Kirchhoff and Central roads west of Kennicott Avenue.

The suit, filed in court last summer, represents an attempt to legally block development of a high-rise apartment complex on the contested land. Present plans of the developers, Tec Associates, Inc., call for 708 one-, two- and three-bedroom apartment units.

According to state statute, a municipality has a right to oppose county rezoning of land within 1.5 miles of its limits. If the municipality files an objection, the statute requires a two-thirds majority of the 15-man county board to approve the rezoning request. The land in this case is less than a mile from the village limits.

DESPITE strong objections from Arlington Heights, the 12 county board members voting on the rezoning approved it unanimously.

Speaking last July when the case was filed, village attorney Jack Siegel said the village had not been able to present its case to the county board and had not been notified that the zoning case was coming up.

Village Pres. John G. Woods at that time explained that the village's consistent opposition to such zoning cases was based on the contention that the county allows building developments to be constructed but leaves the municipality with the problems of providing police and fire protection and utilities.

The six defendants named in the present suit are: Daniel J. Ferrone, county building commissioner; Bernard J. O'Brien, county zoning administrator; LaSalle National Bank of Chicago, property owners; Sidney R. Olson, director of the county recording office; Tec Associates, Inc.; and Seymour Simon, president of the county board of commissioners. (A(M

'French Abroad' Program Offered

"French Abroad" will be offered for High School District 214 students again this year.

The program, which makes it possible for area high schoolers to have intensive summer study of the French language and customs was first tried last year.

Twenty-seven local students took the trip, chaperoned by district French teacher Mrs. Miriam Wood and her husband Tim, a science teacher.

THE WOODS, who have studied and traveled in Europe, will again serve as guides for next summer's "French Abroad" course.

The destination of the group — as it was last summer — will be a lycee in provincial Quimper. There the local boys and girls will attend classes taught entirely in French.

Cost of the trip will be $900; including all expenses except spending money. (ACME

Scotch Off the Rocks

Consumption of Scotch whisky has risen 113 per cent in the United States in the past 10 years, compared with a gain of 26.3 per cent for all whiskies, and 47.6 per cent for all distilled spirits.

Cost of Keeping Warm

Heating and utility bills have increased — right along with the wage-earner's income — from 3.3 per cent in the 1950s to 5.3 per cent today.

California Smog Toll

Smog damage to crops in California is estimated at $132 million a year.

DIABETES WEEK
NOVEMBER 13th to 20th

There are too many unknowing diabetics, so this week is set aside to urge every susceptible person to make a safety check. Because there are no discomfort pains at the onset of diabetes, this disease can cause serious harm before normal discovery.

If there is a history of any diabetics in the family and especially if overweight, diabetes is a hazard. About one out of every 50 has it. A quick easy test is to dip a strip of testing paper in the urine. If there is a color change showing sugar, a more positive test by a physician is a "must." We stock this testing paper in our very complete Diabetic-Aids section.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Nab Youth In Chase

A 14-year-old Mount Prospect youth was the object of an early morning police chase through streets of Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows Monday.

Arlington Heights police gave the boy four traffic tickets when the chase ended in the 1600 block of W. Central Road.

ONE POLICE squad car and several residential lawns were damaged before the teenager was captured after the 90 mile an hour chase, police said.

Police charged the youth for driving with no operators license, attempting to elude police officers, reckless driving and damage to village property.

He is scheduled to appear in Family Court Nov. 30 at 9 a.m.

Ginny Tiu Back for 2nd Show

Second performances of the Ginny Tiu Revue will be at 1 and 3 p.m. Sunday in Elk Grove High School Little Theatre.

The first performance was Nov. 6. Tickets are 75 cents and can be purchased from members of the District 59 Parents Arts Council, the sponsor.

THE PROGRAM is a musical revue by Miss Tiu, her brother, two younger sisters and their mother and father.

The District 59 Parents Arts Council is a non profit corporation formed by parents to foster cultural activities for district children. (A(M(E

Zoning Battle Goes To Court Monday

Arlington Heights' legal battle against county zoning practices is slated to come before Circuit Court Judge Daniel A. Covelli Monday at 2 p.m.

The village, joined in its fight by Mount Prospect, is suing six parties involved in county rezoning of a tract located between Kirchhoff and Central roads west of Kennicott Avenue.

The suit, filed in court last summer, represents an attempt to legally block development of a high-rise apartment complex on the contested land. Present plans of the developers, Tec Associates, Inc., call for 708 one-, two- and three-bedroom apartment units.

According to state statute, a municipality has a right to oppose county rezoning of land within 1.5 miles of its limits. If the municipality files an objection, the statute requires a two-thirds majority of the 15-man county board to approve the rezoning request. The land in this case is less than a mile from the village limits.

DESPITE strong objections from Arlington Heights, the 12 county board members voting on the rezoning approved it unanimously.

Speaking last July when the case was filed, village attorney Jack Siegel said the village had not been able to present its case to the county board and had not been notified that the zoning case was coming up.

Village Pres. John G. Woods at that time explained that the village's consistent opposition to such zoning cases was based on the contention that the county allows building developments to be constructed but leaves the municipality with the problems of providing police and fire protection and utilities.

The six defendants named in the present suit are: Daniel J. Ferrone, county building commissioner; Bernard J. O'Brien, county zoning administrator; LaSalle National Bank of Chicago, property owners; Sidney R. Olson, director of the county recording office; Tec Associates, Inc.; and Seymour Simon, president of the county board of commissioners. (A(M

Forest View News

Chris Hilgeman, S. Busse Road, made a cross country trip, as a student flier, to Madison, Janesville and Rockford on Sunday.

The Keith Fleckensteins of Elmwood Park were Sunday guests of the Otto Gorgius family, S. Busse Road.

Birthday greetings this week go to Michael Treder, Roxanne Wilder, Jim Beck, Robin Bender, Jill Fata, Laura Jacobson, Ted Strand, Lori Kay Wilson, Cathie Wunar and Robert Cameron.

Best wishes for their Nov. 10 anniversary to Joan and Robert Steger and on Nov. 14 to Mr. and Mrs. R. Curlo.

Colonial Heights

Mrs. Charles Carroll, Estates Drive, spent a week in Detroit visiting her sister, Miss Effie Faulstick, a nurse at Henry Ford Hospital. Upon her return home accompanied by her sister, their brother, Erwin Faulstick from Cleveland, Ohio, drove down for a week's visit. Last week the Carrolls and Miss Faulstick spent a day in Milwaukee visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mayers, Estates Drive, gave a costume dinner party on Oct. 29. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Steven Speltz of Mount Prospect, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Zalesky of Prospect Heights and Mr. and Mrs. John Kating of Arlington Heights.

On Nov. 5, Mr. and Mrs. Mayers dined at Weller's Restaurant with Mrs. and Mrs. John Levantes of Morton Grove.

MR. AND MRS. William Cameron, Martha Lane, spent Tuesday enjoying a birthday party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Guertin in Westchester.

The Cameron family visited the senior William Camerons in Westchester on Thursday evening, where they joined members of the family in making a tape to send to relatives in Germany.

A welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. William McManamon and their four children: Kathleen, 7; Billy, 4; Martin, 3; and Maureen, 1. They moved recently into their new home at 718 Crestwood Lane.

Kathleen celebrated her seventh birthday with playmates attending her party. Billy celebrated his third birthday on Saturday with a family party.

Elk Ridge Villa

Friday evening the Leonard Kiolbassa family, Robert Drive, together with members of their club and their families, attended the Ice Follies at the Chicago Stadium.

Sunday the Kiolbassas had a family dinner party for Alice's nephew, James Zak, who is home on furlough from the Air Force in Texas. Other guests were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Serbin, Robert Drive, and the Stanley Zak family of Addison.

The Bill Mallian family, Robert Drive, attended the Ice Follies at the Chicago Stadium on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Beck, Robert Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Antonson, Birch Drive, attended a Halloween party in the home of Ted and Linda Avesing in Des Plaines on Oct. 29.

Saturday evening the Becks and the Antonsons attended a surprise birthday party for George Aigner and Richard Segebarth given by their wives at the Aigner home in Melrose Park. (AME

SUNDAY'S SERMON

COOPERATION

Cooperation is a word that many people use only when they are seeking help or assistance. How often has someone contacted you with the words, "We'd like to have your cooperation"? Certainly, more often than you have been contacted by someone who heard you had a job that needed doing and was ready with assistance.

Working together is what makes a baseball or a football team a winning combination. But here, under the guidance of a coach, each man recognizes he has a job to do and by doing that job well he contributes to the success of the team.

In everyday life, many of us pass up the opportunity to do our part. We never volunteer when we see a job that needs doing. Someone else always takes care of it, sooner or later.

Look around you. Isn't there some way you can be helpful? Don't you have some time you can give to some worthy endeavor?

Select your own job that needs doing and offer to do it. You'll be surprised at how good it will make you feel.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED USERS

Before you call an ad-visor to place your

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS AD

consider this:

You are about to invest money for an ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results:

1. DON'T OMIT THE ADDRESS

Many out-of-town readers will write you, but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. DON'T OMIT THE PHONE NUMBER

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. DON'T USE BLIND BOX NUMBERS

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. DON'T CONCEAL THE PRICE DESIRED

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. DON'T LEAVE HOME ON THE DAYS YOU ADVERTISE

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. DON'T OMIT IMPORTANT WORDS TO SAVE MONEY

Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and amount to much less in the long run.

7. DON'T OVERLOOK OUR LOWER RATE FOR CONSECUTIVE INSERTIONS

You'll get the biggest parade of readers at the lowest price. Your Needs Satisfied thru Paddock Publications Classified.

Cooperation is a word that many people use only when they are seeking help or assistance. How often has someone contacted you with the words, "We'd like to have your cooperation"? Certainly, more often than you have been contacted by someone who heard you had a job that needed doing and was ready with assistance.

Working together is what makes a baseball or a football team a winning combination. But here, under the guidance of a coach, each man recognizes he has a job to do and by doing that job well he contributes to the success of the team.

In everyday life, many of us pass up the opportunity to do our part. We never volunteer when we see a job that needs doing. Someone else always takes care of it, sooner or later.

Look around you. Isn't there some way you can be helpful? Don't you have some time you can give to some worthy endeavor?

Select your own job that needs doing and offer to do it. You'll be surprised at how good it will make you feel.

MSL Cites League Grid Standouts

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by

BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

A Rewarding Grid Season . . .

From the very beginning, when they first assembled as freshmen in the fall of 1963, they were a very special group.

"There wasn't any doubt then," Arlington's Al Allen said this week, "that they had some exceptional ability.

"We looked at them through that entire freshman season and knew that if they stayed together they had tremendous possibilities."

Now, three years later, that group, with invaluable help from the junior and sophomore classes, has just completed an unbeaten season, only the second in school history, and has grabbed a share of the Mid-Suburban Conference football championship.

"It's the best group I've ever had," admits Allen who is a veteran in Illinois schoolboy coaching ranks.

"There's more depth here, more balance, and more ability than on any of my other teams."

Allen is not unfamiliar with unbeaten clubs. He coached three at Shelbyville, Ill. High School. He's guided seven conference champions. He's coached many outstanding boys, including seven All-Staters.

Al still remembers some of those early coaching days at Moweaqua, Ill., and Shelbyville and his two seasons at Kankakee.

He remembers some of his top performers.

There was Larry Chaney, a 6-9, 315-pound giant center at Shelbyville who survived all the cuts in Canadian ball before quitting. Dave Faulkner was a 6-1, 285-pound tackle who teamed with Chaney in the same forward wall.

Bob Hayes, a 160-pound halfback, averaged a fantastic 16.7 yards per carry in earning Little All-State honors at Moweaqua. Paul Jordan, now on the Forest View staff, and Dick Fulk, now at Maine West, also starred for Allen at Moweaqua.

Larry Hinton was a stickout prep quarterback at Shelbyville who now lives in Arlington Heights and coaches at Glenbrook South. Roger Miller was another quarterback of prominence under Allen's tutelage at Shelbyville.

At Kankakee the big names were tackles Mike Beinor, who went on to play at Northwestern, and Ron Flammond, who attended New Mexico.

There have been many outstanding teams, many outstanding boys.

But when Allen has guided his final team, when he decides to step out of the coaching game, this 1966 Arlington High School entry is the one he'll remember most vividly.

There are many reasons, not the least of which is that the boy who engineered the offense, the boy who shattered every school passing record is his son.

It's never easy for a coach to direct his own boy in any sport. Many shy away from the challenge.

Cries of favoritism ring out, and in some cases a coach will find himself unduly critical of his own boy's performance. It can be a touchy situation.

"I was a little leery about starting Steve as a sophomore with the varsity," Al recalls. "But the coaches convinced me that it was the right thing to do."

Allen, detaching himself as a father in evaluating Steve's effort in football, points to a "real dedication of the game."

"He's always been a student of football," Al said. "And he never let the pressure that goes with the job of quarterback bother him. He has the ability — and the poise."

Al feels there are at least six or seven boys on this 1966 Arlington entry who could play at any college.

"The abilities are there," he points out, "but they are abilities that can be improved upon if the boys so desire."

Although graduation will strip this unbeaten Arlington team of several exceptional performers, Allen does see a bright football future at the oldest District 214 school.

"All the way down the line," he emphasizes, "the program looks strong. And this sophomore class, in particular, may even be better than the current senior group because there's more of them.

"Our system is operating now the way we want it. You just can't give enough credit to the entire coaching staff for the job they've done at all levels.

"We were very satisfied with our season," he summed up, "but there's still something to shoot at. No team has ever gone all the way through without even a tie, winning all eight games."

Regardless what transpires in his coaching future Al Allen will have a hard time forgetting this 1966 Arlington High varsity.

They brought many honors to a school that admittedly needed a boost in its football fortunes. They helped revive a rich tradition.

When Illinois State University surprised Northern Illinois last Saturday, 27-8, it was former Prospect High quarterback Mike Phillips at the controls for the winners and former Forest View whiz Mike Griesman at command of the losing Huskies. While Griesman has been doing a standout job as the Northern quarterback, Phillips was playing in his first game as a starter for Illinois State. He earned the assignment with a 12-for-22 passing performance against Bradley. The boys were also opponents as preps although Phillips didn't see any action at quarterback in the Knights' 26-14 win over Forest View in 1963. Griesman hit on seven of 17 passes in that contest.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

End Dan Vittum and halfback Ashley Haase of Arlington were named to the West Suburban Conference all-star football team . . . Arlington opened basketball drills under coach Howard Lester with four lettermen: 6-4 Bill Palmer, 6-4 Tom Jacobsen, 6-0 Pat Brownell, and 6-0 Dan Vittum.

All-Star Contests In Boys Football

The Arlington Heights Boys Football Program, consisting of 360 boys between the 5th and 8th grades of school, will climax the 1966 season with their seventh Annual All-Star bonanza of games on this Saturday at the Arlington High School stadium.

Twelve squads of fifteen top-flight players each, representing their respective teams in the Junior, Varsity and Senior divisions, will pair off in North vs South intra-league competition for the team trophy of each league that is kept in the Elks Lodge in Arlington Heights.

The event will be sponsored by the Elks Club of Arlington Heights under the direction of Harvey DeHart, program chairman.

After each game the individual championship trophies will be awarded to each boy of that team.

Junior league action will start at 5:30 with Varsity competition to begin at 7:15. The Senior league game time is set for 8:45.

Cage Exhibition

Prospect High School will stage an inter-squad basketball game next Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the fieldhouse.

Dick Kinneman is at the helm of the Knight varsity which will be paced by All-State candidate Tom Lundstedt.

SOMETHING IN COMMON. In 42 years of varsity football competition Arlington High School has produced only two unbeaten teams, the 1938 outfit coached by John Grose and now the 1966 team coached by Al Allen. Recounting those memorable campaigns are (front, left to right) Bill Beckman, a guard on the 1938 entry and now athletic director at Forest View; and Steve Allen, senior quarterback on the '66 powerhouse; and (back row, l. to r.) Bill Langhorst, end on the 1938 team; John Grose, coach of those '38 Cardinals; and Al Allen, headman of the 1966 squad. Both teams finished with 7-0-1 records.

Cards' Offense Tops

(A Paddock Sports Exclusive)

A Mid-Suburban League coach's dream team would couple the awesome Arlington offense with a platoon of Wheeling defenders.

Final MSL statistics—a Paddock Publications sports department exclusive—revealed that ideal grid unit this week while placing the Cardinals in a near-monopoly among department leaders.

The figures verified Arlington's supremacy in league encounters with top Cardinal individual rankings in four of five offensive categories to go with the loop's best total team offense and top team passing honors.

ONLY WHEELING'S defense, Maine West's rushing total and the individual ground gaining of Ken Mandelky prevented coach Al Allen's squad from completely dominating the final figures.

Arlington, with a combined rushing and passing tally of 2,207 yards, outdistanced Maine by nearly 600 yards to collect team total offense laurels. Maine was easily in front on the ground, but with a final passing mark of 263, only 15 yards better than the last-place Cougars, barely edged Forest View and Wheeling for runner-up honors.

Arlington's total passing yardage, which more than doubled every other league entry, was primarily the work of Steve Allen, who also gained the nod as high scorer, number one thrower and best offensive threat.

HE WAS joined among the individual leaders by teammate Steve Conley in the pass receiving department, edging another Cardinal, Jim Donchess for the reception crown.

Mandelky was also threatened by a Cardinal for rushing supremacy. Conley, along with Forest View's Hank Tasche were only 38 yards away from the ground gaining title at season's end.

From a team standpoint, interesting points brought to surface by the statistics included the fact that Prospect escaped last place both offensively and defensively despite their seventh-place rating on the standings ladder.

A 413-YARD passing total for the Knights was only 44 yards away from second-place Wheeling's performance, slipping them ahead of Conant on offense.

Defensively, a 508-yard allowance by their secondary allowed the Knights to take over fifth place.

Wheeling, however, clearly held the upper hand on defense against the rest of the league, allowing only 729 yards for an average loop yield of 122.

ALLEN WAS not threatened for the passing throne. Rich Gillespie of the Falcons copped second place with 405 yards

Nine Arlington Boys Honored

Wheeling, MW Have Five On First Team

The most meaningful athletic equation in the book may be this: talent equals success.

It is why, to put it simply, that at a season's end it is usually found that those who won were those who had the talent.

It was so again Monday evening as the football coaches of the Mid-Suburban League met in conclave at Prospect High School to designate the best in the league for 1966.

They selected 23 boys as the MSL's all-stars for the season, and cited 14 others with honorable mention recognition. And of the first 23, all but four competed in the name of co-champions Arlington and Maine West, and runnerup Wheeling.

And it was the Cardinals — 5-0-1 in the league and 7-0-1 over-all — who clearly dominated. Nine Arlington grid-men were named to the first team, and four more gained honorable mention. Maine West and Wheeling each had five first team choices, while two Warriors and one Wildcat were on the honorable mention list.

THE HONOR squad was filled out by fourth place Forest View and fifth place Palatine, each with two players cited. Neither Conant, sixth in the loop, nor Prospect, last in the MSL, had a first team selection, though two Cougars and one Knight rated honorable mention.

The squad was predictably senior-dominated, with just two repeaters from the 1965 all-MSL unit: Wheeling fullback Jon Hittman and Maine West center Craig Rowells.

Four of the first 23 were unanimous choices, among them Arlington quarterback Steve Allen, Arlington halfback Steve Conley, Forest View fullback Henry Tasche and Maine's Rowells.

And six of the boys were recommended by the league for all-state consideration: Allen, Conley, Tasche, Rowells, Arlington end Dave Lockwood and Wheeling tackle George Legh-Page.

The 1966 all-MSL selections were these:

JON HITTMAN

DAVE LOCKWOOD

Ends

DAVE LOCKWOOD

This 6-1, 185-pound senior is the greatest pass receiver in Arlington High history. He pulled down 43 passes for 851 yards in three varsity campaigns and ranked fourth in the Mid-Suburban this fall with 14 receptions for 382 yards and six scores. He had his biggest day against Palatine when he collected six passes for 178 yards and two touchdowns. Lockwood is a very coachable boy with good moves and speed. He is an "A" student.

TOM PYRON

Highly-rated among coaches and competitors around the Mid-Suburban League, Pyron was one of those ends who did not make his reputation with offensive statistics. Not even a regular last year, Pyron won a starting berth this season and was one of the principals in the wave blocking that so often keyed Maine West advances.

RAY PACE

Pace's contributions to the powerful Wheeling entry weren't reflected in the pass receiving totals. The 6-2, 190-pounder was noted for his excellent blocking and defensive work. Ninety-five per cent of Wheeling's running plays went to Pace's side. Ray is strong and rugged, a bulwark in the touted 'Cat forward wall.

BILL GILL

A two-year varisty regular for Palatine who played both ways in both seasons, Gill led the Pirates on offense with six touchdowns and on defense with 58 tackles this campaign. He ranked third in the MSL in pass receiving with 15 catches for 253 yards and four touchdowns, and was actually the second most effective end in that category. A good student as well

MSL Cites League Grid Standouts

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by
BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

A Rewarding Grid Season . . .

From the very beginning, when they first assembled as freshmen in the fall of 1963, they were a very special group.

"There wasn't any doubt then," Arlington's Al Allen said this week, "that they had some exceptional ability.

"We looked at them through that entire freshman season and knew that if they stayed together they had tremendous possibilities."

Now, three years later, that group, with invaluable help from the junior and sophomore classes, has just completed an unbeaten season, only the second in school history, and has grabbed a share of the Mid-Suburban Conference football championship.

"It's the best group I've ever had," admits Allen who is a veteran in Illinois schoolboy coaching ranks.

"There's more depth here, more balance, and more ability than on any of my other teams."

Allen is not unfamiliar with unbeaten clubs. He coached three at Shelbyville, Ill. High School. He's guided seven conference champions. He's coached many outstanding boys, including seven All-Staters.

Al still remembers some of those early coaching days at Moweaqua, Ill., and Shelbyville and his two seasons at Kankakee.

He remembers some of his top performers.

There was Larry Chaney, a 6-9, 315-pound giant center at Shelbyville who survived all the cuts in Canadian ball before quitting. Dave Faulkner was a 6-1, 285-pound tackle who teamed with Chaney in the same forward wall.

Bob Hayes, a 160-pound halfback, averaged a fantastic 16.7 yards per carry in earning Little All-State honors at Moweaqua. Paul Jordan, now on the Forest View staff, and Dick Fulk, now at Maine West, also starred for Allen at Moweaqua.

Larry Hinton was a stickout prep quarterback at Shelbyville who now lives in Arlington Heights and coaches at Glenbrook South. Roger Miller was another quarterback of prominence under Allen's tutelage at Shelbyville.

At Kankakee the big names were tackles Mike Beinor, who went on to play at Northwestern, and Ron Flammond, who attended New Mexico.

There have been many outstanding teams, many outstanding boys.

But when Allen has guided his final team, when he decides to step out of the coaching game, this 1966 Arlington High School entry is the one he'll remember most vividly.

There are many reasons, not the least of which is that the boy who engineered the offense, the boy who shattered every school passing record is his son.

It's never easy for a coach to direct his own boy in any sport. Many shy away from the challenge.

Cries of favoritism ring out, and in some cases a coach will find himself unduly critical of his own boy's performance. It can be a touchy situation.

"I was a little leery about starting Steve as a sophomore with the varsity," Al recalls. "But the coaches convinced me that it was the right thing to do."

Allen, detaching himself as a father in evaluating Steve's effort in football, points to a "real dedication of the game."

"He's always been a student of football," Al said. "And he never let the pressure that goes with the job of quarterback bother him. He has the ability — and the poise."

Al feels there are at least six or seven boys on this 1966 Arlington entry who could play at any college.

"The abilities are there," he points out, "but they are abilities that can be improved upon if the boys so desire."

Although graduation will strip this unbeaten Arlington team of several exceptional performers, Allen does see a bright football future at the oldest District 214 school.

"All the way down the line," he emphasizes, "the program looks strong. And this sophomore class, in particular, may even be better than the current senior group because there's more of them.

"Our system is operating now the way we want it. You just can't give enough credit to the entire coaching staff for the job they've done at all levels.

"We were very satisfied with our season," he summed up, "but there's still something to shoot at. No team has ever gone all the way through without even a tie, winning all eight games."

Regardless what transpires in his coaching future Al Allen will have a hard time forgetting this 1966 Arlington High varsity.

They brought many honors to a school that admittedly needed a boost in its football fortunes. They helped revive a rich tradition.

When Illinois State University surprised Northern Illinois last Saturday, 27-8, it was former Prospect High quarterback Mike Phillips at the controls for the winners and former Forest View whiz Mike Griesman at command of the losing Huskies. While Griesman has been doing a standout job as the Northern quarterback, Phillips was playing in his first game as a starter for Illinois State. He earned the assignment with a 12-for-22 passing performance against Bradley. The boys were also opponents as preps although Phillips didn't see any action at quarterback in the Knights' 26-14 win over Forest View in 1963. Griesman hit on seven of 17 passes in that contest.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

End Dan Vittum and halfback Ashley Haase of Arlington were named to the West Suburban Conference all-star football team . . . Arlington opened basketball drills under coach Howard Lester with four lettermen: 6-4 Bill Palmer, 6-4 Tom Jacobsen, 6-0 Pat Brownell, and 6-0 Dan Vittum.

All-Star Contests In Boys Football

The Arlington Heights Boys Football Program, consisting of 360 boys between the 5th and 8th grades of school, will climax the 1966 season with their seventh Annual All-Star bonanza of games on this Saturday at the Arlington High School stadium.

Twelve squads of fifteen top-flight players each, representing their respective teams in the Junior, Varsity and Senior divisions, will pair off in North vs South intra-league competition for the team trophy of each league that is kept in the Elks Lodge in Arlington Heights.

The event will be sponsored by the Elks Club of Arlington Heights under the direction of Harvey DeHart, program chairman.

After each game the individual championship trophies will be awarded to each boy of that team.

Junior league action will start at 5:30 with Varsity competition to begin at 7:15. The Senior league game time is set for 8:45.

Cage Exhibition

Prospect High School will stage an inter-squad basketball game next Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the fieldhouse.

Dick Kinneman is at the helm of the Knight varsity which will be paced by All-State candidate Tom Lundstedt.

SOMETHING IN COMMON. In 42 years of varsity football competition Arlington High School has produced only two unbeaten teams, the 1938 outfit coached by John Grose and now the 1966 team coached by Al Allen. Recounting those memorable campaigns are (front, left to right) Bill Beckman, a guard on the 1938 entry and now athletic director at Forest View; and Steve Allen, senior quarterback on the '66 powerhouse; and (back row, l. to r.) Bill Langhorst, end on the 1938 team; John Grose, coach of those '38 Cardinals; and Al Allen, headman of the 1966 squad. Both teams finished with 7-0-1 records.

'Cats Rule Defense

Cards' Offense Tops

(A Paddock Sports Exclusive)

A Mid-Suburban League coach's dream team would couple the awesome Arlington offense with a platoon of Wheeling defenders.

Final MSL statistics—a Paddock Publications sports department exclusive—revealed that ideal grid unit this week while placing the Cardinals in a near-monopoly among department leaders.

The figures verified Arlington's supremacy in league encounters with top Cardinal individual rankings in four of five offensive categories to go with the loop's best total team offense and top team passing honors.

ONLY WHEELING'S defense, Maine West's rushing total and the individual ground gaining of Ken Mandelky prevented coach Al Allen's squad from completely dominating the final figures.

Arlington, with a combined rushing and passing tally of 2,207 yards, outdistanced Maine by nearly 600 yards to collect team total offense laurels. Maine was easily in front on the ground, but with a final passing mark of 263, only 15 yards better than the last-place Cougars, barely edged Forest View and Wheeling for runner-up honors.

Arlington's total passing yardage, which more than doubled every other league entry, was primarily the work of Steve Allen, who also gained the nod as high scorer, number one thrower and best offensive threat.

HE WAS joined among the individual leaders by teammate Steve Conley in the pass receiving department, edging another Cardinal, Jim Donchess for the reception crown.

Mandelky was also threatened by a Cardinal for rushing supremacy. Conley, along with Forest View's Hank Tasche were only 38 yards away from the ground gaining title at season's end.

From a team standpoint, interesting points brought to surface by the statistics included the fact that Prospect escaped last place both offensively and defensively despite their seventh-place rating on the standings ladder.

A 413-YARD passing total for the Knights was only 44 yards away from second-place Wheeling's performance, slipping them ahead of Conant on offense.

Defensively, a 508-yard allowance by their secondary allowed the Knights to take over fifth place.

Wheeling, however, clearly held the upper hand on defense against the rest of the league, allowing only 729 yards for an average loop yield of 122.

ALLEN WAS not threatened for the passing throne. Rich Gillespie of the Falcons copped second place with 405 yards

The 1966 all-MSL selections were these:

DAVE LOCKWOOD

Ends

DAVE LOCKWOOD

This 6-1, 185-pound senior is the greatest pass receiver in Arlington High history. A two-year varisty regular for Palatine who played both ways in both seasons, Gill led the Pirates on offense with six touchdowns and on defense with 58 tackles this campaign. He ranked third in the MSL in pass receiving with 15 catches for 253 yards and four touchdowns, and was actually the second most effective end in that category. A good student as well

Knights In Soph Win Over FV

Prospect's sophomore squad climaxed their 1966 season with a 13-0 blanking of Forest View to finish with a 5-1-1 league mark.

They also continued the shutout pattern that only Arlington was able to interrupt when they issued the Knights their only league defeat.

The game's clincher came on a 35-yard pass play from Van Kamper to Bob Anderson in the second period. Steve Grant was successful on the subsequent conversion kick.

Grant added a fourth quarter score to Prospect's point total for good measure, plunging across the goal line from five yards out.

Defensive standouts for the winners included Dave Weber and Rick Soduski. Both snagged Forest View passes to cut short scoring drives.

The only blemish on the Knight loop record in addition to their loss to Arlington was a 0-0 standoff. Their final overall mark was 5-2-1.

Brown Is Third In Loop Run

CRAIG BROWN

Craig Brown, a Forest View High School graduate who is a freshman at Wisconsin State University in Oshkosh, finished third in the Wisconsin State conference cross country run.

Brown, running at a varsity level, compiled an impressive record in his freshman year. He garnered five first places, two seconds, and a third in cross country duals.

Brown was a standout in high school for coach Bob Rees at Forest View as the Falcons won league laurels.

He topped the Mid-Suburban Conference meet and finished second in the district behind the eventual state champ Mike Collins of New Trier. He was 17th downstate.

During his senior year Brown ran in 15 races for Forest View, taking firsts in 10 duals, the Janesville Invitational, and the league run.

Wheeling Jayvees Win 19-0

Wheeling's junior varsity gridders finished up their 1966 season with their fourth straight triumph Saturday by trimming Maine West 19-0.

Although Coe Meyer supplied most of the scoring ammunition, the most significant Wildcat performance was turned in by lineman Pat McGuire, in his inaugural appearance in the backfield.

AFTER MEYER had shattered a halftime scoreless tie with third and fourth period touchdowns, coach Frank Miller shifted McGuire from guard to fullback and concentrated the Wheeling offense on him.

McGuire obliged by registering the final Cat TD. Jay Newman contributed the extra point.

Outstanding on defense were tackle Mike Stoik and guard Matt Porzel.

The Wildcat JVs finished with a 5-2 over-all record.

No Contest . . .

The highest score ever run up by a Big Ten team was a 146-0 clobbering of Grinnell by the University of Minnesota in a game played in September, 1904.

The biggest score against a conference opponent was a 107-0 recording with Michigan the victor and Iowa the loser. This 1902.

Falcons Coast Past Prospect in Finale

by BOB NORDIN

The 1966 football season is over and two area coaches will no doubt breathe a sigh of relief and be at least a little glad.

Don Williams of Prospect and Bob Scott of Forest View have just suffered through disappointing seasons, but Williams should get the bigger share of sympathy as his Knights dropped the season finale to the Falcons 34-0 to complete a winless campaign.

Like most football mentors, Scott and Williams were looking for good seasons when the opening whistle blew just eight short weeks ago. But things just didn't go their ways and Prospect finished with a 0-8 record and the Falcons held a 3-5 season log.

BOTH CLUBS were out of title contention for some time, but the Knights had hopes of dumping the Falcons and escaping a winless season as they squared off in the final contest of the season.

But things just wouldn't go their way again and the Falcons scored in every period to hand Prospect their worst record in history.

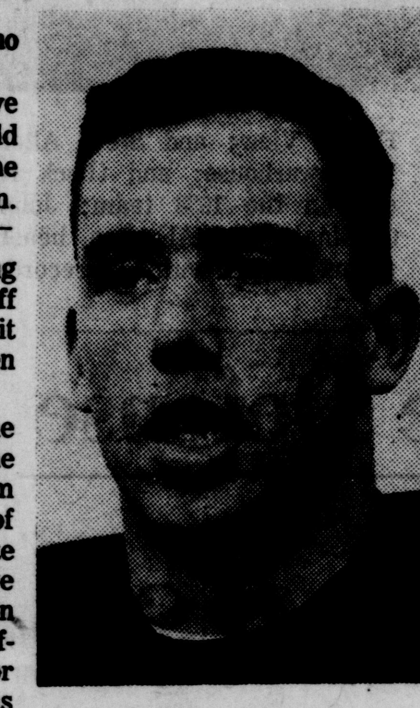
It was Forest View's ball game in every department as they ground out 309 yards on the ground and threw for a total of 90 additional yards. They held a definite edge in first downs, gaining 18 to Prospect's 11, and their defense held the Knights to less than 200 yards in total offense.

FOR THE KNIGHTS the ball game started off on the wrong foot as Forest View kicked off but recovered the kick after it had traveled the necessary ten yards.

Only a Falcon fumble at the Prospect 12 yard line kept the Forest View aggregation from scoring on their first series of plays but they came back late in the period and, after a drive from the Prospect 49, scored on an eight yard end run by halfback Bob Arnold. The try for point after by Gary Crain was no good.

After a back-and-forth battle for most of the second period the Falcons again got back on track and this time quarterback Rich Gillespie topped off the drive by throwing to Fred Berg who scored from the eight. Crain found the range on this attempt and added the extra point.

When that was finished there were only 38 seconds remaining in the half and the Falcons owned a 13-0 lead at the intermission.



BOB SAVAGE
All The Way

IN THE THIRD period a ten play drive again ended with the Falcons gaining their third score of the afternoon.

In this series Gillespie carried on three sneaks in a row and took the ball to the 24. Jeff Jacoby gained to the eight. Hank Tasche got two more up the middle and on the next play Jacoby went around the right end for the score. Crain was again accurate and upped the Falcons' lead to 20-0.

The fourth period produced two scores for the Falcons. The first of the two came as hammering Tasche cracked off left tackle and went ten yards for the score. The scoring run by Tasche followed a fine 64 yard gallop by the big fullback. Again Crain added the point.

THE FINAL FALCON score of the 1966 campaign came on a tackle eligible passplay that covered 62 yards.

After the Falcons had the ball back with just seconds remaining, tackle Bob Savage became an eligible receiver when the Falcon end dropped off the line.

Gillespie dropped back and with fine protection found Savage open. Savage took the pass and went in for the score. Crain added the point and the 1966 football season was history.

Split Frosh Games

The Knights of Prospect and the Falcons of Forest View met in the season finale for both freshmen level teams and they split in the outcome, with Forest View taking the "A" conflict 14-0, and Prospect winning the "B" tilt 14-6.

On the "A" level the young Falcons scored their first touchdown after driving 80 yards. The big play in the drive was the 50 yard touchdown pass that David Long threw to Howard Mock. Mark Ennis ran for the extra point and gave the Falcons a 7-0 lead.

The second Falcon score came in the second quarter after Rick Weaver and Mark Nelson blocked a punt on the 15 yard line. Pat Kroy recovered and a couple of plays later John Ingo scored on a five yard run. Ennis again ran for the extra point.

In the "B" game Prospect opened the scoring early in the period when Craig Hutchinson took a nine yard pass from Dan Brush and went in for the score.

In the second period the Falcons fought back and brought the score to 7-6 when Terry Shakon battled his way in for a score.

In the fourth period Prospect's Dale Morgan picked off a Forest View pass and returned it 35 yards for the final score of the day. Rich Goldstein dived off tackle to get the extra point and the Knights had a 14-6 win. Additionally, the Knight "B's" finished the campaign with a sparkling 6-1 record.

Assembly Honors Wildcat Athletes

Varsity letters went to 37 football players and five cross country runners at the fall athletic awards assembly at Wheeling High School Tuesday.

Also honored before the student body were five gridders selected to the Mid-Suburban League all-conference squad, the 1966 team captain and most valuable player, and two harriers named to co-captain the 1967 team.

Cross country choices for team captains were juniors Phil Smith and Len Eaton.

Voted by his teammates as most valuable player on the Wildcat football team this fall was Tom Bastable. In the same poll, Jon Hittman was selected team captain.

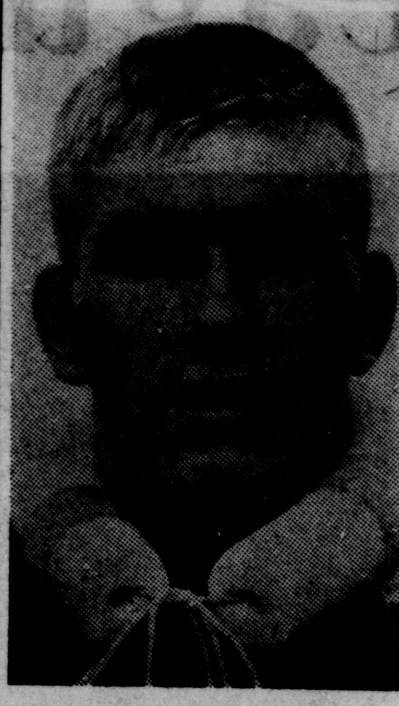
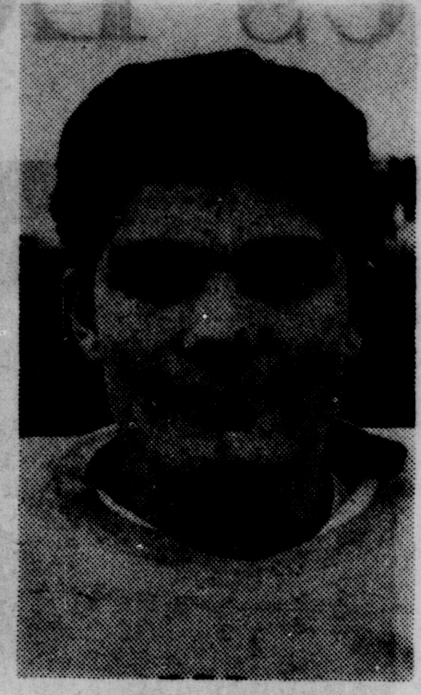
Others gaining cross country letters in addition to Smith and Eaton were Andy Black, Greg Fedyski and George Thorsen.

The varsity players, along with letter winners at the frosh, sophomore and junior varsity levels will be honored again at a potluck dinner in the Wheeling High School field house Wed., Nov. 16 at 6:30 p.m.

All-League Picks



SPENCE DREISCHARF



MIKE HENRY

as a good athlete, Gill was one of the most consistent performers in the Palatine lineup.

Tackles

KIM MARKSHAUSEN

Markshausen was a three-year varsity performer for Arlington High School, a stickout both ways. Labeled an outstanding college prospect, Kim carries 240 pounds on his 6-4 frame. He has good speed for a big man and excellent maneuverability in his linebacking position. He co-captained the unbeaten Cardinal team.

PAUL TOLLEFSON

Paul was one of two sophomores elevated to varsity status at Arlington, and he turned in some fine performances for the champs. The high point of Tollefson's first varsity season was when he recovered a fumble for a touchdown against Forest View. Paul is 5-11, 185.

DAVE BIXBY

A fixture in the Maine West line, the solid 5-9, 243-pound Bixby was one of the unheralded forces in another impressive Maine West campaign. A regular all season long and able to make good use of his physique, the Warrior senior was one of those clearing the way in the steady Maine rushing attack. Regarded as a very competitive performer.

This rugged Wheeling tackle is an excellent college prospect, a vicious blocker and superb defensive performer. Ninety-five per cent of Wheeling's running plays went toward his side. Legh-Page, a 6-2, 228-pounder, is a transfer from Texas.

Guards

MIKE HENRY

This 5-8, 192-pounder was an excellent blocker and defensive guard, an inspirational leader. The coaches labeled him the HEART of the powerful Wheeling line. Mike was a tough and rugged performer.

BRUCE WEBER

Weber, a rugged competitor, was a top boy both ways for Arlington. A crisp blocker and vicious tackler, Bruce was a two-year letterman. The 6-1, 205 pounder had his finest effort in the Cards' victory over Prospect when he was credited with 16 tackles and 16 assists from his linebacker slot. A very coachable boy.

SPENCER DREISCHARF

One of just three underclassmen on the honor unit, junior Dreischarf successfully made the switch from halfback to guard. An exceptionally strong boy who hits very hard for a high school player, his offensive blocking was all it should have been, and he was outstanding on defense. An honor student as well as a fine football player, Dreischarf shows great potential for 1967.

BRAD SOMERS

Although he was named at guard, Somers operated in one of the key pass receiving spots for Arlington. A fine all-round performer, Brad grabbed nine passes in league play for 124 yards. A very coachable boy, this 5-11, 170-pounder also lettered as a junior.

Centers

CRAIG ROWELLS

A repeat selection and one of the league's all-state nominees, Rowells won high regard from all the coaches in the league, even though missing some of the action with a shoulder injury. Excelling as an offensive blocker and defensive linebacker, Rowells was rated as one of the toughest and hardest football players to compete at Maine West in recent years.

BRAD PHILO

The lack of exceptional size didn't keep this scrappy Arlington senior from turning in a fine effort this fall. A sharp blocker, Brad only carried 155 pounds on his 5-10 frame.

Backs

STEVE ALLEN

There wasn't a passing record at Arlington High that escaped this 6-3, 175-pound standout. In three seasons of varsity competition Steve completed 177 passes for 2668 yards and 20 touchdowns. He threw for a record 1443 yards as a senior, 1031 in Mid-Suburban Conference action. Allen passed for nine touchdowns in conference play and paced the league in scoring with 65 points on eight TDs, 14 conversions, and one field goal. He also was the team punter.

HENRY TASCHE

The Forest View senior developed over the season into a strong running back, one of the few who literally had the power to run over his opponents. His development elevated him to a tie for second in league rushing with 523 yards, and to a tie for fifth in scoring, with 30 points. One of the all-state nominees, Tasche showed good speed for a big back and the sense to run outside when he had to. A fine blocker, too, his strongest point was being able to get the yard or two when it was needed.

STEVE CONLEY

Conley, a 6-3, 190-pound senior, came on fast this fall to emerge as one of the most versatile backs in the league, a dangerous, hard runner and top pass receiver. He topped the division in pass receiving and tied for second in rushing. He averaged 6.1 yards per carry in six conference outings.

JON HITTMAN

Defensive and offensive captain of the Wildcats, Hittman is a repeat all-league selection. He was most valuable player on the team as a junior. Jon was fifth in league rushing statistics with 393 yards in 90 carries, a 4.4 average. He also did the team punting.

TOM BASTABLE

Switching schools and states didn't slow down this 6-0, 172-pound standout. Tom was all-conference in football in the Detroit area as a junior. Named most valuable on the 1966 Wheeling entry, Bastable was fourth in league rushing with 396 yards, sixth in pass receiving, and second in scoring. An "A" student academically, Tom played every minute of defense as safety.

KEN MANDELKY

A stocky senior who loomed as the MSL's chief breakaway running threat, the speedy Mandelky led all the rushers in the league, even though carrying only a few times in his last two games. He charged for 558 yards, gaining at a rate of 6.1 a carry, and was able to function as a workhorse as well. He tied for second in league scoring with 42 points for Maine West.

BOB BANGER

A strong and rugged junior, Banger was frequently the one putting the ball into play for Maine West, but he showed a remarkable knack for the big offensive maneuver. He threw but six passes in league play, but completed three of them for three touchdowns and 160 yards, and in only 49 carries he rushed for 316 yards, ranking fifth in the league in total offense.

DENNIS LYNCH

Regarded as the most improved, and possibly the best fundamental football player on the Palatine team, senior Lynch met a difficult challenge by moving in as an offensive halfback for the first time this season. Though having to learn the moves of a running back, Lynch still ended as the 11th leading rusher in the MSL with 226 yards in 56 carries, and caught three passes for 30 yards and one touchdown. Able to play any position, he was a two-way performer all year.

MICK WADZITA

In his first season as a varsity regular in the backfield this 5-10, 175-pounder averaged 5.6 yards per carry in Mid-Suburban play. He ranked sixth in league rushing with 373 yards and had 120 in 11 tries against Conant for his top effort. Mick also was a standout on defense.

and also recorded the second best percentage mark among the busy passers at .461 compared with Allen's better-than .500 mark.

Seven receivers recorded 10-or-more catches in 1966 but Bill Gill of Palatine, Dave Lockwood of Arlington, Tom Lundstedt of Prospect, Tom Bastable of Wheeling and Howie Brasch of Forest View easily fell short of Conley's total of 20 and the 19 picked off by Donchess.

Giving chase to Mandelky, Conley and Tasche for the rushing title were Bastable and Jon Hittman of the Wildcats, Mick Wadzita of Arlington, Bob Banger of the Warriors and Jeff Jacoby of Forest View with showings in excess of 300 yards.

Banger claimed the best per-carry average at 6.4 while Tasche established himself as league workhorse with 98 cracks.

Allen's 1,031 yards of passing allowed him to outdistance everyone in the conference with ease for first place in total offense.

Charity Expert

In 1966 guard Henry Ebershoff hit on 59 of 64 free throw attempts in the Big Ten for an amazing .922 average. This record is second only to Jon McGlocklin who in 1965 made 36 of 39 shots for a .923 percentage.

Knights In Soph Win Over FV

Prospect's sophomore squad climaxed their 1966 season with a 13-0 blanking of Forest View to finish with a 5-1-1 league mark.

They also continued the shutout pattern that only Arlington was able to interrupt when they issued the Knights their only league defeat.

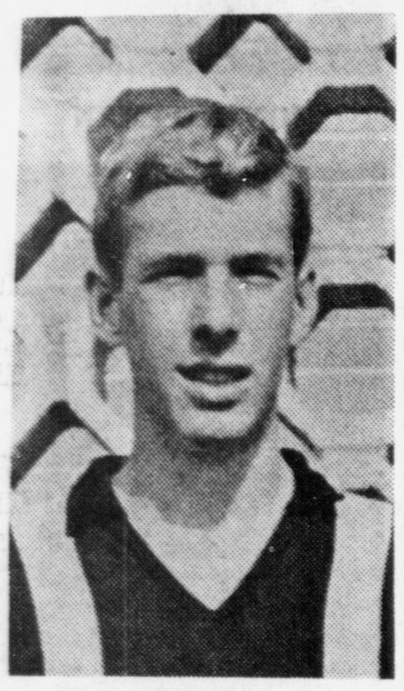
The game's clincher came on a 35-yard pass play from Van Kamper to Bob Anderson in the second period. Steve Grant was successful on the subsequent conversion kick.

Grant added a fourth quarter score to Prospect's point total for good measure, plunging across the goal line from five yards out.

Defensive standouts for the winners included Dave Weber and Rick Soduski. Both snagged Forest View passes to cut short scoring drives.

The only blemish on the Knight loop record in addition to their loss to Arlington was a 0-0 standoff. Their final overall mark was 5-2-1.

Brown Is Third In Loop Run



CRAIG BROWN

Craig Brown, a Forest View High School graduate who is a freshman at Wisconsin State University in Oshkosh, finished third in the Wisconsin State conference cross country run.

Brown, running at a varsity level, compiled an impressive record in his freshman year. He garnered five first places, two seconds, and a third in cross country duals.

Brown was a standout in high school for coach Bob Rees at Forest View as the Falcons won league laurels.

He topped the Mid-Suburban Conference meet and finished second in the district behind the eventual state champ Mike Collins of New Trier. He was 17th downstate.

During his senior year Brown ran in 15 races for Forest View, taking firsts in 10 duals, the Janesville Invitational, and the league run.

Wheeling Jayvees Win 19-0

Wheeling's junior varsity gridders finished up their 1966 season with their fourth straight triumph Saturday by trimming Maine West 19-0.

Although Coe Meyer supplied most of the scoring ammunition, the most significant Wildcat performance was turned in by lineman Pat McGuire, in his inaugural appearance in the backfield.

AFTER MEYER had shattered a halftime scoreless tie with third and fourth period touchdowns, coach Frank Miller shifted McGuire from guard to fullback and concentrated the Wheeling offense on him.

McGuire obliged by registering the final Cat TD. Jay Newman contributed the extra point.

Outstanding on defense were tackle Mike Stoik and guard Matt Porzel.

The Wildcat JVs finished with a 5-2 over-all record.

No Contest . . .

The highest score ever run up by a Big Ten team was a 146-0 clobbering of Grinnell by the University of Minnesota in a game played in September, 1904.

The biggest score against a conference opponent was a 107-0 recording with Michigan the victor and Iowa the loser. This 1902.

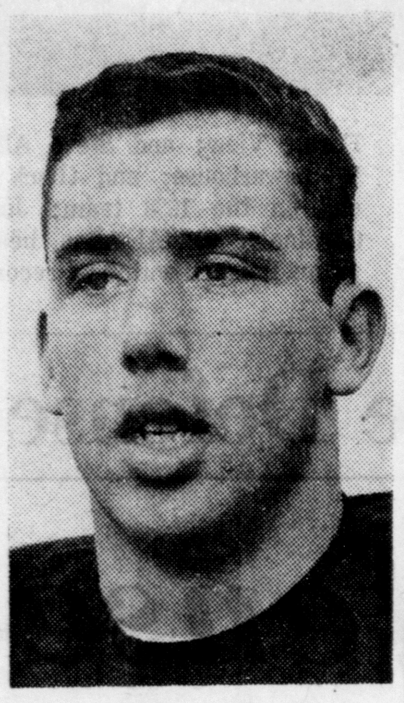
Falcons Coast Past Prospect in Finale

by BOB NORDIN

The 1966 football season is over and two area coaches will no doubt breathe a sigh of relief and be at least a little glad.

Don Williams of Prospect and Bob Scott of Forest View have just suffered through disappointing seasons, but Williams should get the bigger share of sympathy as his Knights dropped the season finale to the Falcons 34-0 to complete a winless campaign.



BOB SAVAGE
All The Way

Like most football mentors, Scott and Williams were looking for good seasons when the opening whistle blew just eight short weeks ago. But things just didn't go their ways and Prospect finished with a 0-8 record and the Falcons held a 3-5 season log.

BOTH CLUBS were out of title contention for some time, but the Knights had hopes of dumping the Falcons and escaping a winless season as they squared off in the final contest of the season.

But things just wouldn't go their way again and the Falcons scored in every period to hand Prospect their worst record in history.

It was Forest View's ball game in every department as they ground out 309 yards on the ground and threw for a total of 90 additional yards. They held a definite edge in first downs, gaining 18 to Prospect's 11, and their defense held the Knights to less than 200 yards in total offense.

FOR THE KNIGHTS the ball game started off on the wrong foot as Forest View kicked off but recovered the kick after it had traveled the necessary ten yards.

Only a Falcon fumble at the Prospect 12 yard line kept the Forest View aggregation from scoring on their first series of plays but they came back late in the period and, after a drive from the Prospect 49, scored on an eight yard end run by halfback Bob Arnold. The try for point after by Gary Crain was no good.

After a back-and-forth battle for most of the second period the Falcons again got back on track and this time quarterback Rich Gillespie topped off the drive by throwing to Fred Berg who scored from the eight. Crain found the range on this attempt and added the extra point.

When that was finished there were only 38 seconds remaining in the half and the Falcons owned a 13-0 lead at the intermission.

IN THE THIRD period a ten play drive again ended with the Falcons gaining their third score of the afternoon.

In this series Gillespie carried on three sneaks in a row and took the ball to the 24. Jeff Jacoby gained to the eight. Hank Tasche got two more up the middle and on the next play Jacoby went around the right end for the score. Crain was again accurate and upped the Falcons' lead to 20-0.

The fourth period produced two scores for the Falcons. The first of the two came as hammering Tasche cracked off left tackle and went ten yards for the score. The scoring run by Tasche followed a fine 64 yard gallop by the big fullback. Again Crain added the point.

THE FINAL FALCON score of the 1966 campaign came on a tackle eligible passplay that covered 62 yards.

After the Falcons had the ball back with just seconds remaining, tackle Bob Savage became an eligible receiver when the Falcon end dropped off the line.

Gillespie dropped back and with fine protection found Savage open. Savage took the pass and went in for the score. Crain added the point and the 1966 football season was history.

He charged for 558 yards, gaining at a rate of 6.1 a carry, and was able to function as a workhorse as well. He tied for second in league scoring with 42 points for Maine West.

BOB BANGER

A strong and rugged junior, Banger was frequently the one putting the ball into play for Maine West, but he showed a remarkable knack for the big offensive maneuver. He threw but six passes in league play, but completed three of them for three touchdowns and 160 yards, and in only 49 carries he rushed for 316 yards, ranking fifth in the league in total offense.

DENNIS LYNCH

Regarded as the most improved, and possibly the best fundamental football player on the Palatine team, senior Lynch met a difficult challenge by moving in as an offensive halfback for the first time this season. Though having to learn the moves of a running back, Lynch still ended as the 11th leading rusher in the MSL with 226 yards in 56 carries, and caught three passes for 30 yards and one touchdown. Able to play any position, he was a two-way performer all year.

MICK WADZITA

In his first season as a varsity regular in the backfield this 5-10, 175-pounder averaged 5.6 yards per carry in Mid-Suburban play. He ranked sixth in league rushing with 373 yards and had 120 in 11 tries against Conant for his top effort. Mick also was a standout on defense.

and also recorded the second best percentage mark among the busy passers at .461 compared with Allen's better-than .500 mark.

Seven receivers recorded 10-or-more catches in 1966 but Bill Gill of Palatine, Dave Lockwood of Arlington, Tom Lundstedt of Prospect, Tom Bastable of Wheeling and Howie Brasch of Forest View easily fell short of Conley's total of 20 and the 19 picked off by Donchess.

Giving chase to Mandelky, Conley and Tasche for the rushing title were Bastable and Jon Hittman of the Wildcats, Mick Wadzita of Arlington, Bob Banger of the Warriors and Jeff Jacoby of Forest View with showings in excess of 300 yards.

Banger claimed the best per-carry average at 6.4 while Tasche established himself as league workhorse with 98 cracks.

Allen's 1,031 yards of passing allowed him to outdistance everyone in the conference with ease for first place in total offense.

Charity Expert

In 1966 guard Henry Ebershoff hit on 59 of 64 free throw attempts in the Big Ten for an amazing .922 average. This record is second only to Jon McGlocklin who in 1965 made 36 of 39 shots for a .923 percentage.

TOMORROW IS THE DAY for Illinois hunters.

It is more than Veteran's Day, for Nov. 11 is the traditional signal for the beginning of the open pursuit of one of the state's most popular and most lordly game creatures.

It is the opening of pheasant season, and for anyone who has experienced the heart-arresting thrill of one of the beauteous bronze birds bursting unexpectedly from cover, it is a very special day.

It will begin, as it always does, at noon the first day, and will continue thereafter from sunrise to sunset until Dec. 11. The limit, as it was last year, is two cock pheasants daily, with four in possession after the opening day.

When pheasants become fair game, it means to most hunters that their time genuinely has arrived, and the fact that three other game bird species also become fair game Nov. 11 substantiates the feeling.

The season also begins on quail, woodcock and Hungarian partridge, those lesser-favored though more elusive birds than the pheasant. For partridge, like pheasant, the limit is two and the season ends Dec. 11. The daily quail limit is eight and woodcock is five, with both seasons concluding Dec. 31.

Duck season continues on its run through Dec. 5, with reports on shooting in the northern and central parts of the state remaining positive.

Geese, too, are still available to the hunters, but the important word on the goose season is that portion which has not yet begun. It's the split season in the goose-laden counties of Union, Jackson, Williamson and Alexander, to run from next Monday (Nov. 14) through Dec. 23, and from Dec. 30 through Jan. 5.

THE LORDLY RINGNECK PHEASANT
Fair Game This Friday

The state conservation people, in their most recent census of geese in the downstate area, reported some 66,000 Canadas in the Southern Illinois refuge area, with the most—29,000—in the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge near Carterville. There were 19,000 Canadas counted at Horseshoe Lake and 17,500 at the Union County Refuge.

The hunting, obviously, should be as good as ever for those who can make the trip, but there are some strict regulations. You can hunt only from sunrise until 3 p.m. in the counties, and only until noon in the Union County and Horseshoe Lake areas, with no hunting allowed at all in those areas on Mondays. To repeat the limit: it's five geese a day, but no more than two Canadas or white-fronted geese, or one of each.

The next big hunting season to open in Illinois is the shotgun deer season, split for the periods of Nov. 18-20 and Dec. 9-11. The bow season, which will run until Dec. 31, will be interrupted for those periods.

The bowhunters haven't been all that successful, anyway. Since the bow and arrow season began Oct. 1, a total of 37 deer were bagged in Illinois. The biggest of those was a 200-pound eight-pointer taken in St. Clair County, while the most productive of the slack shooting has been in the Shawnee Hills area and in the counties along the Mississippi River.

The last of the hunting seasons, that for what is usually the most frequently-bagged game animal in Illinois, begins Saturday, Nov. 19. It's the season on rabbits, and next to pheasants, it means the most to most hunters. That's likely very much because it's the longest, running until Jan. 31.

The highest rifle qualification award given by the National Rifle Association has gone to an Arlington Heights man. Karl George Buttstadt of 917 E. Olive St. has been awarded the "Distinguished Expert Medal" by the NRA, a designation not easily achieved. There are 14 lower qualification ratings to go through first, and anyone with any knowledge of the NRA's target-shooting awards procedure will agree that Buttstadt's accomplishment is immense.

FISHERMEN SHOULD NOT quite give up yet. There's still some good—even some surprising—angling to be done. The most intriguing word is on white bass in the Chain-O-Lakes area, where some fishermen, using mostly jigs, have had sieges of success reminiscent of the spring runs. One report declares that a pair of fishermen caught more than 100 white bass in the Fox River one recent day.

The fishing conditions aren't comfortable, of course, but as we always say this time of the year: Unless you like ice fishing, do it now.

Wildcats Fall, 15-7

Title Share to Maine

by KEITH REINHARD

Maine West turned a fumble, a short kick, and a blocked punt into instruments of defeat Saturday and crept off with half the jewels in the Mid-Suburban League crown with a 15-7 decision over visiting Wheeling.

The Warriors bowed out of the MSL grid circuit in style, keeping their unblemished league record intact while halting an over-all Wildcat football program winning streak at 19. The win knots Maine West with Arlington for the loop title at five wins, no losses, and one tie.

Wheeling's defeat dropped them into third in the final league ratings with a 4-2 mark.

ALTHOUGH BOTH camps kept to their usual style of play—hard running, little passing, strong defense — game format and principal characters were in stark contrast to the expected.

While the stubborn Cat line was able to thwart the charging efforts of league leader Ken Mandelky for the most part, Bob Banger stole most of the game's thunder with his booming punts and nifty safety work.

The only Wheeling equalizer was not solid Jon Hittman or elusive Tom Bastable but a 5-10, 172-pound scrapper named Dan Devito. He was the only one to have any success against the sturdy Maine forward wall.

BANGER KEPT Wheeling constantly in the hole with seven soaring boots — four in excess of 40 yards — and neutralized the Wildcat passing game with flypaper efficiency, intercepting one Robin Melzer toss and batting down others that strayed into the Maine secondary.

The 187-pound junior was joined in the standout ranks by Dick Manny, who registered Maine's first score and turned in the game's second best rushing performance.

Top ground gainer was Devito. With impressive second-effort drive, he furrowed 83 yards on 22 tries, racked up the only Wheeling score and caught three of only four passes made good all day.

He also recorded the game's longest run, a 34-yard dash on a kickoff return.

BUT DEVITO was unable to offset several key blunders by the Wheeling offense and Maine West moved into a first quarter advantage they never relinquished.

The effects of a cold, driving rain were initially demonstrated when Maine quarterback Phil Murdock bobbled the ball on the first two plays from scrimmage. But fumbles weren't consequential until Wheeling gained control, and lost it, three times in succession via the miscue method.

One was fatal. The second fumble offered the hosts command of the situation at the Wheeling 25. Two plays later Manny jaunted 14 yards into the Wildcat end zone and Maine was ahead to stay.

AFTER THE kickoff, a third fumble set the stage for the scoring clincher. From near the midfield stripe, Banger quick-kicked on second down and the ball rolled dead at the five. Wheeling went nowhere in three subsequent plays and George Legh-Page's punt soared out-of-bounds 14 yards up field.

Wheeling's defense dug in when the Warriors reached their 10-yard line on the road back. This only encouraged Maine to attempt a field goal on the first play of the second period.

The kick, an 18 yarder by Andy Sanchez, bucked a cross wind and rang true, giving the hosts a 9-0 edge.

THE FIRST HALF results were demoralizing for Wheeling. They managed only two first downs, never escaped their own territory in the first quarter and penetrated only as far as the opponents' 37 in the second.

Shrugging this off, they received the third quarter kickoff and marched 65 yards in 18 plays to move within striking distance, 9-7.

Devito lugged the ball on eleven of the attempts, including the last, a one yard plunge up the middle.

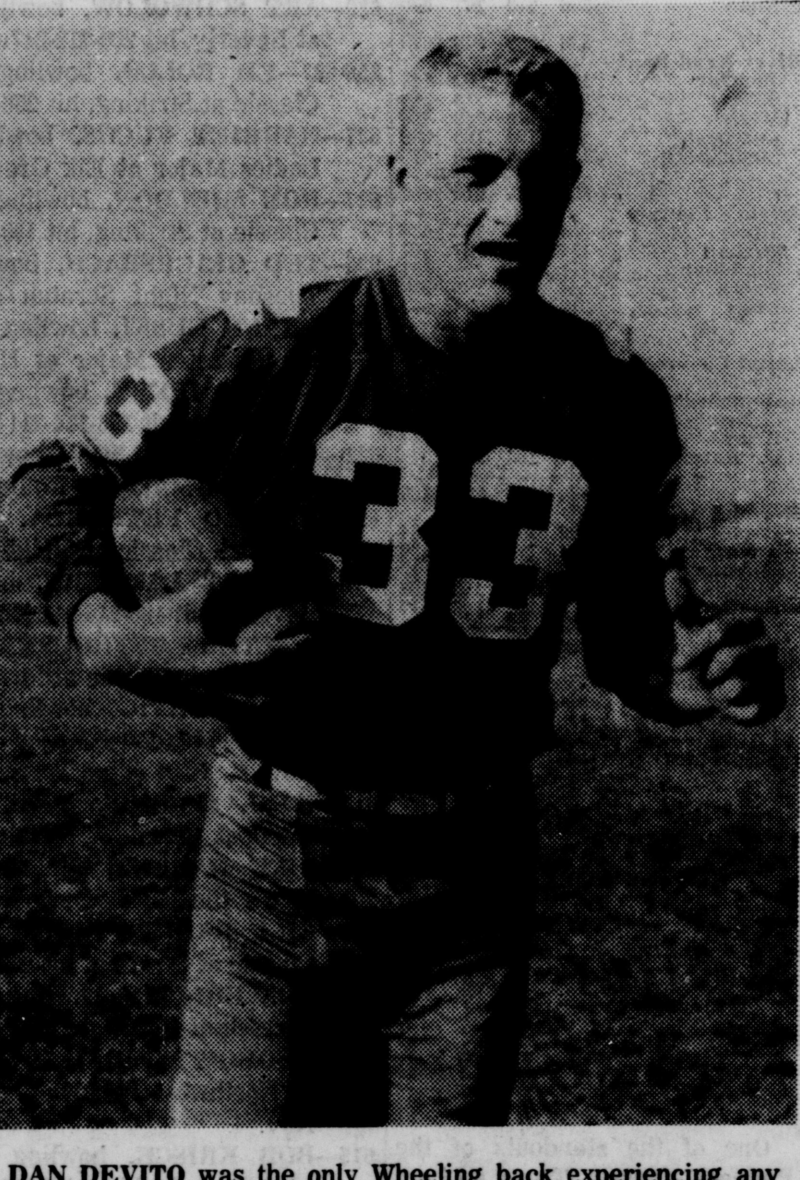
The march swallowed up over two thirds of period's time on the clock.

A PARADE OF punts followed, with Maine gaining the only first down allotted by either defense in half a dozen exchanges. The fifth kick in the series was a 42-yard blast by Banger that rolled dead at the Wheeling 12.

Four plays later Hittman had less success. His kick was partially blocked and pounced upon at the 14 and three tries later Mandelky swept over right tackle to score from seven yards out.

For winning coach Ken Olson, it was an ideal way to bid farewell to the MSL. Blue ribbon in tow, he leads his charges over to the Central Suburban Conference where Maine's presence next year will no doubt be felt as intensely as Mid Suburban mentors experienced this season.

For losing coach Bill Daletski, solace is still to be gained by the fact that in just three years of existence he has molded Wheeling into a pennant contender. And future material will come from junior varsity, soph, and frosh A and B teams all unbeaten in the final half of the season.



DAN DEVITO was the only Wheeling back experiencing any success against the Maine West defense last Saturday afternoon in the Mid-Suburban Conference headliner. Dan carried 22 times for 83 yards, tallied the only 'Cat touchdown in the 15-7 loss, and caught three passes. (Staff photo)

'Cat Sophs Halt Maine, End 4-4

Wheeling's sophomores, after dropping their first four contests, found their way back to the .500 mark Saturday with a 12-7 triumph over Maine West.

Using a new defense, devised by assistant coach Jack Liljeberg especially for the Warrior contest, the Wildcats were able to repel two of three last half Maine drives deep in Wheeling territory and hang onto a lead built to 12-0 by halftime.

With four straight wins to close out the season, in which they outscored their opponents 116-13, the Wildcats were able to finish with a 4-4 slate.

Jack Bastable capped an 80-yard first period Wheeling march by plunging over from the two. In the second stanza a 28-yard pass from Ron King connected with Stew Oakley in the Warrior end zone.

Maine West moved within striking distance in the third period after capitalizing on a blocked punt. They pushed across the goal line several plays later and added the conversion.

An outstanding Wheeling defense, shored up by halfback Lane Luoma, corner linebackers Bastable and Marty Crane and ends Gary Salata and Nick Hartl, took command then and held Maine at bay until the final gun sounded.

Wildcat Frosh End By Winning Again

Freshman units from Wheeling continued to roll over the opposition as the curtain came down on their grid season Saturday morning. Final victim was Maine West, by scores of 19-6 (A) and 15-6 (B).

For the A squad, a 60-yard touchdown pass by the Warriors with one minute left to play interrupted a shutout string extending back to the Wheeling-Arlington duel, but was insufficient to keep Wheeling from an undefeated season.

Only 12 points were scored against the Wildcat A squad in seven outings.

SCOTT FEIGE put Wheeling on top to stay in the first quarter, sweeping end from 13 yards out for the score and adding the extra point.

By halftime it was 13-0 after a nine-yard pass from Steve Schuler was gathered in across the goal line by Scott Keeton.

Wheeling's final tally came in the fourth quarter on a three-yard dive by Schuler.

The Wildcat "B" club also scored in the first period, on a ten-yard jaunt by Mike Hart, but had to fight back from a halftime tie when Maine West supplied a second-period equalizer.

The Wildcats wasted no time regaining the lead in period three. On the opening kickoff Jim Knotts scooped up the ball at his own 25 and lumbered 75 yards down field to score. The PAT was added by Randy Grimes.

Hart closed out the scoring by breaking into the Warrior backfield from his linebacker slot and bringing down the Warrior ball carrier in his own end zone.

The win was the frosh "B's" fourth in a row and sixth in seven matches for the season.

For First Victory

Elk Grove Tops Fremd Unit, 7-0

The Grenadiers of Elk Grove finished heir initial football campaign with their first win of the season, downing the Vikings of Palatine Fremd, 7-0.

According to head coach Dick Mudge, this was the Grenadiers' best effort of the year for the offensive team and the defense did their share by holding the Vikings scoreless and outside the Elk Grove 25 yard line.

For both coaches this was an important game. Both schools are in the same situation with teams that have no seniors.

Viking coach Dick Gavigan has led his young team to a 3-5 season record and has done a fine job in bringing his boys along.

Coach Mudge was faced at the beginning of the season with a schedule that had both varsity and J.V. games but that was a minor problem when compared to the lack of depth his team had.

Although the Grenadiers have won only this one game this season, they have made great strides in becoming good football players. The coaching staff and the boys deserve much credit.

In their final effort of the season the Grovers were able to put together an offense that gained a total of 263 yards with all but 111 coming through the air. They completed 11 of 24 passes and controlled the ball for some 45 plays.

The Grenadier scoring drive came on a 25 yard pass play with quarterback Larry Pahl hitting Roy McClellen for the score. Jim Oplt booted the extra point and Elk Grove had their seven points.

The Grenadiers finished the season with a 1-5-2 record but learned a lot along the way.

Lambert, Dieters Gain 12th, 13th Berths in State

In one of the tighest finishes in history Evanston won the team title and Jim Press of Riverside-Brookfield won the individual crown Saturday morning in the state cross country meet in Urbana.

Only 10 points separated the top three schools as Evanston compiled 117 markers, seven ahead of Naperville and ten ahead of defending champion York.

Other schools in the top ten were Lane Techn (133), Proviso West (159), Glenbard West (167), Maine West (170), Urbana (218), Pekin (233), and Ottaw (266).

PRESS COPPED individual honors in 9:45.5 over the two-mile Urbana Country Club course, but the first 15 runners were bunched closer than in previous years.

Paddock area entries landed the 12th and 13th spots with Ted Lambert of Forest View and Dave Dieters of Arlington. They had earned their trips to the state meet with third and fifth place rankings in the district at Maine West.

Dave Calvert of Rockford Guilford and Rich Wohlhuter, state half-mile champ from St. Charles, ran 2-3 in the individual battle Saturday. They had finished fourth and eighth last fall.

STATE CHAMP Evanston's first runner placed only 17th but the Wildkits showed excellent balance as Harold Posner, Fred Wharton, and Charley Delinger placed 17th, 18th, and 20th.

The trio scored only 37 points for six of the runners ahead of them were entered only as individuals.

Others in the top ten were Lee LaBadie of Maine West (fourth), Bill Brown of Pekin (fifth), Alan Taylor of Urbana (sixth), Carl Ruzicka of Morton East (seventh), Bob Piercy of Ottawa (eighth), Fred DePooter of Moline (ninth), and John Schafer of Addison Trail (tenth).

One was fatal. The second fumble offered the hosts command of the situation at the Wheeling 25. Two plays later Manny jaunted 14 yards into the Wildcat end zone and Maine was ahead to stay.

AFTER THE kickoff, a third fumble set the stage for the scoring clincher. From near the midfield stripe, Banger quick-kicked on second down and the ball rolled dead at the five. Wheeling went nowhere in three subsequent plays and George Legh-Page's punt soared out-of-bounds 14 yards up field.

Wheeling's defense dug in when the Warriors reached their 10-yard line on the road back. This only encouraged Maine to attempt a field goal on the first play of the second period.

The kick, an 18 yarder by Andy Sanchez, bucked a cross wind and rang true, giving the hosts a 9-0 edge.

THE FIRST HALF results were demoralizing for Wheeling. They managed only two first downs, never escaped their own territory in the first quarter and penetrated only as far as the opponents' 37 in the second.

Shrugging this off, they received the third quarter kickoff and marched 65 yards in 18 plays to move within striking distance, 9-7.

Devito lugged the ball on eleven of the attempts, including the last, a one yard plunge up the middle.

The march swallowed up over two thirds of period's time on the clock.

DAN DEVITO was the only Wheeling back experiencing any success against the Maine West defense last Saturday afternoon in the Mid-Suburban Conference headliner. Dan carried 22 times for 83 yards, tallied the only 'Cat touchdown in the 15-7 loss, and caught three passes. (Staff photo)

A PARADE OF punts followed, with Maine gaining the only first down allotted by either defense in half a dozen exchanges. The fifth kick in the series was a 42-yard blast by Banger that rolled dead at the Wheeling 12.

Four plays later Hittman had less success. His kick was partially blocked and pounced upon at the 14 and three tries later Mandelky swept over right tackle to score from seven yards out.

For winning coach Ken Olson, it was an ideal way to bid farewell to the MSL. Blue ribbon in tow, he leads his charges over to the Central Suburban Conference where Maine's presence next year will no doubt be felt as intensely as Mid Suburban mentors experienced this season.

For losing coach Bill Daletski, solace is still to be gained by the fact that in just three years of existence he has molded Wheeling into a pennant contender. And future material will come from junior varsity, soph, and frosh A and B teams all unbeaten in the final half of the season.

'Cat Sophs Halt Maine, End 4-4

Wheeling's sophomores, after dropping their first four contests, found their way back to the .500 mark Saturday with a 12-7 triumph over Maine West.

Using a new defense, devised by assistant coach Jack Liljeberg especially for the Warrior contest, the Wildcats were able to repel two of three last half Maine drives deep in Wheeling territory and hang onto a lead built to 12-0 by halftime.

With four straight wins to close out the season, in which they outscored their opponents 116-13, the Wildcats were able to finish with a 4-4 slate.

Jack Bastable capped an 80-yard first period Wheeling march by plunging over from the two. In the second stanza a 28-yard pass from Ron King connected with Stew Oakley in the Warrior end zone.

Maine West moved within striking distance in the third period after capitalizing on a blocked punt. They pushed across the goal line several plays later and added the conversion.

An outstanding Wheeling defense, shored up by halfback Lane Luoma, corner linebackers Bastable and Marty Crane and ends Gary Salata and Nick Hartl, took command then and held Maine at bay until the final gun sounded.

Wildcat Frosh End By Winning Again

Freshman units from Wheeling continued to roll over the opposition as the curtain came down on their grid season Saturday morning. Final victim was Maine West, by scores of 19-6 (A) and 15-6 (B).

For the A squad, a 60-yard touchdown pass by the Warriors with one minute left to play interrupted a shutout string extending back to the Wheeling-Arlington duel, but was insufficient to keep Wheeling from an undefeated season.

Only 12 points were scored against the Wildcat A squad in seven outings.

SCOTT FEIGE put Wheeling on top to stay in the first quarter, sweeping end from 13 yards out for the score and adding the extra point.

By halftime it was 13-0 after a nine-yard pass from Steve Schuler was gathered in across the goal line by Scott Keeton.

Wheeling's final tally came in the fourth quarter on a three-yard dive by Schuler.

The Wildcat "B" club also scored in the first period, on a ten-yard jaunt by Mike Hart, but had to fight back from a halftime tie when Maine West supplied a second-period equalizer.

The Wildcats wasted no time regaining the lead in period three. On the opening kickoff Jim Knotts scooped up the ball at his own 25 and lumbered 75 yards down field to score. The PAT was added by Randy Grimes.

Hart closed out the scoring by breaking into the Warrior backfield from his linebacker slot and bringing down the Warrior ball carrier in his own end zone.

The win was the frosh "B's" fourth in a row and sixth in seven matches for the season.

For First Victory

Elk Grove Tops Fremd Unit, 7-0

The Grenadiers of Elk Grove finished heir initial football campaign with their first win of the season, downing the Vikings of Palatine Fremd, 7-0.

According to head coach Dick Mudge, this was the Grenadiers' best effort of the year for the offensive team and the defense did their share by holding the Vikings scoreless and outside the Elk Grove 25 yard line.

For both coaches this was an important game. Both schools are in the same situation with teams that have no seniors.

Viking coach Dick Gavigan has led his young team to a 3-5 season record and has done a fine job in bringing his boys along.

Coach Mudge was faced at the beginning of the season with a schedule that had both varsity and J.V. games but that was a minor problem when compared to the lack of depth his team had.

Although the Grenadiers have won only this one game this season, they have made great strides in becoming good football players. The coaching staff and the boys deserve much credit.

In their final effort of the season the Grovers were able to put together an offense that gained a total of 263 yards with all but 111 coming through the air. They completed 11 of 24 passes and controlled the ball for some 45 plays.

The Grenadier scoring drive came on a 25 yard pass play with quarterback Larry Pahl hitting Roy McClellen for the score. Jim Oplt booted the extra point and Elk Grove had their seven points.

The Grenadiers finished the season with a 1-5-2 record but learned a lot along the way.

Lambert, Dieters Gain 12th, 13th Berths in State

In one of the tighest finishes in history Evanston won the team title and Jim Press of Riverside-Brookfield won the individual crown Saturday morning in the state cross country meet in Urbana.

Only 10 points separated the top three schools as Evanston compiled 117 markers, seven ahead of Naperville and ten ahead of defending champion York.

Other schools in the top ten were Lane Techn (133), Proviso West (159), Glenbard West (167), Maine West (170), Urbana (218), Pekin (233), and Ottaw (266).

PRESS COPPED individual honors in 9:45.5 over the two-mile Urbana Country Club course, but the first 15 runners were bunched closer than in previous years.

Paddock area entries landed the 12th and 13th spots with Ted Lambert of Forest View and Dave Dieters of Arlington. They had earned their trips to the state meet with third and fifth place rankings in the district at Maine West.

Dave Calvert of Rockford Guilford and Rich Wohlhuter, state half-mile champ from St. Charles, ran 2-3 in the individual battle Saturday. They had finished fourth and eighth last fall.

STATE CHAMP Evanston's first runner placed only 17th but the Wildkits showed excellent balance as Harold Posner, Fred Wharton, and Charley Delinger placed 17th, 18th, and 20th.

The trio scored only 37 points for six of the runners ahead of them were entered only as individuals.

Others in the top ten were Lee LaBadie of Maine West (fourth), Bill Brown of Pekin (fifth), Alan Taylor of Urbana (sixth), Carl Ruzicka of Morton East (seventh), Bob Piercy of Ottawa (eighth), Fred DePooter of Moline (ninth), and John Schafer of Addison Trail (tenth).

In PWCTL Action

Sylvia's Gals Shine; Lattof's Lead Holds

Marlene Smith and Jean Ladd must have been wearing looks of contentment after last weekend's Paddock Women Classic Traveling League action. These two Sylvia's Flowers bowlers had a night that was nothing short of outstanding. Both rolled series better than 600.

JEAN LADD

Jean Ladd had an excellent evening and bowled three consistantly fine games. Her final tally for the night showed that she had scored a total of 664 pins with games of 217, 223, and 224.

Marlene Smith had a total of 630 pins for her efforts and her high game of 254 set a new high mark for the year. Her other two games were a 213 and a 163.

The entire Sylvia's crew added their efforts together and scored an outstanding 2885 team series. This is also a new high for the season. While the Flower girls were busy chalking up new marks they also rolled an excellent 1011 score for team game. All in all, Sylvia's gals had a great night.

THE TEAM standings from last week have changed little but last week's tie for second between Wheel Inn and Striking Lanes has been decided, at least for now, and Striking Lanes now holds second place by virtue of one slim point.

Lattof Chevrolet is still in the drivers seat with 26 points but in this weeks competition they failed to pick up any new points. As mentioned Striking Lanes and Wheel Inn have settled their dispute for second. Striking Lanes now owns 22 points and the Wheelers have 21. Morton Pontiac has 16 points after this last meeting with Sylvia's Flowers having 15 and River Rand Bowl at the bottom of the stack with eight points.

It was Lattof's bad fortune to meet Sylvia's in this action, and that is about all that needs to be said. After Marlene Smith and Jean Ladd did their damage to the Lattof hopes Claudette Schleman, Harriet Fuchs and Jean Sicilian added their efforts to round out a fine night for Sylvia's.

Peggy Harris and Rose Kraft both rolled good series totals but it was nowhere near enough to cause the Sylvia's girls trouble.

WHEEL INN picked up three points in the action by downing River Rand Bowl. Deloris Harris with a 571 and Bonnie Kuhn with a 570 where high for the Wheelers but Hazel Steiger and Ethel Juenger did well for River Rand by rolling series of 585 and 548 respectively.

Two Striking Lanes gals came up with identical scores in their battle with Morton Pontiac and the combined Striking effort was enough to give them four additional points for the season. Eunice Whitmore and Evelyn Elarde both rolled series totaling 567 to lead the Laners. The Pontiac team countered with the efforts of Juanita Davis as she scored a 564 total.

Next week's schedule will put Morton Pontiac against Wheel Inn, Striking Lanes against Sylvia's Flowers, and Lattof Chevrolet against River Rand Bowl.

Ex-Kegler Walter In Viet Nam

One of the standouts of the Paddock Classic Traveling League last season is now serving with the United States army in South Vietnam.

Warren Walter, formerly employed as a litho printer at Fuze-On Products, was shipped to Saigon after boot camp training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, and advanced training at Fort Sam Houston in Texas. A private first class, Walter's specialty is preventive medicine in the service.

WARREN WALTER

He rolled the highest series in the 1965-66 PCTL season, a 719. He was one of the bowlers who led The Brass Rail to the first round title, then had to go into service. His value to the team became obvious when the Railers ended last in the second round.

At Striking Lanes

Gert Goffinski, bowling for C. W. E., had a734 series in the Striking Ladies Classic . . . Other scores of note were a 721 by Eunice Whitmore of Striking, 720 by Judy Anderson of Thomas R. Ryan Co., 713 by Elaine Bochte of Prospect House, 705 by Lu Schoenberger of Doll House, 703 by Anne Cadelina of Medical Supply, and 701 by Judy Helfer of Giovannell's.

20 Eclipse 600!

Classic Bowlers in Red-Hot Performance

To say that this was an outstanding and unusual week for the men who bowl in the Paddock Classic Traveling League would be a gross understatement. This was one of the best weeks ever in the league—if not the best!

Twenty out of the forty men who rolled games over the weekend scored series of 600 or more. Three of the teams had better than 3000 for series total and all round it was just an outstanding night.

Four new highs were recorded with Elk Grove Bowl and Sports Chalet both moving up in the ranks of high team series honors. Elk Grove Bowl recorded a 3058 and Sports Chalet totaled a 3007 for the evening.

JEFFERY LANES rolled a new high team game mark as they totaled 1106 pins in their first game. There were scores of 237, 202, 278, 212, 177 in the effort with Ray Neumann's 278 being the big help.

Neumann's 278 was also a new high mark for the year for individual games and this gives him a ten pin bulge over Bob Krisch who stands second in this area.

Les Zikes and Al Jordan still maintain their 200 plus averages for the season, but if there are many repeats of this past weekend's action they should have plenty of company.

THERE WERE A number of changes in the standings this week but the most important is the change in the number one spot. Bill Cook Buick slipped into the number two spot when they met Sports Chalet head on. The Chalet men picked up a total of seven points and took over the lead with a five point edge over the Buick team.

Three of the Cook Buick team had scores of 600 or better for totals, but Bob Krisch had the high game with a 615. Two men from the Sports Chalet scored better than 600 with George Schmidt and Tom Kouros recording marks of 639 and 638 respectively.

Morton Pontiac moved from fifth place into a tie for second by disposing of City Welding in all three games. George White had a 647 series to be high man for Morton but Bob Rogers of the Welders matched that score with a 647 series of his own. Two other Pontiac men had 600 series or better with Hal Norum scoring a 607 and Ray Olson a 606 mark.

THE BRASS RAIL dropped into the fourth place spot by losing to Jeffery Lanes in their match. Three men from each team had scores of 600 or better and these two teams had an outstanding night.

For the Brass Rail, Warren Olson, Walt Lofthouse, and Karl Simonis all recorded scores of better than that magic 600. Olson had a 606, Lofthouse a 620 and Simonis a 617.

For Jeffery Lanes, besides Ray Neumann's outstanding 658, Don Christensen rolled a 634 and Bill Harris had a 616. Paul Zubak missed the 600 mark by only seven pins as he added his support to the total.

Elk Grove is now tied with Jeffery Lanes for sixth as they outscored the Karlsen Pharmacy team and picked up five points. The Elk Grove Bowlers had four of their five men over the 600 mark. Lou Champa, Jim Kordares, Ron Sheldon, and Angelo Petrarca all made the mark or better. Only Neal Domin of Karlsen Pharmacy was over 600 but he recorded a respectable 631.

In this week's league action at Rolling Meadows City Welding will meet Elk Grove Bowl, Bill Cook Buick will duel The Brass Rail, Sports Chalet will go at it with Karlsen Pharmacy and Jeffery Lanes will meet Morton Pontiac.

Sylvia's Gals Shine; Lattof's Lead Holds

Marlene Smith and Jean Ladd must have been wearing looks of contentment after last weekend's Paddock Women Classic Traveling League action. These two Sylvia's Flowers bowlers had a night that was nothing short of outstanding. Both rolled series better than 600.

JEAN LADD

Jean Ladd had an excellent evening and bowled three consistantly fine games. Her final tally for the night showed that she had scored a total of 664 pins with games of 217, 223, and 224.

Marlene Smith had a total of 630 pins for her efforts and her high game of 254 set a new high mark for the year. Her other two games were a 213 and a 163.

The entire Sylvia's crew added their efforts together and scored an outstanding 2885 team series. This is also a new high for the season. While the Flower girls were busy chalking up new marks they also rolled an excellent 1011 score for team game. All in all, Sylvia's gals had a great night.

THE TEAM standings from last week have changed little but last week's tie for second between Wheel Inn and Striking Lanes has been decided, at least for now, and Striking Lanes now holds second place by virtue of one slim point.

Lattof Chevrolet is still in the drivers seat with 26 points but in this weeks competition they failed to pick up any new points. As mentioned Striking Lanes and Wheel Inn have settled their dispute for second. Striking Lanes now owns 22 points and the Wheelers have 21. Morton Pontiac has 16 points after this last meeting with Sylvia's Flowers having 15 and River Rand Bowl at the bottom of the stack with eight points.

It was Lattof's bad fortune to meet Sylvia's in this action, and that is about all that needs to be said. After Marlene Smith and Jean Ladd did their damage to the Lattof hopes Claudette Schleman, Harriet Fuchs and Jean Sicilian added their efforts to round out a fine night for Sylvia's.

Peggy Harris and Rose Kraft both rolled good series totals but it was nowhere near enough to cause the Sylvia's girls trouble.

WHEEL INN picked up three points in the action by downing River Rand Bowl. Deloris Harris with a 571 and Bonnie Kuhn with a 570 where high for the Wheeiers but Hazel Steiger and Ethel Juenger did well for River Rand by rolling series of 585 and 548 respectively.

Two Striking Lanes gals came up with identical scores in their battle with Morton Pontiac and the combined Striking effort was enough to give them four additional points for the season. Eunice Whitmore and Evelyn Elarde both rolled series totaling 567 to lead the Laners. The Pontiac team countered with the efforts of Juanita Davis as she scored a 564 total.

Next week's schedule will put Morton Pontiac against Wheel Inn, Striking Lanes against Sylvia's Flowers, and Lattof Chevrolet against River Rand Bowl.

Ex-Kegler Walter In Viet Nam

One of the standouts of the Paddock Classic Traveling League last season is now serving with the United States army in South Vietnam.

Warren Walter, formerly employed as a litho printer at Fuze-On Products, was shipped to Saigon after boot camp training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, and advanced training at Fort Sam Houston in Texas. A private first class, Walter's specialty is preventive medicine in the service.

WARREN WALTER

He rolled the highest series in the 1965-66 PCTL season, a 719. He was one of the bowlers who led The Brass Rail to the first round title, then had to go into service. His value to the team became obvious when the Railers ended last in the second round.

At Striking Lanes

Gert Goffinski, bowling for C. W. E., had a734 series in the Striking Ladies Classic . . . Other scores of note were a 721 by Eunice Whitmore of Striking, 720 by Judy Anderson of Thomas R. Ryan Co., 713 by Elaine Bochte of Prospect House, 705 by Lu Schoenberger of Doll House, 703 by Anne Cadelina of Medical Supply, and 701 by Judy Helfer of Giovannell's.

20 Eclipse 600!

Classic Bowlers in Red-Hot Performance

To say that this was an outstanding and unusual week for the men who bowl in the Paddock Classic Traveling League would be a gross understatement. This was one of the best weeks ever in the league—if not the best!

Twenty out of the forty men who rolled games over the weekend scored series of 600 or more. Three of the teams had better than 3000 for series total and all round it was just an outstanding night.

Four new highs were recorded with Elk Grove Bowl and Sports Chalet both moving up in the ranks of high team series honors. Elk Grove Bowl recorded a 3058 and Sports Chalet totaled a 3007 for the evening.

JEFFERY LANES rolled a new high team game mark as they totaled 1106 pins in their first game. There were scores of 237, 202, 278, 212, 177 in the effort with Ray Neumann's 278 being the big help.

Neumann's 278 was also a new high mark for the year for individual games and this gives him a ten pin bulge over Bob Krisch who stands second in this area.

Les Zikes and Al Jordan still maintain their 200 plus averages for the season, but if there are many repeats of this past weekend's action they should have plenty of company.

THERE WERE A number of changes in the standings this week but the most important is the change in the number one spot. Bill Cook Buick slipped into the number two spot when they met Sports Chalet head on. The Chalet men picked up a total of seven points and took over the lead with a five point edge over the Buick team.

Three of the Cook Buick team had scores of 600 or better for totals, but Bob Krisch had the high game with a 615. Two men from the Sports Chalet scored better than 600 with George Schmidt and Tom Kouros recording marks of 639 and 638 respectively.

Morton Pontiac moved from fifth place into a tie for second by disposing of City Welding in all three games. George White had a 647 series to be high man for Morton but Bob Rogers of the Welders matched that score with a 647 series of his own. Two other Pontiac men had 600 series or better with Hal Norum scoring a 607 and Ray Olson a 606 mark.

THE BRASS RAIL dropped into the fourth place spot by losing to Jeffery Lanes in their match. Three men from each team had scores of 600 or better and these two teams had an outstanding night.

For the Brass Rail, Warren Olson, Walt Lofthouse, and Karl Simonis all recorded scores of better than that magic 600. Olson had a 606, Lofthouse a 620 and Simonis a 617.

For Jeffery Lanes, besides Ray Neumann's outstanding 658, Don Christensen rolled a 634 and Bill Harris had a 616. Paul Zubak missed the 600 mark by only seven pins as he added his support to the total.

Elk Grove is now tied with Jeffery Lanes for sixth as they outscored the Karlsen Pharmacy team and picked up five points. The Elk Grove Bowlers had four of their five men over the 600 mark. Lou Champa, Jim Kordares, Ron Sheldon, and Angelo Petrarca all made the mark or better. Only Neal Domin of Karlsen Pharmacy was over 600 but he recorded a respectable 631.

In this week's league action at Rolling Meadows City Welding will meet Elk Grove Bowl, Bill Cook Buick will duel The Brass Rail, Sports Chalet will go at it with Karlsen Pharmacy and Jeffery Lanes will meet Morton Pontiac.

Stuns Lion Eleven

Late Meteor Surge...

by BOB FRISK

It was something akin to the fight where the boxer, leading on points late in the scuffle, makes that one costly error and then buckles under a vicious barrage of blows over the final rounds.

Late, very late in the third quarter Sunday afternoon St. Viator held a one-point, 13-12 advantage over powerful DeLaSalle at Shrewbridge-Stagg field in Chicago.

Coach Joe Gliwa's club had fashioned a superb first-half effort, flashing a crisp offensive performance while trading blows in the line in one of the hardest-hitting prep games played this season.

THE LIONS had control of the football at their own 21 yard line late in the third quarter and were faced with a fourth down situation when disaster struck.

The Meteors applied a stiff rush, an attempted punt skidded off to the right, and the hosts took over deep in St. Viator territory, still trailing by one point.

Five plays later DeLaSalle scored, took the lead, and took command of the game. They tallied two more times in the final period for a convincing but deceiving 31-13 final cushion.

THE. LOSS. set the Lions' season standard at 4-4, the third .500 season for St. Viator since the school played its first varsity football game in 1962.

St. Viator has never had a losing year in football and now sports a 24-17-2 record in five years of competition. The Lions finished 2-3 in Chicagoland Prep League play for 1966, three laps behind unbeaten champ DeLaSalle.

In many aspects St. Viator played its finest football of the season in the opening half Sunday afternoon.

THE. OFFENSIVE. blocking was sharp, and the Lions showed they came to play some tough football when they hit the hosts for a score on their third play from scrimmage.

After checking an early DeLaSalle advance, the Lions went to work. A pass interference rap gave them the ball at their own 46 and Larry Snyder and Denny Palubicki worked it down to the Meteor 40 for a first down.

Johnny Cook supplied the pay off dash with a crowd pleasing 40-yarder that saw him move out to his right, dart across the field, and then outrun the Meteor defenders for the six points.

RICH LONER, who only a few plays later was to suffer a knee injury that sidelined him for the remainder of the game, furnished the path-clearing block just before Cook started his cut across the field.

DeLaSalle hit the scoreboard for the first time late in the first period on a 46-yard pass play from Mick Wagner to Tom Shinnick with Shinnick, easily the classiest back on the field Sunday, taking the ball on the 25 and sprinting in for the tally. A penalty and fumbled snap checked the extra point try.

The Lions, showing a lot of poise on the attack, broke this 6-6 deadlock at the outset of the second period with one of their finest marches of the campaign, a sparkling 78-yard thrust which encompassed 14 plays.

PALUBICKI went to the air lanes with some pin-point passing with Bob Stevens grabbing three, including one 18-yarder that was a shining example of that extra effort so often required.

On a third and ten play at the DeLaSalle 24 Palubicki fired bicki fired a pass to Stevens which was batted in the air by defender Frank Stewart and then grabbed by the Lion flank in a diving maneuver at the Meteor six.

Cook slashed to the four, Palubicki to the one, and then Palubicki crashed over for the go-ahead touchdown, Denny added 13th Lion point with one of his patented line drive kicks that just carried over the cross bar.

THE METEORS put the pressure on the Lion defense three times in the second quarter before Al Brown capped a 46-yard drive with a one-yard plunge. The big play was a 35-yard pitch from Wagner, who threw rarely but effectively, to Mick Kwiatowski.

DeLaSalle added the extra point but a penalty for illegal use of an elbow cancelled it out, and they failed on the second attempt to keep the St. Viator advantage at 13-12.

The Lions admittedly had some trouble mounting any offensive drive in the second half but they held their lead thanks to some clutch defensive work.

BOB STEVENS
Busy Afternoon

DELASALLE. penetrated to the 20 early when a stiff rush by tackle Bob Rose forced quarterback Wagner to throw wildly on a fourth down play. Denny Forston, Mike Napientek, and Kevin Laird had stacked up a third down play.

But when the Lions couldn't move they were forced to punt and that's when the Meteors got the break they were looking for. A short kick set up the third DeLaSalle touchdown and the league champs had no trouble the rest of the way.

Shinnick went in from the five for the third touchdown, and the explosive Meteor back covered eight yards early in the fourth quarter to make it 25-13.

It was Shinnick again from the 10 after an 85-yard DeLaSalle march in the fourth quarter.

THE LIONS had three casualties of consequence in this bitterly-fought Chicagoland Prep League game.

Loner, a bulwark all season for Gliwa's club, didn't play again after receiving his first period knee injury, and defensive standout Dan Klingberg was racked up late in the third quarter.

Paul Rocca, who went both ways up front for the Lions, suffered an ankle injury that put him on the sidelines early in the fourth period.

Palubicki threw 28 games in the contest for a school record, hitting on 12 for 116 yards. Stevens pulled down seven of those aerials, another school mark, for 91 yards and showed some fancy footwork after some of those receptions.

Lion Frosh Roll, 26-0

St. Viator concluded an impressive frosh football season last week with a convincing 26-0 victory over DeLaSalle.

Coach John Zid's rugged Lions, who didn't yield a point during the entire campaign, settled the issue against the Meteors on touchdowns by Steve Aylward, Tom Anderson, Larry Quinnett, and Mark Truester.

Aylward scored on an eight-yrrd run, Anderson on a 49-yard scamper, Quinnett on a 32-yard run, and Truester o a fumble recovery in the end zone.

Second in History

An Unbeaten Season

by BOB FRISK

Another season, a spectacular season, is history.

On a cold November evening in Northbrook Arlington's varsity Cardinals achieved a very special position of prominence in the school's football annals.

No longer is there only one unbeaten football team in school history. The 1938 powerhouse has company now.

Although it was strictly a nonconference affair, Arlington's 46-13 conquest of Glenbrook South last Friday evening was one of the most significant victories since the school intro duced football in 1925.

THERE. HAVE. been more dramatic wins, more thrilling decisions, but there's a very special significance attached to any victory that brings a school an unbeaten season, especially when you've waited 28 years.

THE ISSUE of superiority was settled early as coach Al Allen's Cards marched to their seventh victory of the campaign.

For the fifth time this fall Arlington struck for a score the first time it handled the football. They had three touchdowns in the first quarter and needed only ten plays from scrimmage for the 20 points.

For the third time this season Arlington's high-geared offense rolled past the 40 mark, and the Cards finished with a snappy 24.4 per game point average.

THE. LONG. scoring strike featured this Arlington explosion. There was a 61-yard scoring pass from Steve Allen to Brad Somers, an 85-yard kickoff return by Jerry Enright, and a 67-yard burst through the line by Mick Wadzita.

Just to keep things interesting Allen, who threw for 228 yards in another impressive outing, also had a 35-yard strike to Dave Lockwood which gave the swift split end a new school record for most yardage on pass receiving in a single season.

And then there was a 68-yard scamper with the opening kickoff by Enright who used his speed to good advantage in the season finale.

ALTHOUGH. THEY. were thumped by a decisive margin, the host Glenbrook South eleven did show something on the attack, particularly in the final half when they had marches of 51, 75, 60, and 52 yards.

The Titans actually produced 308 total yards, the third best effort against the Arlington defensive unit this season.

But this was still Arlington's night and what success Glenbrook did enjoy in the second half may have been at least partly attributed to the Cards' big 32-0 cushion at the intermission.

ENRIGHT'S 68-yard dash with the opening kickoff Friday brought Arlington to the Titan 17 yard line and in five plays Allen smashed over from the one. Allen converted to push the Cards into a quick 7-0 advantage.

JERRY ENRIGHT
Dazzling Dashes

It was 13-0 seconds later after Arlington checked the Titans on downs. Allen fired a pass to Brad Somers who took it in stride with a nifty over-the-shoulder grab and covered the remaining distance in a spectacular 61-yard maneuver.

The next score was just as easy. Allen hit Lockwood for 35 yards to the Glenbrook 23, Wadzita bolted to the 13, and two plays later Steve Conley dashed over those 13 yards for the touchdown. Allen's kick made it 20-0 with 5:08 left in the first half.

Arlington had to punt the next time it received the football but they got the ball right back when junior guard Ray Peale covered a fumble at the Titan 32.

Allen hit Conley to the 19 and on a second down play the duo collaborated again on a screen maneuver that worked for the touchdown.

Glenbrook made a serious penetration to the Card 13 before Conley picked off a Jay Gregg pass and then got the ball back on a fumble. But the Titans still couldn't score.

ARLINGTON went on top 32-0 with 44 seconds remaining before halftime as another Conley interception set up the march. Steve brought the ball back to the Titan 44 and Arlington scored in five plays.

Allen hit Jim Donchess for three and Donchess lateralled to Dave Lockwood for an additional yard, and then Allen and Donchess clicked again to the Glenbrook 22. A penalty set the Cards on the 18 and Allen and Conley combined to the 17. Allen drove across for the touchdown.

The Titans scored their first touchdown with 8:54 remaining in the third quarter on a six-yard run by Gregg. Glenbrook reeled off five first downs in seven plays in one stretch of this impressive 75-yard drive.

BUT JUST when Glenbrook made the scoreboard Arlington's Enright got into the act again, taking back the ensuing kickoff 85 yards. Brad Somers converted for a 39-6 Arlington bulge.

Wadzita's 67-yard run came with 4:52 left in the third stanza, and it was a thing of beauty as Mick battled away from defenders before he finally broke free.

The Titans had the best of things over the remainder of the contest and finally scored again with only seven seconds left on a seven-yard Gregg to Chuck Aldrin pass. Aldrin, a rugged 6-2, 205-pound tight end, pulled down five passes for the evening.

ARLINGTON only ran 23 running plays from scrimmage but connected 15 times on 23 passes for 237 yards.

Allen didn't favor any particular receiver as he hit Brad Somers, Conley, and Lockwood four times each and Donchess twice. Soph Todd Somers clicked on one for nine yards to Ron Horcher.

Thanks to that 67-yard run Wadzita was the Cards' top-ground-gainer with 89 yards in seven carries.

Another season is history. The equipment has been packed away, the lockers vacated, and the awards passed out.

Only the memories remain now of a spectacular season, a season they'll remember for many years at Arlington High School.

Card Frosh Handle Two Grove Squads

Arlington's frosh football Cardinals rolled over Elk Grove at both levels Saturday morning as the two schools concluded play for the 1966 campaign.

Coach Fran Somers' 'As' scored single touchdowns in each of the first three quarters and pushed over two more in the fourth stanza for a 34-14 victory.

"It was our best game of the year," Somers praised.

Scoring for Arlington were Gary Bratko on a 20-yard pass from Fred Harth, Paul Greene on runs of 15 and one yards, John Morrow with a 40-yard run of a blocked punt by Tim McGrath, and Dave Larson with a 32-yard run with an intercepted pass.

Craig Moritz intercepted four passes for the Cardinals.

Coach Tom Walthouse's Arlington 'Bs' blanked Elk Grove, 28-0, with single touchdowns in each of the four periods.

The Cards finished with a 6-0-1 record to tie for the league crown.

Mark Jacoby scored two touchdowns for Arlington and passed for one to Dave Kurrasch. He also intercepted a pass which set up one tally.

Mike Weber, who showed some strong running, also tallied for the winners.

There were no details available from Elk Grove for either game.

Knight JVs Top Falcons

Prospect's jayvee Knights fashioned a 7-0 victory over Forest View Saturday in the season finale for both clubs.

It was a ball game that saw neither team able to muster much of an offensive game.

The only score was made by the Knights late in the third period when they were able to punch the ball over on a one yard plunge. Ron Richardson did the scoring honors for the Knights.

Card JVs in 7-1 Campaign

A convincing 52-0 victory over Glenbrook South last Friday evening capped an impressive junior-varsity football season at Arlington High School.

The powerful Cardinals, coached by Brendan Flynn and Bill Myers, piled up a 33-0 cushion at the intermission in racking up their seventh victory in eight outings.

Dean Schmelzer scored four touchdowns in leading the Arlington assault. Bob Graham, Denny Meacham, Corky Croarkin, and Paul Douglas also tallied touchdowns with Douglas covering 63 yards with a pass interception.

THE SHUTOUT ran Arlington's string of scoreless periods to 16 with Wheeling the last team to counter against the Card defenders. Wheeling also was the only team to beat Arlington this fall.

"That Wheeling game woke us up," Flynn said this week in looking back on the 1966 season. "The boys really started to play some football after that."

Arlington scored three or more touchdowns in every game but one and hit four or better five times while piling up 229 total points.

ALTHOUGH BACKS Graham, Schmelzer, Meacham, John Benoit and Larry Wadzita received most of the headlines this year, there were many contributors to the over-all jayvee success.

Flynn praised the work of guards Briggs Blackburn ("certainly one of our finest linemen"), Craig Cochran ("strong both ways"), and Brian Marinello and middle guard on defense Gene Kennedy; tackles John Theroux ("a real top defensive boy"), Ken Koeneman, Chris Kaucher, Stan Stanczak; and John Vetter ("a starter until sidelined with a ruptured appendix early in the year"); and center Dave McGuffey ("effective job all season").

Working at the ends were Mark Liddell, Marc Lenhardt, John Schultz, and Kelly Reid. Others who drew mention from the head man were Corky Croarkin at the wide spot on offense ("a good receive and blocker despite his lack of size"); defensive back Paul Douglas; Bob Goebbert; and soph Bryce Knorr ("guard both ways who missed last half of season with broken ankle").

Arlington Coasts To 8th Soph Win

Jumping out to a 31-0 lead at the intermission, Arlington's sophomore Cardinals raced to a 50-0 victory over Elk Grove Saturday morning in the season finale for both schools.

Jim Baumgartner and Dave Ewart were the standouts in the Cardinal win.

Baumgartner scored three touchdowns and gained 142 yardsiin 10 carries. Ewart hit on four straight passes for 101 yards and one tally and also scored three times.

Other Cardinal touchdowns were picked up by Will Heinemann on a 14-yard run and Scott Larson on a 17-yard scamper.

Arlington finished unbeaten in eight games, piling up 242 points to the opponents 33.

"They were one of the hardest working groups," praised head man Tom Pitchford, "I've had in ten years of coaching. They really liked to play the game."

Pitchford was assisted by Bill Svrluga and Bruce Glover.

Heinemann finished as the Arlington rushing leader with 864 yards in 101 carries. Baumgartner had 845 in 100 tries. Ewart clicked on 29 passes for 442 yards and five scores.

Defensive leaders were Al Lalond, Scott Larson, Baumgartner, Jay Harris, Steve Stratton, Tim Shannon, Heinemann, Craig Deehring, Paul Stevens, and Doug Stuber among others.

Stuns Lion Eleven

Late Meteor Surge...

by BOB FRISK

It was something akin to the fight where the boxer, leading on points late in the scuffle, makes that one costly error and then buckles under a vicious barrage of blows over the final rounds.

Late, very late in the third quarter Sunday afternoon St. Viator held a one-point, 13-12 advantage over powerful DeLaSalle at Shrewbridge-Stagg field in Chicago.

Coach Joe Gliwa's club had fashioned a superb first-half effort, flashing a crisp offensive performance while trading blows in the line in one of the hardest-hitting prep games played this season.

THE LIONS had control of the football at their own 21 yard line late in the third quarter and were faced with a fourth down situation when disaster struck.

The Meteors applied a stiff rush, an attempted punt skidded off to the right, and the hosts took over deep in St. Viator territory, still trailing by one point.

Five plays later DeLaSalle scored, took the lead, and took command of the game. They tallied two more times in the final period for a convincing but deceiving 31-13 final cushion.

THE. LOSS. set the Lions' season standard at 4-4, the third .500 season for St. Viator since the school played its first varsity football game in 1962.

St. Viator has never had a losing year in football and now sports a 24-17-2 record in five years of competition. The Lions finished 2-3 in Chicagoland Prep League play for 1966, three laps behind unbeaten champ DeLaSalle.

In many aspects St. Viator played its finest football of the season in the opening half Sunday afternoon.

THE. OFFENSIVE. blocking was sharp, and the Lions showed they came to play some tough football when they hit the hosts for a score on their third play from scrimmage.

After checking an early DeLaSalle advance, the Lions went to work. A pass interference rap gave them the ball at their own 46 and Larry Snyder and Denny Palubicki worked it down to the Meteor 40 for a first down.

Johnny Cook supplied the pay off dash with a crowd pleasing 40-yarder that saw him move out to his right, dart across the field, and then outrun the Meteor defenders for the six points.

RICH LONER, who only a few plays later was to suffer a knee injury that sidelined him for the remainder of the game, furnished the path-clearing block just before Cook started his cut across the field.

DeLaSalle hit the scoreboard for the first time late in the first period on a 46-yard pass play from Mick Wagner to Tom Shinnick with Shinnick, easily the classiest back on the field Sunday, taking the ball on the 25 and sprinting in for the tally. A penalty and fumbled snap checked the extra point try.

The Lions, showing a lot of poise on the attack, broke this 6-6 deadlock at the outset of the second period with one of their finest marches of the campaign, a sparkling 78-yard thrust which encompassed 14 plays.

PALUBICKI went to the air lanes with some pin-point passing with Bob Stevens grabbing three, including one 18-yarder that was a shining example of that extra effort so often required.

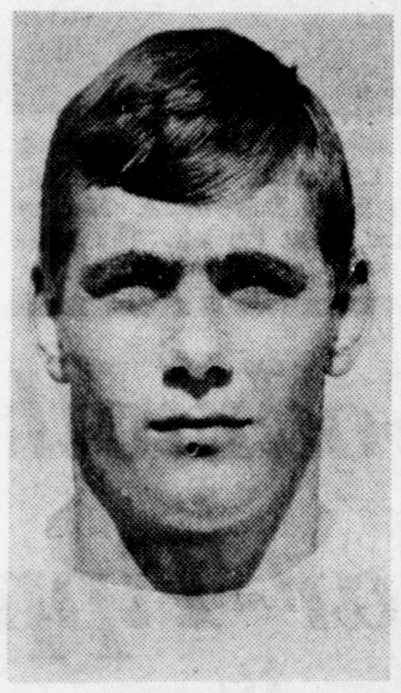
On a third and ten play at the DeLaSalle 24 Palubicki fired bicki fired a pass to Stevens which was batted in the air by defender Frank Stewart and then grabbed by the Lion flank in a diving maneuver at the Meteor six.

Cook slashed to the four, Palubicki to the one, and then Palubicki crashed over for the go-ahead touchdown, Denny added 13th Lion point with one of his patented line drive kicks that just carried over the cross bar.

THE METEORS put the pressure on the Lion defense three times in the second quarter before Al Brown capped a 46-yard drive with a one-yard plunge. The big play was a 35-yard pitch from Wagner, who threw rarely but effectively, to Mick Kwiatowski.

DeLaSalle added the extra point but a penalty for illegal use of an elbow cancelled it out, and they failed on the second attempt to keep the St. Viator advantage at 13-12.

The Lions admittedly had some trouble mounting any offensive drive in the second half but they held their lead thanks to some clutch defensive work.



JOHN COOK
Early Score

BOB STEVENS
Busy Afternoon

DELASALLE. penetrated to the 20 early when a stiff rush by tackle Bob Rose forced quarterback Wagner to throw wildly on a fourth down play. Denny Forston, Mike Napientek, and Kevin Laird had stacked up a third down play.

But when the Lions couldn't move they were forced to punt and that's when the Meteors got the break they were looking for. A short kick set up the third DeLaSalle touchdown and the league champs had no trouble the rest of the way.

Shinnick went in from the five for the third touchdown, and the explosive Meteor back covered eight yards early in the fourth quarter to make it 25-13.

It was Shinnick again from the 10 after an 85-yard DeLaSalle march in the fourth quarter.

THE LIONS had three casualties of consequence in this bitterly-fought Chicagoland Prep League game.

Loner, a bulwark all season for Gliwa's club, didn't play again after receiving his first period knee injury, and defensive standout Dan Klingberg was racked up late in the third quarter.

Paul Rocca, who went both ways up front for the Lions, suffered an ankle injury that put him on the sidelines early in the fourth period.

Palubicki threw 28 games in the contest for a school record, hitting on 12 for 116 yards. Stevens pulled down seven of those aerials, another school mark, for 91 yards and showed some fancy footwork after some of those receptions.

Coach Fran Somers' 'As' scored single touchdowns in each of the first three quarters and pushed over two more in the fourth stanza for a 34-14 victory.

"It was our best game of the year," Somers praised.

Scoring for Arlington were Gary Bratko on a 20-yard pass from Fred Harth, Paul Greene on runs of 15 and one yards, John Morrow with a 40-yard run of a blocked punt by Tim McGrath, and Dave Larson with a 32-yard run with an intercepted pass.

Craig Moritz intercepted four passes for the Cardinals.

Coach Tom Walthouse's Arlington 'Bs' blanked Elk Grove, 28-0, with single touchdowns in each of the four periods.

The Cards finished with a 6-0-1 record to tie for the league crown.

Mark Jacoby scored two touchdowns for Arlington and passed for one to Dave Kurrasch. He also intercepted a pass which set up one tally.

Mike Weber, who showed some strong running, also tallied for the winners.

There were no details available from Elk Grove for either game.

Knight JVs Top Falcons

Prospect's jayvee Knights fashioned a 7-0 victory over Forest View Saturday in the season finale for both clubs.

It was a ball game that saw neither team able to muster much of an offensive game.

The only score was made by the Knights late in the third period when they were able to punch the ball over on a one yard plunge. Ron Richardson did the scoring honors for the Knights.

Card JVs in 7-1 Campaign

A convincing 52-0 victory over Glenbrook South last Friday evening capped an impressive junior-varsity football season at Arlington High School.

The powerful Cardinals, coached by Brendan Flynn and Bill Myers, piled up a 33-0 cushion at the intermission in racking up their seventh victory in eight outings.

Dean Schmelzer scored four touchdowns in leading the Arlington assault. Bob Graham, Denny Meacham, Corky Croarkin, and Paul Douglas also tallied touchdowns with Douglas covering 63 yards with a pass interception.

THE SHUTOUT ran Arlington's string of scoreless periods to 16 with Wheeling the last team to counter against the Card defenders. Wheeling also was the only team to beat Arlington this fall.

"That Wheeling game woke us up," Flynn said this week in looking back on the 1966 season. "The boys really started to play some football after that."

Arlington scored three or more touchdowns in every game but one and hit four or better five times while piling up 229 total points.

ALTHOUGH BACKS Graham, Schmelzer, Meacham, John Benoit and Larry Wadzita received most of the headlines this year, there were many contributors to the over-all jayvee success.

Flynn praised the work of guards Briggs Blackburn ("certainly one of our finest linemen"), Craig Cochran ("strong both ways"), and Brian Marinello and middle guard on defense Gene Kennedy; tackles John Theroux ("a real top defensive boy"), Ken Koeneman, Chris Kaucher, Stan Stanczak; and John Vetter ("a starter until sidelined with a ruptured appendix early in the year"); and center Dave McGuffey ("effective job all season").

Working at the ends were Mark Liddell, Marc Lenhardt, John Schultz, and Kelly Reid. Others who drew mention from the head man were Corky Croarkin at the wide spot on offense ("a good receive and blocker despite his lack of size"); defensive back Paul Douglas; Bob Goebbert; and soph Bryce Knorr ("guard both ways who missed last half of season with broken ankle").

Arlington Coasts To 8th Soph Win

Jumping out to a 31-0 lead at the intermission, Arlington's sophomore Cardinals raced to a 50-0 victory over Elk Grove Saturday morning in the season finale for both schools.

Jim Baumgartner and Dave Ewart were the standouts in the Cardinal win.

Baumgartner scored three touchdowns and gained 142 yardsiin 10 carries. Ewart hit on four straight passes for 101 yards and one tally and also scored three times.

Other Cardinal touchdowns were picked up by Will Heinemann on a 14-yard run and Scott Larson on a 17-yard scamper.

Arlington finished unbeaten in eight games, piling up 242 points to the opponents 33.

"They were one of the hardest working groups," praised head man Tom Pitchford, "I've had in ten years of coaching. They really liked to play the game."

Pitchford was assisted by Bill Svrluga and Bruce Glover.

Heinemann finished as the Arlington rushing leader with 864 yards in 101 carries. Baumgartner had 845 in 100 tries. Ewart clicked on 29 passes for 442 yards and five scores.

Defensive leaders were Al Lalond, Scott Larson, Baumgartner, Jay Harris, Steve Stratton, Tim Shannon, Heinemann, Craig Deehring, Paul Stevens, and Doug Stuber among others.

Expo 67: Exciting Preview of Fair

PADDOCK LIBRARIAN Mrs. Dorothy Meyer examines literature from Montreal after visit to Expo 67. Highlight of the tour was a 3:30 a.m. kiss on the hand by a French Canadian. (Staff photo)

From 'Morgue' —to Montreal

Stories by DOROTHY MEYER
Paddock Librarian

"Universal and International Exposition of 1967" is the proper but cumbersome title for the so-called world's fair that will begin in Canada next April. As part of the country's celebration of its confederation in 1867. "Expo 67" is the official abbreviation of the same thing and the symbol and sound of it is everywhere in Montreal, the host city. If you're a hockey fan and watch games telecast from Montreal you've already seen the symbol, frozen into the ice of the center face-off circle; it's printed on the letterheads of Canadian officials and stamped on souvenir cuff links and lapel pins.

And the sound of Expo! It's in the gutty growl of heavy machines at work on the 1,000-acre site in the St. Lawrence River, and in the everyday conversation of Canadian citizens. Cash registers, reflecting the Expo building boom, ring with it; the brand-new, rubber-tired subway trains in Montreal purr with it.

I know. I was there last month.

WITH 30 OTHER news media representatives from the Great Lakes area, I was a guest of the Canadian government for two days of nonstop excitement in Montreal. We were brought there for the specific purpose of catching Expo 67 fever and with the frank hope that we would infect others with it when we returned home. We were grandly exposed to the delirium—jetted to Montreal on a luxury airliner, registered in one of the city's most elegant old hotels, wined, dined and charmed on a marathon schedule. Most of us succumbed.

One of the first things we learned was that Expo 67 is not a world's fair, it is a "first category exhibition." The most recent one was held in Brussels in 1958. Our instructor, a delightful Canadian with a British accent, said dolefully, "If y' go home 'n' call this elegant exposition of ours a silly world's fair, I won't forgive you."

One of the last things we learned was that "Exporama" a preview of Expo 67, will be shown at a few major shopping centers in prime areas of the United States. Randhurst is one of them. A visit is tentatively set for Dec. 1. I was relieved to hear it; even without seeing much of the site I was already wondering how I could possibly cram all there was to tell into a few typewritten pages. Early in December Exporama can do the job for me, and if its propagandists are the same ones who talked to us for two hours—no one will be bored. Their humor is just like the wine served with our post-briefing luncheon11—sparkling and dry. You won't get the luncheon at Randhurst, or the wine or a special toast as representative of Illinois' leading suburban newspapers. I did, though.

As a previewer of the preview coming to Randhurst I can tell you that, among many, many other things, you'll have the opportunity to order tickets for entertainment that sounds too good to be true. La Scala Opera Company of Milan will appear for the first time in North America, Laurence Olivier will perform with the National Theatre Company of Britain, Yehudi Menuhin with the Bath Festival Ensemble. The sports program is just as universal in scope and appeal: so is the "spectaculars" schedule of shows by Leon Leonidoff of Radio City Music Hall, a 1,700-man Canadian military tattoo and the French military police force, Gendarmerie Francaise.

EXPO 67'S QUEST for lodging accommodations—always of major concern anywhere—is geared to provide lodging for 165,000 persons on any given night. During the dessert course at lunch, another charming Canadian described his committee's efforts — in a fetching French accent. Hotels, motels, apartment houses, even private homes are right now being reserved; there'll be camping facilities for 25,000 trailers; universities will provide their dormitories. And, promised our speaker, "Eef all else fails, one of us weel sit up and dreenk weeth you all night!"

It was a good thing it was time to board the bus anyway, because his remark broke up the luncheon completely. We began the tour of the Expo 67 site. It was almost too much. Incredible pavilions in incredible stages of construction commanded my attention at the right—and the racing, white-capped St. Lawrence River competed for it from the left. Skyward, a towering crane was in the delicate process of lowering into place a section of the 200-foot high United States pavilion, and almost beneath the wheels of our bus were Canadian workmen, sodding, planting shrubs and grinning up at us. We nudged slowly under a loop of minirail cable being hoisted into place and it was so tight a squeeze that we all instinctively ducked.

WE ROLLED past what looked like the results of a child-giant's temper tantrum—huge shoebox-shaped concrete blocks piled up in a ragged pyramid. Our hostess explained this was "Habitat 67," urban development of the future. The completed complex — $10,500,000 worth of building blocks for a child-giant — would contain 158 homes of 15 different styles and arranged at 11 different levels to insure each homeowner maximum air, sunlight and privacy. One man's rooftop would be the garden of the man upstairs and I thought, "It'd be just my luck to have a chronic lawn-waterer for my upper level neighbor." At the same instant my seat partner chuckled and said, "I can just see myself going out to mow the roof."

Habitat 67 is indeed a "unique concept."

There were more than 80 structures to be seen and neither my choicest selection of words nor Randhurst's coming preview can adequately describe or even list them all. Every major nation of the world is building a pavilion with the apparent determination to be the most unusual, and two major pavilions will accommodate many of the smaller nations who could not otherwise afford to participate. Everything for the comfort and safety of visitors is there, too.

Statistically, Expo 67 is just as superlative. It will cost $280 million, 30 million tons of dirt and fill have been moved to create a man-made island, lengthen and broaden the existing Ile Sainte-Helene and build a breakwater. A bridge, a highway and subway have been built to connect Montreal with the islands; connecting the islands is another transit system, Expo Express, and augmenting that is a secondary system, the minirail. Lakes and canals have been created, one million square yards of turf, 8000 trees and 150,000 shrubs are being planted. Special attention has been given to provide working space and equipment for the press of the world, entertainment for teenage visitors, facilities for the handicapped — and a place where tired feet may be unshod and dangled in cool waters. If Expo 67 has forgotten anything it probably never existed in the first place.

DO YOU GET the impression that I caught an acute case of Expo 67 fever in MONTREAL LAST MONTH? That my heart's wish is to go back April 28 next year? That I dare you to risk exposure by looking in on Exporama at Randhurst in December?

I did. It is. I do. (A-15

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Blue Angel Blue Birds from Olive, St. Peter and St. James schools treated the children in the pediatrics ward of Northwest Community Hospital to Halloween tray favors filed with candy. The Blue Angels made the favors.

Earlier this year these girls, led by Mrs. Donald Ernst and her co-leader Mrs. Richard Hoffman, had a cookout, hiked at Deer Grove Forest Preserve, assembled a fruit basket and sang songs for an ill neighbor and put on a fashion show.

The Merry Blue Birds, third graders from Park and Our Lady of the Wayside schools, were entertained by older Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts at a Halloween Party.

Linda Johnson, a sixth-grade Camp Fire Girl, and Jennifer Owen, a Girl Scout, entertained the younger girls at the Raymond Johnson home, 720 S. Dunton Ave. Both older girls received honors for giving the party.

BUFFALO GROVE

Spring Beauties, second-grade Blue Birds from Alcott School have been making wrist purses, leaf place mats and Blue Bird pennants.

The nine new members of the group are Kelly Bennett, Patti Fisher, Jennifer Goff, Laurrie Hopkins, Lenore Kirk, Chris Lockman, Jill Schmalzer, Debbie Sicilian and Chris Wilde. Their leader, Mrs. Neil Bennett, is assisted by Mrs. W. A. Lockman.

MOUNT PROSPECT

About 130 Camp Fire Blue Birds attended their first ceremonial at Lincoln School last Sunday. The Candle Lighting was the official start along the Camp Fire Trail for these girls and their leaders.

Louis Nettlehorst, head of the camping committee of the Chicago Area Council, was special guest for the afternoon. He told the girls of the fun to be found in discovering the beauty of the out of doors. He encouraged the girls to learn about the woods and wild animals so that they could enjoy them.

Mrs. Kellogg's Camp Fire Girls went hiking and stone collecting at Beck Lake last week.

PALATINE

The TA-KI-MA-WEES Blue Birds raised $6 for Little City at Palatine, by selling flower seeds.

During September the girls collected seeds from the zinnias, marigolds, snapdragons and hollihocks in their leader's backyard. They decorated envelopes to package the seeds and sold the packages for 10 cents each.

Last month the girls went on a hayride with another Blue Bird group, made taffy apples, started diaries of meeting activities and made trick or treat bags.

They have each written a letter to the English Speaking Union, Pen Friends Division, in New York to find pen pals abroad.

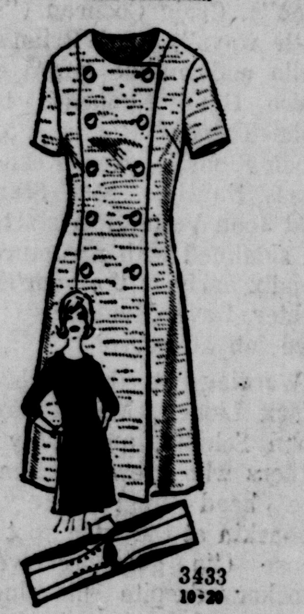
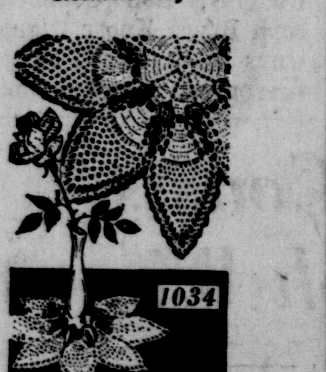
The Coachman



Crocheted Doily

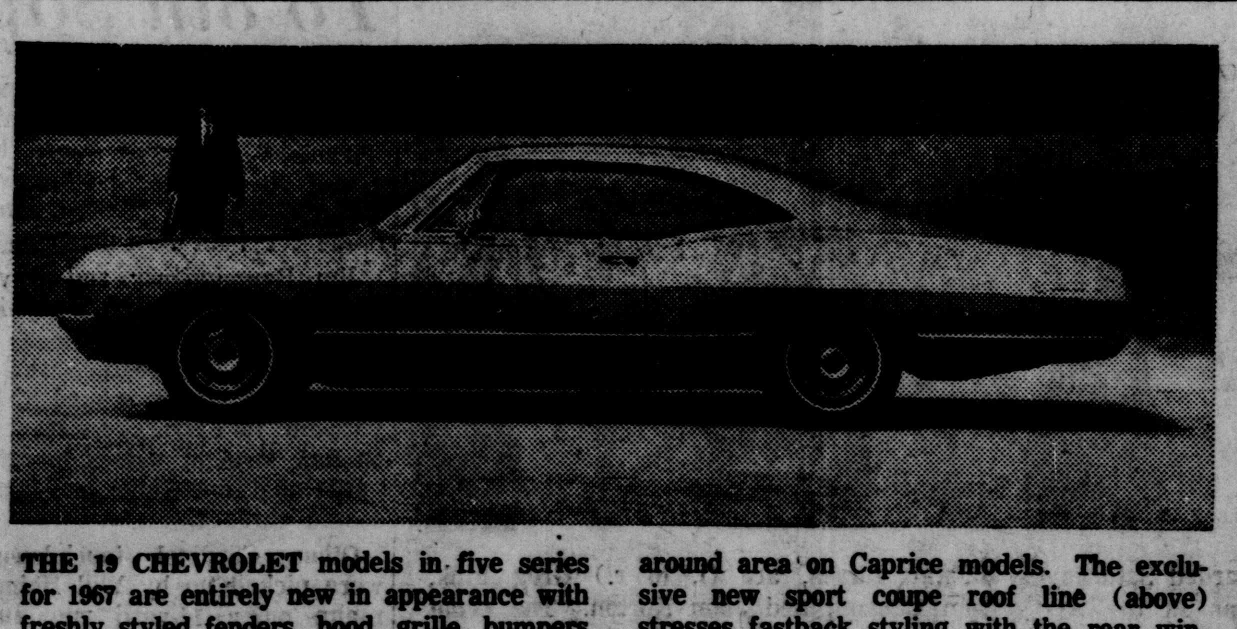


Dress Pattern No. 3433. The Coachman. The coat-dress that buttons down the side front wins kudos for the new season. You can make this one with either short or below-elbow sleeve, one row of buttons or two. No. 3433 comes in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 1/2 with short sleeves takes 4 yards of 44-inch fabric.

Free pattern is waiting for you. Send 50 cents for our new Fall-Winter Pattern Book which contains coupon for pattern of your choice.

Needlework Pattern No. 1034. Crocheted Doily. The attractive 12-inch doily pictured today has a ruffle at the center in which to set a small bowl, candle base or lamp. It is very easy to crochet with Pattern No. 1034.

Send 40c for each dress pattern, 30c for each needlework pattern (add 5c for each pattern for third class mailing and 15c for each pattern for first class mailing.) to AUDREY LANE BUREAU, Box 1490, New York 1, N.Y.



THE 19 CHEVROLET models in five series for 1967 are entirely new in appearance with freshly styled fenders, hood, grille, bumpers and taillamps. Bright fender wrap-arounds extend grille styling on all models, while fender lamps are featured in the wrap-around area on Caprice models. The exclusive new sport coupe roof line (above) stresses fastback styling with the rear window blending into the deck in an unbroken line. A four-way hazard flasher is now standard equipment on all '67 Chevrolets.

Fairy Godmother Klunks Her With Star-Tipped Magic Wand

I believe in fairy godmothers. At 3:30 on a Wednesday afternoon last month I decided I'd been foolish to go back to work at my age. I was tired . . . my hands were grubby with printer's ink . . . a pile of ironing this high was waiting at home. Life was nothing but work, dirty hands and never getting enough sleep.

The following Wednesday at 3:30 (a.m.) my hand (clean) was being kissed by a French Canadian who murmured, "Enchante, Madame," as I left the Montreal Men's Press Club with a pair of attractive, attentive escorts (male).

YOU BET I believe in fairy godmothers.

In this case Fairy Godmother was disguised first as the Canadian government (see accompanying story) and then as half a dozen of my bosses who couldn't accept the Expo 67 invitation and still get a newspaper out on time. Some people might say I went to Montreal by default, but I still say it was good old F. G. The fairy story goes like this:

Thirty seconds after I'd decided I was foolish to go back to work at my age the boss said, "How'd you like to fly to Montreal Monday, all expenses paid, and write us a story about Expo 67?" After he picked me up off the floor I said, "What's Expo 67," and he said, "Here's a letter explaining everything you better get right at arrangements we got this a little late."

I quickly efficiently marshaled my thoughts—"Ye gods, what will Wally say . . . I haven't a thing to wear . . . got to do something about my hair . . . WHEEEEEE, I'M GOING TO MONTREAL!"

BY 4 O'CLOCK I'd called New York, been told by a nice lady that she'd make hotel reservations, I'd hear from an airline about my flight and have fun dear. By 4:15 I'd had offers from 25 co-workers to go in my place if I broke a leg before Monday. At 5:05 I broke the news to my husband who grinned a face-splitting grin and said, "By golly, ain't that something!" Wally's getting a white hat for Christmas — he's definitely the best of the good guys.

Thursday and Friday I appeared at work but didn't accomplish much — I was busy watching where I walked so I wouldn't trip over 25 pairs of outstretched legs and misplaced wastebaskets. I hadn't heard from any airline by 4 o'clock Friday and decided to do some checking; started with Airline A which didn't know anything about it, tried the Canadian Government Travel Bureau which said Airlines A is handling everything! I said, "Care to bet a bob or two on that?" CGTB assured me I'd hear from somebody pronto, and three seconds later Airline B called, everything set. I relaxed.

Monday evening I relaxed some more, 35,000 feet up, with a cold supper of pate maison, chicken chaudfroid, ham with asparagus tips, a strawberry tart and a wee bottle of chilled white wine. Just like home. One teensy weensy worry nagged at the back of my mind — I still didn't know what hotel I'd be in. Neither did my seat partner, another Expo 67 guest, but we assured one another that we'd find out when we were met in Montreal. Trouble was, we weren't met in Montreal and nobody ever heard of us except another passenger on the same flight whose luggage was lost. I wasn't worried — good old F. G. would take care of things. Sure enough, she steered us three to two more unmet unheard-ofs who at least knew that they were registered at the Windsor Hotel. One of them called the hotel, yes we all were expected, so into a cab and to the Windsor.

FROM THEN on Expo 67 did everything, especially apologize for the stand-up, and I am still groggy from being exposed to so much charm, consideration and wit.

And wine. Late Tuesday evening at dinner in Chez Grandmere's it suddenly occurred to me that the only time I'd had water in my mouth was when I brushed my teeth. Until then I didn't really believe the French served wine instead of water with meals. At Grandmere's I believed it. I was thirsty.

After dinner we were on our own, with suggestions for entertainment and an invitation to the Montreal Men's Press Club from our Expo host. Seven of us took one suggestion, strolled to a recommended bistro?—night club?—and I thought we'd landed in Paris. The coat check lady had a French fit because we didn't do things as per custom, the waiter had very little Anglais and was thoroughly confused by an order for 7-Up, and the singers were Marsailles-ese which is Frencher than anything. I think even the dense fog of smoke was French.

From the cafe we walked to the press club, dropping a few party-poopers as we passed the Windsor. It was barely midnight. Sleep is something I sometimes do at home; "dropping in" at the Montreal Men's Press Club is not. At the press club we reunited with several Expo 67ers as joyfully as though we'd been years and miles apart. After the bistro I felt that we had.

I'M ALL FOR press clubs if they're like Montreal's . . . deep, comfortable armchairs, waiters who materialize if you even look as though you're going to look like you want something; warm, sincere greetings from the regulars, and conversation quiet, relaxed and intelligent. Mmmmmmm. Then a lady of the theatre at my left asked if we'd seen Metro yet and off we went again, running because the subway's last run was at 1:27 a.m.

I'd read about Metro's dedication only four days earlier and now I was actually going to see it—even ride on it! It was big. And so new it didn't even smell like anything yet. And so far underground! The cars are rubber-tired and whisper along the rails fast-fast-fast. Coming back to the surface half an hour later I realized even the escalators go like crazy and I hopped off quick at the top.

Strolling back to the press club we lost a few more sleeper-types, leaving me and my two attentive, attractive escorts. And in the club was now an exuberant, talkative, arm-waving French Canadian to ruffle the calm quiet of the place.

HE KISSES hands at 3:30 in the morning, too.

I don't even want to talk about the flight back home. I wish it hadn't had to be so soon. But thanks anyway, F. G.

Jonland Conducts Skating Clinic

Forty-five enthusiastic skaters turned out for the first segment of a three part instructional clinic on ice skating sponsored by the Mount Prospect Skating Club at the Lions Park Field House.

Conducting the class was Einer Jonland, former skating partner of the great Sonia Heinie and in more recent years an instructor at the Michael Kirby School in Park Ridge.

Jonland also has had an instructional book published on ice skating.

The program is aimed toward helping the novice skater develop the basic form necessary to improve his skating abilities. The fundamentals taught by Jonland apply and benefit the figure skater, the hockey player, and the speed skater.

All skaters interested are invited to attend the remaining two sessions scheduled for Tuesday, November 15th and 22nd at the Mount Prospect Lions Park Field House at 7:30 p.m. For further information, call CL 3-1534.

4-H'er Award Night Set at Miner Jr. High

North Cook County 4-H'ers will hold their achievement program at Miner Junior High School, Arlington Heights, Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Merlyn Heyen, associate farm adviser, and Jean Rushton, assistant home adviser, will present high school special awards and state and county awards earned by area 4-H members this year. All 4-H members, 4-H leaders, parents and friends of 4-H are invited to attend the program. (A15

I believe in fairy godmothers.

At 3:30 on a Wednesday afternoon last month I decided I'd been foolish to go back to work at my age. I was tired . . . my hands were grubby with printer's ink . . . a pile of ironing this high was waiting at home. Life was nothing but work, dirty hands and never getting enough sleep.

The following Wednesday at 3:30 (a.m.) my hand (clean) was being kissed by a French Canadian who murmured, "Enchante, Madame," as I left the Montreal Men's Press Club with a pair of attractive, attentive escorts (male).

YOU BET I believe in fairy godmothers.

In this case Fairy Godmother was disguised first as the Canadian government (see accompanying story) and then as half a dozen of my bosses who couldn't accept the Expo 67 invitation and still get a newspaper out on time. Some people might say I went to Montreal by default, but I still say it was good old F. G. The fairy story goes like this:

Thirty seconds after I'd decided I was foolish to go back to work at my age the boss said, "How'd you like to fly to Montreal Monday, all expenses paid, and write us a story about Expo 67?" After he picked me up off the floor I said, "What's Expo 67," and he said, "Here's a letter explaining everything you better get right at arrangements we got this a little late."

I quickly efficiently marshaled my thoughts—"Ye gods, what will Wally say . . . I haven't a thing to wear . . . got to do something about my hair . . . WHEEEEEE, I'M GOING TO MONTREAL!"

BY 4 O'CLOCK I'd called New York, been told by a nice lady that she'd make hotel reservations, I'd hear from an airline about my flight and have fun dear. By 4:15 I'd had offers from 25 co-workers to go in my place if I broke a leg before Monday. At 5:05 I broke the news to my husband who grinned a face-splitting grin and said, "By golly, ain't that something!" Wally's getting a white hat for Christmas — he's definitely the best of the good guys.

Thursday and Friday I appeared at work but didn't accomplish much — I was busy watching where I walked so I wouldn't trip over 25 pairs of outstretched legs and misplaced wastebaskets. I hadn't heard from any airline by 4 o'clock Friday and decided to do some checking; started with Airline A which didn't know anything about it, tried the Canadian Government Travel Bureau which said Airlines A is handling everything! I said, "Care to bet a bob or two on that?" CGTB assured me I'd hear from somebody pronto, and three seconds later Airline B called, everything set. I relaxed.

Monday evening I relaxed some more, 35,000 feet up, with a cold supper of pate maison, chicken chaudfroid, ham with asparagus tips, a strawberry tart and a wee bottle of chilled white wine. Just like home. One teensy weensy worry nagged at the back of my mind — I still didn't know what hotel I'd be in. Neither did my seat partner, another Expo 67 guest, but we assured one another that we'd find out when we were met in Montreal. Trouble was, we weren't met in Montreal and nobody ever heard of us except another passenger on the same flight whose luggage was lost. I wasn't worried — good old F. G. would take care of things. Sure enough, she steered us three to two more unmet unheard-ofs who at least knew that they were registered at the Windsor Hotel. One of them called the hotel, yes we all were expected, so into a cab and to the Windsor.

FROM THEN on Expo 67 did everything, especially apologize for the stand-up, and I am still groggy from being exposed to so much charm, consideration and wit.

And wine. Late Tuesday evening at dinner in Chez Grandmere's it suddenly occurred to me that the only time I'd had water in my mouth was when I brushed my teeth. Until then I didn't really believe the French served wine instead of water with meals. At Grandmere's I believed it. I was thirsty.

After dinner we were on our own, with suggestions for entertainment and an invitation to the Montreal Men's Press Club from our Expo host. Seven of us took one suggestion, strolled to a recommended bistro?—night club?—and I thought we'd landed in Paris. The coat check lady had a French fit because we didn't do things as per custom, the waiter had very little Anglais and was thoroughly confused by an order for 7-Up, and the singers were Marsailles-ese which is Frencher than anything. I think even the dense fog of smoke was French.

From the cafe we walked to the press club, dropping a few party-poopers as we passed the Windsor. It was barely midnight. Sleep is something I sometimes do at home; "dropping in" at the Montreal Men's Press Club is not. At the press club we reunited with several Expo 67ers as joyfully as though we'd been years and miles apart. After the bistro I felt that we had.

I'M ALL FOR press clubs if they're like Montreal's . . . deep, comfortable armchairs, waiters who materialize if you even look as though you're going to look like you want something; warm, sincere greetings from the regulars, and conversation quiet, relaxed and intelligent. Mmmmmmm. Then a lady of the theatre at my left asked if we'd seen Metro yet and off we went again, running because the subway's last run was at 1:27 a.m.

I'd read about Metro's dedication only four days earlier and now I was actually going to see it—even ride on it! It was big. And so new it didn't even smell like anything yet. And so far underground! The cars are rubber-tired and whisper along the rails fast-fast-fast. Coming back to the surface half an hour later I realized even the escalators go like crazy and I hopped off quick at the top.

Strolling back to the press club we lost a few more sleeper-types, leaving me and my two attentive, attractive escorts. And in the club was now an exuberant, talkative, arm-waving French Canadian to ruffle the calm quiet of the place.

HE KISSES hands at 3:30 in the morning, too.

I don't even want to talk about the flight back home. I wish it hadn't had to be so soon. But thanks anyway, F. G.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Blue Angel Blue Birds from Olive, St. Peter and St. James schools treated the children in the pediatrics ward of Northwest Community Hospital to Halloween tray favors filed with candy. The Blue Angels made the favors.

Earlier this year these girls, led by Mrs. Donald Ernst and her co-leader Mrs. Richard Hoffman, had a cookout, hiked at Deer Grove Forest Preserve, assembled a fruit basket and sang songs for an ill neighbor and put on a fashion show.

The Merry Blue Birds, third graders from Park and Our Lady of the Wayside schools, were entertained by older Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts at a Halloween Party.

Linda Johnson, a sixth-grade Camp Fire Girl, and Jennifer Owen, a Girl Scout, entertained the younger girls at the Raymond Johnson home, 720 S. Dunton Ave. Both older girls received honors for giving the party.

BUFFALO GROVE

Spring Beauties, second-grade Blue Birds from Alcott School have been making wrist purses, leaf place mats and Blue Bird pennants.

The nine new members of the group are Kelly Bennett, Patti Fisher, Jennifer Goff, Laurrie Hopkins, Lenore Kirk, Chris Lockman, Jill Schmalzer, Debbie Sicilian and Chris Wilde. Their leader, Mrs. Neil Bennett, is assisted by Mrs. W. A. Lockman.

MOUNT PROSPECT

About 130 Camp Fire Blue Birds attended their first ceremonial at Lincoln School last Sunday. The Candle Lighting was the official start along the Camp Fire Trail for these girls and their leaders.

Louis Nettlehorst, head of the camping committee of the Chicago Area Council, was special guest for the afternoon. He told the girls of the fun to be found in discovering the beauty of the out of doors. He encouraged the girls to learn about the woods and wild animals so that they could enjoy them.

Mrs. Kellogg's Camp Fire Girls went hiking and stone collecting at Beck Lake last week.

PALATINE

The TA-KI-MA-WEES Blue Birds raised $6 for Little City at Palatine, by selling flower seeds.

During September the girls collected seeds from the zinnias, marigolds, snapdragons and hollihocks in their leader's backyard. They decorated envelopes to package the seeds and sold the packages for 10 cents each.

Last month the girls went on a hayride with another Blue Bird group, made taffy apples, started diaries of meeting activities and made trick or treat bags.

They have each written a letter to the English Speaking Union, Pen Friends Division, in New York to find pen pals abroad.

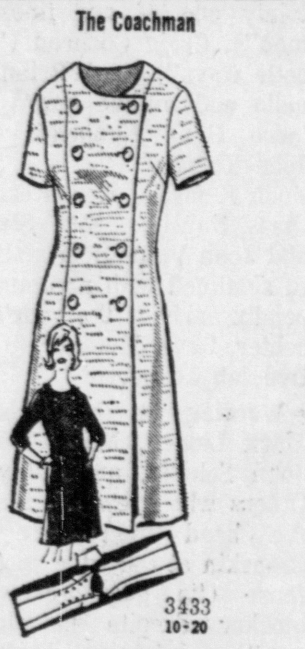
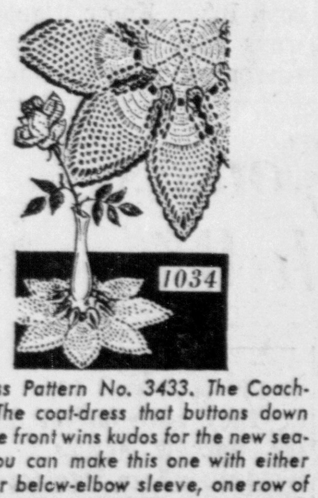
The Coachman



Crocheted Doily



Dress Pattern No. 3433. The Coachman. The coat-dress that buttons down the side front wins kudos for the new season. You can make this one with either short or below-elbow sleeve, one row of buttons or two. No. 3433 comes in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 1/2 with short sleeves takes 4 yards of 44-inch fabric.

Free pattern is waiting for you. Send 50 cents for our new Fall-Winter Pattern Book which contains coupon for pattern of your choice.

Needlework Pattern No. 1034. Crocheted Doily. The attractive 12-inch doily pictured today has a ruffle at the center in which to set a small bowl, candle base or lamp. It is very easy to crochet with Pattern No. 1034.

Send 40c for each dress pattern, 30c for each needlework pattern (add 5c for each pattern for third class mailing and 15c for each pattern for first class mailing.) to AUDREY LANE BUREAU, Box 1490, New York 1, N.Y.

THE 19 CHEVROLET models in five series for 1967 are entirely new in appearance with freshly styled fenders, hood, grille, bumpers and taillamps. Bright fender wrap-arounds extend grille styling on all models, while fender lamps are featured in the wrap-around area on Caprice models. The exclusive new sport coupe roof line (above) stresses fastback styling with the rear window blending into the deck in an unbroken line. A four-way hazard flasher is now standard equipment on all '67 Chevrolets.

Jonland Conducts Skating Clinic

Forty-five enthusiastic skaters turned out for the first segment of a three part instructional clinic on ice skating sponsored by the Mount Prospect Skating Club at the Lions Park Field House.

Conducting the class was Einer Jonland, former skating partner of the great Sonia Heinie and in more recent years an instructor at the Michael Kirby School in Park Ridge.

Jonland also has had an instructional book published on ice skating.

The program is aimed toward helping the novice skater develop the basic form necessary to improve his skating abilities. The fundamentals taught by Jonland apply and benefit the figure skater, the hockey player, and the speed skater.

All skaters interested are invited to attend the remaining two sessions scheduled for Tuesday, November 15th and 22nd at the Mount Prospect Lions Park Field House at 7:30 p.m. For further information, call CL 3-1534.

4-H'er Award Night Set at Miner Jr. High

North Cook County 4-H'ers will hold their achievement program at Miner Junior High School, Arlington Heights, Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Merlyn Heyen, associate farm adviser, and Jean Rushton, assistant home adviser, will present high school special awards and state and county awards earned by area 4-H members this year. All 4-H members, 4-H leaders, parents and friends of 4-H are invited to attend the program. (A15

All-New Dodge Dart Is Big Compact with Sport Style

Dodge set the 1967 automotive styling stage for compact cars when it introduced the all-new Dart model.

Sweeping innovations from bumper to tail lights on the Dart transform the image of "America's largest compact" from conservative to sporty for the new model year.

But the economy-car-turned sport features the same generous 111-inch wheelbase, roomy interior, large cargo space and smooth handling characteristics that have made it a best-seller for the past three years.

HIGH-STYLE changes include new side sheet metal with a crisp, sculptured treatment; a distinctive recessed grille; delta-shaped tail lights; a new roof line; curved side glass; and a unique concave backlight.

Dart will be offered in 12 models and four body styles — 2-door sedans, 2-door hardtops, 4-door sedans and convertibles— in a variety of 19 exterior colors for 1967.

The all-new compact's triple-threat challenge now ranges from a low-line, bare-essentials 6-cylinder sedan to a top-of-the-series hardtop with bucket seats, floor-console shift and high-performance V-8 powerplant.

Six of the Dart, Dart 270 and Dart GT models will come with V-8s as standard equipment, and six with the economical 170-cu. in. "Slant Six" engine. The "170" engine's horsepower has been raised from 101 to 115 for the new models. A 225-cu. in. six rated at 145 horsepower is also available as an option.

Darts equipped with the 273-cu. in. powerplant are available with either 2-bbl. or 4-bbl. carburetion. The 2-bbl. "273" is rated at 180 horsepower, the 4-bbl. version at 235.

Standard transmission is a 3-speed manual, with 4-speed manual or TorqueFlite automatic as options.

ALTHOUGH Dart's wheelbase remains the same as in 1966, the new model's front track has been widened an inch and the engine moved for better handling characteristics.

It's time-tested unit body construction shell has been reinforced with steel roof bows, and hardtop models measure an inch wider and an inch lower in profile.

On Darts equipped with the "Slant Six" engine and TorqueFlite automatic transmission, smoother, quieter shifting is possible because of a part-throttle kickdown arrangement.

Chief among 26 safety items that are now standard on all Dodges are a dual braking system and a collapsible steering column and wheel.

Brakes operate on two independent circuits connected to a "tandem" master cylinder.

The steering wheel collapses in accordion fashion on impact, and is braced so that it cannot be driven backward to injure the driver in a collision.

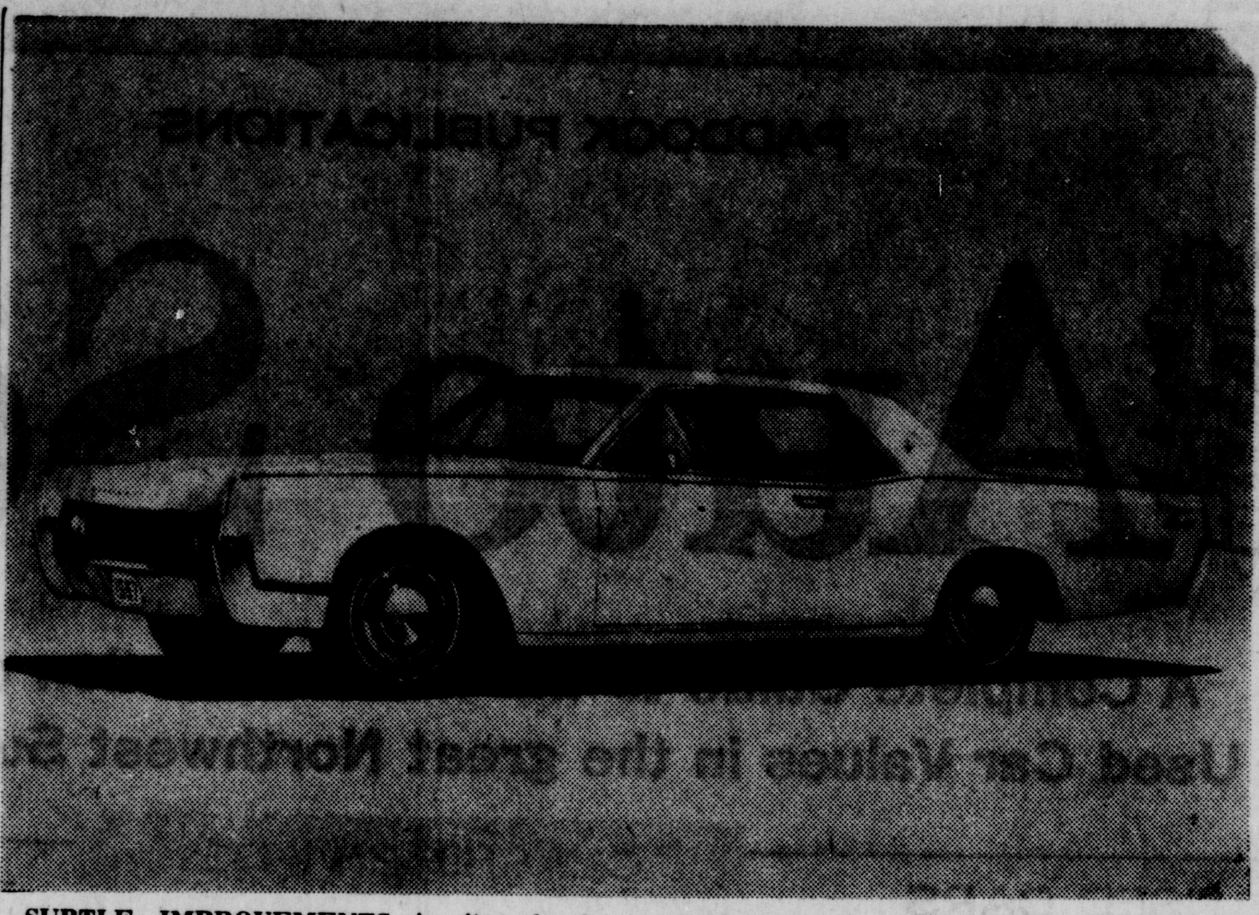
DART BRAKE drums have been redesigned with "tabbed" shoes, and safety wheel rims are standard equipment. Front-wheel disc-type brakes are available as an option on '67s ordered with 14-inch wheels.

Dart's safety-oriented instrument panel has a flat face recessed into its over-all panel contour, with an instrument cluster recessed even further and tilted toward the driver's line of sight.

A special light on the panel warns the driver when fluid is low in either one of the independent brake circuits, or when his parking brake is on.

Stronger, quieter door latches are another Dart safety "extra." The new handle resembles the lap-belt type introduced on other Dodges last year as standard equipment. The latch will not lock until the door is completely closed.

Interiors of the '67 Darts range from a utility cloth-vinyl trim to a plush, new all-vinyl material that compares in texture with expensive leather.



SUBTLE IMPROVEMENTS in its classic styling and significant advances in comfort, convenience and safety mark the Lincoln Continental for 1967. The Continental reaches new goals in over-all quality, in inventive new features and in engineering designs to enhance further its reputation as America's most distinguished motor car. In the top picture is the Continental Coupe' for 1967 and below is the four-door sedan.

Classic Styling Is Lincoln's Hallmark

Refinements in its classic styling and significant advances in luxury interiors, comfort, convenience and safety for 1967 enhance Lincoln Continental's reputation as America's most distinguished motorcar.

Lincoln Continental for 1967 has met the challenge of improving on a car with a tradition of quality and over-all product continuity by incorporating new product and mechanical features with a subtle touch from the stylist.

The 1967 Continentals reach new goals in over-all quality, in attention to detail, in inventive new features and engineering designs. Styling refinements include recessing the front grille slightly and a blending of the vertical and horizaonal grillework. Taillights are restyled to complement the new front grille treatment.

The ultimate in passenger luxury is a reclining front passenger seat with power adjustable headrest, an innovation which permits the passenger to select the most comfortable reclining angle. This new option is available with six-way power bench seats and is standard with the optional individually adjustable contour seats.

NEW LEVELS of passenger comfort are attained with Lincoln Continental's fresh-flow ventilation system, standard on all models. The fresh-flow system includes controlled air outlets in the front doors operated automatically by interior air pressure. Quiet and draft-free air flow is produced by turning on the blower fan.

Several other improvements in the heating, cooling and vent systems contribute to still greater passenger comfort and convenience. The heater and air conditioning system incorporates the latest advances in air-blending and heater design, together with reheat air conditioning. A refined automatic temperature control option incorporates new controls which more quickly stabilize interior temperature.

Ford Motor Company standard safety features for 1967, include dual hydraulic brake system with warning light, impact-absorbing steering wheel with deep-padded hub, and padded instrument panel, sun visors and windshield pillars. Other safety features include double yoke safety door latches and positive door lock buttons, remote control outside rear view mirror, non-glare (day/night) inside mirror with flexible backing and double-pivot inside mirror arms. Also standard are deluxe front and rear seat belts with front retractors and reminder light.

The windshield is thick laminate safety plate glass, and windshield washers and variable speed wipers are standard. Other safety features are self-adjusting brakes, turn indicators with a lane-changing signal feature, back-up lights, and four-way emergency flasher with control mounted on the steering column.

IMPROVED performance is obtained from Lincoln Continental's big, 462-cubic-inch V-8 engine teamed with the new Select-Shift Turbo-Drive automatic transmission, both of which are standard. This combination gives smooth, flexible performance under all driving and road conditions. With its new controls, this transmission can operate automatically or it can be up-shifted and down-shifted manually as the driver desires. With 340 horsepower and 485 ft.-lbs. of torque, the engine provides brisk acceleration to cruising speeds and has established a record for reliability and durability.

In keeping with its prestige role in automotive luxury, the Lincoln Continental provides as standard equipment many major items such as power steering, power brakes including front disc brakes, power windows, two-way power seat, variable speed windshield wipers and many others.

Major changes in Continental's optional automatic speed control result in greater flexibility and more positive control. A speed-set button is now located conveniently on the end of the turn signal lever. A choice is offered in optional stereo systems: fully integrated combination AM radio/stereo-sonic tape system or separate stereo system for use in combination with a push-button AM radio or the signal-seeking AM-FM radio.

Many other options and accessories are available for even greater convenience and comfort.

FOUR NEW exterior colors and five new shades for 1967 give the Lincoln Continental 20 distinctive color choices. Optional Embassy vinyl roof is offered in black, ivory and ivy gold, in black, ivory and ivy gold, and convertible top is available in black, white and blue.

The Continental four-door convertible — the only such model built in America — features a self-storing top which is concealed automatically beneath the rear deck. Wheelbase of the Lincoln Continental is 126 inches and over-all length is 220.9 inches. (SS

In the top picture is the Continental Coupe' for 1967 and below is the four-door sedan.

Classic Styling Is Lincoln's Hallmark

Refinements in its classic styling and significant advances in luxury interiors, comfort, convenience and safety for 1967 enhance Lincoln Continental's reputation as America's most distinguished motorcar.

Lincoln Continental for 1967 has met the challenge of improving on a car with a tradition of quality and over-all product continuity by incorporating new product and mechanical features with a subtle touch from the stylist.

The 1967 Continentals reach new goals in over-all quality, in attention to detail, in inventive new features and engineering designs. Styling refinements include recessing the front grille slightly and a blending of the vertical and horizaonal grillework. Taillights are restyled to complement the new front grille treatment.

The ultimate in passenger luxury is a reclining front passenger seat with power adjustable headrest, an innovation which permits the passenger to select the most comfortable reclining angle. This new option is available with six-way power bench seats and is standard with the optional individually adjustable contour seats.

NEW LEVELS of passenger comfort are attained with Lincoln Continental's fresh-flow ventilation system, standard on all models. The fresh-flow system includes controlled air outlets in the front doors operated automatically by interior air pressure. Quiet and draft-free air flow is produced by turning on the blower fan.

Several other improvements in the heating, cooling and vent systems contribute to still greater passenger comfort and convenience. The heater and air conditioning system incorporates the latest advances in air-blending and heater design, together with reheat air conditioning. A refined automatic temperature control option incorporates new controls which more quickly stabilize interior temperature.

Ford Motor Company standard safety features for 1967, include dual hydraulic brake system with warning light, impact-absorbing steering wheel with deep-padded hub, and padded instrument panel, sun visors and windshield pillars. Other safety features include double yoke safety door latches and positive door lock buttons, remote control outside rear view mirror, non-glare (day/night) inside mirror with flexible backing and double-pivot inside mirror arms. Also standard are deluxe front and rear seat belts with front retractors and reminder light.

The windshield is thick laminate safety plate glass, and windshield washers and variable speed wipers are standard. Other safety features are self-adjusting brakes, turn indicators with a lane-changing signal feature, back-up lights, and four-way emergency flasher with control mounted on the steering column.

IMPROVED performance is obtained from Lincoln Continental's big, 462-cubic-inch V-8 engine teamed with the new Select-Shift Turbo-Drive automatic transmission, both of which are standard. This combination gives smooth, flexible performance under all driving and road conditions. With its new controls, this transmission can operate automatically or it can be up-shifted and down-shifted manually as the driver desires. With 340 horsepower and 485 ft.-lbs. of torque, the engine provides brisk acceleration to cruising speeds and has established a record for reliability and durability.

In keeping with its prestige role in automotive luxury, the Lincoln Continental provides as standard equipment many major items such as power steering, power brakes including front disc brakes, power windows, two-way power seat, variable speed windshield wipers and many others.

Major changes in Continental's optional automatic speed control result in greater flexibility and more positive control. A speed-set button is now located conveniently on the end of the turn signal lever. A choice is offered in optional stereo systems: fully integrated combination AM radio/stereo-sonic tape system or separate stereo system for use in combination with a push-button AM radio or the signal-seeking AM-FM radio.

Many other options and accessories are available for even greater convenience and comfort.

FOUR NEW exterior colors and five new shades for 1967 give the Lincoln Continental 20 distinctive color choices. Optional Embassy vinyl roof is offered in black, ivory and ivy gold, in black, ivory and ivy gold, and convertible top is available in black, white and blue.

The Continental four-door convertible — the only such model built in America — features a self-storing top which is concealed automatically beneath the rear deck. Wheelbase of the Lincoln Continental is 126 inches and over-all length is 220.9 inches. (SS

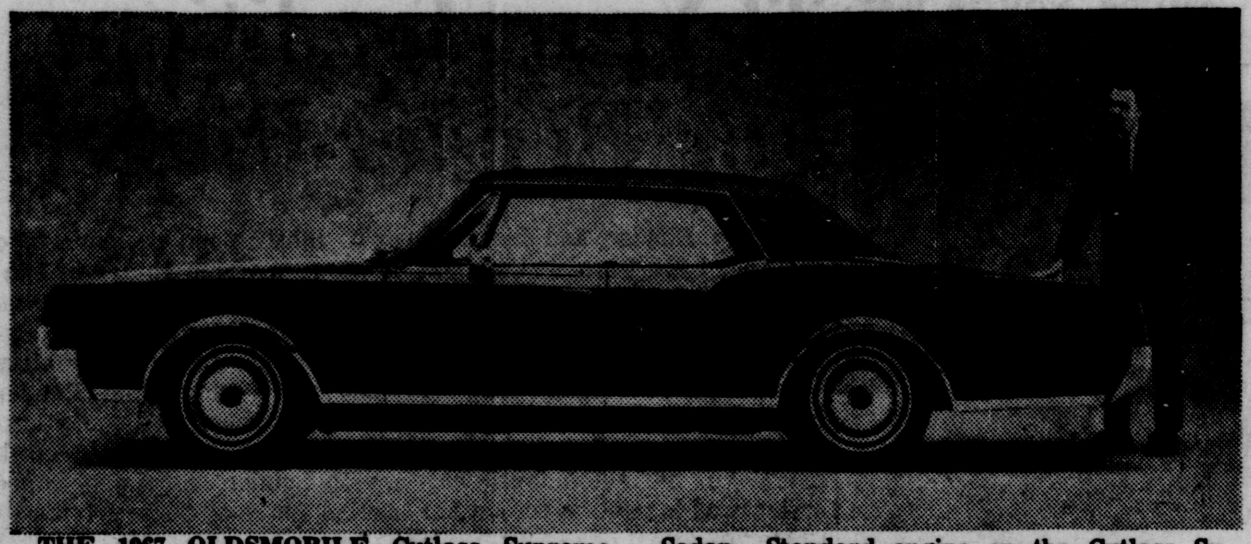
THE 1967 OLDSMOBILE Delmont 88 is featured in four body styles, and may be ordered with either a 330 cubic inch or a 425 cubic inch V-8 engine.



THE 1967 OLDSMOBILE Cutlass Supreme Holiday Sedan is now available in five different body styles, including the above Holiday Sedan. Standard engine on the Cutlass Supreme is a 330-cubic-inch V-8 with a 4-barrel version optional.

Olds Completely Restyled for '67

Oldsmobile is introducing completely restyled 88's and 98's this year, according to Bill Kelly, general manager of Martin J. Kelly Olds, 1516 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Oldsmobile's Delmont 88, a medium priced automobile, will be offered in a pillar sedan, a hardtop sedan, a hardtop coupe, and a convertible.

A new feature in the popular Toronado is a spring-operated door opening assistor that makes it possible to swing the door open easily.

THE. TORONADO. will also feature a new grille, head-light covers, tail-lights, and optional sporty-looking wheel discs, bucket seats and a horizontal paint stripe.

The Cutlass Supreme, the top of Oldsmobile's low-price line is now available in five different body styles. Styling changes include new front and rear appearance, new slide moldings and ornamentation, and functional hood louvers. A yellow vinyl interior trim with matching top and exterior paint is now available in the Cutlass series.

Standard equipment on all new Oldsmobiles include a brake system warning light, a padded glareproof inside rear-view mirror, folding seat back locks, free wheeling inside front door handles, a four-way emergency flasher system, a lane change indicator and shoulder harness anchorage provisions. In an effort to further decrease driver injury Oldsmobile has added larger diameter instrument control knobs and soft vinyl-covered window cranks and coat hangers. Steering columns are energy absorbing and steering wheels are designed with a large center padded area.

On all new Oldsmobiles, door locks are of the 5-depth tumbler design for greater protection against theft.

BEFORE MOVING to Arlington Heights five years ago, Martin J. Kelly Olds was located on 232 Ontario St., Chicago.

The Kelly facilities include the main building at 1516 Northwest Hwy., which features a sizable showroom, a roofed new car display, and a used-car department with its own office. A new plant for the Kelly body shop is on the next block. (SS

Bob Burrow No Newcomer To Business

Bob Burrow, 326 N. Elmwood Lane, Plum Grove, owner of Burrow Chevrolet, 495 W. Northwest Hwy., Barrington, is a long time resident of the northwest suburbs.

Burrow started 18 years ago in Des Plaines and worked his way up the automotive success ladder, starting as a mechanic and finally becoming owner of his own dealership five years ago.

Burrow Chevrolet moved into its brand new showroom a year and a half ago. It had formerly been located in the center of Barrington. The new showroom has space for six cars and has a service department.

BURROW HANDLES all of the line of Chevrolet cars and trucks. He says that Chevrolet is now offering a 50,000 mile or five year guarantee on all 1967 models.

According to Burrow, Chevrolet's new Camero is becoming very popular among his customers. The Camero, which has a price range of $2400 to $4000, can be equipped with any type of Chevrolet engine. It comes in convertible and hard top models and in the complete range of Chevrolet colors. (SS

ALL NEW—Pontiac's volume-selling Catalina series is represented here by the 1967 hardtop coupe with the Ventura option. The Catalina's distinctive styling, interiors and colors, many standard equipment safety items and a wide selection of options along with Pontiac's famous V-8 engines has made this series one of the industry's largest selling cars. The Catalina is also available in two and four-door sedans, a four-door hardtop, a convertible and six and nine-passenger station wagons.

Bold New Styling Is Featured by Pontiac

The 1967 models of Pontiac Motor Division represent a bold new approach in automotive styling combined with many new engineering features designed to increase the safety, comfort and convenience of driving.

Offered for the first time is a Grand Prix convertible and three new station wagons, two in the Executive series and one Tempest Safari, all with simulated wood exterior paneling.

Sweeping new roof lines on all two and four-door models, major design advancements in both front and rear ends, a Pontiac exclusive of recessed windshield wipers and exhaustive detail to safety keeps Pontiac the pace-setter for the industry.

An energy-absorbing steering column, a dual braking system and an inside rear view nonglare tilting mirror are standard equipment on all 1967 Pontiacs and are just three of the many safety developments available as standard equipment on every model.

PONTIAC HAS increased the number of models from 33 last year to 35 in 1967.

The Tempest series includes a sports coupe, four-door sedan and station wagon.

A sports coupe, hardtop coupe four-door sedan and hardtop, convertible and station wagon complete the Tempest Custom series.

Introduced as a separate series this year is the Tempest Safari four-door station wagon.

The Pontiac LeMans is available in a sports and hardtop coupe, four-door hardtop and convertible.

The popular Pontiac GTO is offered in a sports coupe, hardtop coupe and convertible.

The Catalina series has seven models; two and four-door sedans, a hardtop coupe, four-door hardtop, convertible and two-seat and three-seat station wagons.

Two new station wagons, a two-seat and a three-seat model, increase the Executive line-up to five. A four-door sedan, four-door hardtop and hardtop coupe are also offered.

THE BONNEVILLE series includes a hardtop coupe, four-door hardtop, convertible and a custom three-seat station wagon.

The Grand Prix is now available in a convertible and a hardtop coupe.

The Sprint option is offered on all Tempest, Tempest Custom and Pontiac LeMans models.

Available as an option in the Catalina series is the 2 Plus 2 in the hardtop coupe and convertible and the Ventura Custom option on the four-door sedan and hardtop, hardtop coupe and convertible. The Brougham option is offered on the Bonneville hardtop coupe and four-door hardtop.

PONTIAC STYLING, which is the cornerstone of the industry, gives individuality to each 1967 series while maintaining the distinctive and traditional Pontiac appearance.

The Tempest, Tempest Custom and Pontiac LeMans grilles are identified by vertical ribs alternately spaced to create a distinctive pattern. The Pontiac GTO grille has a unique aluminum wire mesh texture to provide a new overall effect.

Pontiac's massive front bumpers completely surround the traditional split grilles. The front nose shape flows back into the hood and lower grille openings creating a wide, powerful impression.

On all except the Grand Prix, the lower headlights are set in the extreme ends of the grilles and the upper two headlights are placed directly above these in the fender extension.

The Grand Prix has separate grille, bumper, headlights, parking lights, front fender extensions and hood offering a new concept in front end design. During the day, the Grand Prix headlights are concealed. Two eyelid-type grille section doors pivot back to reveal the headlights when they are turned on. The parking lamps are located behind three louver slots in the fender extension above the outboard ends of the grille.

Pontiac side styling features particular emphasis on long front fenders and full length side peak line and on some models is accented with a narrow moulding. Gracefully curving belt and fenders give a sweeping rake to the rear quarter profile. Lower body side and rear fender sculpturing is illusively long and low.

Four-door roof lines are styled similar to the two-door models whose roof lines appear to sweep continuously from the roof to the tip of the trunk.

The nex Executive Safari station wagons are highlighted by a walnut wood grain applique extending from the rear of the front wheel opening to the rear bumper. The same wood treatment is applied to the lower portion of the tailgate.

THE GRAND PRIX has two paint stripes running the full length of the car on the upper fender peak line. On the hardtop coupe, the controlled vent windows have been eliminated and the letters GP appear on the window glass in that area for a custom look.

Tempest, Tempest Custom and Pontiac LeMans models have chrome rocker mouldings and model identification lettering on the sides. On the GTO two paint stripes run the full length of the car and the famous GTO block letters are placed at the rear of the rear quarter panel.

The GTO also has its own taillight arrangement of four horizontal lights on each side. Tempest station wagons have two lights stacked vertically on each side of the tailgate while the Pontiac LeMans series has a similar arrangement with the lenses divided into three separate units for each side. Tempest and Tempest Custom have two tail lamps divided by back-up lights covered by one piece lenses.

Pontiac taillights on all except the Grand Prix and station wagons curve down at the outer ends and appear as an integral part of the rear end styling. Station wagon taillights consist of a chrome framed vertically split lens on each side of the tailgate. The Grand Prix taillights are ornamented by four long horizontal louvers, two on each side. 33-Year Tradition For Bender-Rieger

Harvey Bender and his father, Abe, have been in the field of automobile sales for 33 years. Bender-Rieger Pontiac, Inc., has been at the 505 W. Northwest Hwy., Barrington, location for the past eight years. For 25 years previous to the Barrington move, the automobile dealership was located in the city of Chicago.

Three years ago, Bender-Rieger built a new sales room, with modernized equipment, and expanded used car lot, and display room facilities for six cars.

Bender-Rieger handles the complete Pontiac line, plus the British Motor Corp. MG and Austin-Healey cars.

PONTIAC'S Bonneville is regarded by Bender as his agency's most popular car. The Bonneville which comes in two-door, four-door, and convertible models, is classified as a luxury car at its approximately $4000 price range, but Bender notes that more and more customers want this car. According to Bender, more people are asking for such luxury features as air conditioning. He says that 60% of his customers are now having their cars air conditioned.

Even in the lower priced Tempest line, Bender finds his customers asking for the higher priced GTO and La Mans.

However, Bender says that Pontiac's medium priced Catalina, is still the leader in quantity of sales. (SS

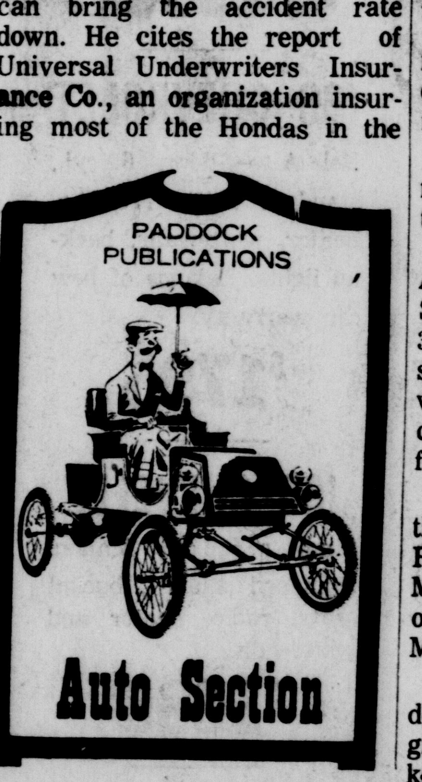
EXAMINING MOTORCYCLES utilized in Koske Import Motors special bike safety training program are (left) Gay Claridge, safety director, and Jack Koske, owner of the motorcycle sales and service firm at 450 N. Hicks Road, Palatine. Inexperienced persons are provided training in bike handling before purchase of motorcycle.

Driver Training is Key To Motorcycle Safety

"If all dealers would insist on driver training before they sell motorcycles, we could bring the accident rate down", said Jack Koske, of Koske Import Motors, 450 N. Hicks Road, Palatine.

Koske, who deals in imported sports cars and Honda motorcycles, feels that the motorcyclist's greatest safety problem is the motorist who either doesn't see the cycle or sometimes doesn't care. Koske, a member of the board of directors of the Illinois Motorcycle Association, says that accident studies indicate that in cases involving a motorcycle and an automobile, in two out of three cases the motorist is ticketed.

KOSKE MOTORS keeps four motorcycles on the premises for training purposes and Koske says he spends "weeks and hours" training new buyers in the use of the machine. He feels that proper training, the use of safety devices, and more awareness on the part of motorists can bring the accident rate down. He cites the report of Universal Underwriters Insurance Co., an organization insuring most of the Hondas in the area, indicating the motorcycle accidents are down from last year.



Koske says that of all the motorcycles sold by Koske Motors, none have been involved in major accidents.

Koske Motors recently added new service facilities enabling them to handle 20 to 25 cars.

Koske Motors handles the Austin-Healey Mark III and the Sprite. The Mark III, with a 3000 cubic centimeter engine sells for approximately $3800, while the Sprite, with a 1098 cubic centimeter engine, sells for $2200.

THE AGENCY ALSO handles the MG line, including the B-Roadster, selling for $3,000; the MG B-G-T, fastback grand turismo, at $3400; and the MG Midget, selling for $2400.

Anyone interested in a Vanden-Plas with a Rollsroyce engine, may obtain one from Koske Imports for a mere $7,000.

ALL NEW—Pontiac's volume-selling Catalina series is represented here by the 1967 hardtop coupe with the Ventura option. The Catalina's distinctive styling, interiors and colors, many standard equipment safety items and a wide selection of options along with Pontiac's famous V-8 engines has made this series one of the industry's largest selling cars. The Catalina is also available in two and four-door sedans, a four-door hardtop, a convertible and six and nine-passenger station wagons.

Bold New Styling Is Featured by Pontiac

The 1967 models of Pontiac Motor Division represent a bold new approach in automotive styling combined with many new engineering features designed to increase the safety, comfort and convenience of driving.

Offered for the first time is a Grand Prix convertible and three new station wagons, two in the Executive series and one Tempest Safari, all with simulated wood exterior paneling.

Sweeping new roof lines on all two and four-door models, major design advancements in both front and rear ends, a Pontiac exclusive of recessed windshield wipers and exhaustive detail to safety keeps Pontiac the pace-setter for the industry.

An energy-absorbing steering column, a dual braking system and an inside rear view nonglare tilting mirror are standard equipment on all 1967 Pontiacs and are just three of the many safety developments available as standard equipment on every model.

PONTIAC HAS increased the number of models from 33 last year to 35 in 1967.

The Tempest series includes a sports coupe, four-door sedan and station wagon.

A sports coupe, hardtop coupe four-door sedan and hardtop, convertible and station wagon complete the Tempest Custom series.

Introduced as a separate series this year is the Tempest Safari four-door station wagon.

The Pontiac LeMans is available in a sports and hardtop coupe, four-door hardtop and convertible.

The popular Pontiac GTO is offered in a sports coupe, hardtop coupe and convertible.

The Catalina series has seven models; two and four-door sedans, a hardtop coupe, four-door hardtop, convertible and two-seat and three-seat station wagons.

Two new station wagons, a two-seat and a three-seat model, increase the Executive line-up to five. A four-door sedan, four-door hardtop and hardtop coupe are also offered.

THE BONNEVILLE series includes a hardtop coupe, four-door hardtop, convertible and a custom three-seat station wagon.

The Grand Prix is now available in a convertible and a hardtop coupe.

The Sprint option is offered on all Tempest, Tempest Custom and Pontiac LeMans models.

Available as an option in the Catalina series is the 2 Plus 2 in the hardtop coupe and convertible and the Ventura Custom option on the four-door sedan and hardtop, hardtop coupe and convertible. The Brougham option is offered on the Bonneville hardtop coupe and four-door hardtop.

Racing Car Driver Is Now Manager of Rambler Dealer

Recognize the name "Dutch" Wertz?

"Dutch" is now the manager of Northwest Rambler, 500 Northwest Hwy., Palatine, but in the 1930's he drove a D-O-Hal special racing car in races all over the east coast.

"Dutch" who is originally from Redding, Pa., recalls driving his racing car over the one and one half Altona Board Track. The track was made of wooden planks and cars made up to 100 mph which was "pretty good speed for those days" according to "Dutch."

Recently "Dutch" worked at the Indianapolis Speedway on a car owned by the late Jim Robbins.

"DUTCH'S" RACING career covered a period of ten years. He now resides at 169 E. Palatine Road.

"Dutch" feels that knowledge and training are the best accident preventives both on the track and in ordinary driving situations.

According to "Dutch," "Once a man learns to know what his car will do, he's on his way."

The owners of Northwest Rambler are John Beary and William Howell who also operate South Side Rambler, 9131 S. Ashland Ave., Chicago. Art Gawin and William Dunnigan are in charge of sales at Northwest Rambler.

BEARY AND Howell took over the S & H Rambler dealership at the present location in April, 1966. In the past nine months they have remodeled the front of the building, upgraded the sales and service facilities, and purchased new machinery for their service department.

They have a sizable lot for display of both new and used cars. (SS

Roto Adds Lincoln To New Car Lines

"The new Lincoln Continental? It's terrific!" said Richard Roto, president of Roto Mercury Sales, Inc., 1410 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

The new Lincoln-Continentals have been in Roto's showroom since last month and Roto expressed great satisfaction with the cars.

Roto also said that he hopes to have the new addition to Roto's showroom and service department completed by the holidays.

GROUND WAS broken in August for a two-story addition of more than 9,300 square feet, increasing the over-all building to a total of 16,000 square feet.

The new building addition will provide showroom space for 12 cars, doubling the existing showroom, Roto said. "Our service area will be tripled. The service department will incorporate the most up - to - date diagnostic equipment and will have stalls for 19 cars."

The parts department is conveniently located next to the service area. In addition to the expanded showroom, the front portion of the building will house customer and employe lounges, the bookkeeping department and executive offices.

Bulk storage space and a conference room will occupy the second floor.

Roto Mercury also handles a line of Cougars and Comets.

Roto Mercury has been in the area 10 years. When Roto opened in 1956 there were two employes, now there are 20.

TWO EMPLOYES of Roto Mercury have received Ford Motor Co. awards during the past year.

Mrs. George A. Sharp, 418 S. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights received a business management award for "outstanding" performance in the field, and Victor Santi, Roto's sales manager, received a sales management honor award.

Introduce Restyled 1967 Chevy Trucks

The most significant cab and sheet metal styling change in Chevrolet history, featuring clean, angular lines with a functional character, leads a long list of improvements in the 1967 Chevrolet truck line.

Other highlight features include:

—Addition of longer, larger capacity models with ½ and ¾-ton rating to the Chevy-Van and Sportvan series;

—Diesel models in the ¾- and 1-ton city-delivery Step-Van and forward-control chassis line;

—Completely redesigned low-silhoutte 4-wheel chassis line;

—V8 power for Chevy-Vans;

—Expansion of the model line-up to 406 models on 37 wheelbases;

A Custom Sport Truck option for light-duty conventional cab models, including such luxury items as full carpeting and bucket seats.

THE NEW STYLING is enhanced by lower overall height which gives a longer, lower, more trim look. The graceful inner slant above the belt line adds a sleek note, but also is functional by helping to protect windows from mud splash and gravel blasting. Visibility is improved by the larger windshield and door glass and narrow corner pillars.

A Custom Sport Truck option is offered for light-duty cab models. In addition to full carpeting, vinyl-trimmed bucket seats, and a padded center armrest which swings up to form a backrest for the padded middle passenger seat, many bright metal exterior trim and luxury interior items are included.

Another important benefit of the new design is improved forward visibility for medium- and heavy-duty models, resulting from the shorter sloping hood. The angle of vision is improved so that the driver can see the road up to 5½ feet closer than with previous conventional cab models.

Medium- and heavy-duty models carry shorter front metal to give a bumper-to-back-of-cab dimension of 96 inches. The cab axle dimension remains the same, however, to accommodate the same size bodies or fifth wheel settings as on 1966 models.

Front end sheet metal on the 1967 truck line features greatly improved protection against corrosion. Smooth-surfaced, undercoated, full fender skirts protect fenders and other sheet metal from mud, water, and salt. Minimal use of coach joints and liberal use of spot weld sealers also offer additional corrosion resistance.

ALTHOUGH THE new cabs are lower, interior space is virtually unchanged. A lower seat height, together with the narrower width at the cab roof, affords easier cab entry. Also, the lower seat and revised toeboard design result in a more comfortable accelerator pedal position.

The Chevy-Van line carries extensive front end styling changes for 1967. A more rounded configuration, including a curved windshield, results in reduced wind resistance for improved fuel economy and a lower noise level.

Also new this year is the addition of 108 in. wheelbase models in the Chevy-Van and Sportvan series with bodies 18 inches longer than the current 90 in. wheelbase models, which are continued.

The longer vans are built on a new chassis specifically designed to accommodate the longer body. It not only provides proper weight distribution with no excessive rear overhang, but greatly improves handling qualities.

Another significant improvement is addition of 12 models with V8 power in the Chevy-Van and Sportvan. The 283 cu. in. engine develops 175 hp. On six-cylinder models, the 194 cu. in., 120 hp. engine is replaced by the Chevrolet 230 cu. in. 140 hp. six as standard equipment.

IN THE light-duty delivery field, Chevrolet also is keeping abreast of a developing trend toward use of diesels for city multi-stop operations involving high mileage and/or adling time. In 1967, it will offer an economical 82 hp., 3-cylinder diesel engine in ¾- and 1-ton Step-Van and Forward - control chassis models. It is a modified version of the proved Detroit Diesel 3-53N engine, with smaller injectors for improved fuel economy, and offers excellent reliability and low maintenance costs.

The 1967 Chevrolet truck line includes many other improvements and refinements. All-steel Fleetside pickup truck boxes are completely restyled to complement the new cabs and front sheet metal. To increase corrosion resistance exterior side panels are one piece with wrap around ends to virtually eliminate coach joints. The 1967 pick-up with 8-foot body has only one foot of coach joints in the box and front sheet metal, compared with 37 feet in the 1966 model. (SS

Sports-Touring Car Designed for Suburbia

Shelby to Unveil New Model Today

by HESTER KLINE
Staff Writer

The sports-touring car may never replace the station wagon in suburban garages, but Carroll Shelby, world-famed racing driver and America's largest independent sports car builder, certainly had Suburbia in mind when he designed the 1967 GT 350 and its new companion, the GT 500, which are being introduced to the public today, Nov. 10.

Whether racing along the open road or carting eight-foot boards home from the lumber yard for a do-it-yourself project, the Shelby-American cars are equal to the occasion.

They combine the style and speed of an imported luxury Grand Tourismo car with the utility demanded by the suburbanite.

IN CASE YOU, like me, are new to the world of motor racing, Carroll Shelby is a lean, affable Texan who rose to the first rank of competition drivers in a few short years.

A really good driver, Shelby contends, must understand what makes a racing car go, stop and handle. His own engineering talent fully equalled his driving ability, and when a heart condition forced him to retire from racing in 1960, he put his engineering and design skills to work as a competition car builder and modifier.

An unusual turn of events in 1963 put him in the automobile manufacturing business.

He learned that AC Cars, Ltd., a highly respected British sports car maker, was facing engine procurement difficulties at the same time that Ford Motor Company revealed plans for a compact, lightweight high-efficiency engine.

It didn't take Shelby long to acquire an engineless AC and one of the new V-8 engines. The match was perfect and the Cobra was born, combining European elegance with American zip.

THE EUROPEAN GT car is built to carry two passengers and luggage in great comfort and safety at high average speeds. When Shelby decided to build a GT car, he decided to base it on a 1965 Ford Mustang 2-plus-2 fastback because of its high-performance potential, rugged construction, low cost and ready availability.

He "Shelbyized" the Mustang to GT specifications, and the motor world hailed the new car in 1965.

Now the 1967 model bears but a fleeting resemblance to the 1967 Mustang. A competition-inspired fiberglass grille, nose and hood assembly give the new car an unmistakable look of authority and uniqueness. The competition car design continues with the rear deck "spoiler," the air extractors and scoops which ventilate the driver's compartment and help cool the rear brakes.

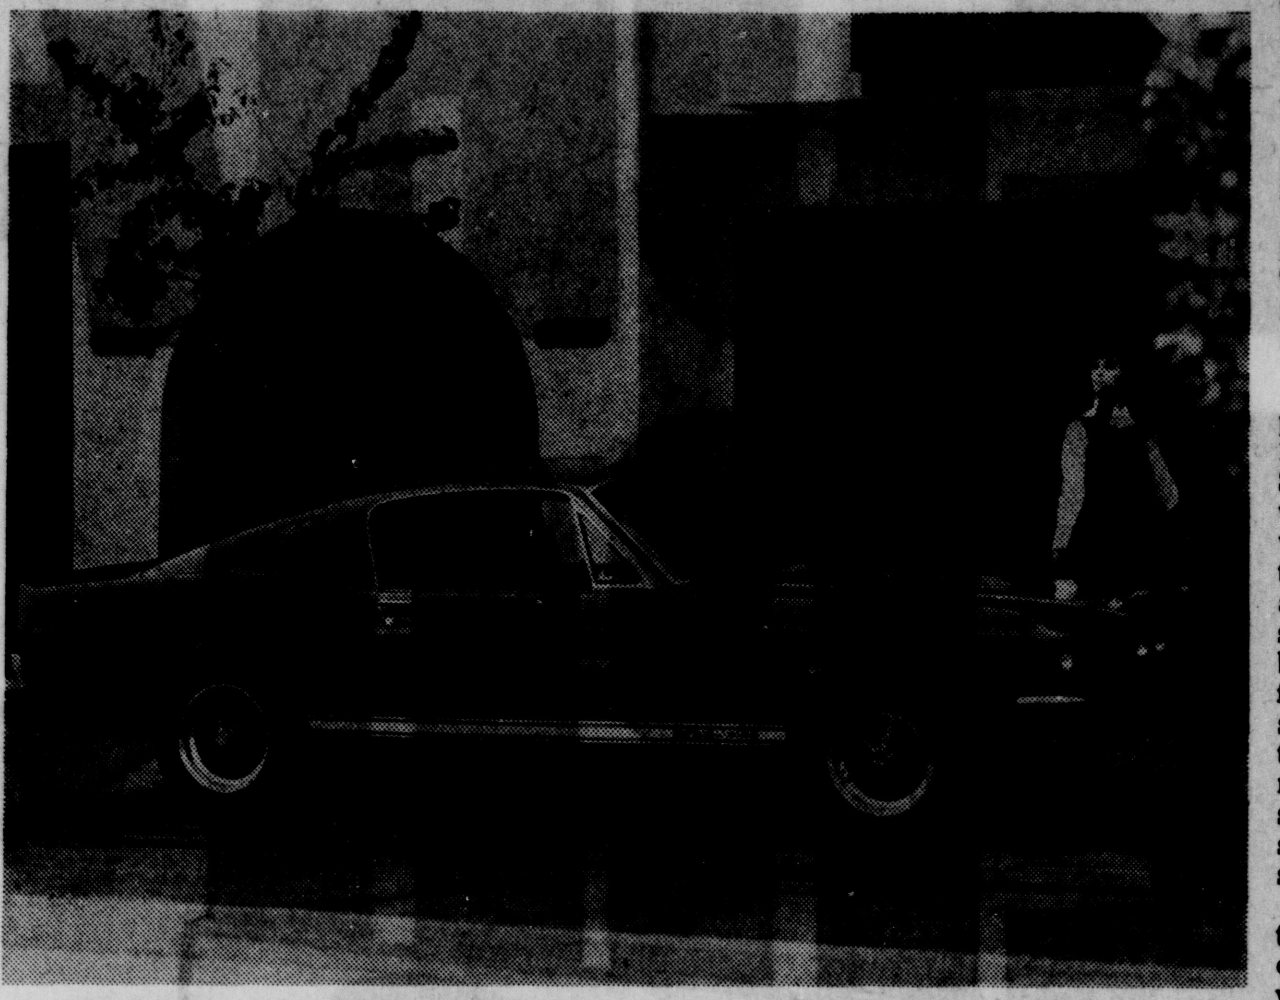
The difference between the two cars is more than skin deep. The GT cars are powered by high-efficiency engines, massive brakes, improved steering, and wide tires.

"It's very interesting to speculate how wide tires are going to get," commented Shelby. The GT 350 standard tire is 6½ inches, and a 7-inch tire is used on the GT 500.

The big reason for speed increase in racing, says Shelby, is not more horsepower but "purely and simply width of tires and compound of rubber." There has been more development in tires than in any other aspect of racing, he claims.

SAFETY FACTORS are important in a car that will go 135 miles an hour, and although Shelby admits that most owners won't be able to find a road where they can let the car out to its full power, he has added as standard equipment not only seat belts, padded dash, dual braking, outside mirror and four-way flashers (the rear signals are at eye level, a feature that will be required of all new cars next year), but a safety roll bar and special shoulder harnesses for front seat passengers.

There are safety latches on the hood, too, because, Shelby quips, "If you are on the freeway and the hood flies up you are in bad trouble." They do add a zingy touch, and so do the high-beam lights mounted in the front grille.



A COMPANION to the popular GT 350, this sparkling performer is named the Shelby GT 500. It is powered by a 428 cubic inch LeMans V-8 with Shelby-modified intake manifold and two four-throat carburetors. The new GT 500 includes more safety features as standard equipment than any U.S. built car.

The rear bucket seats fold down and convert the rear end of the car into an eight-foot-long storage space for that lumber we spoke of earlier, or groceries or sports equipment or a play area for the kids on a trip.

At the owner's option, the GT cars can be fitted with "his and her" transmission.

"People get tired of shifting in five o'clock traffic, but they want a manual shift for the times when they want to play," Shelby explains, admitting that the transmission that allows a choice of automatic or four-speed manual shift is gaining in popularity.

THERE ARE ABOUT 50 or 60 owners of GT 350s in the Chicago area, but Shelby expects a big increase this year.

A lower price tag may stimulate sales, but Shelby thinks a lot of the demand will be by people who have rented a GT 350 and now want to own one.

It isn't always easy to rent the car, as Shelby once found out to his chagrin. The Hertz Corp. rents the GTs only to holders of Sports Car Club of America cards, and Shelby was turned down because he didn't have his card along.

A WORKHORSE WITH CLASS describes Ford Division's all-new top-of-the-line Styleside pickup, the F-100 Ranger for 1967. Sporting a handsome new exterior appearance with luxurious accent moldings and bright grill, the F-100 Ranger interior features cloth-like vinyl pleated upholstery, with color-keyed carpeting and door trim panels and more leg and hip room in a cab that is more than three iches wider inside. Improvements in the F-100 for 1967 include larger tires, bigger clutch and heavier, stronger frame permitting increased carrying capacity with standard equipment.

Marquardt Traced To Early Car Days

Marquardt Buick, 206 N. Cook St., Barrington, traces its history back to the early days of the automobile.

According to Larry Marquardt, owner of Marquardt Buick, the organization formerly known as Schauble Buick, started at the Cook street address in the 1890's. It was then known as Schauble Bros. Barrington Gas Engine and it manufactured well and farm machinery for the Arlington Heights-Palatine area. At one time, before the Schauble brothers became owners of an automobile agency, they toyed with the idea of building their own car. During the first decades of the century, Schauble Brothers carried every GM car available, including the old 1920 Oakland. In 1931 Schauble accepted a Buick franchise, but until 1946 it still carried Pontiacs, and Chevrolets.

Marquardt came into the Schauble Buick organization in 1958 as sales manger. In 1962 he purchased stock in the company and in 1965 purchased controlling interest in the Schauble firm.

MARQUARDT says that many of the employees in his organization have 15 to 20 year service records. Ray Becker, 728 Division, Barrington, has been with the Buick dealer as a mechanic for 40 years.

Marquardt reports that Marquardt Buick is third in sales in the Barrington area for the last six years, although nationally Buick is in sixth place. He says that his organization has tentative plans for a new building in the future.

Marquardt Buick operates a full service department and body shop. It carries the standard Buick line plus the Opel Kadett.

Marquardt, of 861 Willow, Sleepy Hollow, is a member of the Barrington Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, vice president of the Lutheran Layman's League of Northern Illinois, and GM public relations representative for the Barrington area.

He and his wife have three children. (SS

FORD THUNDERBIRD brings a new dimension to the field of personal luxury car transportation with the introduction of its 1967 product line which includes this 4-door Landau model. All Thunderbird models present a markedly changed yet unmistakably Thunderbird look with a thrusting, long hood line, shorter rear-deck and recessed air-scoop type intake grille. The 2- and 4-door Landau models feature vinyl-covered roofs and the traditional S-bar on roof quarter panels. The two Landau models plus the 2-door Hardtop have ventless side windows and headlights located in the grille sides that are covered by matching doors which retract when the light switch is actuated.

POPULAR PONTIAC—The 1967 Pontiac GTO has its own distinctive appearance both front and rear. A diagonally woven aluminum mesh grille edges in aluminum frames presents an all new front-end look. Oval parking lamps float on this unique grille. The rear has four shaped ports, in banks of two, forming tail and stop lamps on either side. Appropriate GTO identification appears on the front, side and rear. The standard GTO is powered by a 400-cubic-inch engine and three-speed transmission. The Pontiac GTO is available in the convertible shown above and in a sports coupe and hardtop coupe.

Ford Places Emphasis On Luxury, New Style

The 1967 Ford, with a major body styling change for the third consecutive year, will seek a larger share of the medium price market by offering the biggest and most luxurious cars in its history.

Three inches longer than its predecessor, the 1967 Ford has sculptured side panels which give the car a lower, longer silhouette. Roof lines on all models but convertibles, station wagons and 4-door hardtops are totally new with softer, more sweeping lines that create a fastback look. New grilles, taillights, side trim and rearend treatment add the finishing touches to the big Ford.

Interiors also are newly designed with instrument panels that feature recessed controls and new, more luxurious upholstery materials.

Already noted for its quiet ride, the Ford will reflect further advances by sound engineers to reduce noise even more for 1967. Front and rear suspensions have bigger, softer rubber "sound stoppers" attached to the chassis to isolate road noise more effectively. Drive shafts utilize a new flywheel-type inertia damper to reduce sound.

A NEW Comfort Stream Ventilation System, standard on LTD models, provides quiet, "windows-up" driving with constant, controlled fresh air movement throughout the car. Stale air is exhausted through one-way ducts in the front doors.

Radial ply tires, which prolong tire life 50 to 80 per cent, improve gasoline mileage, provide better lateral stability and a smoother ride at highway speed, are optional on all big Fords in 1967. Standard tires have a standardized pressure feature which eliminates the need to adjust pressure for varying loads or road conditions.

Carburetion and valve train re-design on 1967 engines will result in smoother performance, greater economy and dependability. Also new is the Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, which permits manual or automatic gear shifting.

The luxurious, top-of-line LTD series, which will carry the brunt of Ford's increasing penetration of the medium-price field, will include a 4-door sedan as well as 2- and 4-door hardtops. A new vinyl covered roof with special styling treatment on the roof quarter panels set the 2-door LTD hardtop apart.

Among safety features are an impact-absorbing steering wheel with deep-padded hub, energy-absorbing safety arm rests, a dual hydraulic brake system, padded windshield pillars, remote control outside view mirror, two-speed electric windshield wipers and a new lane-change indicator incorporated in the turn signal.

FORD STYLING for 1967 is characterized by a decidedly longer and lower look. With three inches added to their overall length, plus a sculptured windsplit running all the way from front to rear, the new models give the appearance of being much larger than their predecessors.

The Custom 500 series utilizes a handsome, functional, spear-like trim moulding which runs full length along the windsplit. Galaxie 500, XL and LTD models all have wide, full-length side mouldings framing the wheel cutouts. The bold trim treatment gives '67 models a low, road-hugging look.

Grilles for 1967 have a wide, over-and-under look. Dual grille sections, divided horizontally, each have six rectangular intake segments. The gull-wing design with center sections thrusting forward complements the rakish thrust of the hood. The LTD, XL and Country Square series utilize die-cast grille construction to add greater dimension and depth. New deep-section, wrap-around front bumpers with built-in air scoops, follow the grille and hood contour to complete the clean, classic front-end styling.

Roof lines on 2-door sedan, 4-door and 2-door hardtop models have graceful new flowing lines. Rear roof panels join body panels at the rear with softer, more convex lines than last year's models. The rearward sweep of the 2-door hardtop roof line creates a slightly raised, "fastback" look. LTD 2-door hardtops have a specially tailored roof quarter panel with a smaller quarter window, as well as the vinyl-covered roof.

REAR-END treatment for 1967 is keynoted by softer lines and recessed taillights, which give body side panels an uncluttered appearance. The vertical shape of the taillights is divided into four equal sections by bright trim. The center of each light is accented by a back-up light. Trunk lids are gently rounded at the rear, reflecting the generally softened lines for '67. Station wagon models, convertibles and 4-door hardtops carry over the basic roof lines from 1966 with important body changes below the belt line.

Interior styling has undergone complete change for 1967 with luxurious new fabrics and vinyls and new instrument panel design.

All instruments and controls are now grouped and recessed in a "console-type" cluster in front of the driver. Energy-absorbent padding frames the instrument cluster and the top and facing edge of the panel.

Ford XL models feature new Thunderbird bucket seats that give a rich custom-tailored appearance. LTD models offer a new optional split-bench front seat which can be adjusted for either driver or passenger. The split seat features a built-in, fold-down arm rest on both driver and passenger sections.

THE BIG NEWS in engines and tramsmissions for '67 is the addition of the Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic to the Ford option list. This transmission, available only on Ford's sporty Fairlane GT/A models last year, gives drivers the choice of completely automatic operation or manual control through the gear changes. With ths added flexibility, drivers have complete mastery of gear changes for special situations such as trailer towing or hill climbing.

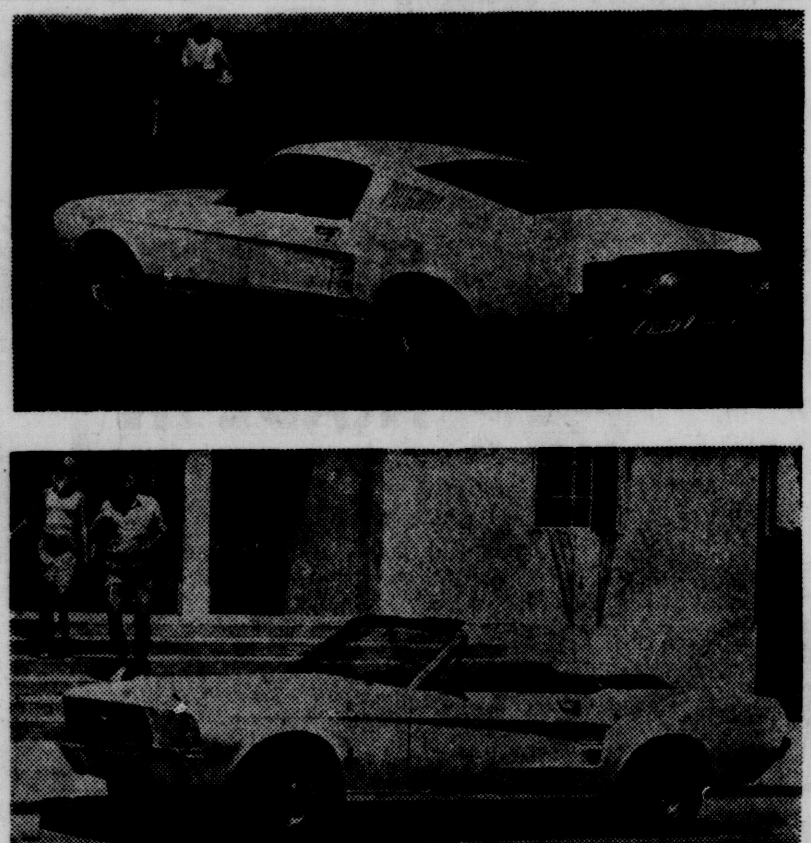
The new Fords continue to offer a fully synchronized three-speed manual transmission as standard equipment on all but XL's and LTD's. On these models, the new Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic is standard. A four-speed manual and an overdrive transmission are also available on most models.

Engines for '67 include the 150-horsepower, 7-main-bearing, 240-CID Six which continues as standard equipment on all models except the XL's and LTD's. Standard engine for these models is the 200-horsepower 289-CID V-8 with two-barrel carburetion. Five additional V-8 engines are optional, giving the buyer a choice of power all the way up to the 425-horsepower 427-CID V-8 with eight-barrel carburetion. Valve trains on V-8 models have been refined for added durability and a new Autolite four-venturi "air-valve" carburetor is now offered on 390-CID and 428-CID V-8 engines for improved efficiency and driveability through the entire speed range.

THE LENGTHY LIST of safety features on all 1967 Fords is headed by a dual hydraulic brake system. Operated by the conventional single pedal, the new system uses twin master cylinders, each with its own pumping section and fluid reservoir. One cylinder actuates the front wheel brakes and the other the rear. In the unusual case of a failure in either half of the system, braking is provided by the second system. Any loss of hydraulic pressure energizes a safety warning light on the instrument panel when the brake pedal is depressed.

Also new are energy-aborbing arm rests and an impact-absorbing steering wheel with deep-padded hub. Arm rests are designed to collapse on lateral impact, yet offer comfortable support in normal use by means of a unique honeycomb-core design encased in energy-absorbent urethane foam. Steering wheels are of the Ford-pioneered deep-dish type with a deep-padded hub designed to collapse progressively on impact. An inner core of multi-density foam is trimmed in soft vinyl for maximum protection.

A new turn signal design offers a lane-changing feature. When a driver is about to change lanes, he applies slight pressure to the turn signal lever, immediately activating the signal. When pressure is released, the lever returns to the start position. For normal use, additional pressure moves the lever past a detent, where it functions in the usual manner. (SS



FEATURING NEW SHEET METAL for the first time since its introduction in April of 1964, the Mustang for 1967 is sportier in appearance and livelier than ever before. The 2 + 2 Fastback model (above) has a new roof line and concave rear panel while the convertible (below) illustrates the thrusting new hood line and deeply inset grille. All Mustangs for 1967 have two-inch wider front and rear tread for improved handling. Options for 1967 include a 320-horsepower, 390 CID V-8 engine and Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission for manual or automatic gear shifting.

Buick's Opel Ranks Second in Nation

The Buick "Opel Kadett", handled exclusively in this area by Bill Cook Buick, Euclid and Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights, is now in second place in national wide sales.

In 1964, when the GM owned, German produced cars were kirst introduced in this country, the Kadett was ranked in 6th place in sales. By 1965, the car had climbed to 4th place, and now it is only led in sales by Volkswagen.

THE KADETT makes an excellent second car. It features standard large-car features plus the Buick two-year or 24,000 mile guarantee. The Kadett sports coupe retails for $1905, and the Kadett two-door station wagon sells for $1975.

All Kadett models are standard shift and they average between 32 and 35 miles per gallon of gasoline.

According to Edward Kane, Cook salesman, the re-sale value of Kadetts is averaging $150 to $420 over other foreign made cars, and should rise as Kadette sales improve.

A new car showing of the 1967 Opel Kadette will be held at the Bill Cook Buick showroom on Nov. 17.

THE BILL COOK Buick dealership was formerly located at Vail and Evergreen in Arlington Heights. The firm moved to its present location, with much larger service facilities, in 1960. Later, the used-car department, which has its own office, was expanded.

Cook handles the complete Buick line plus the Opel Kadett. (SS

Bronco Is Gift for Sportsman

The Bronco is Ford's gift to the year-round sportsman.

You name the place and the Bronco will take you there—to one of those hard-to-get-at streams that are full of fish, or maybe a remote spot for deer, a mountain ski resort in the winter, or just a get-away-from-it-all oasis off the beaten paths.

The versatile four-wheel utility vehicle is engineered for just such trips as these. And yet it will take you over today's superhighways in passenger car comfort.

With new features in 1967 including an optional 11½ gallon auxiliary fuel tank, a new optional trim package, mud and snow-type tires for 15-inch wheels and new transfer lever position indicator, the Bronco will become an even more common sight in recreation areas around the country.

THE BRONCO for '67 is available in five models—Wagon, Pickup, Roadster, and the new Sport Bronco Wagon and sport Bronco Pickup. They all move through mud, snow, sand, on or off the road, in 2- or 4-wheel drive, surefootedly, comfortably and in style.

These models with special heavy-duty equipment can pull a tent trailer weighing up to a ton. The pickup models can be equipped with box-mounted camper coaches for a home-away-from-home.

Standard power plant in the Bronco is the economical 170-cubic-inch Six coupled with a fully-synchronized three-speed manual transmission. Extra power is available with the spirited 200-horseposer 289 V-8 that provides outstanding power for any ordinary or extraordinary situation.

Ford's unique Mono-Beam front suspension on the Bronco makes it a comfortable way to rough it. Progressive leaf rear springs absorb the bumps, while eight cushioned body mounts soak up road shock and vibration.

Ford's versatile, four-wheel drive Bronco is offered with a variety of options that permit buyers to "tailor" their units to their particular recreation tastes and needs. (SS

FORD THUNDERBIRD brings a new dimension to the field of personal luxury car transportation with the introduction of its 1967 product line which includes this 4-door Landau model. All Thunderbird models present a markedly changed yet unmistakably Thunderbird look with a thrusting, long hood line, shorter rear-deck and recessed air-scoop type intake grille. The 2- and 4-door Landau models feature vinyl-covered roofs and the traditional S-bar on roof quarter panels. The two Landau models plus the 2-door Hardtop have ventless side windows and headlights located in the grille sides that are covered by matching doors which retract when the light switch is actuated.

POPULAR PONTIAC—The 1967 Pontiac GTO has its own distinctive appearance both front and rear. A diagonally woven aluminum mesh grille edges in aluminum frames presents an all new front-end look. Oval parking lamps float on this unique grille. The rear has four shaped ports, in banks of two, forming tail and stop lamps on either side. Appropriate GTO identification appears on the front, side and rear. The standard GTO is powered by a 400-cubic-inch engine and three-speed transmission. The Pontiac GTO is available in the convertible shown above and in a sports coupe and hardtop coupe.

Ford Places Emphasis On Luxury, New Style

The 1967 Ford, with a major body styling change for the third consecutive year, will seek a larger share of the medium price market by offering the biggest and most luxurious cars in its history.

Three inches longer than its predecessor, the 1967 Ford has sculptured side panels which give the car a lower, longer silhouette. Roof lines on all models but convertibles, station wagons and 4-door hardtops are totally new with softer, more sweeping lines that create a fastback look. New grilles, taillights, side trim and rearend treatment add the finishing touches to the big Ford.

Interiors also are newly designed with instrument panels that feature recessed controls and new, more luxurious upholstery materials.

Already noted for its quiet ride, the Ford will reflect further advances by sound engineers to reduce noise even more for 1967. Front and rear suspensions have bigger, softer rubber "sound stoppers" attached to the chassis to isolate road noise more effectively. Drive shafts utilize a new flywheel-type inertia damper to reduce sound.

A NEW Comfort Stream Ventilation System, standard on LTD models, provides quiet, "windows-up" driving with constant, controlled fresh air movement throughout the car. Stale air is exhausted through one-way ducts in the front doors.

Radial ply tires, which prolong tire life 50 to 80 per cent, improve gasoline mileage, provide better lateral stability and a smoother ride at highway speed, are optional on all big Fords in 1967. Standard tires have a standardized pressure feature which eliminates the need to adjust pressure for varying loads or road conditions.

Carburetion and valve train re-design on 1967 engines will result in smoother performance, greater economy and dependability. Also new is the Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, which permits manual or automatic gear shifting.

The luxurious, top-of-line LTD series, which will carry the brunt of Ford's increasing penetration of the medium-price field, will include a 4-door sedan as well as 2- and 4-door hardtops. A new vinyl covered roof with special styling treatment on the roof quarter panels set the 2-door LTD hardtop apart.

Among safety features are an impact-absorbing steering wheel with deep-padded hub, energy-absorbing safety arm rests, a dual hydraulic brake system, padded windshield pillars, remote control outside view mirror, two-speed electric windshield wipers and a new lane-change indicator incorporated in the turn signal.

FORD STYLING for 1967 is characterized by a decidedly longer and lower look. With three inches added to their overall length, plus a sculptured windsplit running all the way from front to rear, the new models give the appearance of being much larger than their predecessors.

The Custom 500 series utilizes a handsome, functional, spear-like trim moulding which runs full length along the windsplit. Galaxie 500, XL and LTD models all have wide, full-length side mouldings framing the wheel cutouts. The bold trim treatment gives '67 models a low, road-hugging look.

Grilles for 1967 have a wide, over-and-under look. Dual grille sections, divided horizontally, each have six rectangular intake segments. The gull-wing design with center sections thrusting forward complements the rakish thrust of the hood. The LTD, XL and Country Square series utilize die-cast grille construction to add greater dimension and depth. New deep-section, wrap-around front bumpers with built-in air scoops, follow the grille and hood contour to complete the clean, classic front-end styling.

Roof lines on 2-door sedan, 4-door and 2-door hardtop models have graceful new flowing lines. Rear roof panels join body panels at the rear with softer, more convex lines than last year's models. The rearward sweep of the 2-door hardtop roof line creates a slightly raised, "fastback" look. LTD 2-door hardtops have a specially tailored roof quarter panel with a smaller quarter window, as well as the vinyl-covered roof.

REAR-END treatment for 1967 is keynoted by softer lines and recessed taillights, which give body side panels an uncluttered appearance. The vertical shape of the taillights is divided into four equal sections by bright trim. The center of each light is accented by a back-up light. Trunk lids are gently rounded at the rear, reflecting the generally softened lines for '67. Station wagon models, convertibles and 4-door hardtops carry over the basic roof lines from 1966 with important body changes below the belt line.

Interior styling has undergone complete change for 1967 with luxurious new fabrics and vinyls and new instrument panel design.

All instruments and controls are now grouped and recessed in a "console-type" cluster in front of the driver. Energy-absorbent padding frames the instrument cluster and the top and facing edge of the panel.

Ford XL models feature new Thunderbird bucket seats that give a rich custom-tailored appearance. LTD models offer a new optional split-bench front seat which can be adjusted for either driver or passenger. The split seat features a built-in, fold-down arm rest on both driver and passenger sections.

THE BIG NEWS in engines and tramsmissions for '67 is the addition of the Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic to the Ford option list. This transmission, available only on Ford's sporty Fairlane GT/A models last year, gives drivers the choice of completely automatic operation or manual control through the gear changes. With ths added flexibility, drivers have complete mastery of gear changes for special situations such as trailer towing or hill climbing.

The new Fords continue to offer a fully synchronized three-speed manual transmission as standard equipment on all but XL's and LTD's. On these models, the new Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic is standard. A four-speed manual and an overdrive transmission are also available on most models.

Engines for '67 include the 150-horsepower, 7-main-bearing, 240-CID Six which continues as standard equipment on all models except the XL's and LTD's. Standard engine for these models is the 200-horsepower 289-CID V-8 with two-barrel carburetion. Five additional V-8 engines are optional, giving the buyer a choice of power all the way up to the 425-horsepower 427-CID V-8 with eight-barrel carburetion. Valve trains on V-8 models have been refined for added durability and a new Autolite four-venturi "air-valve" carburetor is now offered on 390-CID and 428-CID V-8 engines for improved efficiency and driveability through the entire speed range.

THE LENGTHY LIST of safety features on all 1967 Fords is headed by a dual hydraulic brake system. Is Your Wife Accident-Prone?

'Woman Drives as She Keeps House': Study

Males beware: If your wife is emotionally unstable, nervous, too thin or obese, worries excessively about her health, or has unusually high or low blood pressure, no children, poor vision, and a maid to help her with the housework—she just might be the type of person who has accidents more frequently than others, whether in the kitchen or on the highway.

At least those are some of the tentative findings by a California psychologist who conducted a study of women at work in the kitchen, their accidents and near-accidents, and correlated this information with results of psychological and medical tests as well as auto-accident and vehicle-code violation records.

"From the results of this study, one might speculate that a woman drives as she keeps house," according to Joan S. Guilford, Ph.D. Her research project, called an "Experimental Study of Home Accident Behavior," won this year's Metropolitan Life Award of Merit, which was presented recently at the National Safety Congress by Dr. George M. Wheatley, medical director of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

USING A MOBILE van furnished with a simulated home kitchen and one-way observation rooms, Dr. Guilford and her colleagues traveled about California testing 226 women — most of them middle-aged and married.

Similar to a housewife's daily routine, each test subject was told to bake cupcakes, prepare toasted bacon and tomato sandwiches and cole slaw, wash out nylons and a blouse and clean the kitchen.

The investigators, however, contrived several hazards to "maximize accident potential as well as the opportunity to avoid such accidents." They left a rubber ball on the floor, unplugged appliances set on "high," coffee spilled on the counter tops, a towel rack protruding into the working area, and necessary items so high on shelves that the women had to climb to reach them. Further, extremely fragile glass dishes, pans without handles, and "almost scalding" water were provided.

All of these hazardous situations, however, could be overcome safely, provided that the women took the proper precautions such as using a stepstool, potholders and rubber gloves.

BUT, SOME — indeed many women — did not use such precautions, for 714 accidents (none serious) resulted. In the personal injury category, bumps and falls were the most frequent (264), followed by burns or scalds and cuts or jabs. In the property-damage category, food spoilage was most common (299). Far less common were fires, and burning, chipping, cracking, breaking and melting dishes, utensils and other equipment.

There were 648 near-accidents, most often from hitting, spilling or dropping objects — occurrences that might have resulted in accidents, but did not.

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS
Auto Section

Although the kitchen setting was admittedly contrived, the accident occurrence was not so far-fetched. Kitchen accidents, according to the National Safety Council, account for 21 per cent of all home-accident injuries.

FOR A LARGE part, the accidents in Dr. Guilford's study resulted from unsafe or unsanitary practices, such as failure to wipe up spilled coffee, to use pot holders or to check appliance settings before use. On the other hand, fewer accidents occurred among women who followed directions and made use of available and correct equipment.

In addition, however, Dr. Guilford said her study supports the controversial concept that some individuals are simply more accident-susceptible than others. The frequency of external accident behavior — specifically, auto accident and vehicle violations collected on 178 women — was related to the frequency of accidents in the kitchen.

Moreover, the type of auto accident — personal injury or property damage — appeared to be selectively related to those in the kitchen. "It seems clear that those women who have more children have lower accident rates; whereas those with very few or none at all have higher rates."

What individual factors, other than specific behavior, can predict kitchen accidents? One of the best, most consistent indications — at least in this study — was the number of children each subject had.

OTHER "predictors," Dr. Guilford said, include:

—Drinking habits — When compared with teetotalers, those who drank alcoholic beverages were less likely to have kitchen accidents, particularly of the personal-injury type. (Smoking, however, seemed to make little difference, except that the property-damage rate for smokers was higher than for non-smokers.)

—Personality and temperament — Generally, these were not good predictors ; nevertheless, women who tended to be more hypochondriacal also tended to have more kitchen accidents but, paradoxically, fewer near-accidents. Emotionally unstable women tended to have more personal injury accidents, but not property damage. Women observed to be unusually nervous had significantly more property-damage accidents.

—Socio-economic status — Women in the higher status levels had fewer accidents than those in lower status levels. The frequency with which a woman had a maid was related to both types of kitchen accidents, "indicating that the less housework a woman does, the more likely she is to have accidents."

—Weight — Both thin and obese women had more accidents than did average-weight subjects. (Height did not seem to have a relationship to accident occurrence.)

—Vision — Among visual measures, visual acuity was the best predictor. Near visual acuity was significantly related to property-damage accidents, as was far lateral phoria (deviation of the visual axis to the side).,

—Blood pressure — There was some indication that women with high blood pressure tend to incur more personal-injury accidents. Women with blood pressure under 100 had significantly more property damage than those with blood pressure in the normal range.

IN COMMENTING on the kitchen accident study, Thomas W. Planek, Ph.D., research director of the National Safety Council (which administers the award program under a grant from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.), said:

"Dr. Guilford's research represents one of the first attempts to study near-accidents, accident-related behavior and accident occurrence in a laboratory setting. Her statistical analysis was complete and of high competence, and the research marks a new level of sophistication in the study of home accidents."

Safety Is Pontiac's Emphasis

Safety is the big emphasis in the 1967 Pontiac line, according to Joe Bromberg, sales manager at Morton Pontiac, Inc., 666 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

All models of the new Tempest, Tempest Custom, LeMans, Catalina, Executive, Bonneville and Grand Prix include as standard equipment an energized collapsing steering column and wheel; night and day breakaway rear-view mirror; emergency flashers; dual braking system with brake warning light; backup lights and a lane-change feature incorporated into the directional signal.

THEY ALSO feature a thick laminated windshield and windshield washers; reduced glare instrument panel, windshield wiper arms and blades; padded dash and padded sun visors; side view mirror; and corrosion resistant brake linings. Four seat belts are included — two in front and two in the rear — as well as front-seat shoulder belt anchors. There are passenger-guard door locks on all doors, together with safety door locks and hinges.

In addition, all two-door models have a special locking seat that cannot fall forward.

Designs are also new, according to Bromberg, who added: "They must be driven to be appreciated." (SS

Is Your Wife Accident-Prone?

'Woman Drives as She Keeps House': Study

Males beware: If your wife is emotionally unstable, nervous, too thin or obese, worries excessively about her health, or has unusually high or low blood pressure, no children, poor vision, and a maid to help her with the housework—she just might be the type of person who has accidents more frequently than others, whether in the kitchen or on the highway.

At least those are some of the tentative findings by a California psychologist who conducted a study of women at work in the kitchen, their accidents and near-accidents, and correlated this information with results of psychological and medical tests as well as auto-accident and vehicle-code violation records.

"From the results of this study, one might speculate that a woman drives as she keeps house," according to Joan S. Guilford, Ph.D. Her research project, called an "Experimental Study of Home Accident Behavior," won this year's Metropolitan Life Award of Merit, which was presented recently at the National Safety Congress by Dr. George M. Wheatley, medical director of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

USING A MOBILE van furnished with a simulated home kitchen and one-way observation rooms, Dr. Guilford and her colleagues traveled about California testing 226 women — most of them middle-aged and married.

Similar to a housewife's daily routine, each test subject was told to bake cupcakes, prepare toasted bacon and tomato sandwiches and cole slaw, wash out nylons and a blouse and clean the kitchen.

The investigators, however, contrived several hazards to "maximize accident potential as well as the opportunity to avoid such accidents." They left a rubber ball on the floor, unplugged appliances set on "high," coffee spilled on the counter tops, a towel rack protruding into the working area, and necessary items so high on shelves that the women had to climb to reach them. Further, extremely fragile glass dishes, pans without handles, and "almost scalding" water were provided.

All of these hazardous situations, however, could be overcome safely, provided that the women took the proper precautions such as using a stepstool, potholders and rubber gloves.

BUT, SOME — indeed many women — did not use such precautions, for 714 accidents (none serious) resulted. In the personal injury category, bumps and falls were the most frequent (264), followed by burns or scalds and cuts or jabs. In the property-damage category, food spoilage was most common (299). Far less common were fires, and burning, chipping, cracking, breaking and melting dishes, utensils and other equipment.

There were 648 near-accidents, most often from hitting, spilling or dropping objects — occurrences that might have resulted in accidents, but did not.

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS

Auto Section

Although the kitchen setting was admittedly contrived, the accident occurrence was not so far-fetched. Kitchen accidents, according to the National Safety Council, account for 21 per cent of all home-accident injuries.

FOR A LARGE part, the accidents in Dr. Guilford's study resulted from unsafe or unsanitary practices, such as failure to wipe up spilled coffee, to use pot holders or to check appliance settings before use. On the other hand, fewer accidents occurred among women who followed directions and made use of available and correct equipment.

In addition, however, Dr. Guilford said her study supports the controversial concept that some individuals are simply more accident-susceptible than others. The frequency of external accident behavior — specifically, auto accident and vehicle violations collected on 178 women — was related to the frequency of accidents in the kitchen.

Moreover, the type of auto accident — personal injury or property damage — appeared to be selectively related to those in the kitchen. "It seems clear that those women who have more children have lower accident rates; whereas those with very few or none at all have higher rates."

What individual factors, other than specific behavior, can predict kitchen accidents? One of the best, most consistent indications — at least in this study — was the number of children each subject had.

OTHER "predictors," Dr. Guilford said, include:

—Drinking habits — When compared with teetotalers, those who drank alcoholic beverages were less likely to have kitchen accidents, particularly of the personal-injury type. (Smoking, however, seemed to make little difference, except that the property-damage rate for smokers was higher than for non-smokers.)

—Personality and temperament — Generally, these were not good predictors ; nevertheless, women who tended to be more hypochondriacal also tended to have more kitchen accidents but, paradoxically, fewer near-accidents. Emotionally unstable women tended to have more personal injury accidents, but not property damage. Women observed to be unusually nervous had significantly more property-damage accidents.

—Socio-economic status — Women in the higher status levels had fewer accidents than those in lower status levels. The frequency with which a woman had a maid was related to both types of kitchen accidents, "indicating that the less housework a woman does, the more likely she is to have accidents."

—Weight — Both thin and obese women had more accidents than did average-weight subjects. (Height did not seem to have a relationship to accident occurrence.)

—Vision — Among visual measures, visual acuity was the best predictor. Near visual acuity was significantly related to property-damage accidents, as was far lateral phoria (deviation of the visual axis to the side).,

—Blood pressure — There was some indication that women with high blood pressure tend to incur more personal-injury accidents. Women with blood pressure under 100 had significantly more property damage than those with blood pressure in the normal range.

IN COMMENTING on the kitchen accident study, Thomas W. Planek, Ph.D., research director of the National Safety Council (which administers the award program under a grant from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.), said:

"Dr. Guilford's research represents one of the first attempts to study near-accidents, accident-related behavior and accident occurrence in a laboratory setting. Her statistical analysis was complete and of high competence, and the research marks a new level of sophistication in the study of home accidents."

Safety Is Pontiac's Emphasis

Safety is the big emphasis in the 1967 Pontiac line, according to Joe Bromberg, sales manager at Morton Pontiac, Inc., 666 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

All models of the new Tempest, Tempest Custom, LeMans, Catalina, Executive, Bonneville and Grand Prix include as standard equipment an energized collapsing steering column and wheel; night and day breakaway rear-view mirror; emergency flashers; dual braking system with brake warning light; backup lights and a lane-change feature incorporated into the directional signal.

THEY ALSO feature a thick laminated windshield and windshield washers; reduced glare instrument panel, windshield wiper arms and blades; padded dash and padded sun visors; side view mirror; and corrosion resistant brake linings. Four seat belts are included — two in front and two in the rear — as well as front-seat shoulder belt anchors. There are passenger-guard door locks on all doors, together with safety door locks and hinges.

In addition, all two-door models have a special locking seat that cannot fall forward.

Designs are also new, according to Bromberg, who added: "They must be driven to be appreciated." (SS

All American Life Reports 20% Gain

E. E. Ballard, president, All American Life & Casualty Co., reported gain from operations for the first nine months showed a 20.2 per cent increase over the same period in 1965.

Gains, after dividends to policy-owners and before federal income taxes, was $1,049,917 compared with $873,119 in 1965.

It is estimated the loss carry-over from the merger of Chicago National should offset any federal income tax liability.

In the first nine months of 1966, life insurance in force totaled $1,198,697,053 compared with $738,517,653, a gain of 62 per cent.

TOTAL GROSS LIFE and health premiums totaled $17,434,399, compared with $14,400,004, representing a 21 per cent increase.

Net investment income, exclusive of capital gains showed a 24 per cent increase—from $1,086,254 to $1,350,397.

Admitted assets rose from $38,490,594 to $48,306,254 as of Sept. 30, 1966—an increase of 25.5 per cent.

Capital and surplus increased 18.8 per cent to $10,167,970, compared with $8,557,163. (BB

John Bowen Attends Hardware Meeting

John Bowen of Bowen Hardware Co., 121 E. Davis St., Arlington Heights, recently attended the Spring Lawn & Garden and Sporting Goods Market held by Cotter & Company in Chicago.

Featured at the semi-annual merchandise market and convention were lawn and garden needs, automotive accessories, sporting goods, fishing tackle and wheel goods, in leading national brands as well as in the V&S stores' own Tru-Test, Westpoint and Servess lines. Gifts for year 'round selling were shown for the first time, together with such seasonable items as hardware, housewares and electric appliances.

Bowen Hardware has been a partner in Cotter & Company, the nation's largest wholesaler distributor of hardware and related lines, since 1953. The organization, founded in 1948 with a membership of 25 stores, has grown to include more than 2,000 dealers in 40 states and is the nation's largest group of independently owned and operated hardware stores. National Reports Squeeze in Costs

National Tea Co. sales for the 40 weeks ended Oct. 8, were $919,138,240, an increase of 5.2 per cent over the $873,394,140 recorded in the like period last year. Earnings for the period were $8,551,864, as compared with $7,255,789 for the prior year. On a per share basis, earnings were $1.04 as compared with $.86 last year, on a reduced number of shares outstanding due to the purchase of approximately 758,000 shares for the company treasury.

Sales for the third quarter were $348,451,237. Adjusting prior year sales to reflect the disposition of 62 Detroit area stores during the second quarter, this represented an increase of 7.0 per cent. Earnings for the 16 week third quarter were $2,282,619, an increase of 3.5 per cent over last year.

In releasing this report. N. A. Stepelton, president, stated that third quarter results were adversely affected by rising costs of doing business and inability to pass on to the consumer all of these increased costs. As a result, earnings during this period were less than 7 cents on each $10 sale.

Earnings of $.31 per share for the third quarter include $.05 resulting from the decrease in the average number of shares outstanding; without the effect of the purchase of 758,000 additional treasury shares, earnings per share in the third quarter would have been equal to those of the prior year, although slightly ahead in dollar amount.

Mercury Unleashes Cougar, Popular-Priced Sports Car

A new dimension is added to the auto industry as Mercury unleashes the Cougar, America's first luxury/sports car at a popular price.

The Mercury Cougar introduces an entirely new kind of motoring experience — a specialty car lithe in appearance with long hood and short deck testifying to the European flair of its styling. Available exclusively as a two-door hardtop model, it has a 111-inch wheelbase and 190.3 over-all length which assure built-in comfort for both front and rear passengers.

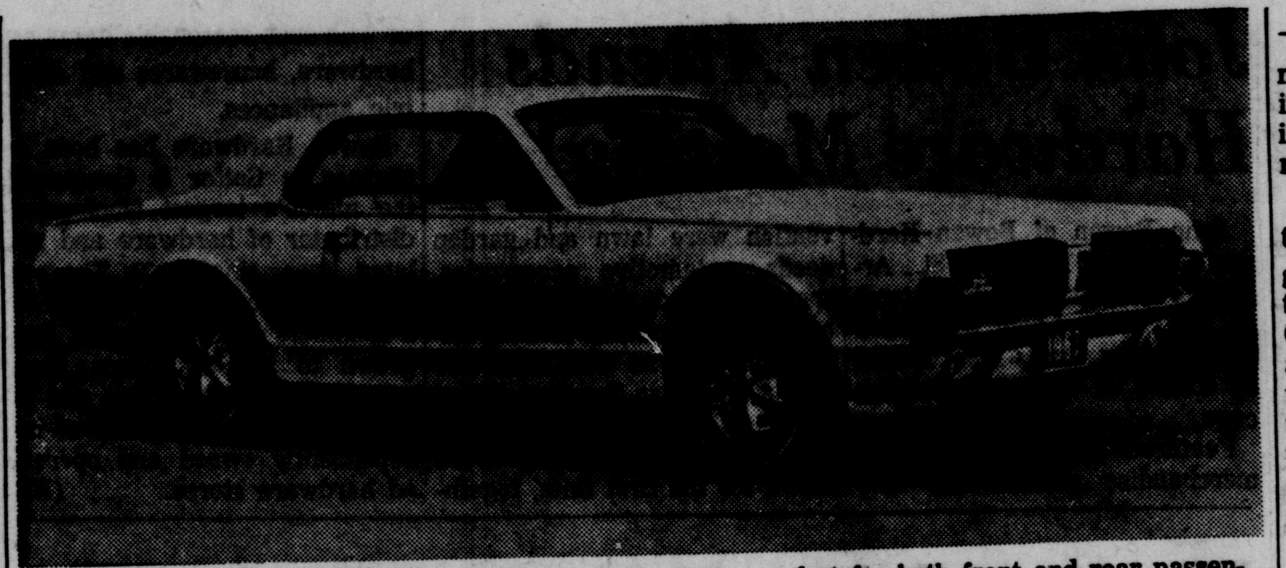
Plus-performance in keeping with this new personal car is offered with a choice of three V-8 engines matched with fully synchronized three-speed manual transmission or option four-speed manual or Select-Shift Merc-O-Matic transmission. Transmission levers are floor-mounted or sports console-mounted. In addition, there's a performance handling package option and a GT performance group option.

"Changes in car-buying tastes have occurred so rapidly in the past few years that it literally may be called a revolution," said Paul F. Lorenz, Ford Motor Company vice president and Lincoln-Mercury Division general manager. "The sought-after qualities of today are grace, style, sophistication, quiet performance, luxury and understated elegance.

"The result is that the new specialty car market is increasing in size and importance because of the strong consumer demand to step up to something better in the personal car field," Lorenz said. "The Cougar is the only American market entry that has been developed specifically as a luxury sports car at a popular price with features and appointments that previously had been available only in the larger, more expensive American luxury/personal cars. The Cougar also offers responsive performance, refinement and understated elegance that rival the best of the European road cars that are far more expensive to own and operate."

THE CLEAN, spirited lines of the Cougar create an appearance of motion, accented by the recessed grille with forward thrust from the fenders and the dividing center section. Fixed position dual sealed-beam headlamps are concealed behind vacuum-powered retractable doors which continue the grille-work pattern of bright and black vertical bars.

Thin, dual paint stripes just below the beltline and the limited use of chrome contribute to the simplicity of its styling execution. The rear grille styling repeats the frontal theme, with full width taillamps and sequential turn signals.



ARRIVAL OF THE MERCURY Cougar puts a new kind of motoring experience on the American road—a luxury/sports car lithe in appearance and agile in performance. Exclusively a two-door hardtop, the Cougar assures comfort for both front and rear passengers with its 11-inch wheelbase and over-all length of 190.3 inches. The long hood and the short deck emphasize the European flair of its styling.

The elegance of Mercury Cougar's interior is an exiting climax to the luxury-sports motif of its exterior styling. Comfortable front bucket seats are standard and full-width front seat with center armrest optional. The floor is covered with deep-loop carpeting.

The fully padded instrument panel and twin-pod cluster assembly are designed for tasteful appearance with maximum convenience and protection. The three-spoke steering wheel with walnut-grained texture lends additional sports type authenticity.

THE COUGAR has a platform chassis with full-length floor tunnel as a rigid center beam and a unit-built body with galvanized rocker panel and sill assemblies.

Suspension innovations, extensive body sound insulation and chassis refinements give the Mercury Cougar a quiet, smooth yet controlled ride with extremely low impact harshness. New in the industry for 1967 is an articulated drag strut which Cougar features on its Road Control front suspension. It permits the front wheels to recede sufficiently on impact to ease road shock. Rear suspension features four-leaf Hotchkiss design, with axle isoclamp to isolate road vibrations from the passenger compartment.

Power train options make it possible for the motorist to custom tailor the Cougar to his own performance requirements. Refined versions of Ford Motor Company's highly efficient 289-cubic-inch V-8 engine are offered. This short-stroke, low-friction engine comes with a two-barrel carburetor in the 200 horsepower standard engine, and it has a 225 horsepower four-barrel option

For the ultimate in power there's an optional GT 390-cubic inch V-8 with four-barrel carburetor, rated at 320 horsepower. Available with the GT 390 engine is a performance handling package which includes higher rate front and rear springs larger diameter stabilizer bar and heavy duty front and rear shock absorbers.

THE SPORTIEST of all Mercury Cougars is the GT performance group option, which includes the 6.5 litre Marauder 390 GT, the performance handling package, power disc brakes, high performance nylon cord wide oval whitewall tires, low back-pressure exhausts, special wheels and exterior ornamentation.

The Mercury Cougar is equipped with Ford Motor Company's standard safety features including dual hydraulic brake system with warning light, deluxe front and rear seat belts with front retractors and reminder light, impact-absorbing steering wheel with deep-padded hub and padded instrument panel, sun visors and windshield pillars. Other safety features include yoke safety door latches and positive door lock buttons, remote control outside rear view mirror, non-glare (Day/night) inside mirror with flexible backing and break-away inside mirror arm.

The windshield is formed of thick laminate safety plate glass. Windshield washers and two-speed wipers are standard. Other safety features are self-adjusting brakes, turn indicators with lane-changing signal feature, back-up lights, and four-way emergency flasher with control mounted on the steering column. (SS

FIVE 1967 CHEVROLET MODELS appear to be standing at attention as the CAMARO, newest member of the family, makes its introductory bow to the public (foreground, CAMARO Super Sport). While each Chevrolet model has distinctive syling motifs, the all new CAMARO features a new approach to the "long hood-short deck" design so successfully introduced to U.S. buyers by the Corvette. (SS

A UNIQUE GRILLE and wide lower body stripe highlight the fresh styling of the 1967 Dodge Coronet 2-door hardtop shown above. Coronet offers its new look for 1967 in 26 separate models, all featuring bumper-recessed parking and backup lights.

Dodge Coronet Aims For More of Market

Dodge has launched its 1967 Coronet with an eye toward making its 1966 best-seller an even bigger success in the new model year.

Target for the popular Coronet is still the every-growing family car market, but 1967 holds some surprises for performance and sport car enthusiasts who have claimed the Coronet as their own from the start.

"Coronet was our biggest-selling line for 1966," Byron J. Nichols, Dodge Division general manager, said. "By broadening its sales appeal through a wider range of models and a number of new options, we hope to make it a sales leader again in 1967."

The 117-inch wheelbase model has been expanded to include a new series called the Coronet R/T (indicating its ability to perform on the road or track), which is powered by an all-new, high-performance V-8 "440 Magnum."

BASIC BODY design on Coronet Deluxe, Coronet 440 and Coronet 500 lines is an evolution of last year's crisp, sculptured theme.

Exterior changes include new grilles, and two distinctive rear deck trim and tail light treatments that give the Coronet a fresh, new look.

A top-of-the-line, Coronet 500 is again available as the premium model, complete with bucket seats, fixed center cushion with fold down arm rest or floor console and extra inside trim for the driving enthusiast who demands both "show and go" in his car.

Two-door hardtop and convertible versions have an additional body accent in a pair of stylized depressions stamped into the leading edge of the rear quarter panels.

Coronet Deluxe and 440 models carry the distinctively Dodge delta-shaped tail lamps, and the 440 has full width trunk lid mouldings. The "500" series, available in 2- and 4-door hardtops and convertibles, features special full-width trunk lid ornamentation along with extra-wide lower body side mouldings and a distinctive grille.

Back again for '67 with exterior changes and extra-plush interiors is the Coronet 500 SE (Special Edition), a 4-door sedan that combines luxury and high style with the handling ease, low cost and economical performance that made it so popular since introduction last spring.

Parking, turn signal and backup lights are set into front and rear bumpers, and additional safety items have been made standard for driver protection.

CHIEF AMONG these are a new dual braking system and impact absorbing steering column and wheel. Brakes operate from a double master cylinder through two independent hydraulic circuits so that if one fails the driver can still stop with the other.

Dodge's new impact absorbing steering column and wheel is designed to "telescope" at a controlled rate on impact. The column is also braced at the instrument panel to keep it from being pushed back toward the driver in a collision.

The Coronet station wagon line-up has been broadened to three series for '67. Deluxe and 440 series wagons have the same grille, front-end and side-body ornamentation as their 2-door, 4-door, hardtop, sedan and convertible counterparts; the newcomer, Coronet, has ornamentation and trim reduced for those who desire a full sized, economy station wagon.

Coronet convertibles will feature air-tempered, flexible glass backlights for a more serviceable, effective and durable window than the previously used plastic material.

Chrome-plated steel road wheels with exposed lug bolts are available as an added option on all Coronets.

Other trim options include simulated wood-grain steering wheels, 4-speed manual shift, tachometers for console-equipped models, rally suspension and front-seat headrests for models with bucget seats, and front-wheel disc brakes.

The widest range of engine options ever offered by Dodge on a moderate-priced car await the Coronet buyer.

He may choose the standard 225-cu. in economy-tuned, 145-hp 6-cylinder; a 273-cu. in. V-8 rated at 180-hp with 2-bbl. and 235 with 4-bbl. carburetion; a 318-cu. in. V-8 at 230-hp; a redesigned 383-cu. in. that developes 270-hp with 2-bbl. and 325-hp with 4-bbl. carburetion; a street-tuned version of the famous Hemi-426 racing engine with 425-hp, and the brand-new "440 Magnum" powerplant at 375-hp.

BOTH THE Hemi-426 and the 440 Magnum powerplants are available only on the Coronet R/T.

Transmissions available are the standard 3-speed manual, TorqueFlite automatic (refined) for '67 for smoother, quieter shifting) and the 4-speed manual type.

A special trailer-towing package is also available as an option.

Besides its new high-performance engine, the R/T comes standard-equipped with red-streak tires; a special TorqueFlite automatic transmission; heavy-duty rear axle and suspension; and heavy-duty drum brakes.

Aside from actual performance, special side-body, grille and trunklid nameplates, paint stripes, chrome-plated valve covers and oil filler cap, and black crackle air cleaner with special 440 Magnum decal, set the R/T apart from its sister models.

IRIDESCENT; having colors like the rainbow; exhibiting a play of changeable colors. "The windows of the church were fitted with iridescent glass."

Music Training

An in-service program in the field of music will be the theme of a teachers' meeting at St. Patrick Academy today (Thursday) at 4 p.m.

Twelve music consultants, under the auspices of the Mercy Music Educators Association, will meet with faculty members of schools operated by the Sisters of Mercy.

NELSON HARPER of Ginn and Co., Arlington Heights, is scheduled to give a listening-music-appreciation demonstration.

Dinner will be served at 8 p.m. for participants of the program. Miss Patricia Hamill of Park Ridge is coordinator of the program. (B10

He may choose the standard 225-cu. in economy-tuned, 145-hp 6-cylinder; a 273-cu. in. V-8 rated at 180-hp with 2-bbl. and 235 with 4-bbl. carburetion; a 318-cu. in. V-8 at 230-hp; a redesigned 383-cu. in. that developes 270-hp with 2-bbl. and 325-hp with 4-bbl. carburetion; a street-tuned version of the famous Hemi-426 racing engine with 425-hp, and the brand-new "440 Magnum" powerplant at 375-hp.

BOTH THE Hemi-426 and the 440 Magnum powerplants are available only on the Coronet R/T.

Transmissions available are the standard 3-speed manual, TorqueFlite automatic (refined) for '67 for smoother, quieter shifting) and the 4-speed manual type.

A special trailer-towing package is also available as an option.

Besides its new high-performance engine, the R/T comes standard-equipped with red-streak tires; a special TorqueFlite automatic transmission; heavy-duty rear axle and suspension; and heavy-duty drum brakes.

Aside from actual performance, special side-body, grille and trunklid nameplates, paint stripes, chrome-plated valve covers and oil filler cap, and black crackle air cleaner with special 440 Magnum decal, set the R/T apart from its sister models.

IRIDESCENT; having colors like the rainbow; exhibiting a play of changeable colors. "The windows of the church were fitted with iridescent glass."

Music Training

An in-service program in the field of music will be the theme of a teachers' meeting at St. Patrick Academy today (Thursday) at 4 p.m.

Twelve music consultants, under the auspices of the Mercy Music Educators Association, will meet with faculty members of schools operated by the Sisters of Mercy.

NELSON HARPER of Ginn and Co., Arlington Heights, is scheduled to give a listening-music-appreciation demonstration.

Dinner will be served at 8 p.m. for participants of the program. Miss Patricia Hamill of Park Ridge is coordinator of the program.

His Cars' Problem: Long Life

"We're the only dealer in the area to have used 42's and 43's all over the place", says Ron Bransky, new owner of Barrington Motor Sales and Service, Inc. "The only trouble with our cars is that they last too long."

Bransky, who took over the Jeep dealership at 136 W. Northwest Hwy., Barrington, reports that the re-sale value of the Jeep is "marvelous".

Bransky, who has been in business in Barrington for a month and a half, says that he keeps a '47 Lincoln Continental, winner of first place in the National Car Show, in his showroom window. He says people stop in to look at the Lincoln and end up buying Jeeps.

MOST JEEPS sold by Barrington Motor Sales go to individuals who want them for property maintenance, pleasure, and work. Many of the large property owners in the area use the jeep for snow removal and lawn care. Hunters also value the jeep for its ability to cross mountains and go through woods.

The Jeep Dauntless comes with a V6 engine at 155 h.p. and a 4 cylinder at 75 h.p. Most Jeeps have four wheel drive, and bucket seats. The Jeeps are displayed as convertibles and the customer can order the type of cab top that will fit his needs.

The Jeep is also available in a 4-door six passenger station wagon.

Bransky notes that Barrington Motor Sales and Service, Inc. repairs all make and types of automobiles. (SS

Bravos Oldsmobile Is Service-Minded

Bravos Oldsmobile, 440 E. Main, Barrington, is a service-minded dealership. The line mechanics average 16 years experience and the service manager, Del Rosario, has been with Oldsmobile about 10 years.

Lou Bravos, owner of the agency, has been a dealer in the area for ten years. In 1957 Bravos was a dealer in Palatine and 1962 he established his organization in the Barrington area. He has been in the automobile business a total of 20 years.

Oldsmobile offers both a 50,000 mile or five year guarantee on motor and transmission in its new cars; and a 24,000 mile, two year guarantee that covers everything in the car including parts and labor.

DICK RIENHERT, sales manager for Bravos, reports that the 1967 Delmont series is the most popular car being featured this year. The approximate price of the Delmont, with a 123 wheel base, is $3,000.

Oldsmobile's F 85, a compact club coupe with a 115 wheel base, starts at $2,410. Cutlass, the top of the F 85 line, sells at approximately $2,552.

Rienhert says that more customers are asking for luxury features such as air conditioning and stereo.

The new Delta Custom in the 88 series features a super rocket 310 h.p. engine as standard equipment or a 300 h.p. regular gas fueled engine at no extra charge. (SS

4 Managers Named at Penneys

Eldon O. Ray, 1431 W. Lincoln, Mount Prospect, has been named manager of the new J. C. Penney store which opened recenter. center.

Ray brings to his new position more than 25 years retailing experience with the Penney Company. He has managed stores in North Dakota, South Dakota, Indiana and Illinois.

Mike Robinson, 1047 William Drive, Palatine, was appointed assistant manager. Robinson started with Penney as a stock clerk in 1952 and subsequently became a merchandise manager in the Evansville, Ind., and St. Louis, Mo., stores.

Merchandise managers for the Golf Mill store are Robert Bittner, 437 Jerome Place, Wheeling, and Harold O'Keeffe, 7256 Oketo, Niles. Bittner started his career at Penneys as a trainee in the Melrose Park store, while O'Keeffe joined the organization in 1959 in Wausau, Wis. (BB

Offer New Options In Chevy for 1967

The widest choice in sound entertainment yet offered in an automobile, introduction of front disc brakes, plus new highway speed control and air conditioning units are among more than 400 options and accessories offered on 1967 Chevrolets.

An eight-track solid state stereo tape player that can be installed on all passenger cars, except Chevy II and Corvette, will be available as a regular production option and dealer installation.

It can be installed without a radio or in combination with an AM-FM push-button radio and FM stereo multiplex. Tape cartridges can be used interchangeably in all home and portable eight-track players.

THE Chevrolet-Delco stereo tape player can provide more than 70 minutes of uninterrupted music free of atmospheric interference - and without the annoyance of "cross-talk." One self-winding tape, featuring Lorne Greene of TV's "Bonanza," will be furnished by Chevrolet with each stereo player. In it, Greene narrates a "musical tour" of the United States.

Four speakers, one in each corner of the car, surround passengers with music as if they were sitting in the center of an orchestra.

In addition to the stereo tape player and combination unit, several other sound options will be available, including AM-FM and push-button radio for factory installation and a manual radio for dealer installation. A push-button radio will be available for the first time for all 1967 trucks, except tilt cabs.

The front disc brakes - which fade during repeated high speed braking - are available as options on regular Chevrolet, Chevelle, Chevy II and Camaro models. Four-wheel disc brakes are continued as standard on Corvettes.

A COMPLETELY new push-button highway speed control unit, developed by GM's AC Spark Plug Division, will be offered for factory or dealer installation on all Chevrolets, except Corvair and Corvette. Called "Cruise-Master," the device holds the car to a steady speed with the push of a button in the directional signal lever. The system disengages automatically whenever the brake is applied.

A completely new air conditioner that fits all 1967 passenger cars, except Corvair, will be offered as a dealer-installed option with several other air conditioning units. The new unit, which features increased cooling efficiency with a three-speed twin-blower system, also can be installed in older Chevrolets, Chevelles and Chevy IIs with one of two adapter units.

Three other Chevrolet air-conditioning units will continue to be available as options, including the Comfortron system, the popular Four Seasons system, and the All-Weather unit. About 25 per cent of all new Chevrolets now sold in the United States carry air conditioning units.

OTHER IMPORTANT or new options and accessories for 1967 Chevrolets include:

—A new five-stanchion adjustable luggage carrier, available either as a regular production option or dealer installation. Also a standard five-stanchion carrier for Chevrolet and Chevelle wagons, a four-stanchion for Chevy II and a six-stanchion for Chevy Vans and Sportvans. The deck lid carrier will be available for all six Chevrolet car lines.

—A new type of ski rack that can be installed on the deck lid carrier will be made available.

—Contour front and rear floor mats to match interior colors will be offered as factory options. Full-width mats for Chevrolet and Corvair will be made available for dealer installation, with clear vinyl mats available for Chevrolet, Chevelle and Corvette.

Again available to all Chevrolet customers as an over-the-counter item will be a compact highway safety kit that includes a small hand fire extinguisher, tire inflator and sealer, warning flag and red fluorescent plastic "help" flag. (SS

COMPLETELY NEW for 1967, and still the largest of the compacts is the fresh, sporty Dodge Dart. Shown above are the premium Dart GT convertible and 2-door hardtop. All 12 Dart models for 1967 offer many new safety and convenience features.

Thunderbird Adds 4-Door to '67 Line

Thunderbird, pacesetter in the personal luxury car field for more than a decade, will broaden its scope of appeal in 1967 with the addition of a 4-door model, reflecting the greatest changes in its history.

With styling that is markedly changed yet unmistakably Thunderbird, the new models present a long, lean GT-car look. A thrusting, long hood line, which sweeps down to a massive grille with headlights concealed behind retracting doors, keynotes the new styling. Rear-deck length has been shortened to give added emphasis to the GT appearance. Body side panels accentuate the new styling with a classic, clean appearance.

The 4-door Landau has a vinyl covered roof with the elegant Thunderbird S-bar motif on roof quarter panels. The rear window on the 4-door Landau, smaller than on the 2-door models, suggests a still more luxurious appearance.

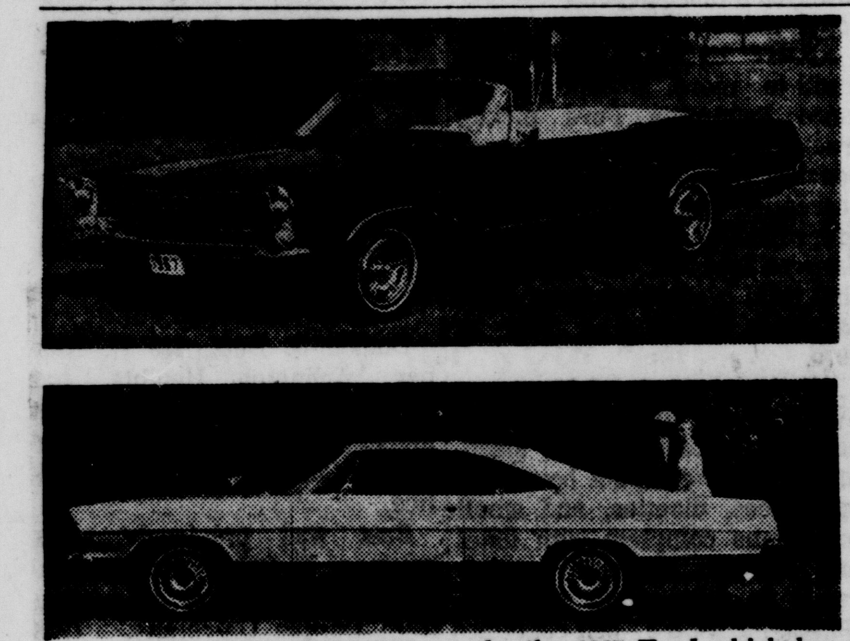
INTERIORS ON all models are trimmed with richer upholstery materials than in previous years. The traditional Thunderbird "cockpit" motif for the driver's compartment has been retained but now offers added convenience with new, expanded instrumentation and controls.

The body and chassis design has been changed from unitized to new body-on-frame construction. Separate body and frame components incorporate all of the latest advances which have come from Ford's comprehensive sound-engineering research. Newly designed front and rear suspension consists of lighter, stronger, quieter components which produce improved ride and hand handling qualities.

Other new features include a standard Tilt-Away steering wheel, which adjusts to the most comfortable driving position and automatically moves up and to the right for greater convenience in entering or leaving the car. Also new is a quiet, "windows - up" heating - ventilation system known as Comfort Stream Ventilation. High level air outlets mounted in the instrument panel allow complete control of air. Stale air is vented through louvres located in the shelf beneath the rear window and is exhausted through exterior body louvres forward of the trunk lid.

VENTLESS side windows, and sliding quarter windows on 2-door models, resulting in unique styling treatment, lower wind noise level and improved vision and ease of control. Windshield wipers are of a new "articulated" design, which causes the wiper blade to change its angle of sweep to a clean almost up to the windshield pillar in a straight line. Standard pressure tires eliminate the need to adjust pressure for varying loads or road conditions.

Engine and transmission offerings for 1967 include the new Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, which gives the driver a choice of either completely automatic operation or manual control through the gear ranges. Engine offerings for 1967 are the standard 315 horsepower 390 CID four-barrel V-8 and an optional 345 horsepower 428 CID four-barrel V-8. (SS



DRAMATIC NEW STYLING marks the 1967 Ford which has received a major sheet metal change for the third time in three years. Pictured here are the X/L Convertible (above) and the X/L 2-door Hardtop, both of which offer Ford's Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission as standard equipment. Featured only on the Fairlane GTA in 1966, Select Shift permits the driver to shift manually or automatically. Ford's new styling features sculptured side panels and a gull-wing design grille that is die-cast in the X/L, LTD and Country Squire series. Engineering improvements give the 1967 Ford an even quieter and smoother ride.

Rear-deck length has been shortened to give added emphasis to the GT appearance. Body side panels accentuate the new styling with a classic, clean appearance.

The 4-door Landau has a vinyl covered roof with the elegant Thunderbird S-bar motif on roof quarter panels. The rear window on the 4-door Landau, smaller than on the 2-door models, suggests a still more luxurious appearance.

INTERIORS ON all models are trimmed with richer upholstery materials than in previous years. The traditional Thunderbird "cockpit" motif for the driver's compartment has been retained but now offers added convenience with new, expanded instrumentation and controls.

The body and chassis design has been changed from unitized to new body-on-frame construction. Separate body and frame components incorporate all of the latest advances which have come from Ford's comprehensive sound-engineering research. Newly designed front and rear suspension consists of lighter, stronger, quieter components which produce improved ride and hand handling qualities.

Other new features include a standard Tilt-Away steering wheel, which adjusts to the most comfortable driving position and automatically moves up and to the right for greater convenience in entering or leaving the car. Also new is a quiet, "windows - up" heating - ventilation system known as Comfort Stream Ventilation. High level air outlets mounted in the instrument panel allow complete control of air. Stale air is vented through louvres located in the shelf beneath the rear window and is exhausted through exterior body louvres forward of the trunk lid.

VENTLESS side windows, and sliding quarter windows on 2-door models, resulting in unique styling treatment, lower wind noise level and improved vision and ease of control. Windshield wipers are of a new "articulated" design, which causes the wiper blade to change its angle of sweep to a clean almost up to the windshield pillar in a straight line. Standard pressure tires eliminate the need to adjust pressure for varying loads or road conditions.

Engine and transmission offerings for 1967 include the new Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, which gives the driver a choice of either completely automatic operation or manual control through the gear ranges. Engine offerings for 1967 are the standard 315 horsepower 390 CID four-barrel V-8 and an optional 345 horsepower 428 CID four-barrel V-8. (SS

DRAMATIC NEW STYLING marks the 1967 Ford which has received a major sheet metal change for the third time in three years. Pictured here are the X/L Convertible (above) and the X/L 2-door Hardtop, both of which offer Ford's Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission as standard equipment. Featured only on the Fairlane GTA in 1966, Select Shift permits the driver to shift manually or automatically. Ford's new styling features sculptured side panels and a gull-wing design grille that is die-cast in the X/L, LTD and Country Squire series. Engineering improvements give the 1967 Ford an even quieter and smoother ride.

Mercedes Delivery Overseas Available

Want to pick up your new Mercedes-Benz in Europe this year?

Mark Motors, 2020 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, offers an overseas delivery service on the Mercedes and Triumph line of import sports cars. Customers travel to Europe, pick up their new car at the factory, spend their vacation driving through Europe, and have the car shipped back to the states when they are ready to return home.

Mark Heller, president of Mark Motors, estimates that his customers save between $900 and $2000 when making a European factory pick-up, besides the convenience of driving their own car across Europe. Triumph and Mercedes sports cars retail for between $4000 and $26,000 in America.

MARK MOTORS has a Chrysler, Plymouth, Valiant and Imperial dealership besides the Mercedes-Benz and Triumph sports cars. The dealership was established in 1959 with an all new plant, service facilities for four cars, and a staff of four people. It has steadily grown and now has a frontage of about 600 feet, following acquisition of service station properties east and west of the original plant.

Plans are now on the drawing board for an addition to the Mark Motors facilities that will be built next year.

Mark Motors new-car lines feature the Chrysler and Plymouth cars of the Chrysler family, including the Newport 300. The top model of the Chrysler line is the Imperial Crown La Baron. The Plymouth line includes the Plymouth Fury, the Belvedere and the new Plymouth GTX.

THE CHRYSLER 5-year warrantee serves to bring repeat customers back to Mark Motors, says Heller.

Earl Brown is in charge of the service department of Mark Motors, and Bill Hudgins is sales manager for the organization. (SS

GRAND DEBUT—Introduced with the 1967 Pontiacs is this Grand Prix convertible. It joins the sports coupe as the leader in the luxury sports car class. The Grand Prix features all new styling including recessed front headlamps and parking lights, two distinctive paint stripes running the full length of the car and taillights ornamented by four long horizontal louvers, two on each side. Interiors are highlighted by standard bucket seats. Also standard is Pontiac framed 400 cubic inch V-8 engine.

Offer Tax Reminder On Household Help

Persons who hire household help may be subject to household employers Social Security tax, according to E. C. Coyle Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue Service.

If you pay $50 or more in wages to any one employee during a calendar quarter you must file Form 942, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees. This return, with payment, is due on Jan. 31 and covers wages paid during October, November and December.

THE CURRENT RATE of tax is 8.4 per cent of wages paid. One half of this amount, 4.2 per cent is the employer's share the other half 4.2 per cent should be deducted from the employee's wages. The employer is required to file the return.

Wages covered by the tax are "cash wages," for example, payment by cash, check or money order. The value of items furnished by the employer, such as food, lodging, clothing and transportation, is not taxable.

Payments made to self-employed persons, such as carpenters, plumbers and repairmen who are not household employees, are not covered by this tax.

The local office of The Internal Revenue Service will provide more information and Circular H Household Employer's Tax Guide if desired. (BB

Pickup Trucks Are 'Homes on Wheels'

Recreation-minded Americans who buy pickup trucks for work and play like to have their cake and eat it too.

No one is more aware of this than Ford Division's light truck recreation specialists. They know that the customer who buys a pickup truck wants a vehicle that will do the work of a truck and carry the heavy load of a pick-up-mounted camper as well.

They know too, that when the pickup is used for recreation purposes, it's not only Dad but Mom and the whole family that have to enjoy the vehicle. The end result is that Ford pickups (F-100's, F-250's, F-350's) are more rugged, yet more handsome and better appointed than ever before. These facts also explain why Ford pickups are America's most popular camper coach units.

RIGHT IN LINE with the trend to more rugged and yet more handsome Ford pickup trucks, is the trend in camper coaches themselves. Ford's recreation specialists report that more than 97,000 camper coaches were sold last year alone and that total production is expected to reach 210,000 per year by 1970.

All the comforts of home are available in these camper coaches . . .double-beds, sleeping coaches, compact household appliances, dinettes, and small bathrooms complete with toilet and shower. Camper coaches range in price from $2,500 to $5,900. These self-contained homes on wheels can slide into the truck box or be mounted directly to the chassis of the truck. With the slide-ins, the camper coach can be removed and the pickup used for other truck work. (SS

The Law Serves You

A Public Service of the ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Have you read your fire insurance policy lately—or ever?

The fire insurance policy has been described as "the legal document which almost everyone has but to which he pays the least attention." Many law suits result because people do not comply with the conditions of their policies.

ACTUALLY, EVERY insured homeowner in the state has the same basic fire coverage since insurance companies are required by law to use a form of policy prescribed by the State Department of Insurance.

Here are some conditions of this standard policy.

If you suffer a loss, you must notify your insurance company promptly.

When an insurance adjustor comes from your company, you must allow him to see the property, and cooperate with him.

You must take inventory of the property damage, showing if you can, the cost of the property, its age and fair market value.

WITHIN 60 days after the loss you must give a sworn statement, called a proof of loss, to your insurance company. You must state to the best of your knowledge the cause of the fire and amount of the loss, and provide certain other information required by the policy.

If you allow your property to become run down, or carry explosives onto the property, or allow it to remain unoccupied for a 60-day period, your insurance may be suspended.

THE INSURANCE company has the right to examine you under oath about the loss. If you and your company cannot agree as to the value of the destroyed or damaged property, you can demand an appraisal and nominate an appraiser to represent you.

You must bring a law suit within 12 months after the loss if you and the company fail to reach an amicable settlement, otherwise, your claim is barred and you will be unable to recover. (RE

Is there an alternative to personal bankruptcy for the individual who cannot pay his debts as they become due?

The law recognizes that anyone can be financially embarrassed and it provides a solution, other than bankruptcy, for the man who feels he can meet his obligations if allowed more time in which to do so.

ONE ALTERNATIVE the law provides is known as the Wage Earner Plan.

The individual desiring to effect the plan files a Petition for the Wage Earner Plan in United States District Court. He lists his assets, his debts, his creditors and states his proposal for payment.

The court then summons both secured creditors—those whose claims are secured by some property of the debtor—and unsecured creditors to a hearing. If all secured creditors and a majority of unsecured creditors agree, the court may then approve the plan.

The individual makes regular payments of a prescribed amount to a court-appointed trustee who in turn pays the creditors on a pro-rata basis.

THE DEBOTR may not incur any new debts without the permission of the court. But as long as he lives up to the court-approved plan, his creditors may not garnishee his wages or enforce a wage assignment against him.

If it should prove impossible for him to continue the plan of payment he may be permitted to "take bankruptcy." (BB

It never touches a drop.

The Volkswagen is cooled by air. Not water.

An ingenious advantage.

Since air cannot freeze, the Volkswagen engine cannot. Even at temperatures below zero, it is safe and sound.

The VW has no radiator problems for an eloquently simple reason.

It has no radiator.

Viz: It never needs anti-freeze. It never needs flushing out. There is no radiator hose to crack and leak and possibly lose expensive anti-freeze.

When drivers line up for anti-freeze etc. on the first bitter winter day, the Volkswagen owner is spared the annoyance.

Not to mention the expense.

The VW has an equal advantage in hot weather.

Air cannot boil any more than it can freeze.

Neither can the Volkswagen.

In bumper-to-bumper traffic, when tempers and water grow short, when cars sit at the side of the road waiting to cool, the little Volkswagen goes right on past.

It is above it all.

Riding on air.

It never touches a drop.

The Volkswagen is cooled by air. Not water.

An ingenious advantage.

Since air cannot freeze, the Volkswagen engine cannot. Even at temperatures below zero, it is safe and sound.

The VW has no radiator problems for an eloquently simple reason.

It has no radiator.

Viz: It never needs anti-freeze. It never needs flushing out. There is no radiator hose to crack and leak and possibly lose expensive anti-freeze.

When drivers line up for anti-freeze etc. on the first bitter winter day, the Volkswagen owner is spared the annoyance.

Not to mention the expense.

The VW has an equal advantage in hot weather.

Air cannot boil any more than it can freeze.

Neither can the Volkswagen.

In bumper-to-bumper traffic, when tempers and water grow short, when cars sit at the side of the road waiting to cool, the little Volkswagen goes right on past.

It is above it all.

Riding on air.

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

BUCKS AND DOES ....

Elk Grove club members invite all square dance enthusiasts to join them Saturday night at 8 o'clock when Paul "Foggy" Thompson squares 'em up in Dempster Junior High School. Between Thompson tips there'll be round dancing with Carl and Marie Peterson who will teach the round dance of the month.

Dempster School is located in Elk Grove Township at Route 83 and Dempster Road. Just follow the crowd.

PALATINE SQUARES

There's another open invitation for Saturday night dancing, issued to all do-si-doers in the Palatine area. Square-'em-up time is 8:30 with Bob Poyner at the mike in Pleasant Hill School, Illinois and Cedar Streets in Palatine. Dancing is until 11:30 and everybody's welcome.

An invitation for Thanksgiving Saturday, Nov. 26, is simultaneously extended — same place, same time, and will alternate club caller, Jim Stewart, leading the way.

To reach the school head for Palatine along Route 53 and go west on Illinois to Cedar Street.

BUFFALO GROVE

A square dance special, presented by the Buffalo Grove Woman's Club, adds to the choices available to Saturday night's "let's dance" crowd. The invitation reads, "Dancing from 8:30 to ?" and tickets for one dollar will be available at the door of St. Mary's Hall on Buffalo Grove Road. Sandwiches, soft drinks and the foamy stuff will be served by the dance committee.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

A pair of dwarfs, Dale and Diane Francis, danced off with first prize for best costumes at the Halloween masquerade party of the Arlington Squares last month. Second prize was awarded to the Hector Healys, a happy clown duo, and to visitors from Friendly Squares, Bernie and Jean Penn who were customed as a cannibal and a witch.

With Halloween fun successfully administered, Arlington Squares next consider Thanksgiving with their annual Turkey Trot. It's tomorrow night and a couple of turkeys will trot home with somebody when the dancing's over. Dancing begins at 8:30 with Jim Smith at the mike immediately following the half-hour round dance workshop of Jerry and Dot Daniels. Two turkeys, two Daniels and a Smith will welcome everyone to the whoop-de-do, featured tomorrow night in Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights.

SLOWPOKE SPECIAL

Tickets are still available for the Frank Lane special, Nov. 30 coming event of the Mount Prospect Slowpokes Club. The nationally known caller will square 'em up at 8 o'clock in Wheeling High School where there's lots of room and the acoustics are fine. Y'all come!

Slowpokes next dance, Nov. 18, in Mount Prospect's Euclid School, will be a fine time to get tickets for the Nov. 30 special — or call the Leveckes, CL 3-4509, in Arlington Heights; the Duncans, 299-7345, in Bensenville; the Carnes, CL 5-4234, in Prospect Heights.

CIRCLE 8

Another future date to reserve now is Nov. 26, when the Circle 8 Club in Wheaton will welcome beginner dancers as well as veterans. As always, the first part of the evening will be geared to those new to square dancing and, also as per custom, caller Walt Mulqueen will treat 'em with tender loving care.

Walt squares 'em up at 8:30 in Hawthorne School, Wakeman at Washington, in Wheaton. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Richard Smith, 665-1025, or Mrs. Warren Westrup, 653-4828.

Circle 8's calendar of 1966-67 dances lists the following dates: Dec. 10, Jan. 14, Jan. 28 (members only). Feb. 25, March 11 (Family Dance), March 25, April 22 and May 27. Try one some time. (A15

New School Rejects 'Modern' Education

"We rejected the new math because it's confusing," explained the Rev. Paul Lindstrom in describing curriculum at the Westminster Academy Reading School.

Lindstrom, assistant director of the newly-opened private educational enterprise, is also pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights.

Dedication ceremonies at the school last week found almost 250 people wandering about the rooms owned by the East Maine Baptist Church, 10500 Milwaukee Ave., Des Plaines. The Sunday school facilities are serving as a temporary home for the new reading school, until a permanent structure can be built.

PERSONS IN the audience marveled at the children's displays of German, spelling, arithmetic and English themes hung on the walls for the occasion. "Isn't this marvelous?" one matron asked another, while a third expressed amazement at the caliber of work done by "junior" kindergarteners.

According to the Rev. Mr. Lindstrom, the idea of a private school had been considered many times by a group of North Shore residents.

However, it wasn't until a 3-day seminar was held in Evanston in July that the idea became a goal and grew into a school.

Mrs. Marilyn B. Cornes, president of Parents for Responsible Education (PRE), is director of the new facility, which is "dedicated to the basic traditional philosophy of education and consecrated to the service of God."

THE REV. Lindstrom says the school strives to teach children the great truths of the past, to provide them with a foundation of norms and standards upon which to base their lives and enable them to develop their highest potential in service to God and country, in an atmosphere of discipline with love."

Patterned on the Fairfax Christian School in Alexandria, Va., its director the Rev. Mr. Robert Thoburn, has been instrumental in advising the Westminster group on textbooks and curriculum.

Also listed as advisors are Dr. Phillip M. Crane, professor of history at Bradley University in Peoria, and Mr. John Noel Kern. Dr. Crane delivered the dedication address.

Dedication greetings were received from Claremont Graduate School and University Center, Claremont, Calif.; Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind.; Mrs. Cranston Spray of Evanston and the Conservative Club of Chicago. The official oral greetings came from Dr. William C. Croft, first vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

The Rev. Lindstrom, in addition to his job as assistant director, also teaches Bible and Latin.

He explained that the reading school follows the traditional rather than the so called "progressive" philosophy of education.

"Our great stress is on the phonics approach to reading," he said. "We are attempting to get away from the sight method used in the public school system and found in the 'Dick and Jane' readers."

"VOCABULARY in the Dick and Jane series is something around 350 words at the end of first grade," he explained. "We use the McGuffey reader, which is quite old but has a vocabulary of almost 1,000 words at the end of the first year."

Also in use at the school, is Webster's Blue Back Speller, vintage 1908.

The 61 children currently enrolled in the school take classes in German, math, music, art, phonics, reading, science, physical education, spelling and penmanship, history, geography, English and composition, Bible and Latin.

"Latin," Pastor Lindstrom explained, "is taught, beginning at the fifth grade, for the discipline achieved in concentrating on a classical language. This discipline will also be valuable in science and math. The language is also taught because many of our English words derive from Latin."

"CONVERSATIONAL German was chosen over French or Spanish because most of the great theologians and theological writings stem from Germany. Much of science and the fine arts also have their roots in German, so we were more inclined to teach it than the others."

Each child at the Reading school is challenged to delve deeper into a subject and to do extra work in a related field. The Rev. Lindstrom told of a seventh grade girl, currently taking history who is also reading four high school history textbooks related to her present subject matter.

The school operates on the standard A, B, C, grading system but implements it with certificates of scholarly achievement awarded weekly to the top student in the class. According to the Rev. Lindstrom, "this system of reward and punishment, which is Biblically oriented, has provided a major stimulus for the students to work harder."

Six instructors, all holding teaching certificates, staff the school with an assist from eight others, some of whom are also school bus drivers.

Transportation, a perennial problem in most suburban school districts, is also a problem for Westminster. The organization owns three Volkswagen buses which deliver the children to school and take them home. They service the entire northwest area, with one of the routes starting at Grayslake, Illinois.

THE SCHOOL is divided into four categories; junior kindergarten for 4-year-olds, senior kindergarten for 5-year-olds, the Lower School for first and second grade and the Upper School which includes the third through eighth grade. Rev. Lindstrom noted that, at the beginning, the school was to be kindergarten, first and second grades only. As interest grew, the school grew to include sixth grade and now it is up to the eighth grade level.

He hopes someday to have a private high school and college as well, perhaps the high school by next year. Admitting that children coming out of the Westminster School might have difficulty adjusting to a public high school, Rev. Lindstrom hoped that his students would "never have to see the inside of a public school again."

"Not that we have anything against the public school system," he added, "we just think they aren't challenging the children enough today."

Students pay tuition to attend the school, with fees ranging from $370 per year for kindergarten and $650 for grades one through eight. This charge includes the cost of daily transportation and a daily half pint of white milk. There is also a $25 registration fee for each child.

WESTMINSTER Academy prior to its beginning, submitted to the State of Illinois, its plans and proposed curriculum and was then licensed to operate.

Although the school is not accredited by the state now, Rev. Lindstrom noted that the school attorney is currently engaged in filing applications for accreditation. "By November," Pastor Lindstrom said, "the state education board should have made a recommendation regarding the accreditation."

At the present time, a student coming out of the reading school would probably have to undergo a series of tests to determine their grade level in another school. "We have no fear that they wouldn't get in," Rev. Lindstrom said, "it's more likely that they would be ahead of the same grade level at another school."

"The public school districts have been most cooperative with us," Rev. Lindstrom noted. "They have always provided us with any information we need concerning a student entering our school."

Progressive in that its students start at four years old, the Westminster Academy Reading School nevertheless uses traditional teaching methods and materials.

Still, it's a little unnerving to see fifth grade German and Latin assignments hung on the walls next to neatly reproduced multiplication tables. (B10

Doctor Will Give Psychology Lecture

Dr. Bruno Bettleheim, a noted authority on the problems of emotionally disturbed children, will present the second lecture in a series dealing with "The Psychological challenges of Modern Living."

The program will be held at Maine South High School, Park Ridge, on Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m.

Dr. Bettleheim, director of the Sonia Shankman Orthogenic School at the University of Chicago, will discuss "The Family and the Adolescent."

Following his lecture and a question-and-answer session, the audience will divide into several discussion groups for a further exploration of Dr. Bettleheim's topic.

IN ADDITION to his duties as director of the Orthogenic School — the university's residential treatment center for severely emotionally disturbed children — Dr. Bettleheim is the Stella M. Rowley professor of education and professor of psychology and psychiatry at the University of Chicago.

The lecture series is a cooperative project of the Forest Hospital Foundation of Des Plaines and the Maine Township Adult Evening School. The first lecture, by Dr. Graham Blaines Jr., of Harvard University, was attended by more than 400 persons in October.

Tickets for the month lecture series may be purchased for $6 from the Adult Evening School, Maine High School East at Potter and Dempster Roads. Single admission tickets for any lecture may be purchased on the night of the lecture at $1.50 per person. (B10

Art Studio Catches Flavor of Europe

The flavor of a European studio is captured in Helio's Art Gallery, 564 Main St., Lake Zurich, where collectors may choose from the works of some 50 artists, including those of the owner.

Helio — whose full name is Helio Wernegreen — opened his first art gallery in Denmark in 1927. In addition to being an art dealer, artist and master at restoring old paintings, he is also an art teacher.

HIS OWN WORKS are realistic impressions, and many are scenes painted during his extensive travels throughout the United States.

In addition, Helio deals directly with many European artists to bring their paintings to this country, explaining that his aim is "to have people interested in good art." He also combines his artistic talent with the skill of a technician to restore and touch up old oil paintings. (B10

New School Rejects 'Modern' Education

"We rejected the new math because it's confusing," explained the Rev. Paul Lindstrom in describing curriculum at the Westminster Academy Reading School.

Lindstrom, assistant director of the newly-opened private educational enterprise, is also pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights.

Dedication ceremonies at the school last week found almost 250 people wandering about the rooms owned by the East Maine Baptist Church, 10500 Milwaukee Ave., Des Plaines. The Sunday school facilities are serving as a temporary home for the new reading school, until a permanent structure can be built.

PERSONS IN the audience marveled at the children's displays of German, spelling, arithmetic and English themes hung on the walls for the occasion. "Isn't this marvelous?" one matron asked another, while a third expressed amazement at the caliber of work done by "junior" kindergarteners.

According to the Rev. Mr. Lindstrom, the idea of a private school had been considered many times by a group of North Shore residents.

However, it wasn't until a 3-day seminar was held in Evanston in July that the idea became a goal and grew into a school.

Mrs. Marilyn B. Cornes, president of Parents for Responsible Education (PRE), is director of the new facility, which is "dedicated to the basic traditional philosophy of education and consecrated to the service of God."

THE REV. Lindstrom says the school strives to teach children the great truths of the past, to provide them with a foundation of norms and standards upon which to base their lives and enable them to develop their highest potential in service to God and country, in an atmosphere of discipline with love."

Patterned on the Fairfax Christian School in Alexandria, Va., its director the Rev. Mr. Robert Thoburn, has been instrumental in advising the Westminster group on textbooks and curriculum.

Also listed as advisors are Dr. Phillip M. Crane, professor of history at Bradley University in Peoria, and Mr. John Noel Kern. Dr. Crane delivered the dedication address.

Dedication greetings were received from Claremont Graduate School and University Center, Claremont, Calif.; Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind.; Mrs. Cranston Spray of Evanston and the Conservative Club of Chicago. The official oral greetings came from Dr. William C. Croft, first vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

The Rev. Lindstrom, in addition to his job as assistant director, also teaches Bible and Latin.

He explained that the reading school follows the traditional rather than the so called "progressive" philosophy of education.

"Our great stress is on the phonics approach to reading," he said. "We are attempting to get away from the sight method used in the public school system and found in the 'Dick and Jane' readers."

"VOCABULARY in the Dick and Jane series is something around 350 words at the end of first grade," he explained. "We use the McGuffey reader, which is quite old but has a vocabulary of almost 1,000 words at the end of the first year."

Also in use at the school, is Webster's Blue Back Speller, vintage 1908.

The 61 children currently enrolled in the school take classes in German, math, music, art, phonics, reading, science, physical education, spelling and penmanship, history, geography, English and composition, Bible and Latin.

"Latin," Pastor Lindstrom explained, "is taught, beginning at the fifth grade, for the discipline achieved in concentrating on a classical language. This discipline will also be valuable in science and math. The language is also taught because many of our English words derive from Latin."

"CONVERSATIONAL German was chosen over French or Spanish because most of the great theologians and theological writings stem from Germany. Much of science and the fine arts also have their roots in German, so we were more inclined to teach it than the others."

Each child at the Reading school is challenged to delve deeper into a subject and to do extra work in a related field. The Rev. Lindstrom told of a seventh grade girl, currently taking history who is also reading four high school history textbooks related to her present subject matter.

The school operates on the standard A, B, C, grading system but implements it with certificates of scholarly achievement awarded weekly to the top student in the class. According to the Rev. Lindstrom, "this system of reward and punishment, which is Biblically oriented, has provided a major stimulus for the students to work harder."

Six instructors, all holding teaching certificates, staff the school with an assist from eight others, some of whom are also school bus drivers.

Transportation, a perennial problem in most suburban school districts, is also a problem for Westminster. The organization owns three Volkswagen buses which deliver the children to school and take them home. They service the entire northwest area, with one of the routes starting at Grayslake, Illinois.

THE SCHOOL is divided into four categories; junior kindergarten for 4-year-olds, senior kindergarten for 5-year-olds, the Lower School for first and second grade and the Upper School which includes the third through eighth grade. Rev. Lindstrom noted that, at the beginning, the school was to be kindergarten, first and second grades only. As interest grew, the school grew to include sixth grade and now it is up to the eighth grade level.

He hopes someday to have a private high school and college as well, perhaps the high school by next year. Admitting that children coming out of the Westminster School might have difficulty adjusting to a public high school, Rev. Lindstrom hoped that his students would "never have to see the inside of a public school again."

"Not that we have anything against the public school system," he added, "we just think they aren't challenging the children enough today."

Students pay tuition to attend the school, with fees ranging from $370 per year for kindergarten and $650 for grades one through eight. This charge includes the cost of daily transportation and a daily half pint of white milk. There is also a $25 registration fee for each child.

WESTMINSTER Academy prior to its beginning, submitted to the State of Illinois, its plans and proposed curriculum and was then licensed to operate.

Although the school is not accredited by the state now, Rev. Lindstrom noted that the school attorney is currently engaged in filing applications for accreditation. "By November," Pastor Lindstrom said, "the state education board should have made a recommendation regarding the accreditation."

At the present time, a student coming out of the reading school would probably have to undergo a series of tests to determine their grade level in another school. "We have no fear that they wouldn't get in," Rev. Lindstrom said, "it's more likely that they would be ahead of the same grade level at another school."

"The public school districts have been most cooperative with us," Rev. Lindstrom noted. "They have always provided us with any information we need concerning a student entering our school."

Progressive in that its students start at four years old, the Westminster Academy Reading School nevertheless uses traditional teaching methods and materials.

Still, it's a little unnerving to see fifth grade German and Latin assignments hung on the walls next to neatly reproduced multiplication tables. (B10

Doctor Will Give Psychology Lecture

Dr. Bruno Bettleheim, a noted authority on the problems of emotionally disturbed children, will present the second lecture in a series dealing with "The Psychological challenges of Modern Living."

The program will be held at Maine South High School, Park Ridge, on Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m.

Dr. Bettleheim, director of the Sonia Shankman Orthogenic School at the University of Chicago, will discuss "The Family and the Adolescent."

Following his lecture and a question-and-answer session, the audience will divide into several discussion groups for a further exploration of Dr. Bettleheim's topic.

IN ADDITION to his duties as director of the Orthogenic School — the university's residential treatment center for severely emotionally disturbed children — Dr. Bettleheim is the Stella M. Rowley professor of education and professor of psychology and psychiatry at the University of Chicago.

The lecture series is a cooperative project of the Forest Hospital Foundation of Des Plaines and the Maine Township Adult Evening School. The first lecture, by Dr. Graham Blaines Jr., of Harvard University, was attended by more than 400 persons in October.

Tickets for the month lecture series may be purchased for $6 from the Adult Evening School, Maine High School East at Potter and Dempster Roads. Single admission tickets for any lecture may be purchased on the night of the lecture at $1.50 per person. (B10

Art Studio Catches Flavor of Europe

The flavor of a European studio is captured in Helio's Art Gallery, 564 Main St., Lake Zurich, where collectors may choose from the works of some 50 artists, including those of the owner.

Helio — whose full name is Helio Wernegreen — opened his first art gallery in Denmark in 1927. In addition to being an art dealer, artist and master at restoring old paintings, he is also an art teacher.

HIS OWN WORKS are realistic impressions, and many are scenes painted during his extensive travels throughout the United States.

In addition, Helio deals directly with many European artists to bring their paintings to this country, explaining that his aim is "to have people interested in good art." He also combines his artistic talent with the skill of a technician to restore and touch up old oil paintings. (B10

Early Sunday Show For 'My Fair Lady'

An early Sunday evening Performance of "My Fair Lady" is planned by Best Off Broadway Players so families may bring children to the musical, scheduled at Wheeling High School Nov. 26 and 27 and Dec. 3 and 4.

The Sunday performance will begin at 7:30 p.m., an hour earlier than the Saturday night show.

Playing the role of Eliza Doolittle in the Lerner and Loewe Musical that brought fame to Julie Andrews and added lustre to the stardom of Audrey Hepburn is Sandra Grabowski, 502 Tomah, Prospect Heights.

Besides all the hit tunes of "My Fair Lady," the show has the added attraction of elaborate scenery and beautiful costumes.

Ticket information may be wend, 381-6187, or Venus Miller, 392-7364. (Bill

HAPPY AT HER SUCCESS in learning the Queen's English and pleasing Prof. Henry Higgins, Eliza Doolittle, played by Sandra Grabowski of Prospect Heights, sings the popular "I Could Have Danced All Night." Two of Prof. Higgins' servants, Patricia Kelly of Des Plaines and Jeanette Tomiello of Mount Prospect, try to convince Eliza it's time to go to bed. The scene is from "My Fair Lady," to be given Nov. 26 and 27 and Dec. 3 and 4 by Best Off Broadway Players.

MOS Tryouts Set Again For Sunday

Music On Stage Inc. will hold auditions for "Bells Are Ringing" again Sunday, Nov. 13, starting at 2:30 p.m., in the Civic Room of the Mount Prospect Plaza on Rand and Central Roads.

"Bells Are Ringing," to be presented March 10, 11 and 12, was a Broadway hit for over two years. The cast includes four major roles for men and two for women, plus 22 minor parts. A large and active chorus will play a major role in this show along with male and female dancers.

Tom Ventriss is directing the production.

GORDON PALMER, a music director at Prospect High School, will conduct vocal tryouts. Music, scripts and accompaniment will be provided.

The organization's choreographer, Mrs. Henry Vandenboom, will determine dance talent.

Further information may be obtained by calling CY 6-2553 or CL 5-6976. (Bill

DPTG Casting

Casting for "My Three Angels," to be presented by the Des Plaines Theatre Guild, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 15 and 16, at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines. Audition time is 8 p.m. (Bill POWERFUL IN HIS COMMAND of language and corrosive in his use of wit, this hag-ridden college professor has little more except a sense of lost idealism and feelings of wounded manliness. Such is the character portrayed by Richard Burton in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" The tense marital drama is being held for a second week at the Golf Mill Theatre. Burton stars with his wife, Elizabeth Taylor, George Segal and Sandy Dennis in the film directed by Mike Nicols and based on Edward Albee's stage hit.

THE WISE OLD OWL gives some good advice to three young friends, Flower, the skunk; Thumper, the rabbit, and Bambi, the deer, in this scene from Walt Disney's full-length animated cartoon, "Bambi," now playing at the Catlow Theatre.

Young Musicians To Audition Dec. 30

The 1966-67 Young Artists audition, conducted by the board of directors of the DuPage Symphony orchestra, will be held Dec. 30 at Wheaton College. They will be conducted in McAlister Hall starting at 2 p.m.

Winner of the auditions will be soloist with the DuPage Symphony during its Jan. 22 concert in Glenbard East High School, Lombard.

Any serious young musician who lives in DuPage County and attends a DuPage County high school is eligible to audition if his teacher feels that he is able to perform as solo artist with the symphony.

CHOICE OF MUSIC for the contest is left to the contestant and his teacher, with these restrictions:

1. Instrumental selections, whether individual work or movement of a concerto, should be between five and twelve minutes in duration.
2. Singers should prepare two songs.
3. All audition performances must be from memory.
4. Every selection, vocal or instrumental, must have an available orchestral accompaniment.

Each participant must bring his own accompanist to the audition. Each pianist is to provide a player to perform the orchestra part on a second piano.

IN CHARGE OF audition arrangements this season are Russell Harvey, conductor of the DuPage Symphony; Mrs. Edwin L. Douglas, P. O. Box 385, Warrenville, and Mrs. Richard C. Noble, 1825 E. Evergreen St., Wheaton, president of the DuPage Symphony board.

Application blanks or further information may be obtained by writing either Mrs. Douglas or Mrs. Noble.

Applications must be returned postmarked not later than Dec. 20. (Bill

Flower Making Class Offered By Art Center

A two-week flower making class, sponsored by the Countryside Art Center, will be held at Arlington Heights' Recreation Park tomorrow (Friday) and again Friday, Nov. 18, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

A small fee will be charged.

The large flowers, made from tissue and crepe paper have many decorative uses. Supplies may be purchased from the instructor, Mrs. Ruth Cournoyer.

Interested persons may register at the Countryside Gallery, 10 W. Miner St., Arlington Heights, or call Mrs. Cournoyer, CL 9-0946.

Other new daytime courses to be offered by the Art Center in the near future are a printmaking and design class and a "Beginning Beginners" art course for adults with no previous art training.

Seascape Painter Is Art Guild Guest

An artist who specializes in seascapes and sand dune paintings will demonstrate his technique for the Des Plaines Art Guild at its November meeting.

The guest artist at the Guild's meeting next Monday at West Park Fieldhouse in Des Plaines will be Charles Vickery. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

Vickery, who presently is exhibiting at the Button Galleries in Chicago, studied at the Chicago Art Institute and the American Academy of Fine Art. His love of the sea has taken him from coast to coast, doing small casein paintings which are used as reference for larger works in oil.

The Chicago Water Tower competition purchase prize, the Waite purchase prize at the Union League Club and popular vote prizes at the Illinois State Fair in 1958 and 1963 are among his awards. (Bill

Young Musicians To Audition Dec. 30

The 1966-67 Young Artists audition, conducted by the board of directors of the DuPage Symphony orchestra, will be held Dec. 30 at Wheaton College. They will be conducted in McAlister Hall starting at 2 p.m.

Winner of the auditions will be soloist with the DuPage Symphony during its Jan. 22 concert in Glenbard East High School, Lombard.

Any serious young musician who lives in DuPage County and attends a DuPage County high school is eligible to audition if his teacher feels that he is able to perform as solo artist with the symphony.

CHOICE OF MUSIC for the contest is left to the contestant and his teacher, with these restrictions:

1. Instrumental selections, whether individual work or movement of a concerto, should be between five and twelve minutes in duration.
2. Singers should prepare two songs.
3. All audition performances must be from memory.
4. Every selection, vocal or instrumental, must have an available orchestral accompaniment.

Each participant must bring his own accompanist to the audition. Each pianist is to provide a player to perform the orchestra part on a second piano.

IN CHARGE OF audition arrangements this season are Russell Harvey, conductor of the DuPage Symphony; Mrs. Edwin L. Douglas, P. O. Box 385, Warrenville, and Mrs. Richard C. Noble, 1825 E. Evergreen St., Wheaton, president of the DuPage Symphony board.

Application blanks or further information may be obtained by writing either Mrs. Douglas or Mrs. Noble.

Applications must be returned postmarked not later than Dec. 20. (Bill

Flower Making Class Offered By Art Center

A two-week flower making class, sponsored by the Countryside Art Center, will be held at Arlington Heights' Recreation Park tomorrow (Friday) and again Friday, Nov. 18, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

A small fee will be charged.

The large flowers, made from tissue and crepe paper have many decorative uses. Supplies may be purchased from the instructor, Mrs. Ruth Cournoyer.

Interested persons may register at the Countryside Gallery, 10 W. Miner St., Arlington Heights, or call Mrs. Cournoyer, CL 9-0946.

Other new daytime courses to be offered by the Art Center in the near future are a printmaking and design class and a "Beginning Beginners" art course for adults with no previous art training.

More information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Jeanne Alderson, CL 3-8542. (Bill

Theatre Guild Play To Open Tomorrow

Maxwell Anderson's play, "Anne of the Thousand Days," which opens at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines, tomorrow, (Friday) is acknowledged to be an historical play, telling of the tempestuous marriage of King Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn.

The play will run for six performances, weekends through Nov. 26.

Edith Wilson of Des Plaines will be seen in the title role of the tragic heroine who changed the course of a kingdom and an empire, while Bob Keenan of Chicago will portray the passionate and headstrong Henry.

OTHER ROLES have been assigned to Ed Sauer, Harold Terchin, Ken MacCowan, Joan Spatafora, Jim Curren, Ann Shalla, Gayle Giller, Henry Becker, Mert Staley, Larry Hansen, Ellen Rukin and Bill Verity.

The Anderson drama, set in the seething unrest of the Tudor period, is the tale of a girl who played for huge stakes and almost won by her courage until she was defeated by circumstances beyond her control. Ann Boleyn was at first adored by Henry, her shocking refusal to be bullied by a king having won his heart. When she was to have his child, her demand that it be legitimized was the immediate cause of Henry's break with the Vatican and the start of the Church of England.

Reservations for "Anne of the Thousand Days" or season tickets may be obtained by calling Des Plaines Theatre Guild at 296-1211 after 4 p.m. (Bill

The Way We See It

Time to Rebuild State Government

Election dust is still settling, and the impact of Tuesday's balloting will not be felt completely for some months.

In the Illinois Legislature, the obvious results were a return to more normal balance among the political parties and—following court order—a fair apportionment in the Illinois Senate for the first time in decades. Suburbanites for the first time will have a proportionate voice in both houses of the Legislature, and will be playing a bigger role in determining direction the state will take.

The direction Illinois and the other major states take in the next few years will be crucial, for state government is facing crisis: in the coming years it must become an effective instrument of the people's will in order to resume its full role in the federal system. If state governments do not reverse trends long noted, if they continue to abdicate leadership to Washington, the next few years will witness the states' continued decline toward the status of provinces distributing federal monies.

Thus, the major task facing the next session of the Legislature, as we see it, is to begin the long hard job of rebuilding state government in Illinois.

Groundwork for such action was laid during the last session of the Legislature when a series of commissions dealing with state government was created. Among the more important of these are a commission reviewing the state constitution, one studying the state's administrative organizations and one examining the legislative process itself.

Lack of Funds

Unfortunately, these commissions were not adequately funded nor were they, apparently, created to provide a coordinated look at the whole structure of government in Illinois. Regarding funding, the Constitution Study Commission was given a budget of $20,000 compared with $346,000 given a similar commission in New York State. The Commission on the Constitution, the Commission on the (administrative) Structure of Government in Illinois (COSGI) and the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly are performing inter-related tasks and, owing to their leadership, will coordinate their work to some degree.

All three commissions are to report to the next Legislature. The legislative commission, most advanced in its work, has issued a series of reports. The commission on the Constitution is expected to ask for an enlarged and better financed study of the Constitution.

Doubtless, the commission reports will confirm that Illinois is in critical condition in each of these areas. There can be no argument, for example, that Illinois' Constitution hamstrings state development. That was a major point made in this election against the restrictive article on state revenue.

Illinois' 1870 Constitution is cluttered with regulations that are meaningless or downright harmful. Its framers included restrictions which should have been made a part of statutory law, where they could be eliminated once justification for them ceased.

For example, voters recently learned that substantive changes to the banking act had to have their approval. We doubt their interest or qualification to determine such technical questions.

Should our modern Illinois have a Constitution which in 1966 allows Chicago to sell bonds for the World's Columbian Exposition? Must our Illinois Constitution in 1966 have a separate article regulating managers of grain elevators? Is it desirable in 1966 to have a state Constitution which still allows conscientious objectors in peace time to pay for their military exemption?

Outdated Document

The Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly has uncovered a whole series of antiquated regulations which hamper the work of the Legislature. For example, regulations on the printing of bills date back to before the introduction of the linotype machine and make it difficult for anyone—legislators included—to get copies of bills for some time after their passage. Some of the commission's recommendations suggest other existing shortcomings in legislative process: it recommended creation of a legislative journal so discussion in the Legislature would be a matter of record; it advocated a joint rules committee, it suggested deadlines for introduction of legislation to alleviate end-of-session logjamming; it proposed committee staffs and revision of the committee system.

COSGI's work is far from complete. We hope, however, that any study of state administration would include suggestions for effective elimination of patronage from state payrolls, shortening of ballots, elimination of unnecessary state offices and consolidation of others.

Each of these important commissions will come before the next Legislature with suggestions which can be made effective with a change in law or legislative practice, and we look forward to a series of such innovations. We suggest need for a continuing study of the effectiveness of state practices.

Organize Studies

Many recommendations will aim directly at the 1870 Constitution. We suggest, in the next Legislature, creation of a coordinating body to organize studies in all areas essential to the Constitution, including continued study of the legislative and administrative processes. Among the major problems of suburbia which need study and action in the next few years are municipal home rule, simplification of local government, and clarification of the county's role in development of remaining suburban areas.

Illinois must put aside its 1870 Constitution. We look forward, in the next few years, to the calling of a Constitutional Convention for the adoption of a document which will meet the needs of 1970 and beyond.

The 29th American Assembly, meeting at Harriman, N. Y., last spring, commented:

"This is a decisive moment in the development of American politics. It provides an unprecedented opportunity to re-evaluate the role of the states and improve their capacity to participate in the federal-state partnership."

We agree with that evaluation, and we hope Illinois will lead the states in grasping this opportunity.

O'Hare Road Impact

by PAT HENSEL
Staff Writer

An east-west road through O'Hare Field and access to air terminals from the west side of the airport could be the next major improvement in ground and air transportation for the Chicago suburban area.

The Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings has authorized a study toward this end. The study will include traffic statistics of all highways in the vicinity of the airport, as well as commuter patterns of travel.

HENSEL

The east-west road, if determined feasible, would extend from an existing road on the west side of the airport and head east to provide better access to Kennedy Expressway.

IT WOULD BE by "open cut" - or hollowed out - to extend under runways built on bridges.

Ideally, it would branch off to air terminal commuter parking lots, and a second branch would be provided for freight traffic, as on the east side of the field.

The western portal entrance would be on York-Elmhurst Road, which recently was widened to four lanes in DuPage County and is scheduled for future widening from Devon Avenue to Route 72 in Cook County.

Route 83, which in DuPage and Cook Counties lies west of York-Elmhurst Road until it reaches Route 72, would be rerouted to York-Elmhurst Road in the vicinity of the airport.

Declared a freeway by the state legislature last year, Route 83 then would become a four-to-six lane limited-access highway.

It would provide almost due north-south high speed travel to O'Hare Field from Interstate 55 (Route 66) on the south to any one of several interstate highways proposed for the northwest.

THE COMPLEX plan would have a vast effect on the entire commuter and freight transportation system in DuPage and Cook Counties, and would require early forewarning for all communities.

Local commuters to and from Chicago would feel the effect of an east-west road through the airport immediately.

Currently, much of the suburban eastbound-westbound Kennedy traffic has to crawl through heavy congestion on Mannheim Road and creep bumper-to-bumper on two-lane Irving Park Road to skirt the airport.

(Traffic to and from Kennedy and the northwest suburbs will have an easier time of it when Route 72 construction is completed.)

Long-distance commuters - on the upswing with the migration of industrial and commercial firms to the west and northwest suburbs - would be able to get to and from the airport in less than half the time it takes to get there now.

Freight traffic would be diverted from passenger highways and, again, travel time would be cut in half.

This would be another bonus to local and long-distance commuters, who often are outmaneuvered by freight traffic.

ONE OF THE most startling differences arising from the proposal would be the change in personalities of nearby communities. Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Bensenville, and Elmhurst would become "airport towns."

Neon signs for hotels, motels, restaurants and nightclubs would begin to dominate the scene. There would be highrise office buildings for traveling businessmen and chic salons for their wives and secretaries.

To preserve the suburban atmosphere so important to these communities, there would have to be rigorous planning to keep the transient customers on the fringe - on the airport "strip."

Sleepy village officials would have to wake up to the sudden growth, and clever financing and planning would have to replace the now sometimes sedentary village business. Taxes would begin to pour in.

The extra policemen needed to guard the "strip" and guard the communities from the "strip" would get top priority as the new taxes were disbursed. Next on the list would have to be sewer and water facilities, and secondary roads.

ODDLY, ONE of the strongest proponents of a federal aid airport program is the American Road Builders Association.

That organization came out strongly, just last month, for a highway-airport coordination to get people and freight where they're going fast and at low cost.

The O'Hare road proposal is a multi-faceted idea which grows in breadth and depth the more it is studied. For this reason, Illinois has put no deadline on completion of the study.

The time lag will give affected communities an opportunity to make more inquiries, adjust to what they learn, and use this knowledge for future planning.

Modern Santa Goes Mod

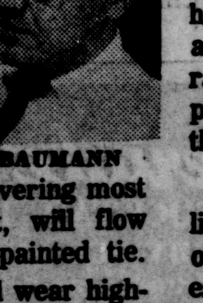
by DAN BAUMANN
Managing Editor

Santa-boo is coming to town new-style this year.

Shhhh. He told me:

He'll have a double-breasted, polka-dotted jacket. And bell - bottom, striped pants, ho, ho, ho.

He'll have an Edwardian, chin-tickling high collar. With a button in the back. From under his beribboned beard, covering most of his plaid shirt, will flow a foot-wide, hand-painted tie.



BAUMANN

For booties, he'll wear high-heeled, patent leather calf-huggers with silver spurs. His cap? A Dutch boy.

RED WITH WHITE trim? It's out. This year, Santa will show you the color of rainbows.

Except his car. It will be black and red. In "op art" patterns.

How will you tell this "mod" version of Santa from the boy next door? Mainly by the difference in age. And Santa will have shorter hair.

Now you may not believe all this.

I certainly wouldn't have a year ago. Of course I wouldn't have believed "mod" or "op art" or the other wild aberrations of "taste" we're experiencing today could have their ties in staid old England.

ENGLAND USED to be reliable. Straightlaced. Where overstatement was the gravest sin.

That this dull, uninteresting country should spawn the most vulgar, mixed up fashion of modern history comes as something of a shock. That's why I believed him when Santa told me what he's bringing in his wide-wale corduroy bag:

For mother, curling irons to marcel her hair.

For dad, red flannel night shirt and a cap.

For sis, a muff to keep her hands warm while riding in the rumble seat.

For brother, a sled with wooden runners.

AND, TO REALLY mix our decades, for the family a 1930's style high-side wagon to go down to the relief store with which to fetch the week's supply of corn meal.

Why a relief wagon? The family'll be on dole trying to keep up with the whirl of this mad, mod fashion cycle.

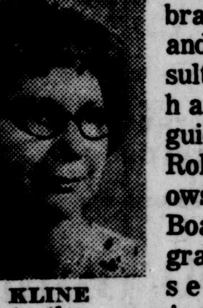
Library Gets Bigger Play

by HESTER KLINE
Staff Writer

The critics of television who dolefully predicted that the "boob-tube" would supplant recreational reading were half right.

What they didn't foresee was that the demise of the kind of reading that television replaces really doesn't matter very much, because there is a terrific upswing in cultural reading which offsets the decline of recreational reading.

"We cringed at TV," admits James Leathers, prominent in Missouri library circles and the consultant who has been guiding the Rolling Meadows Library Board in programming its service to meet the growing new demand.



KLINE

"But we find it has helped libraries by creating a new interest in books."

If watching some bit of fluff on the TV screen provides momentary escape from care, other programs are stimulating the intellect and sending the viewer off in search of information through more meaningful reading.

LIBRARY people took a dim view, too, of paper backs, fearing the books would be cheap not only in price but in content, downgrading tastes in reading material. While there is a lot of trash printed, the low cost editions of scholarly works in every conceivable field of endeavor have upgraded home book collections and whetted the quest for still more information at the library.

Ask any librarian and you will learn that there is a definite trend in circulation that is shifting emphasis in the use of libraries from recreational reading to cultural gain.

"Knowledge has expanded so rapidly in our generation," Virginia Connell, the Rolling Meadows head librarian, commented the other day, "that middle-aged people feel their own academic work was inadequate."

ADULTS ARE trooping off to libraries not only for one of the latest best sellers, fiction or non-fiction, but also to bone up on current events. Public libraries are becoming more and more research centers.

More leisure time has meant more time for hobbies, and where better to keep up to date on a particular avocation than at the library. Interest in world events is wider, and the library has the data on people and places, the background that helps make today's world more understandable, dissertations on every subject written in the laymen's language.

Libraries literally can't keep up with today's students, according to Miss Connell, who finds the demand for technical books by youngsters amazing.

TO ME, one of the loveliest changes in a modern library is that expensive volumes, which we used to read only in the library reading room under the flinty eye of a librarian, are now going out on circulation. There are art books with gorgeous color plates, science journals, manuals and technical treatises, on the circulation shelves so they can be enjoyed and studied at home instead of perused in a dusty reference room.

It all adds up to increased circulation figures, which in turn convince wary board members to allot more money for more books, and these in turn attract more patrons to the library seeking recreation through the pursuit of culture.

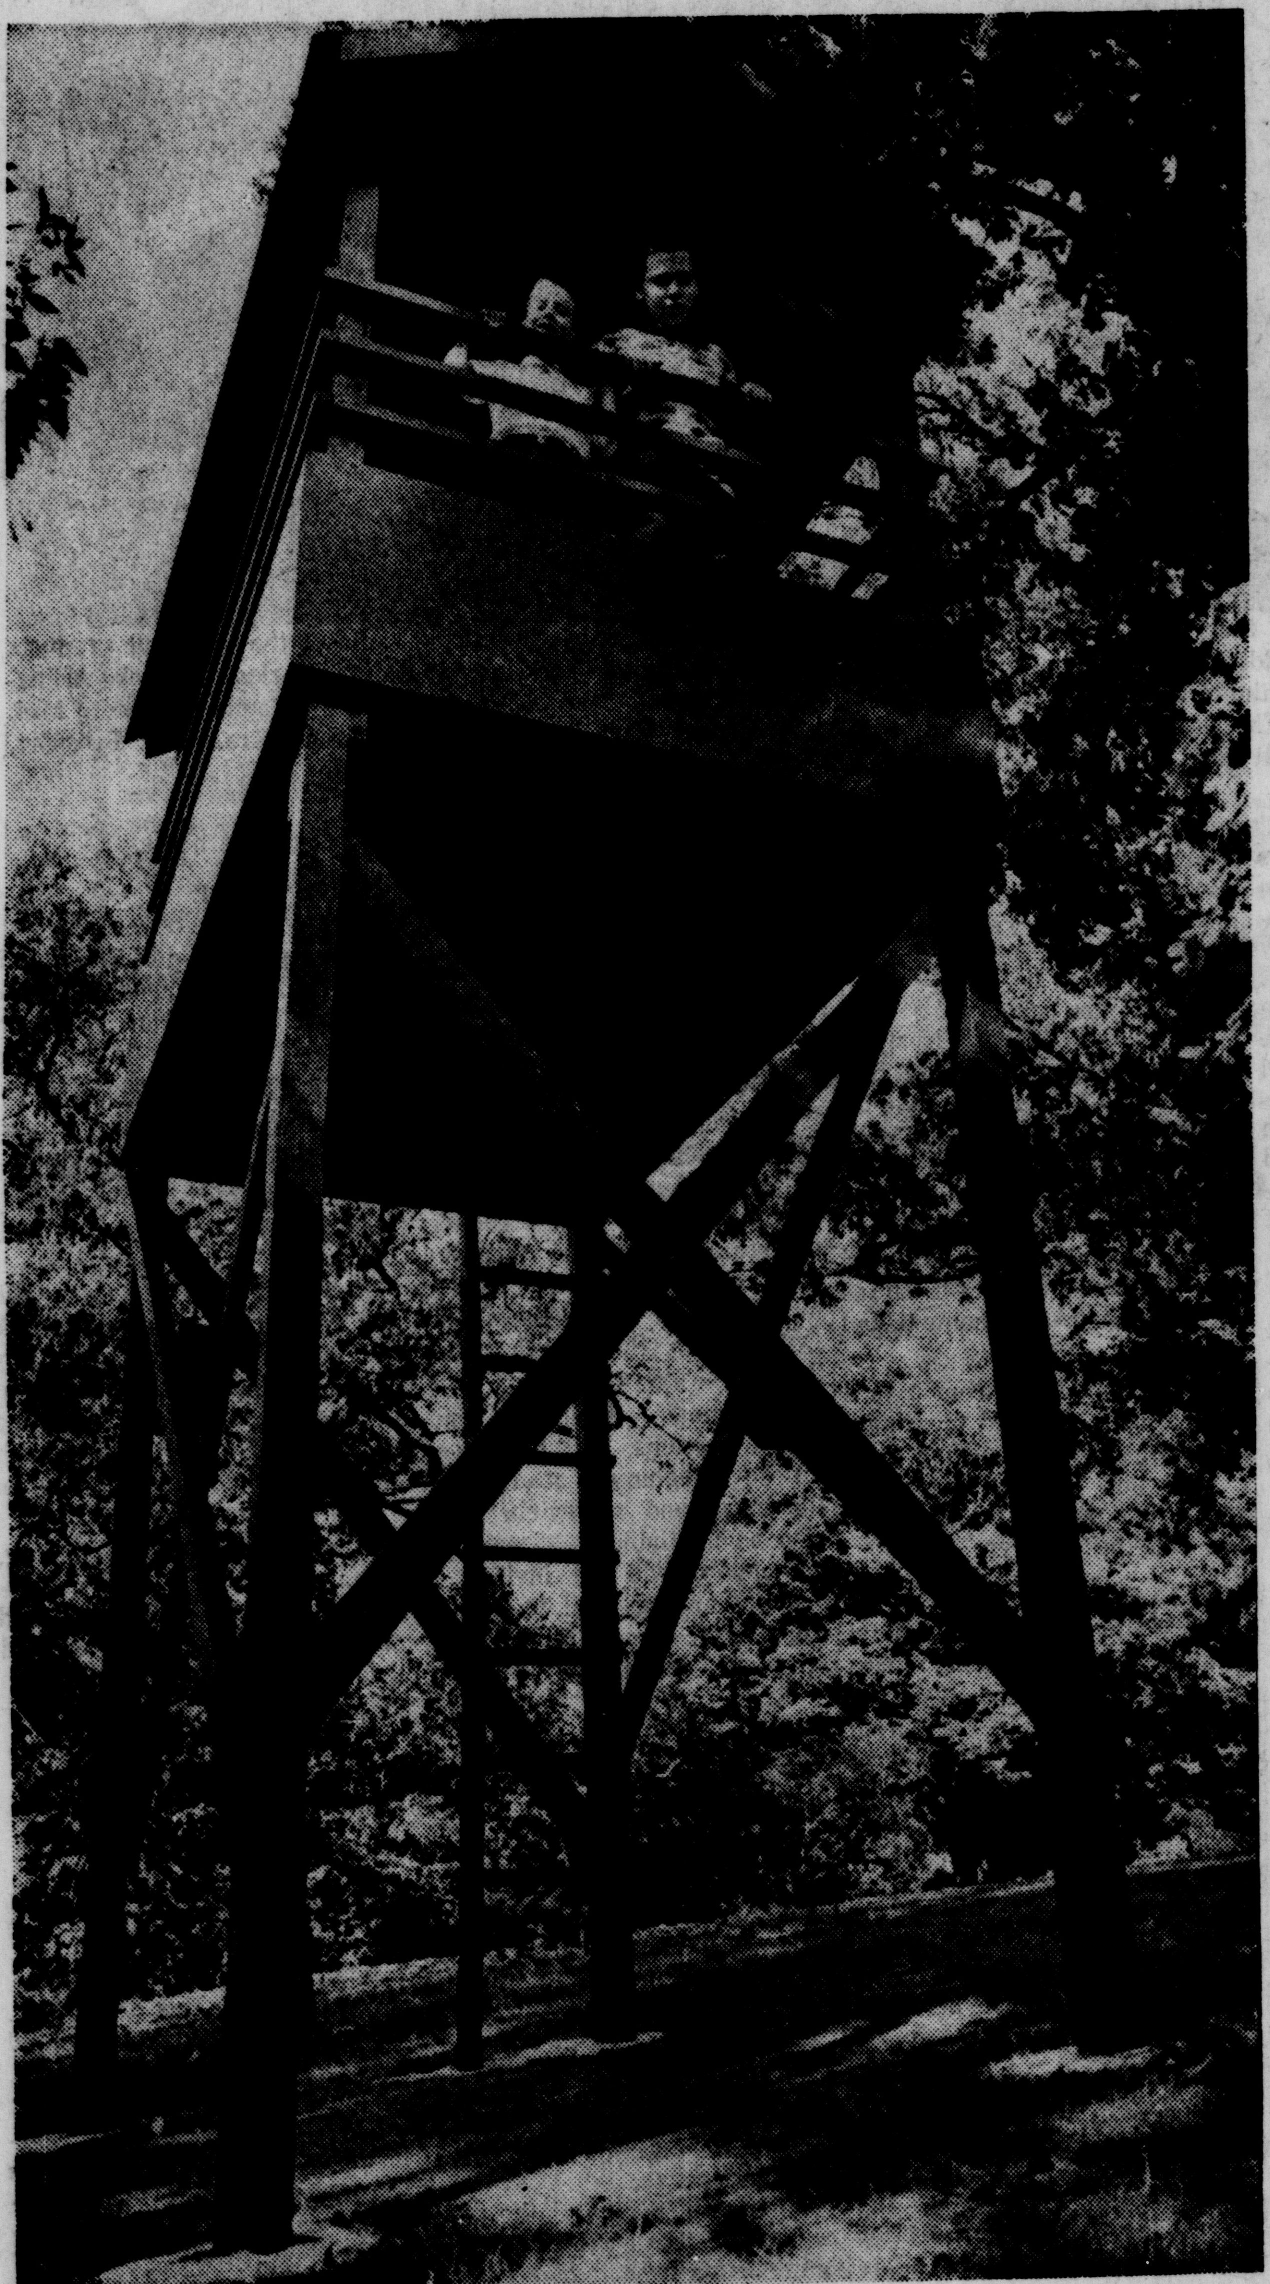
How Suburbia Lives–11

They Wanted Plenty of Room For Boys and Dogs

THE BRICK RANCH STYLE HOME of the Leo Smolinksis near Bartlett is ubilt on 5½ acres of gently sloping, wooded property, bounded partly by a creek and partly by Route 59. Affording plenty of room for their three boys and their three dogs, it has three good-sized bedrooms, an unusually ample bath, measuring 9 by 12 feet, and a huge living room, complete with fireplace. Born and reared in Chicago, Leo and Jeanette Smolinski like the freedom of their country style living.



WHAT LAD hasn't dreamed of his very own treehouse? Erik and Bruce Smolinski gaze down at the world from "way up there" in what their mother calls "their treeless treehouse," built at one end of the Smolinski's yard. Though the boys have yet to sleep overnight in the treehouse, they have pitched a tent near it several times and slept there. The Smolinskis also have picnic tables in the yard.

by PAT ADAM
Suburban Living Editor

When you have three boys and three dogs — plus an occasional litter of puppies — it's wise to have plenty of room.

That's one of the major reasons Leo and Jeanette Smolinski decided a few years ago to trade their suburban living style in Arlington Heights for a more countrified way of life near Bartlett.

The Smolinskis now dwell in a brick ranch style home built on a 5½-acre wooded lot along Route 59. The roomy property, complete with creek, affords plenty of space for boys and dogs and much opportunity for outdoor adventure.

"LIFE IS different," admits Jeanette, Chicago-born and bred like her husband. "The boys always had their jobs, but now they have regular farmer-like chores."

These chores include mowing the spacious lawn, raking leaves and blowing away snow, depending upon the season. Any one of them is a big job on 5½ acres so the Smolinskis own a small tractor. Then the vegetable garden has to be weeded, and the fruit orchard sprayed. And there's watering to do.

Brian, the Smolinskis' 14-year-old, is chief gardener and yardman with assistance from his mother and Bruce, 11. Leo works in Lincolnwood six days a week and some nights and so finds little time for home duties except on Sunday.

ALTHOUGH their three German short-haired pointers, two males and one female, have the freedom of the house, the Smolinskis have erected a dog run just beyond the north end of the house where the animals may be exercised. They've lost two pets who were hit by cars when they ran away. and the Smolinskis don't want that to happen again.

At the moment the household is larger by 11 puppies, mostly Jeanette's responsibility since the mother dog lost interest. The three boys are in school all day, Brian in Elgin and Bruce and Erik, 7½, in Bartlett, so it falls to their mother to feed the pups, clean them and also clean out the animal pen, an hour-long process she must perform four times a day. Now that the puppies are old enough, the Smolinskis hope to sell the litter.

"THEY MAKE excellent hunting dogs and good pets," says Jeanette.

Dog rearing is a hobby for both Jeanette and Leo. He is director of training for Northwest Dog Obedience Club, and in spite of the distance, travels each week to Palatine for training sessions.

The family also enters their own dogs in obedience trials, sometimes as far away as Michigan, Indiana or Wisconsin. Their one male, Duke, just last weekend earned his CDX degree, which is like getting a high school diploma, and their other male, Baron, has his CD degree, which is comparable to finishing eighth grade.

JEANETTE drives to Streamwood to do her weekly grocery shopping. Other shopping she does in Elgin. Bartlett furnishes fire and police protection and collects the garbage, but the Smolinskis aren't so fortunate with mail delivery. Stranded between two rural mail routes, they must walk some distance to a crossroads where their box is posted.

Nearest neighbor lives a quarter of a mile away so there is little opportunity for "kaffee klatsching," but Jeanette says she has never been much for that anyway. What she does miss is talking to her neighbors and the birthday club to which she belonged in Arlington Heights. However, the family is directing its social life toward Elgin where they attend church and the two older boys are in Scouting.

THOUGH THE three boys have adopted their country style of living with enthusiasm, Erik has one complaint.

"I don't have anyone to play with," he laments.

But with school, three dogs, chores, two brothers and a treehouse, who needs playmates?

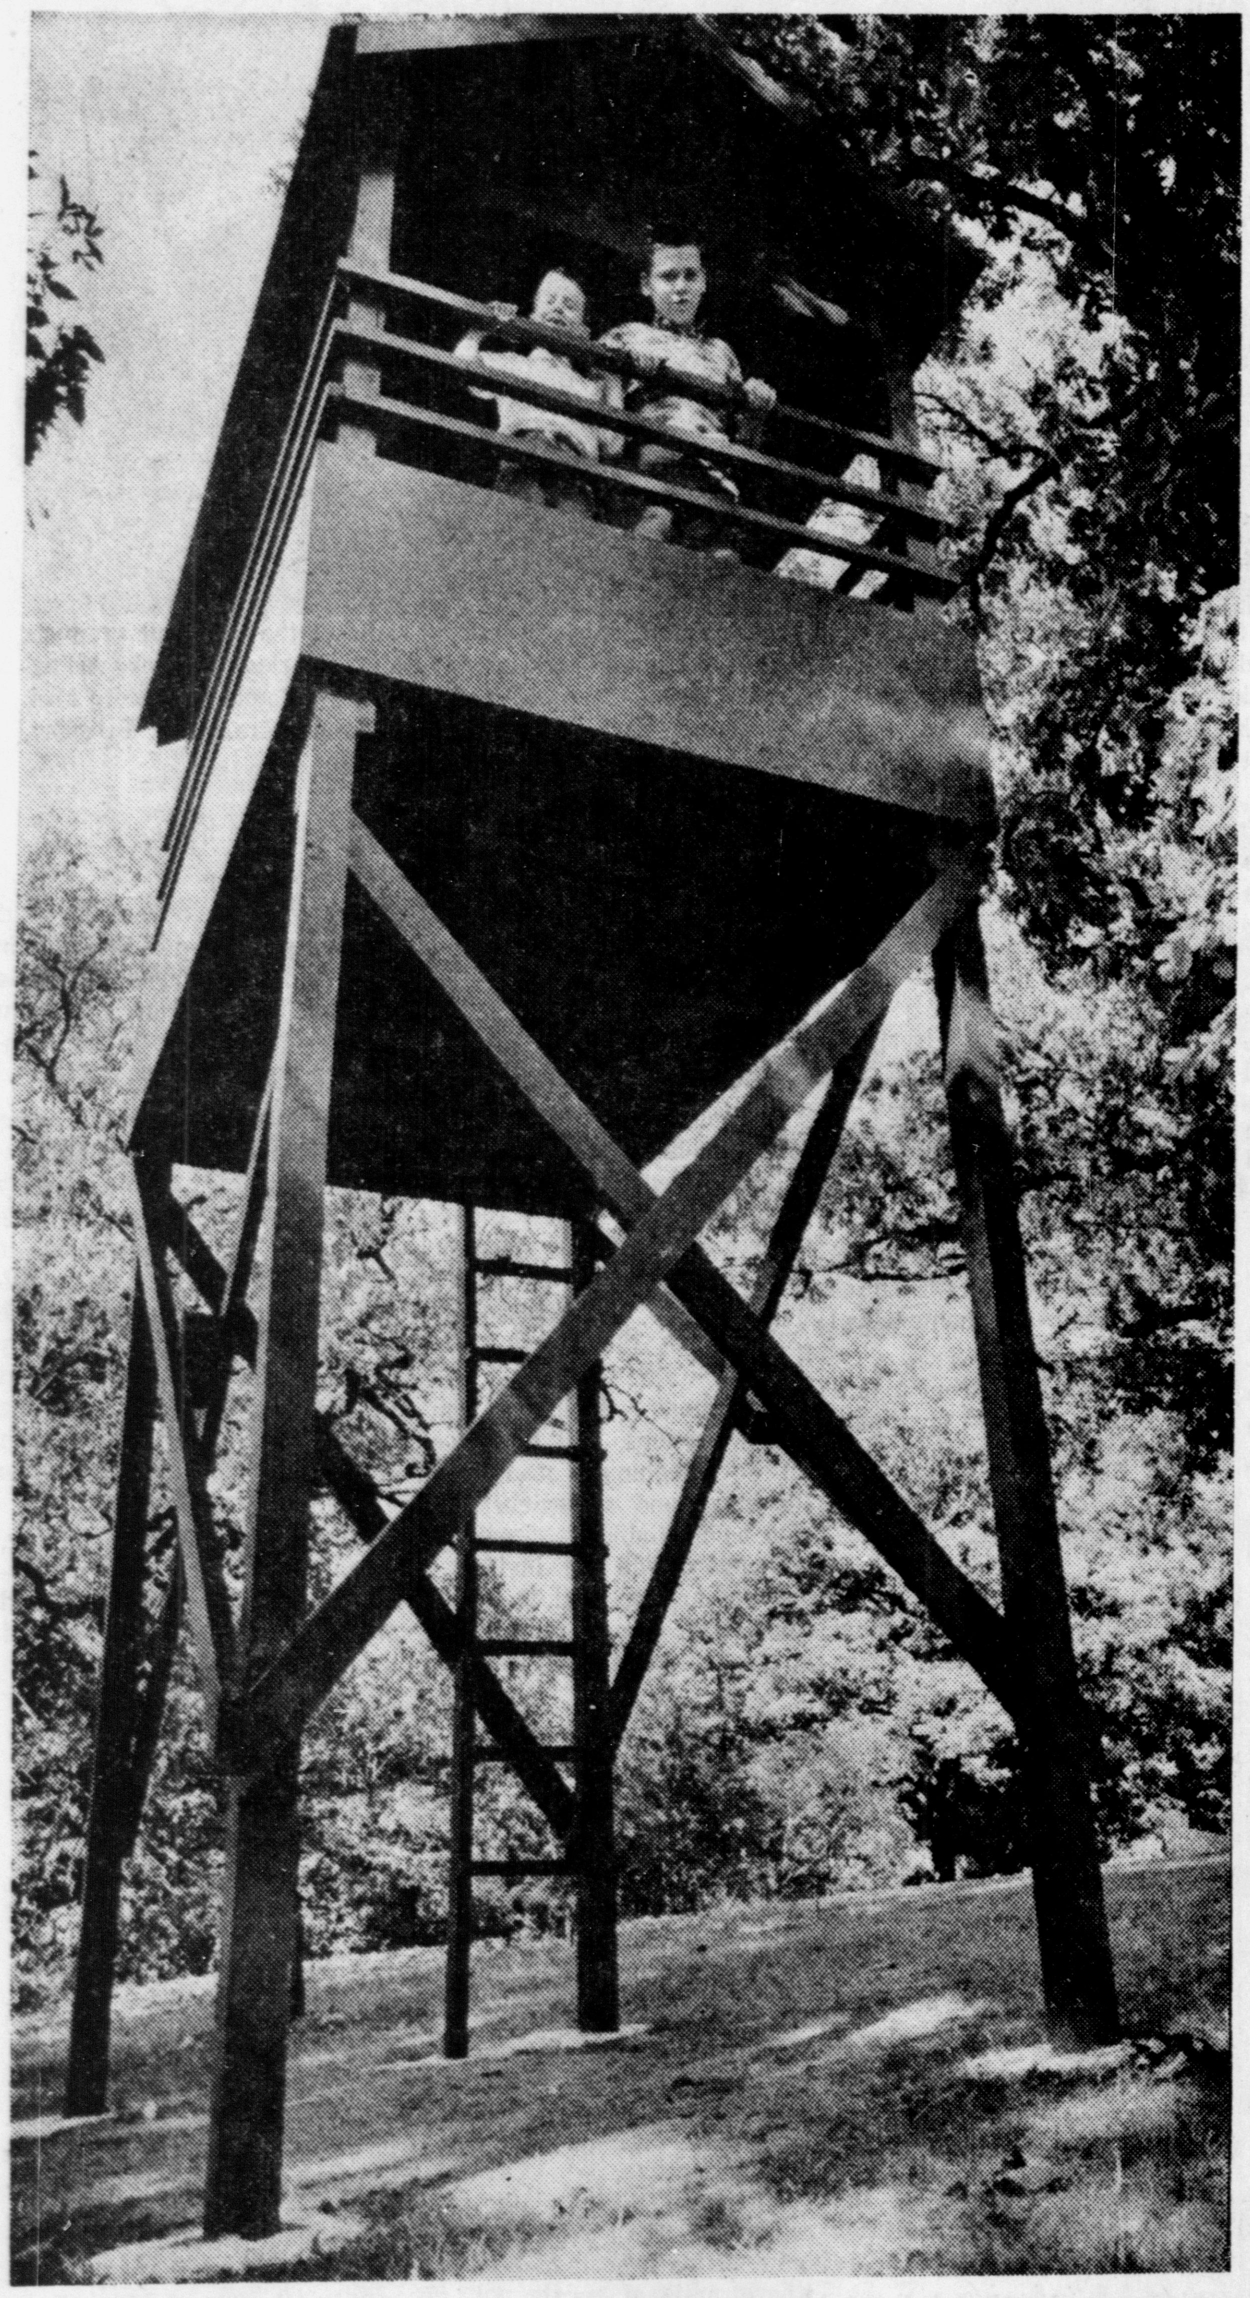
How Suburbia Lives—11

They Wanted Plenty of Room For Boys and Dogs



WHAT LAD hasn't dreamed of his very own treehouse? Erik and Bruce Smolinski gaze down at the world from "way up there" in what their mother calls "their treeless treehouse," built at one end of the Smolinski's yard. Though the boys have yet to sleep overnight in the treehouse, they have pitched a tent near it several times and slept there. The Smolinskis also have picnic tables in the yard.

When you have three boys and three dogs — plus an occasional litter of puppies — it's wise to have plenty of room.

That's one of the major reasons Leo and Jeanette Smolinski decided a few years ago to trade their suburban living style in Arlington Heights for a more countrified way of life near Bartlett.

The Smolinskis now dwell in a brick ranch style home built on a 5½-acre wooded lot along Route 59. The roomy property, complete with creek, affords plenty of space for boys and dogs and much opportunity for outdoor adventure.

"LIFE IS different," admits Jeanette, Chicago-born and bred like her husband. "The boys always had their jobs, but now they have regular farmer-like chores."

These chores include mowing the spacious lawn, raking leaves and blowing away snow, depending upon the season. Any one of them is a big job on 5½ acres so the Smolinskis own a small tractor. Then the vegetable garden has to be weeded, and the fruit orchard sprayed. And there's watering to do.

Brian, the Smolinskis' 14-year-old, is chief gardener and yardman with assistance from his mother and Bruce, 11. Leo works in Lincolnwood six days a week and some nights and so finds little time for home duties except on Sunday.

ALTHOUGH their three German short-haired pointers, two males and one female, have the freedom of the house, the Smolinskis have erected a dog run just beyond the north end of the house where the animals may be exercised. They've lost two pets who were hit by cars when they ran away. and the Smolinskis don't want that to happen again.

THE BRICK RANCH STYLE HOME of the Leo Smolinksis near Bartlett is ubilt on 5½ acres of gently sloping, wooded property, bounded partly by a creek and partly by Route 59. Affording plenty of room for their three boys and their three dogs, it has three good-sized bedrooms, an unusually ample bath, measuring 9 by 12 feet, and a huge living room, complete with fireplace. Born and reared in Chicago, Leo and Jeanette Smolinski like the freedom of their country style living.

At the moment the household is larger by 11 puppies, mostly Jeanette's responsibility since the mother dog lost interest. The three boys are in school all day, Brian in Elgin and Bruce and Erik, 7½, in Bartlett, so it falls to their mother to feed the pups, clean them and also clean out the animal pen, an hour-long process she must perform four times a day. Bazaars Still Head Pre-holiday Calendar

BACK AT WORK following their first annual brunch held Sunday at the Post and Paddock, members of Holy Family Hospital Auxiliary put last minute touches on items for their annual Christmas Bazaar. The bazaar, along with tea, will be held all day, beginning at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, in the hospital lobby. Admiring some of the gifts, all products of the Hospital Workshop, are Mrs. Charles J. Mizek, Arlington Heights, Mrs. W. F. Karlovites, Mount Prospect, Mrs. E. Frank Hart, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. A. J. Brossart, Mount Prospect.

The holiday bazaar season continues in full swing.

One of the most popular of the money-raisers for church-women's groups, dozens of Ladies Aids, Guilds, Societies, Councils, Organizations and Clubs have planned bazaars this season. Also in on the profits and fun are hospital auxiliaries and a few women's groups in general.

Some of the groups are already totaling up their net over their cost, but others are still anticipating the sales.

Still on the calendar are 15 more area affairs, all offering the unusual in gift-giving items and home decorations, most hand-made by members of the sponsoring groups. Several will feature tea rooms where shoppers can relax and munch on home-made bakery goods. A few will also serve suppers to families and one will serve luncheon around the Christmas tree.

A "SNOW QUEEN" with huge pockets filled with "things" to delight the kiddies will circulate among the shoppers at one bazaar, while another plans a "post office" booth to delight, and surprise, the adults. Portrait sketching will be a highlight at a Nov. 16 affair, as will the works of professional and semi-professionals. Baubles, bangles and beads, hand-made quilts and doll clothes will be sold in other booths.

Again for the convenience of readers, Paddock Publications has listed these bazaars by towns.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

The Ladies Society of Faith Lutheran Church invite the public to attend its Annual Christmas Sale on Wednesday, Nov. 16. The sale will be held at Faith Lutheran Church, 431 S. Arlington Heights Road, and will begin at 11 a.m.

Works of professional and semi-professional artists will be displayed and on sale in the Art Booth. Along with the Art Booth, persons attending may have their portraits sketched by Dorothy Roberta Kruse, an area artist.

Many other booths will also be featured at the sale, including bakery goods, toys, fancy goods, baby items, handmade quilts, rugs, aprons and attic treasures. Also included will be a homemade candy booth operated by the Faith Walther League.

AROUND A decorated Christmas tree, luncheon will be served from 11:30 to 2. Business people are invited and will be served more rapidly in a special area.

The Nursery Mothers of Faith will conduct a nursery for the children; there will be no luncheon served in the nursery.

MOUNT PROSPECT

St. Raymond's Catholic Women's Club, Mount Prospect, is sponsoring a Christmas Bazaar Sunday, Nov. 20 in the school auditorium from 2 to 9 p.m.

Featured will be hand-made gifts, Christmas decorations, including antiqucd floral arrangements, knit items, stuffed toys and handicraft items of all kinds.

The "Snow Queen" will be on hand with her voluminously pocketed skirt to delight the children. Mrs. Marion Kuhn, ways and means chairman, announced that parish Christmas cards with a full-color photograph of the church interior decorated for Christmas will be availabie as well as the club cook book just off the press.

DES PLAINES

Following on the successful heels of their first annual brunch, held last Sunday at the Post and Paddock Club, members of Holy Family Auxiliary have gone right back to work completing plans for their annual Christmas bazaar.

The bazaar will be held Tuesday, Nov. 15, beginning at 10 a.m. in the hospital lobby at 100 N. River Road, Des Plaines. Tea will be served all day at the bazaar.

All gifts to be sold have been made by the Hospital Workshop under the leadership of Mrs. R. J. Dixon. President of the Auxiliary is Mrs. Robert Buckley of Arlington Heights.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Needles are flying, and finishing touches are being applied to decorations for the annual Christmas bazaar and luncheon, being sponsored by the Dorcas and Ladies Aids of St. Peter Lutheran Church Friday, Nov. 11. The events will be held in the gymnasium and cafeteria of St. Peter School at 111 W. Olive Street, Arlington Heights.

Bazaar hours are 11:30 to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Featured at the bazaar will be booths containing gifts for every member of the family, from tiny tots through grandmothers, gifts for the home, a food booth, candy, cards and wrappings and a white elephant booth. Included among the gift items will be toys, hand-made quilts and rugs and fancy goods.

Luncheon will be served beginning at 11:30 a.m. Tickets are available from members or at the door.

Presidents of both organizations, Mrs. Henry Leark and Mrs. Albert Kastning, extend a welcome to the public.

WOOD DALE

Last minute preparations are being made for the Holy Ghost "Country Fair Bazaar" this Saturday, Nov. 12, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. at 254 N. Wood Dale Road, Wood Dale.

Sponsored by the Council of Catholic Women, busy bazaar chairmen are hurrying to put the finishing touches to gift items which will include toys and dolls to make many a happy child come Christmas morning. Baubles, bangles and beads from the jewelry booth will delight the ladies and there'll be holiday decorations to brighten up the home for the upcoming yuletide season and items from the handicraft booth for gift-giving.

Geared to the male shoppers will be a "Kountry Kitchen" filled with taste-tempting home-made breads, cookies, candies, pies and fancy cakes. Shoppers will find that a refreshment booth and game room for the young'uns will add to their holiday shopping convenience.

A farm-style decor designed by Mrs. Herbert Jones will add to the feeling of an oldtime country fair.

Mrs. William Stejskal, ways and means chairman, requests that all donations be brought to the church basement on Thursday from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and on Friday evening from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

WHEELING - PROSPECT HEIGHTS

"Christmas Tree Lane," the annual bazaar of St. Hilary's Episcopal Church, will be held Thursday, Nov. 17, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Deerfield and Wilmot Roads, Deerfield, according to Mrs. Walter Lehmann of Wheeling, Episcopal Churchwomen president.

Unusual handmade gift items, Christmas decorations, toys, doll clothes, and baked goods are just a few of the items that will be offered for sale. As in years past, there will be a tea room and baby sitting service. Shoppers are urged to come early for the best selection of gifts.

In charge of this year's bazaar are Mrs. Keith Marchildon, Mrs. William VonKutzleben, and Mrs. James Wray, all of Wheeling. St. Hilary's, under the guidance of the Rev. Richard Warren, serves Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights.

PALATINE

Santa's workshop will be open for shoppers Friday and Saturday, Dec. 2 and 3, under the sponsorship of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church in Palatine. Hours for the Guild's ninth holiday fair have been set for 5:30 to 9 p.m. on Fridayand9a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, according to Mrs. Roy Anderson, president.

Booths will be well supplied with a variety of designer-made gifts and home decorations, prepared under the direction of Miss Vera Baumer, chairman of the fair committee. Mrs. Santa's Sweet Shop will be stocked with home canned foods and homemade holiday candies, cookies and breads.

The postoffice booth will again be a feature of the fair. At this booth, shoppers may select an unidentified gift by the post-mark on the package. These packages were mailed home from various points in the United States and several foreign countries by vacationing Guild members.

Dinner, by reservation only, will be served Friday from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Tickets may be secured by contacting Mrs. Charles Abbott, ticket chairman. Mrs. Hubert Hamilton is dinner chairman. Coffee and doughnuts will be served Saturday.

ELK GROVE

Ladies of the Altar and Rosary Society of Queen of the Rosary Catholic Church, 750 E. Elk Grove Blvd., are planning their annual Christmas bazaar for Nov. 19-20 at the church. Saturday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

"Yules of Yesteryear" is the theme. There will be gift items and toys for sale, and games and Santa Claus will attract the children.

WHEELING

A "Holiday Bazaar" is slated for Friday, Nov. 11, and Sunday, Nov. 13, at St. Joseph the Worker Church hall, 181 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling. Sponsored by the churchwomen, it will feature a "Five and Dime" booth for children, decorations, aprons, needlework, Christmas cards, games and home-baked goods.

The Friday sale, from 1 to 4 p.m., will be directed to women shoppers, but that evening from 7 to 9 and Sunday from 6:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. will be geared to dad and the children.

ROSELLE

St. Walter's Church annual Medical Missions Bazaar takes place Saturday, Nov. 12, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parish hall, 117 W. Maple, Roselle. In addition to home-baked goods, Christmas novelties and hand-sewn items, there will be a lunch room, children's grab-bag and a pic-an-ornament tree.

MOUNT PROSPECT

The Ladies Aid of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, will hold its annual bazaar and luncheon at Mueller Hall, Busse and School Sts., Wednesday, Nov. 16.

The bazaar will begin at 11:30 a.m. and will feature hand-made gift items. Luncheon tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Rudolph Glade, CL 3-1207, or Mrs. Walter Beigel, CL 3-4609.

SCHAUMBURG

St. Marcelline Organization of Catholic Women is planning a Christmas bazaar for Sunday, Dec. 4, in the new Schaumburg Fire House on Schaumburg Road. It will open at 10 a.m. and feature booths of Christmas gift items, decorations, home-baked goods, and a "children's only" nook.

Coffee will be served to shoppers.

ROSELLE

Trinity Lutheran School, 405 Rush St., will be the scene of an old-fashioned Christmas bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 12, featuring candles and center-pieces, Christmas gifts and home-baked goods.

Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., and booths will be open from 11:30 to 3.

ELK GROVE

One dollar and fifty cents will buy one-half a home-cooked chicken, french fries, roll and butter at the St. Xachary Christmas bazaar Saturday, Nov. 12 in the parish auditorium. Located at 567 Algonquin, Des Plaines, the church serves the Elk Grove area.

Hot meals, including children's portions, will be served all day beginning at 11 a.m. Hot dogs and sandwiches will also be available.

Shoppers will be invited to browse among the 20 booths which offer games for all ages and gift items for children, teens and the home.

BENSENVILLE

A Letter from Shirley

Hi Folks:

Jane, my neighbor, and I started our Christmas shopping. It isn't that far away. Both of us decided to give personal presents for the individuals listed this year.

Let's see . . . a watch for Jim; Ricky at sixteen would love something in leather goods. LORSEY'S had so much to select from for everyone. My Mother needed a handbag (so do I and I hope Howard remembers). All colors, all styles.

Barbara and Diane love jewelry . . . no problem with LORSEY'S. With assurance in writing, it is wonderful to know that LORSEY'S repair any purchase within a reasonable time . . . gladly and free, of course.

Yours truly,

Shirley

Booths will be well supplied with a variety of designer-made gifts and home decorations, prepared under the direction of Miss Vera Baumer, chairman of the fair committee. Mrs. Santa's Sweet Shop will be stocked with home canned foods and homemade holiday candies, cookies and breads.

The postoffice booth will again be a feature of the fair. At this booth, shoppers may select an unidentified gift by the postmark on the package. These packages were mailed home from various points in the United States and several foreign countries by vacationing Guild members.

Dinner, by reservation only, will be served Friday from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Tickets may be secured by contacting Mrs. Charles Abbott, ticket chairman. Mrs. Hubert Hamilton is dinner chairman. Coffee and doughnuts will be served Saturday.

ELK GROVE

Ladies of the Altar and Rosary Society of Queen of the Rosary Catholic Church, 750 E. Elk Grove Blvd., are planning their annual Christmas bazaar for Nov. 19-20 at the church. Saturday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

"Yules of Yesteryear" is the theme. There will be gift items and toys for sale, and games and Santa Claus will attract the children.

WHEELING

A "Holiday Bazaar" is slated for Friday, Nov. 11, and Sunday, Nov. 13, at St. Joseph the Worker Church hall, 181 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling. Sponsored by the churchwomen, it will feature a "Five and Dime" booth for children, decorations, aprons, needlework, Christmas cards, games and home-baked goods.

The Friday sale, from 1 to 4 p.m., will be directed to women shoppers, but that evening from 7 to 9 and Sunday from 6:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. will be geared to dad and the children.

ROSELLE

St. Walter's Church annual Medical Missions Bazaar takes place Saturday, Nov. 12, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parish hall, 117 W. Maple, Roselle. In addition to home-baked goods, Christmas novelties and hand-sewn items, there will be a lunch room, children's grab-bag and a pic-an-ornament tree.

MOUNT PROSPECT

The Ladies Aid of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, will hold its annual bazaar and luncheon at Mueller Hall, Busse and School Sts., Wednesday, Nov. 16.

The bazaar will begin at 11:30 a.m. and will feature hand-made gift items. Luncheon tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Rudolph Glade, CL 3-1207, or Mrs. Walter Beigel, CL 3-4609.

SCHAUMBURG

St. Marcelline Organization of Catholic Women is planning a Christmas bazaar for Sunday, Dec. 4, in the new Schaumburg Fire House on Schaumburg Road. It will open at 10 a.m. and feature booths of Christmas gift items, decorations, home-baked goods, and a "children's only" nook.

Coffee will be served to shoppers.

ROSELLE

Trinity Lutheran School, 405 Rush St., will be the scene of an old-fashioned Christmas bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 12, featuring candles and centerpieces, Christmas gifts and home-baked goods.

Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., and booths will be open from 11:30 to 3.

ELK GROVE

One dollar and fifty cents will buy one-half a home-cooked chicken, french fries, roll and butter at the St. Xachary Christmas bazaar Saturday, Nov. 12 in the parish auditorium. Located at 567 Algonquin, Des Plaines, the church serves the Elk Grove area.

Hot meals, including children's portions, will be served all day beginning at 11 a.m. Hot dogs and sandwiches will also be available.

Shoppers will be invited to browse among the 20 booths which offer games for all ages and gift items for children, teens and the home.

BENSENVILLE

The Milwaukee Railroad Women's Club in Bensenville will hold its annual Christmas Bazaar Friday, Nov. 18, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the clubhouse, York Road and Railroad goods will be on sale.

Adults and children's clothing, juvenile furniture and miscellaneous articles will be offered and coffee will be served throughout the sale hours.

BACK AT WORK following their first annual brunch held Sunday at the Post and Paddock, members of Holy Family Hospital Auxiliary put last minute touches on items for their annual Christmas Bazaar. The bazaar, along with tea, will be held all day, beginning at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, in the hospital lobby. Admiring some of the gifts, all products of the Hospital Workshop, are Mrs. Charles J. Mizek, Arlington Heights, Mrs. W. F. Karlovites, Mount Prospect, Mrs. E. Frank Hart, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. A. J. Brossart, Mount Prospect.

A Letter from Shirley

Hi Folks:

Jane, my neighbor, and I started our Christmas shopping. It isn't that far away. Both of us decided to give personal presents for the individuals listed this year.

Let's see . . . a watch for Jim; Ricky at sixteen would love something in leather goods. LORSEY'S had so much to select from for everyone. My Mother needed a handbag (so do I and I hope Howard remembers). All colors, all styles.

Barbara and Diane love jewelry . . . no problem with LORSEY'S. With assurance in writing, it is wonderful to know that LORSEY'S repair any purchase within a reasonable time . . . gladly and free, of course.

Yours truly,

Shirley

Women Cited for Service To Elgin State Hospital

Area volunteers and volunteer groups were recently honored by Elgin State Hospital for their hours of service to the patients in the past year. The ceremonies were held Nov. 6 at the hospital.

Mrs. Homer Langguth of Thorndale Road, Itasca, was given a special award for "outstanding meritorious service to the hospital and its patients."

AREA GROUPS cited for their volunteer work were Prince of Peace Lutheran Church Women, Hoffman Estates; St. John United Church of Christ Women's Society, Arlington Heights, and Arlington Heights Woman's Club.

Lauding the work of volunteers, Dr. Ernest S. Klein, hospital superintendent said, "They render an invaluable service. They bring to the patients the warmth and friendship of the community and take back to the community awareness and new hope for the mentally ill."

James E. Mott Takes Bride In Lexington Church Rite

The William Tudor Mott family of 1450 Blackhawk Drive, Mount Prospect, was in Lexington, Ky., the weekend of Oct. 1 for the wedding of James Edward Mott and Mary Elizabeth Shelton. The bride's family, the James Clyde Sheltons, are residents of Carrollton, Ky.

Christ the King Catholic Church was the setting for a 3 o'clock ceremony, and later 125 guests greeted the couple at a reception at Lexington's Imperial House.

THE BRIDE attended St. Joseph Infirmary School of Nursing in Louisville and is now attending the University of Kentucky while working as a nurse at the university medical center.

The groom, who grew up in Mount Prospect and is a graduate of Arlington High School, attended Park College, Parkville, Mo., and Southern Illinois University.

He is now working for Aetna Insurance Co. as a special agent in the Lexington branch.

HIS BROTHER Thomas was best man for the double ring rites, and his other brother Robert was a groomsman, along with a brother of the bride, James Shelton, and John Edward Foy of Lexington.

The bride chose her sister Beatrice Sue Shelton as maid of honor, while Patricia Lee Collins of Lexington, Sharon Faye Shepherd of Carrollton and Donna Sharon Alt of Nashville were bridesmaids.

A niece of the bride, Deborah Dawn Shelton, was junior bridesmaid, and two other nieces, Sheree Lynette and Donna Jo Shelton, both 5, served as flower girls.

All of the bridal attendants were gowned alike as they came down the aisle to take their places at the altar. They wore floor-length emerald green velvet and crepe dresses, the bodice of velvet and skirt of crepe with a flowing panel at the back, attached to the waist with a fabric rose. Their headpieces were also of fabric roses with circular veiling.

Each of the adult attendants carried a bouquet of yellow pompons. The flower girls dropped yellow rose petals as they came down the aisle.

AS THE BRIDE entered the sanctuary, she wore an ivory silk faille gown, floor-length with bell-shaped skirt, bishop sleeves and a scooped neckline. Alencon lace edged the neckline and sleeves, and also accented the full chapel train which flowed from the back waistline of the gown.

For "something old" the bride carried a lace and linen handkerchief which had been carried by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. James Fisher of New Carlisle, Ind., at her high school graduation.

The bride completed her attire with a chapel-length veil attached to a small headpiece of lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

SEATING the wedding guests were college friends who grew up with the groom in Mount Prospect. They included Donald Field of Des Plaines, Ray Horcher of Mundelein and Richard Koopman of Arlington Heights.

Witnessing her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shelton wore an orchid wool crepe dress with matching accessories and had a stephanotis corsage. Mrs. Mott chose a light blue wool knit with a silver paisley design, brown accessories and a corsage of white phalaenopsis.

After the nuptial festivities, the newlyweds flew to Nassau for a 10-day honeymoon. They are making their home at 1685 Alexandria Drive, Apartment 12A, in Lexington. (S

Elk Grove Job's Daughters Celebrate Friends' Night

Friends' Nite for Bethel 112, Elk Grove Village Job's Daughters was held last Friday. Guest honored queen for the evening was Kitty Sandidge, treasurer of the bethel. Guest senior princess was Vicky Slater, senior princess of Bethel 103, Arlington Heights, and guest junior princess was Linda Anagnos, honored queen of Bethel 107, Palatine.

The decorations were done in a football theme, the goal post a background for banners lettered Kitty. The floral arangements were in Job's Daughters' colors—purple and white mums.

Kitty's special guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rhodes of Arlington Heights.

AT THE Nov. 18 meeting of Bethel 112 there will be an election of officers for the next term.

Palatine Jrs. to Learn Pitfalls of Narcotics

Joseph F. Fiedoral, ex-policeman, will present "Narcotics Revelations" at the Tuesday, Nov. 15, meeting of the Palatine Junior Woman's Club.

For 20 of 27 years with the Chicago police department, Mr. Fiedoral worked as a plainclothesman covering all phases of police work. Serving in the Maxwell Street district, long recognized as one of the nation's hotbeds of illicit drug peddling and addiction, he gained the firsthand knowledge and experience of the narcotics problem and the recognition of its deadly menace which impelled him to specialize in this field. He is today recognized as one of the nation's outstanding authorities on the subject, stated the program chairman.

"HIS 'NARCOTICS Revelations' are doubly dramatic because of their stark realism and his words carry the unmistakable imprint of truth. His display of all known types of narcotics and the implements of drug addiction is unique. His lectures on police activities and juvenile delinquency are similarly factual and forthright," added the chairman.

Hostess for the evening will be Mrs. John Luck. She will be assisted by Mrs. Dale Christensen, Mrs. James Dobersch, Mrs. George Goughnour, Mrs. Lou Lundstedt, Mrs. Jack Lucas Jr., Mrs. Daniel Vrabec and Mrs. Harry Walden.

Mrs. Frank Scott was recently welcomed into the club's membership. Due to a resignation, Mrs. James Cramm has been appointed as chairman of the Literature and Drama Department. (S

GOP Women To Relax At Review

A current, timely and amusing book review will be presented by Ursalene Hubbell at the next meeting of the Wheeling Township Republican Women's Club. Because of Thanksgiving, the meeting has been scheduled for Monday, Nov. 21, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan, 25 E. Campbell.

Mrs. Donald Marquis, program chairman, said that because of the hard work the women of the club had put out before the Nov. 8 election, she has planned a "kick off your heels and relax" type meeting for this first following the election.

Mrs. Ronald Phillippo, Arlington Heights, is president of the club. Women interested in membership are invited to call 259-1167. (S

Prospect Heights Women Join the Stamp Project

Suzanne Knoepfle Is Thomas Balk's Bride

The Jeanne Vail Chapel of Northwestern University was the setting for a recent wedding which united a Mount Prospect girl, Suzanne Jean Knoepfle, and Thomas William Balk of East Cleveland, Ohio. The 7:30 p.m. candlelight ceremony was performed Oct. 8 by the Rev. Ralph G. Dunlop.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Walter Knoepfle, 1201 W. Lincoln Road, Mount Prospect, is a graduate of Northwestern and attended Arlington High School before entering the university.

THE GROOM, a graduate of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, is the son of the Leonard Balks of East Cleveland. He is employed by Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. in Elk Grove.

The bride wore an ivory silk peau de soie gown for the double ring rites, the empire bodice designed with bolero of chiffon embroidered with Alencon lace and seed pearls. The lace also accented the front of the slender skirt, and a lac circlet edged in seed pearls held the bride's triple veil in place. The gown had a square-cut chapel train.

The bridal ensemble was created by Mrs. Virginia Fiester of Lake Forest, who designed Lucy Johnson Nugent's wedding attire. Mrs. Fiester also made the ensembles worn by the bridal attendants and the bride's mother at the Knoepfle-Balk wedding.

THE MAID of honor, Mary Croisant of Evanston, and bridesmaids, Jane Houck of Glenview and Janet Serafin of Skokie, were gowned alike in cornflower blue chiffon flannel floor-length dresses with pearl trimming at the neckline.

The girls carried pale yellow plumeria with green leaves. The bride's bouquet was composed of lilies of the valley with stephanotis.

The groom's brothers, David Balk of Dayton and Leonard Balk Jr. of East Cleveland, attended him, David as best man and Leonard Jr. as an usher. Also seating the guests was Donald W. Knoepfle of Chicago, a brother of the bride.

SHE WAS given in marriage by her other brother, Thomas W. Knoepfle.

After the wedding on the Evanston campus, a reception for 100 guests was held at the Sarah Siddons Walk of the Ambassador West Hotel, Chicago. The bride's mother greeted in a shocking pink chiffon gown with a corsage of pink butterfly orchids. Mrs. Balk appeared in an American Beauty chiffon dress with a cymbidium corsage.

The newlyweds spent a 2-week honeymoon in the Bahamas at Man O' War Cay, Abaco. They are making their home at 5950 N. Odell, Chicago.

Policewoman Is Speaker At B and PW

A young Chicago policewoman will discuss the self-protection of women at tonight's (Thursday) meeting of the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club at the Arlington Carousel. A cocktail hour at 6 will precede the dinner.

The speaker is Miss Kathleen Gaughan, a recent graduate of the City of Chicago Police Academy and part-time student at Loyola University.

She was a member of the first class of policewomen to be graduated from the academy in 12 years. There were 35 in the class, the largest in 20 years.

ALL OF Chicago's policewomen are assigned to the youth division, and Miss Gaughan's territory is the extreme northwest part of the city, including O'Hare Field.

Miss Gaughan will be presented to the club by Mrs. Alice Platt, chairman of the personal development committee in charge of tonight's program. (S

20 New Members Welcomed By Hanover Junior Women

Twenty new members were welcomed into Hanover Park Junior Woman's Club at the October general meeting. A candlelight ceremony served to acquaint them with the aims and purposes of the club.

The newcomers include Mrs. Robert Cichorz, Mrs. Robert Fitte, Mrs. Robert Gaimari, Mrs. William Getty, Mrs. John Hembling, Mrs. Michael Honold, Mrs. Anthony Kalemba, Mrs. James Kamradt, Mrs. Carl Kokes, Mrs. Saul Mariasis, Mrs. David McNamara, Mrs. Walter Namtzu, Mrs. Robert Nichols, Mrs. Andrew Olsen, Mrs. Ronald Parker, Mrs. Joe Soling, Mrs. Mary Jane Supek, Mrs. John Talashek, Mrs. Robert Vernier and Mrs. Clifton Weimer.

DURING THE business session, the new budget was presented and approved by the membership. Club members and their husbands were invited to attend the Nov. 19 dinner dance slated by Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club.

It was also disclosed that the map booklet of Hanover Park which the club is compiling will be ready for distribution by Dec. 1. The maps will be handed out door-to-door. (S

BELLEVILLE, ILL. where the groom is stationed at Scott Air Force Base, is the first home for Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Zeek, September newlyweds. The bride is the former Barbara A. Lamont, daughter of the Fred H. Lamonts of East St. Louis, and the groom is the son of the Cletis C. Zeeks of Rolling Meadows. Mr. Zeek is a graduate of Jonas Salk and the class of '62 at Prospect High School. The nuptials were held in St. Philip Catholic Church in East St. Louis.

James E. Mott Takes Bride In Lexington Church Rite

The William Tudor Mott family of 1450 Blackhawk Drive, Mount Prospect, was in Lexington, Ky., the weekend of Oct. 1 for the wedding of James Edward Mott and Mary Elizabeth Shelton. The bride's family, the James Clyde Sheltons, are residents of Carrollton, Ky.

Christ the King Catholic Church was the setting for a 3 o'clock ceremony, and later 125 guests greeted the couple at a reception at Lexington's Imperial House.

THE BRIDE attended St. Joseph Infirmary School of Nursing in Louisville and is now attending the University of Kentucky while working as a nurse at the university medical center.

The groom, who grew up in Mount Prospect and is a graduate of Arlington High School, attended Park College, Parkville, Mo., and Southern Illinois University.

He is now working for Aetna Insurance Co. as a special agent in the Lexington branch.

HIS BROTHER Thomas was best man for the double ring rites, and his other brother Robert was a groomsman, along with a brother of the bride, James Shelton, and John Edward Foy of Lexington.

The bride chose her sister Beatrice Sue Shelton as maid of honor, while Patricia Lee Collins of Lexington, Sharon Faye Shepherd of Carrollton and Donna Sharon Alt of Nashville were bridesmaids.

A niece of the bride, Deborah Dawn Shelton, was junior bridesmaid, and two other nieces, Sheree Lynette and Donna Jo Shelton, both 5, served as flower girls.

All of the bridal attendants were gowned alike as they came down the aisle to take their places at the altar. They wore floor-length emerald green velvet and crepe dresses, the bodice of velvet and skirt of crepe with a flowing panel at the back, attached to the waist with a fabric rose. Their headpieces were also of fabric roses with circular veiling.

Each of the adult attendants carried a bouquet of yellow pompons. The flower girls dropped yellow rose petals as they came down the aisle.

AS THE BRIDE entered the sanctuary, she wore an ivory silk faille gown, floor-length with bell-shaped skirt, bishop sleeves and a scooped neckline. Alencon lace edged the neckline and sleeves, and also accented the full chapel train which flowed from the back waistline of the gown.

For "something old" the bride carried a lace and linen handkerchief which had been carried by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. James Fisher of New Carlisle, Ind., at her high school graduation.

The bride completed her attire with a chapel-length veil attached to a small headpiece of lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

SEATING the wedding guests were college friends who grew up with the groom in Mount Prospect. They included Donald Field of Des Plaines, Ray Horcher of Mundelein and Richard Koopman of Arlington Heights.

Witnessing her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shelton wore an orchid wool crepe dress with matching accessories and had a stephanotis corsage. Mrs. Mott chose a light blue wool knit with a silver paisley design, brown accessories and a corsage of white phalaenopsis.

After the nuptial festivities, the newlyweds flew to Nassau for a 10-day honeymoon. They are making their home at 1685 Alexandria Drive, Apartment 12A, in Lexington. (S

THEIR HAPPY EXPRESSIONS leave no doubt that their mother's homemade rye bread is a great favorite of Scott and Lynn Simonson of Hoffman Estates. Mrs. Arthur W. Simonson makes this bread by an old Swedish method that her family has been using for years. It is a sweet-flavored, fine-textured rye that tastes especially good during the chilly winter months.

Saffron Recipe Another Favorite

Bread Baker's Specialty Is Swedish Rye

by LOIS SEILER

The wonderful aroma of home-baked bread often wafts from the kitchen of Mrs. Arthur W. Simonson during the winter months. Although she occasionally makes white bread, Mrs. Simonson's specialty is rye.

"This recipe has never been written down before," Mrs. Simonson said. "I was reared on a farm and learned how to make it from my father's mother, who was Swedish."

Being a Swedish rye, this bread contains sugar and dark molasses and is sweeter than most rye breads. Three cups of rye flour are used, along with six cups of white.

"My mother always advised that the dough be kneaded as throughly as possible before the first rising, and then handled as little as possible thereafter," Mrs. Simonson said, "to insure a fine texture."

THUS, IF HANDLED properly, this bread will have a fine, light texture which, coupled with the sweet rye flavor, makes an especially delicious rye bread. Mrs. Simonson's recipe yields four loaves.

Another favorite s an usual Saffron Bread recipe that June Simonson acquired from her aunt. It is a tradition to serve this break in her family during the Christmas season.

Flavored with saffron, this bread is sweeter and lighter than regular bread.

"It is eaten more like a cof- "and candied fruit or raisins may be added to the dough if desired."

The dough can be formed into buns or loaves. Both are brushed with butter and sprinkled with sugar after they are baked.

THE BREAD CAN be sliced, spread with butter and served for breakfast, or included in an assortment of Christmas goodies for a holiday open house.

In addition to her baking endeavors, Mrs. Simonson is active in church work as well as PTA. She is president of the Women of the Church at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church and sings in the choir, and she is newsletter chairman for the PTA at Hillcrest School.

The Simonson family lives at 373 Carleton in Hoffman Estates. They have four children: Laurie, 15, a sophomore at Conant High School; Lynn, 9, a fourth grader at Hillcrest School; Scott, 7, a second grader, and Steven, two months old.

SWEDISH RYE BREAD

3 cups milk
½ cup vegetable shortening
1 heaping tablespoon salt
1/3 cup sugar
½ cup dark molasses
1½ cakes yeast
¼ cup warm water
3 cups medium rye flour, sifted
Approximately 6 cups sifted white flour

Heat the milk to the boiling point. Remove from heat. Into the hot milk add the shortening, salt, sugar and molasses. Stir and let ingredients dissolve. When cooled to room temperature, add the yeast which has been dissolved in the warm water. Stir in the rye flour and then the white flour, adding enough to make a stiff dough. Knead on floured board until smooth and elastic. The more it is kneaded, the finer the texture.

Place dough in a greased bowl, cover with a cloth and let rise in a warm place about two hours or until double in bulk.

Knead down gently and form dough into four medium-size loaves, handling as little as possible. Place in greased bread pans, cover, and let rise 45 minutes or until double in bulk.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for approximately one hour. Brush tops of baked loaves with butter and remove from tins to cool. Yield: 4 loaves.

SAFFRON BREAD

½ cup boiling water
1 small packet saffron
½ cup milk
½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 small cake yeast
¼ cup warm water
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 to 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup candied fruit or soaked and drained raisins

Pour the boiling water over the saffron and let steep while making dough.

Heat the milk to boiling point. Remove from heat. Into the hot milk dissolve the butter, sugar and salt. Let cool to room temperature.

To the cooled milk add the yeast which has been dissolved in the warm water and the beaten eggs.

Drain off the ½ cup of saffron liquid and add it, with a little bit of the saffron, to the above ingredients. Add enough flour to make a soft dough which is neither sticky nor stiff. If desired, raisins or candied fruit may be added to the dough.

Knead dough for about 10 minutes or until smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 1½ to 2 hours.

To make bread, form the dough into two loaves and place in greased bread pans.

To make buns, break off pieces of dough and roll into round buns with your hands. Place on greased jelly roll pans or cake pans. Let rise until double in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Bake loaves for 45 minutes to one hour at 350 degrees until golden. Bake buns at 375 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes. Brush loaves and buns with butter and sprinkle with granulated sugar.

Week's Best Buys

Food retailers elect to further feature discounts for more pork items. Top brand bacon is common in the 69 to 89-cents a pound range with second lines at the general price level of 59 to 69 cents a pound. Hams are firmer in cost, and center cut pork chops, low at 69 cents a pound, range widely by stores, selling generally at 98 to $1.05.

Beef prices are lower only on promotion. The general price level is steady as costs mostly firm. Blade cut chuck again ranges from 39 to 59 cents a pound. Steaks are in a cold weather price drop. Lamb is erratic in quality and balks at wide promotion.

FRYERS MOVE up in cost, but carryover deals again set the feature low in the 23 to 25 cents a pound bracket. Fresh fruit is at the feature front as citrus arrivals increase sharply from Florida. The apple market sags.

Meats: pork loin roasts, center cut chops, pork steaks, bacon; beef chuck and rump roasts, beef steaks, rib roasts, stew beef, lamb shoulder roasts.

Poultry: whole fryers.

Produce: beets, cabbage, carrots, potatoes, celery, tomatoes; apples, bananas, grapes, grapefruit. (SH

Casseroles Are So Easy To Prepare

Casserole foods are wonderful foods to prepare as they do not need watching. There is more time to enjoy your guests, organize the rest of the meal, or to just relax before dinner.

Because casseroles are brought to the table in the dishes they have been cooked in, the casserole should be attractive and lend a decorative touch to the table. Decorated gourmet cookware, made by United States Stamping Co., is available in several attractive patterns.

Fiesta-patterned utensils have a sprightly contemporary design that will fit in with almost any color scheme. Blue Meissen cookware has the traditional blue onion motif. A new design, Herb, has lovely designs of herbs and spices. This pattern will blend with almost any decor.

CASSEROLE DISHES can be simply a combination of "cans" or packaged mixes. For example, cans of chili topped with packaged corn bread is delicious.

Instant mashed potatoes is a quick topping for meat pies. Cut pastry makes delicious "patterns" on top of casseroles.

Buttered bread crumbs and crushed chow mein noodles lend crunchy toppings.

Here is a delightful casserole that combines left-over chicken in a creamy sauce.

CASSEROLE CHICKEN

2 cups cooked chicken, diced
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 small can peas, drained
¼ cup diced pimento
½ cup sliced almonds

Combine chicken with all the ingredients, except almonds. Place in buttered casserole. Top with almonds and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until bubbly throughout. Serve on top of rice, baking powder biscuits or toast. Serves 4. (SH

THEIR HAPPY EXPRESSIONS leave no doubt that their mother's homemade rye bread is a great favorite of Scott and Lynn Simonson of Hoffman Estates. Mrs. Arthur W. Simonson makes this bread by an old Swedish method that her family has been using for years. It is a sweet-flavored, fine-textured rye that tastes especially good during the chilly winter months.

Saffron Recipe Another Favorite

Bread Baker's Specialty Is Swedish Rye

by LOIS SEILER

The wonderful aroma of home-baked bread often wafts from the kitchen of Mrs. Arthur W. Simonson during the winter months. Although she occasionally makes white bread, Mrs. Simonson's specialty is rye.

"This recipe has never been written down before," Mrs. Simonson said. "I was reared on a farm and learned how to make it from my father's mother, who was Swedish."

Being a Swedish rye, this bread contains sugar and dark molasses and is sweeter than most rye breads. Three cups of rye flour are used, along with six cups of white.

"My mother always advised that the dough be kneaded as throughly as possible before the first rising, and then handled as little as possible thereafter," Mrs. Simonson said, "to insure a fine texture."

THUS, IF HANDLED properly, this bread will have a fine, light texture which, coupled with the sweet rye flavor, makes an especially delicious rye bread. Mrs. Simonson's recipe yields four loaves.

Another favorite s an usual Saffron Bread recipe that June Simonson acquired from her aunt. It is a tradition to serve this break in her family during the Christmas season.

Flavored with saffron, this bread is sweeter and lighter than regular bread.

"It is eaten more like a cof- "and candied fruit or raisins may be added to the dough if desired."

The dough can be formed into buns or loaves. Both are brushed with butter and sprinkled with sugar after they are baked.

THE BREAD CAN be sliced, spread with butter and served for breakfast, or included in an assortment of Christmas goodies for a holiday open house.

In addition to her baking endeavors, Mrs. Simonson is active in church work as well as PTA. She is president of the Women of the Church at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church and sings in the choir, and she is newsletter chairman for the PTA at Hillcrest School.

The Simonson family lives at 373 Carleton in Hoffman Estates. They have four children: Laurie, 15, a sophomore at Conant High School; Lynn, 9, a fourth grader at Hillcrest School; Scott, 7, a second grader, and Steven, two months old.

SWEDISH RYE BREAD

3 cups milk
½ cup vegetable shortening
1 heaping tablespoon salt
1/3 cup sugar
½ cup dark molasses
1½ cakes yeast
¼ cup warm water
3 cups medium rye flour, sifted
Approximately 6 cups sifted white flour

Heat the milk to the boiling point. Remove from heat. Into the hot milk add the shortening, salt, sugar and molasses. Stir and let ingredients dissolve. When cooled to room temperature, add the yeast which has been dissolved in the warm water. Stir in the rye flour and then the white flour, adding enough to make a stiff dough. Knead on floured board until smooth and elastic. The more it is kneaded, the finer the texture.

Place dough in a greased bowl, cover with a cloth and let rise in a warm place about two hours or until double in bulk.

Knead down gently and form dough into four medium-size loaves, handling as little as possible. Place in greased bread pans, cover, and let rise 45 minutes or until double in bulk.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for approximately one hour. Brush tops of baked loaves with butter and remove from tins to cool. Yield: 4 loaves.

SAFFRON BREAD

½ cup boiling water
1 small packet saffron
½ cup milk
½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 small cake yeast
¼ cup warm water
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 to 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup candied fruit or soaked and drained raisins

Pour the boiling water over the saffron and let steep while making dough.

Heat the milk to boiling point. Remove from heat. Into the hot milk dissolve the butter, sugar and salt. Let cool to room temperature.

To the cooled milk add the yeast which has been dissolved in the warm water and the beaten eggs.

Drain off the ½ cup of saffron liquid and add it, with a little bit of the saffron, to the above ingredients. Add enough flour to make a soft dough which is neither sticky nor stiff. If desired, raisins or candied fruit may be added to the dough.

Knead dough for about 10 minutes or until smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 1½ to 2 hours.

To make bread, form the dough into two loaves and place in greased bread pans.

To make buns, break off pieces of dough and roll into round buns with your hands. Place on greased jelly roll pans or cake pans. Let rise until double in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Bake loaves for 45 minutes to one hour at 350 degrees until golden. Bake buns at 375 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes. Brush loaves and buns with butter and sprinkle with granulated sugar.

Lunch Refresher

Freeze a can of pineapple juice. Try the 6-ounce can and tuck it in a lunch box to thaw gradually. Open at lunch time for an icy cold serving of nutritious and refreshing golden pineapple juice. Send along a couple of sipping straws if the lunch is going to school.

Week's Best Buys

Food retailers elect to further feature discounts for more pork items. Top brand bacon is common in the 69 to 89-cents a pound range with second lines at the general price level of 59 to 69 cents a pound. Hams are firmer in cost, and center cut pork chops, low at 69 cents a pound, range widely by stores, selling generally at 98 to $1.05.

Beef prices are lower only on promotion. The general price level is steady as costs mostly firm. Blade cut chuck again ranges from 39 to 59 cents a pound. Steaks are in a cold weather price drop. Lamb is erratic in quality and balks at wide promotion.

FRYERS MOVE up in cost, but carryover deals again set the feature low in the 23 to 25 cents a pound bracket. Fresh fruit is at the feature front as citrus arrivals increase sharply from Florida. The apple market sags.

Meats: pork loin roasts, center cut chops, pork steaks, bacon; beef chuck and rump roasts, beef steaks, rib roasts, stew beef, lamb shoulder roasts.

Poultry: whole fryers.

Produce: beets, cabbage, carrots, potatoes, celery, tomatoes; apples, bananas, grapes, grapefruit. (SH

Casseroles Are So Easy To Prepare

Casserole foods are wonderful foods to prepare as they do not need watching. There is more time to enjoy your guests, organize the rest of the meal, or to just relax before dinner.

Because casseroles are brought to the table in the dishes they have been cooked in, the casserole should be attractive and lend a decorative touch to the table. Decorated gourmet cookware, made by United States Stamping Co., is available in several attractive patterns.

Fiesta-patterned utensils have a sprightly contemporary design that will fit in with almost any color scheme. Blue Meissen cookware has the traditional blue onion motif. A new design, Herb, has lovely designs of herbs and spices. This pattern will blend with almost any decor.

CASSEROLE DISHES can be simply a combination of "cans" or packaged mixes. For example, cans of chili topped with packaged corn bread is delicious.

Instant mashed potatoes is a quick topping for meat pies. Cut pastry makes delicious "patterns" on top of casseroles. Buttered bread crumbs and crushed chow mein noodles lend crunchy toppings.

Here is a delightful casserole that combines left-over chicken in a creamy sauce.

CASSEROLE CHICKEN

2 cups cooked chicken, diced
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 small can peas, drained
¼ cup diced pimento
½ cup sliced almonds

Combine chicken with all the ingredients, except almonds. Place in buttered casserole. Top with almonds and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until bubbly throughout. Serve on top of rice, baking powder biscuits or toast. Serves 4. (SH

Area Juniors Open Trunk Of Fashion

It was an afternoon made up of colorful fall mums, an exciting fashion review by Sears and a gift boutique which aided guests with their Christmas shopping. The afternoon was Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club luncheon-show, "Trunkful of Fashion" held Saturday at the Henrici's O'Hare Inn.

More than $725 profit was realized from the function. This money will be put into the club's scholarship fund for local students and teachers of exceptional children.

Chairman of the benefit was Mrs. Joel Axelrad, the ways and means chairman of the club. On her committee were Mrs. R. Lerch, Mrs. R. Paolella and Mrs. B. Morris. On the ticket committee were Mrs. W. Borg, Mrs. N. Gorny and Mrs. E. Segin. (S

Schaumburg Jrs. 'Arabian Night' Party Planned

"An Arabian Night" is the theme for the annual dinner dance which Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club will hold Saturday, Nov. 19, at St. Andrews Country Club on Route 59 near West Chicago.

A prime rib dinner will be served at 8 p.m. followed by dancing to the music of the George Grundy orchestra. The game room will be open to guests from 10 o'clock to midnight.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Howard Ellam, 894-9017, or Mrs. James Falk, 894-5774.

Costly Appraisal

In order to purchase the same amount of goods that you were able to buy for $5,000 in 1939 you would need to spend $13,234 annually.

Margot Busse, Ronald Graves Wed In Fall Floral Setting

Flowers of the fall season formed an appropriate setting for the Oct. 15 wedding which united Margot Anne Busse, daughter of the William J. Busses of Mount Prospect, and Ronald Lee Graves, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Graves, are former Arlington Heights residents now living in Wood Dale.

The altar of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect was decorated with mums and pompons with greens, along with tiered candelabra and palms, for the 6:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. The bride came down the aisle between pew candelabras on tall holders, accented with white shasta pompons and springerie cascading from a crystal vigil light at the top.

Rev. E. A. Zeile united the couple in marriage.

FOR HER wedding day, the bride chose an ivory satin gown styled in a draped dome silhouette. The dress was made by Miss Amelia Goebbert, a longtime friend of the Busse family, who also made the dresses worn by all of the bride's attendants.

Her gown featured sprays of Alencon lace studded with sequins and seed pearls on the fitted bodice, edging the long sleeves and repeated at the hemline of the full-length skirt and flowing chapel train. Her veil was fingertip in length and held by a tiara crown of sequins and seed pearls.

FOR "SOMETHING old" the bride wore her maternal grandmother's gold wedding band on a gold chain at her neckline.

She carried a long garland bouquet of stephanotis and phalaenopsis.

The bride's attendants carried fall flowers with accents of wheat and grapes as they came down the aisle, all gowned alike in emerald green chiffon velvet. Their floor-length dresses were empire-styled, and their garland bouquets were composed of bronze fuji mums and pompons with the touches of wheat and grapes.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Patricia Busse, who is a student at Valparaiso University in Indiana, was her maid of honor. Three bridesmaids included Mrs. Jerls Milligan of Arlington Heights, sister of the groom; Mrs. William Thoman of Arlington Heights, a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Kenneth Lauderback of Geneva, a friend of the bride.

A junior bridesmaid, Terri-Kay Adams of Gary, Ind., was dressed identically to the other attendants. She is also a cousin of the bride.

JUST BEFORE the bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her father, she was preceded by two pages bearing white pillows with the rings. One was Jerald Milligan, 6, nephew of the groom, and the other, Brian Phillips, 6, of Mount Prospect, a friend of the bride.

Jerald Milligan Sr. was best man for his brother-in-law, and four ushers seated the guests and acted as escorts for the bridal attendants. They were the bride's brother, William J. Busse Jr.; Harlan Brockman of Las Vegas, a cousin of the groom; John Clarke of Prospect Heights and John Hinkey of Ottawa, Ill.

For the church ceremony, Miss Judith Seegers, who grew up with the bride, was soloist, accompanied by Elmer Jackisch at the organ.

WITNESSING her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Busse was attired in a yellow nylon and rayon quilted evening coat dress and, instead of a corsage, wore a small hat fashioned of cymbidium and ivy. The groom's mother wore a light green brocade and ecru chiffon evening coat dress and had a cymbidium corsage.

A reception for 250 guests followed at Rolling Green Country Club, where a champagne toast preceded dinner.

THE NEWLYWEDS are living at 105 S. Maine St., Mount Prospect, after a 2-week honeymoon tour of the south and east, which included a visit to Canada.

Both attended Prospect High School. The bride then studied at Northern Illinois University and is working in Lincolnwood for Rand McNally & Co. Mrs. Ed Mauel Honored At Hospital Ceremony

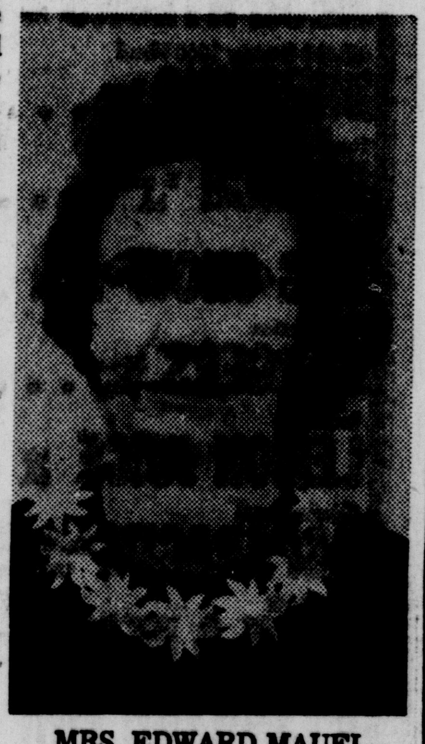
Mrs. Edward Mauel, 2301 Westwood Lane, Plum Grove Estates, Palatine, was honored at ceremonies at Elgin State Hospital Nov. 6, for "Extraordinary services to the hospital and to the patients." Mrs. Mauel has contributed more than 1,300 hours of service.

Four Palatine church groups: St. Theresa Catholic Church Guild, Christ Lutheran Church Brotherhood, Bethel Lutheran Church Brotherhood and Christ Lutheran Church were also cited for "dedicated services and friendship to patients" in the past year.

TWO. PALATINE. residents were similarly honored. They are Mrs. Harry Tharp and her daughter, Miss Susan Spengler, both of 5 Benton St., who were given special awards for "outstanding meritorious service to the hospital and its patients."



MRS. EDWARD MAUEL

Lauding the work of volunteers, Dr. Ernest S. Klein, hospital superintendent said, "They render an invaluable service. They bring to the patients the warmth and friendship of the community, and take back to the community awareness and new hope for the mentally ill."

Hello Hostess

by MARY KAY ROBBINS

Once upon a time, every good little boy or girl had his or her own napkin ring, designed primarily to save on laundry. But then came "the disposables," and napkin rings, like button hooks, were out.

Today, however, napkin rings are in: to add color and drama to your every party table—and to serve as charming take-home favors for your every party guest.

RING-AROUND-the-posy rings are easy to make from chenille pipe cleaners in the colors of your choice. Just twist the ends around a sprig of flowers—or into a butterfly or other fanciful shape.

For instant rings, use wood or metal curtain rings. Add flowers or party miniatures to the clip-on variety.

Roll your own rings from cellophane tape, sticky side out. Then add strips of colored paper. Or twist circles of nylon net onto florists' wire and catch each napkin with a gossamer bouquet.

Or slice your own rings from a paper towel roll, or other cardboard tube. Cover each ring with plastic, gift wrap, raffia, paint, fabric — whatever suits your table scheme. Use fleur-de-lis wallpaper for an elegant French dinner. For Christmas, glue on red felt and trim with tiny shocking pink stockings. For your Thanksgiving table, just paint the rings, then paste on turkey stickers.

MOOD-CUED RINGS add much to your party. Sew circles from tape measure sections for a weight-watchers' luncheon. For a sewing bee or fashion show, tie your napkins with a pretty bow of rick-rack or bias tape. Or slip them through inexpensive teething rings (or rattle handles) for a stork shower.

Incidentally, the most memorable napkin rings we ever saw were dreamed up by an imaginative hostess for a post-"Carmen" party. Unfortunately, we can't think of any other operative heroines who happened to work in tobacco factories. And few of us entertain after "Carmen." But if you ever do, slip your wispiest napkins through the shiny paper bands that come on men's cigars. A bit bizarre—but very Bizet. And sure to get you talked about for weeks!

PARTY LINE: "How can I get adults to enter into a game . . . so often they just sit!" writes a frantic hostess.

Some adults seem happiest when left to sit and talk. But you can sense when party guests are thinking; "Why don't we do something?" And doers often enjoy that ancient game of Charades.

If guests seem embarrassed by "acting" before others, switch the game to Sketch-A-Charade. Divide group into two teams. Whisper a title, slogan or word to one representative of each team. Players rush back to their teams, and with pencil and paper (or chalkboard) try to illustrate the given idea to their team. No fair to write words or letters . . . and teams may not peek at the other's art! The team first to guess the charade wins a point. Tally the points after each player has had a turn at sketching.

R.S.V.P.: Won't you write us about games that really go in your adult groups? Even a post card is welcome. Write "Hello, Hostess," c/o this newspaper.

Area Juniors Open Trunk Of Fashion

It was an afternoon made up of colorful fall mums, an exciting fashion review by Sears and a gift boutique which aided guests with their Christmas shopping. The afternoon was Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club luncheon-show, "Trunkful of Fashion" held Saturday at the Henrici's O'Hare Inn.

More than $725 profit was realized from the function. This money will be put into the club's scholarship fund for local students and teachers of exceptional children.

Chairman of the benefit was Mrs. Joel Axelrad, the ways and means chairman of the club. On her committee were Mrs. R. Lerch, Mrs. R. Paolella and Mrs. B. Morris. On the ticket committee were Mrs. W. Borg, Mrs. N. Gorny and Mrs. E. Segin. (S

Schaumburg Jrs. 'Arabian Night' Party Planned

"An Arabian Night" is the theme for the annual dinner dance which Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club will hold Saturday, Nov. 19, at St. Andrews Country Club on Route 59 near West Chicago.

A prime rib dinner will be served at 8 p.m. followed by dancing to the music of the George Grundy orchestra. The game room will be open to guests from 10 o'clock to midnight.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Howard Ellam, 894-9017, or Mrs. James Falk, 894-5774.

Costly Appraisal

In order to purchase the same amount of goods that you were able to buy for $5,000 in 1939 you would need to spend $13,234 annually.

Margot Busse, Ronald Graves Wed In Fall Floral Setting

Flowers of the fall season formed an appropriate setting for the Oct. 15 wedding which united Margot Anne Busse, daughter of the William J. Busses of Mount Prospect, and Ronald Lee Graves, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Graves, are former Arlington Heights residents now living in Wood Dale.

The altar of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect was decorated with mums and pompons with greens, along with tiered candelabra and palms, for the 6:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. The bride came down the aisle between pew candelabras on tall holders, accented with white shasta pompons and springerie cascading from a crystal vigil light at the top.

Rev. E. A. Zeile united the couple in marriage.

FOR HER wedding day, the bride chose an ivory satin gown styled in a draped dome silhouette. The dress was made by Miss Amelia Goebbert, a longtime friend of the Busse family, who also made the dresses worn by all of the bride's attendants.

Her gown featured sprays of Alencon lace studded with sequins and seed pearls on the fitted bodice, edging the long sleeves and repeated at the hemline of the full-length skirt and flowing chapel train. Her veil was fingertip in length and held by a tiara crown of sequins and seed pearls.

FOR "SOMETHING old" the bride wore her maternal grandmother's gold wedding band on a gold chain at her neckline.

She carried a long garland bouquet of stephanotis and phalaenopsis.

The bride's attendants carried fall flowers with accents of wheat and grapes as they came down the aisle, all gowned alike in emerald green chiffon velvet. Their floor-length dresses were empire-styled, and their garland bouquets were composed of bronze fuji mums and pompons with the touches of wheat and grapes.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Patricia Busse, who is a student at Valparaiso University in Indiana, was her maid of honor. Three bridesmaids included Mrs. Jerls Milligan of Arlington Heights, sister of the groom; Mrs. William Thoman of Arlington Heights, a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Kenneth Lauderback of Geneva, a friend of the bride.

A junior bridesmaid, Terri-Kay Adams of Gary, Ind., was dressed identically to the other attendants. She is also a cousin of the bride.

JUST BEFORE the bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her father, she was preceded by two pages bearing white pillows with the rings. One was Jerald Milligan, 6, nephew of the groom, and the other, Brian Phillips, 6, of Mount Prospect, a friend of the bride.

Jerald Milligan Sr. was best man for his brother-in-law, and four ushers seated the guests and acted as escorts for the bridal attendants. They were the bride's brother, William J. Busse Jr.; Harlan Brockman of Las Vegas, a cousin of the groom; John Clarke of Prospect Heights and John Hinkey of Ottawa, Ill.

For the church ceremony, Miss Judith Seegers, who grew up with the bride, was soloist, accompanied by Elmer Jackisch at the organ.

WITNESSING her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Busse was attired in a yellow nylon and rayon quilted evening coat dress and, instead of a corsage, wore a small hat fashioned of cymbidium and ivy. The groom's mother wore a light green brocade and ecru chiffon evening coat dress and had a cymbidium corsage.

A reception for 250 guests followed at Rolling Green Country Club, where a champagne toast preceded dinner.

THE NEWLYWEDS are living at 105 S. Maine St., Mount Prospect, after a 2-week honeymoon tour of the south and east, which included a visit to Canada.

Post and Paddock Brunch Benefits Hospital

SCRUMPTIOUS BRUNCH, buffet style was the bill of fare Sunday at the Post and Paddock Club. Sponsored by Holy Family Hospital Auxiliary, it was the group's first annual benefit brunch. Fresh fruit bowl caught the eye of Mr. and Mrs. John Kuranz, former Prospect Heights residents now residing in Barrington. Other menu items included chicken livers, sausages, ham, bacon, eggs, sweet rolls and a variety of fruit juices. More than 1,000 Auxiliary members and their guests dined on the elegant cuisine.

AUXILIARY PRESIDENT Mrs. Robert Buckley and Mr. Buckley, Arlington Heights residents, were enthusiastic over the crowd and the combo entertainment Sunday at the Post and Paddock Club at Arlington Park. An active group, the Auxiliary is also holding a bazaar in November and a presentation ball in December.

CANDY STRIPERS Jane Ernst of Arlington Heights and Gerry Clark of Mount Prospect were pretty additions at the Holy Family Hospital Auxiliary Brunch held Sunday at the Post and Paddock Club. Red roses in their hair matched the red roses on their foil-wrapped ticket buckets. The girls have a patron in Mrs. Robert L. Nelson of Arlington Heights who wrote a check to benefit the hospital. Proceeds will be used toward an air conditioning system for the hospital.

Seeks Names of Servicemen For 'Operation Hometown'

Members of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club are seeking the names and addresses of local men and women serving in Viet Nam for their new "Operation Hometown."

Gift boxes are being prepared by the women and will be ready for mailing later this month according to Mrs. John Sonderegger, chairman of the project. Local residents are asked to contact Mrs. Sonderegger at CL 9-2787 if they wish to have their servicemen included in the mailing.

At their November meeting the Junior Woman's Club entertained 30 visitors at a reciprocity Night. Invitations were extended to state and district officers and chairmen of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs and to club presidents from the seventh District. Among the honored guests were Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Gordon C. Beckley, state junior director.

The program for the evening was a review of "The Detectives" by Rev. Herbert Deunow from Half Day. (S

Parade of Festive Foods For Wayside Clubwomen

Festive foods will go on parade for Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Woman's Club following the monthly meeting in Pioneer Park auditorium, Arlington Heights, on Thursday, Nov. 17. A short business meeting at 8 p.m. will include a demonstration by the spiritual development committee, under chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Reardon, on making and using an Advent wreath.

At 8:30, two Northern Illinois Gas Co. homemaking experts, Karen Stedronsky and Evelyn Butterworth, will show new gourmet treats for this year's holiday entertaining. They will prepare colorful and tasty go-togethers for Christmas buffets and many holiday recipes for large family dinner gatherings.

ALONG WITH their food ideas, they will show how to make Christmas ornaments for table arrangements or for the yule tree.

All the foods prepared during the program will be given away, along with recipe folders.

The ways and means committee will be tea hostesses for the evening. Guests are invited. (S

Two Events on Calendar For Buffalo Grove Women

Two events are planned within the week for members of Buffalo Grove Women's Club, a square dance on Saturday evening and a general meeting Wednesday, Nov. 16.

Saturday's dance party takes place in St. Mary's Hall and is a benefit for the club's philanthropic fund.

THE GENERAL meeting Wednesday evening at 8 is slated for Louisa May Alcott School's all-purpose room. Highlight of the program will be an hors d'oeuvre sampling by members. Each is asked to bring two hors d'oeuvres and the recipe for them. After the business session, members will taste the variety of samples and exchange recipes.

At this meeting there will also be a collection made of educational toys which members will donate to Countryside Center for the Retarded.

The club's most recent project was at Halloween, when members wore masks and took bean bags and games to the pediatric ward at Lutheran General Hospital. (S

Parade of Festive Foods For Wayside Clubwomen

Festive foods will go on parade for Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Woman's Club following the monthly meeting in Pioneer Park auditorium, Arlington Heights, on Thursday, Nov. 17. A short business meeting at 8 p.m. will include a demonstration by the spiritual development committee, under chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Reardon, on making and using an Advent wreath.

At 8:30, two Northern Illinois Gas Co. homemaking experts, Karen Stedronsky and Evelyn Butterworth, will show new gourmet treats for this year's holiday entertaining. They will prepare colorful and tasty go-togethers for Christmas buffets and many holiday recipes for large family dinner gatherings.

ALONG WITH their food ideas, they will show how to make Christmas ornaments for table arrangements or for the yule tree.

All the foods prepared during the program will be given away, along with recipe folders.

The ways and means committee will be tea hostesses for the evening. Guests are invited. (S

Two Events on Calendar For Buffalo Grove Women

Two events are planned within the week for members of Buffalo Grove Women's Club, a square dance on Saturday evening and a general meeting Wednesday, Nov. 16.

Saturday's dance party takes place in St. Mary's Hall and is a benefit for the club's philanthropic fund.

THE GENERAL meeting Wednesday evening at 8 is slated for Louisa May Alcott School's all-purpose room. Highlight of the program will be an hors d'oeuvre sampling by members. Each is asked to bring two hors d'oeuvres and the recipe for them. After the business session, members will taste the variety of samples and exchange recipes.

At this meeting there will also be a collection made of educational toys which members will donate to Countryside Center for the Retarded.

The club's most recent project was at Halloween, when members wore masks and took bean bags and games to the pediatric ward at Lutheran General Hospital. (S

Study Finds Exercise Won't Eliminate Alcohol in Blood

Contrary to popular belief, exercise does not increase the rate of disappearance of alcohol from the blood, it is reported in a recent issue of Nutrition Reviews.

An experiment recently conducted at the department of physiology at the University of Edinburgh revealed that periods of exercise amounting to as much as an 8-mile walk did not increase the rate of elimination of alcohol in test subjects.

Popular belief has it that exercise helps wear off the effects of too much drink. The Edinburgh study finds that this is not true.

Nutrition Reviews is a monthly scientific journal which reports on developments in nutrition science. It is published by the Nutrition Foundation.

ALCOHOL HAS been part of the human diet since ancient times. By the time of the first historic records, alcoholic beverages were prized as foods, medicines and as magic fluids for use in ceremonies.

In the United States today, some 10 per cent of all first admissions to psychiatric wards or mental hospitals occur among people who abuse alcohol. These people—alcoholics—usually do not consume an adequate diet while they are drinking, and the liver damage which they suffer may be caused by deficiencies in the diet rather than by toxic effects of alcohol itself.

Alcoholics frequently suffer from the symptoms of vitamin deficiencies due to inadequate nutrition. In distilled drinks (whiskey, gin and vodka, for example) alcohol contributes only calories to the dietary intake. Beer and wine contain traces of vitamins and minerals. So an individual who drinks heavily may cheat himself of the nutrients contained in a balanced diet that are essential to health.

THE NEW Edinburgh study was conducted on nine male subjects between the ages of 20 and 21. The test subjects were given whiskey and water in quantities sufficient to produce some unsteadiness in walking. Measurements were made of the metabolism (the chemical changes in the body by which energy is produced) of the subjects. They were tested while resting in an easy chair and while on a treadmill for two hours—the equivalent of eight hours of walking. Measurements were made of the amount of alcohol in the blood.

The Edinburgh group reported that when the subjects exercised, they did not show any increase in the elimination of alcohol in comparison with the same subjects at rest.

This finding actually is in accordance with the long-held views of nutrition scientists, but it conflicts with the popular belief that exercise helps rid the body of alcohol. (S

Strickly for Children, Fashion Show is Nov. 11

There'll be no school on Friday, Nov. 11 (Veteran's Day) and to take advantage of this holiday, mothers are invited to bring their youngsters to the Goldblatt Store at Rand and Central Roads in Mount Prospect for an all-children's fashion show.

Prof Martin is chairman of the Art Department at Concordia Teachers College in River Forest, Ill. The meeting will be held in the church at 666 Elk Grove Boulevard. (S

Perception Is Topic For Next AAUW Meeting

"On Seeing and Hearing" will be the topic when Miss Carol Harding speaks next Thursday night Nov. 17 before the Northwest Suburban branch of the American Association of University Women.

Colored slides of various familiar area scenes will highlight Miss Harding's talk on perception. Miss Harding, painter, at Libertyville High School, sculptor and instructor of Art maintains that few truly observe the beauty in familiar sights.

A NATIVE OF Georgia, Miss Harding now lives in Mundelein. She received her B.F.A. from Atlanta Art Institute, her M.A. from Columbia University, and has studied at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece. Miss Harding has traveled widely both in this country and abroad.

At the present time Miss Harding is exhibiting sculpture at the Gilman Gallery in Chicago.

Setting for this presentation on perception will be provided by a showing of paintings by Mrs. L. B. Vlasak of Mount Prospect. Mrs. Vlasak, chairman of the Creative Art study group, will show works in oils, water colors and pastels.

The meeting will be held at 8:15 in the South Park Lodge, Howard and White Streets, Des Plaines. AAUW, an organization comprised of women graduates of recognized colleges and universities, welcomes new members. Further information may be obtained from the local membership representative Mrs G. W. Hrbek, 253-0226. (S

Astrologist to Entertain Elks Auxiliary Nov. 17

Her world of astrology and how it affects each member of the audience will be the program of Katharine de Jersey, astrologist, when she speaks Thursday, Nov. 17, at a dinner meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Arlington Heights Elks.

In addition to speaking engagements and radio and TV appearances from New York to San Francisco, Miss de Jersey also serves as the personal astrologist to dozens of prominent persons including Phyllis Diller, Forrest Tucker, Arthur Treacher and Monique Van Vooren. Burton Browne, originator and president of the Gaslight Clubs, has said of Miss de Jersey, "In the 15 years she's been advising me, I've never known Katharine to be wrong."

KATHARINE DE JERSEY

Schedule for the evening begins with cocktails at 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7 and the program at 8. Dinner reservations are due by Monday, Nov. 14, according to the program chairman, Mrs. Albert Lietz, FL 9-1245. The affair is being held in the Elks Lodge, Wilke Road, Arlington Heights.

Seamstress Needs Good Cutting Tools

This season, fashions are more fun than ever. It's even more fun when you can say, "I made it myself."

A dressmaker, like anyone else with a job to do, is often as good as her tools. Whether maker or basting your first seam, here are some hints for setting up your own special tool kit of scissors and shears.

THREE TO get ready — you need these for the basic cutting and sewing job:

1. Sewing scissors for work at the sewing machine and for ripping, darning and cutting light material.
2. Bent handle dressmakers' shears for cutting out.
3. Scalloping or pinking shears for finishing.

Later, the experienced sewer may want to add embroidering scissors, buttonhole scissors and light trimmers.

AFTER YOU have your basic tools — and always buy quality cutting implements — here are some hints from Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. for cutting down on the cutting up problems:

1. Before you start, press the pattern pieces with a warm iron.
2. Make sure the grain line of your fabric is absolutely straight before you start cutting.
3. Lay out and pin the entire pattern to the fabric before you start to cut.
4. Trim the seams of nonraveling fabrics with scalloping or pinking shears.

TAKE GOOD care of your precision tools. After you finish using your scissors and shears, wipe off the lint. From time to time lubricate your tools with sewing machine oil at the screw.

Remember to always use scissors for lighter jobs only and shears for the heavier jobs.

After you've cleaned your cutting tools, store them carefully. Use either a felt cutlery holder or hang them carefully on pegboard behind a door or above your sewing table.

Women Plan Nite Of Recollection

The Catholic Women's Club of St. Joseph the Worker Parish in Wheeling is planning a Night of Recollection for all members and their friends. This service will be held at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 17, in Nazareth Hall of the church.

Rev. Duggan of St. Andrew's Parish in Chicago and vocational director of the archdiocese, will be speaker for the evening.

A donation will be asked and no reservations are necessary.

Dinner Dance

Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows will be transformed into a "Candlelight Cafe" on Saturday, Nov. 19, when the Parents Council stages a dinner dance. Guy Fricano's orchestra and the Silvertones will furnish music for dancing.

Flower Show to Brighten Fall Scenery Over Weekend

ANNUAL FALL Flower Show is the number one interest these days of Mrs. Jack Slyvester who is in charge of scheduling, Mrs. Alfred Wedow, staging, and Mrs. Thomas Bouffard, co-chairman. The event is sponsored by Palanois Park Garden Club and will be held Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 12 and 13, in Salt Creek Field House, Palatine.

Palanois Park Garden Club has scheduled its annual flower show for this weekend, Nov. 12 and 13, at Salt Creek Field House, 530 S. William Drive, Palatine. In keeping with the season, the show has been entitled "November's Moods."

Registration for the horticulture and junior exhibits will be accepted until 10 a.m. on Saturday and judging will take place that morning. The show will open to the public at 2 p.m. and close at 9 on Saturday. Sunday hours will be 2 to 7 p.m.

Mrs. Harold Payne, who is in charge of the judges, announces that all horticulture entries must have been grown by the exhibitor. In addition to the tricolor ribbon for the best in show using fresh materials and the usual blue, red, yellow and white ribbons, other special ribbons awarded will be: orange for award of merit in horticulture, silver as a special award in miniatures, green a special award in non-competitive, and brown for best in show with dried materials predominating.

CO-CHAIRMEN of the show are Mrs. John Hayes and Mrs. Thomas Bouffard. In charge of scheduling is Mrs. Jack Silvester while Mrs. Alfred Wedow is in charge of staging. Handling the registrations will be Mrs. Roy Greenfield.

A Christmas mood booth will be under the supervision of Mrs. Carrol Ball. Mrs. Harry May is in charge of education and Mrs. Glenn Olson, the Fruit and Flower Guild. Supervising the juniors will be Mrs. Frank Rankin.

Hospitality is in the hands of Mrs. Leo Vodicka, while Mrs. Hubert Hamilton is handling classifications and Mrs. Harold Payne, the judges. Mrs. Eldon Naffziger is in charge of publicity. (S

Luncheon with Diamonds For Hospital Auxiliary

GRADUATE GEMOLOGIST Irving Robbin shows Mrs. Albert Boeck a tray of diamonds as she discusses program for Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary luncheon Nov. 29. Mr. Robbin, speaker for the luncheon, will speak on "Jewelry, Its Origin and Present Day Use" at the affair which is being held in the Carousel. Mrs. Boeck is program chairman of the Auxiliary.

"Diamonds are a girl's best friend," but it helps if the gals know their jewels. The program for the November meeting of the Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary on Tuesday, Nov. 29, will show the women how to recognize their "best friend."

"Jewelry, Its Origin and Present Day Use," is the title of a lecture to be presented by Irving Robbin of Persin and Robbin Jewelers of Arlington Heights. The luncheon and program will take place in the Citation Room at the Carousel Restaurant, Arlington Heights.

MR. ROBBIN is a graduate gemologist from the Gemological Institute of America, a 6½ year course offered by the University of California. "This course is a thorough study of all kinds of gems . . .grading, selecting, sorting. But my lecture this time is on the most popular of all stones . . . the diamond," said Mr. Robbin. There will be a 10-minute question and answer period following the lecture.

Cocktails will be served starting at 11 a.m. and the luncheon will begin at noon. Mrs. John Noerenberg, 220 S. Harvard, Arlington Heights, will accept reservations through Nov. 25. (S

Nine Area Clubs Participate

New Junior Projects; Brain Research and Scholarships

Two more projects, The Brain Research Foundation and Scholarships for Teachers of Exceptional Children, will be suported this year by all junior clubs in the Seventh District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Other projects of the Juniors are HOPE, CARE, Clearbrook School and Northwest Mental Health.

Area clubs comprising the Seventh District are Arlington Heights, Atise, Elk Grove Village, Hanover Park, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling Juniors Woman's Clubs.

The Brain Research Foundation's aim is to increase human happiness through prevention of brain damage or its alleviation through improved medical care and rehabilitation.

ITS PURPOSES are to promote research on the brain, to further education in order to increase the number of persons qualified to treat the brain and its ills, to foster public education about the brain and its illnesses and to create one or more Brain Research institutes.

Financial support from the Foundation is facilitating work at the University of Chicago, the University of Illinois and Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

"There are more than 200 kinds of conditions which affect the brain and nervous system and cause a staggering amount of unhappiness, helplessness, non-productivity, poverty and family and community disruption," stated Mrs. Daniel Wallner, district director.

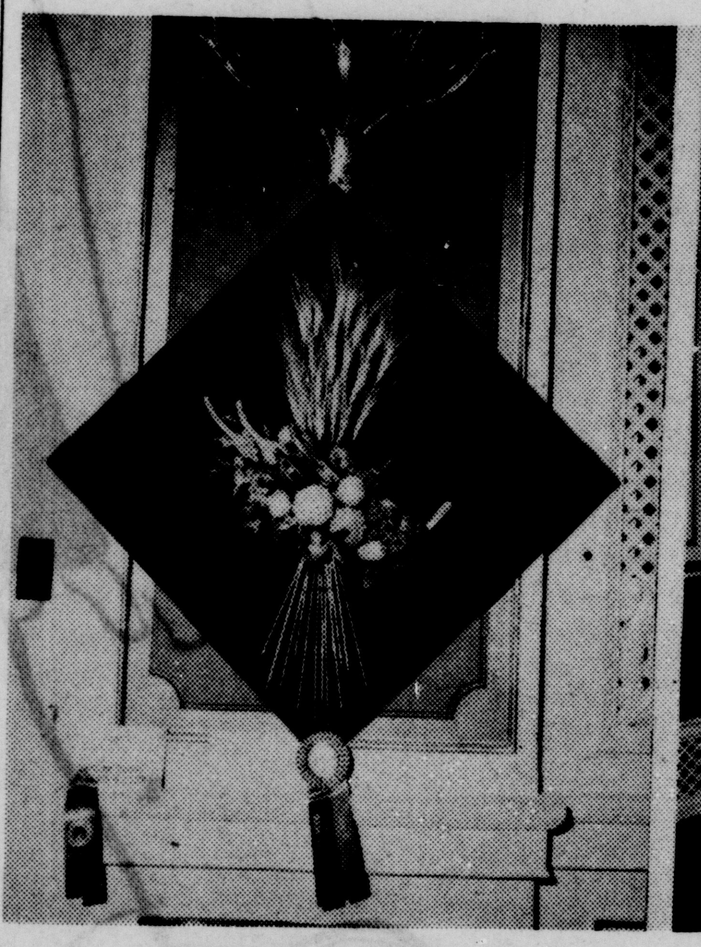
PURPOSE OF THE state-wide scholarship program is to provide financial assistance in the form of scholarships for students in special education, encourage entrants into this field and create public interest in the need for this special training.

"The number of students entering this field is small compared to the need. Many students are already using Junior scholarships, and money is now available to freshmen," reported Mrs. Wallner. She added that there are approximately 300,000 handicapped or exceptional children in Illinois who need specially trained teachers.

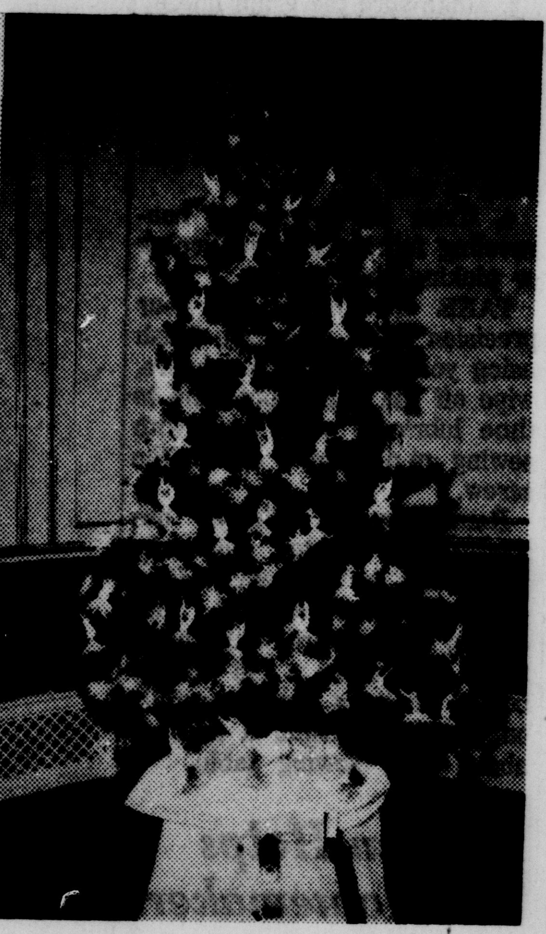
THE SCHOLARSHIP Program divides its money equally between three universities: Northern Illinois at DeKalb, Illinois State at Normal and Southern Illinois at Carbondale.

Each of the nine area junior clubs has its own activities to support these two new projects. Many clubs sell purse size fire extinguishers, candy, decorative soaps, and other items while proceeds from fashion shows, bridge tournaments, dances and other social activities are also earmarked for these projects.

Flower Show Winners



HARVEST SPLENDOR



SEE THE TREE

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Three area garden clubs, Bensenville, Arlington Heights and Plum Grove, won blue ribbons in the recent Holiday Splendor Show. Sponsored by the Garden Club of Illinois, the show was held in the Palmer House, Chicago.

In addition to blue ribbons, the Bensenville and Plum Grove Clubs also, won the awards for artistic excellence.

Bensenville's entry was in the "See the Christmas Tree" class and was designed by Mrs. Otto Gursch, Mrs. Robert Fronzak and Mrs. Jack Saracino. The tree had an all-over white design and was ornamented with many tiny hand-made angels made from acorns, milkweed pods and glitter. From the top to the bottom were many sizes of sparkling stars of white dipped Queen Anne's Lace flowers.

PLUM GROVE'S winning entry in "Harvest Splendor Bids You Welcome" was a door decoration of wheat and a grouping of yellow and green gourds and green grapes. Designers of this blue-ribbon entry were Mrs. R. H. Holteman, Mrs. Thomas Omerad and Mrs. C. T. Pease.

A New Year's table for four in black and white won the first place ribbon for Arlington Heights Garden Club. The original table, designed around a limited budget, was by Mrs. Charles Morse and Mrs. Edward May. Although the design of the table was along simple lines, the judges reported that the use of material was pleasingly neat and effective.

Luncheon with Diamonds For Hospital Auxiliary

GRADUATE GEMOLOGIST Irving Robbin shows Mrs. Albert Boeck a tray of diamonds as she discusses program for Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary luncheon Nov. 29. Mr. Robbin, speaker for the luncheon, will speak on "Jewelry, Its Origin and Present Day Use" at the affair which is being held in the Carousel. Mrs. Boeck is program chairman of the Auxiliary.

"Diamonds are a girl's best friend," but it helps if the gals know their jewels. The program for the November meeting of the Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary on Tuesday, Nov. 29, will show the women how to recognize their "best friend."

"Jewelry, Its Origin and Present Day Use," is the title of a lecture to be presented by Irving Robbin of Persin and Robbin Jewelers of Arlington Heights. The luncheon and program will take place in the Citation Room at the Carousel Restaurant, Arlington Heights.

MR. ROBBIN is a graduate gemologist from the Gemological Institute of America, a 6½ year course offered by the University of California. "This course is a thorough study of all kinds of gems . . .grading, selecting, sorting. But my lecture this time is on the most popular of all stones . . . the diamond," said Mr. Robbin. There will be a 10-minute question and answer period following the lecture.

Cocktails will be served starting at 11 a.m. and the luncheon will begin at noon. Mrs. John Noerenberg, 220 S. Harvard, Arlington Heights, will accept reservations through Nov. 25. (S

Nine Area Clubs Participate

New Junior Projects; Brain Research and Scholarships

Two more projects, The Brain Research Foundation and Scholarships for Teachers of Exceptional Children, will be suported this year by all junior clubs in the Seventh District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Other projects of the Juniors are HOPE, CARE, Clearbrook School and Northwest Mental Health.

Area clubs comprising the Seventh District are Arlington Heights, Atise, Elk Grove Village, Hanover Park, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling Juniors Woman's Clubs.

The Brain Research Foundation's aim is to increase human happiness through prevention of brain damage or its alleviation through improved medical care and rehabilitation.

ITS PURPOSES are to promote research on the brain, to further education in order to increase the number of persons qualified to treat the brain and its ills, to foster public education about the brain and its illnesses and to create one or more Brain Research institutes.

Financial support from the Foundation is facilitating work at the University of Chicago, the University of Illinois and Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

"There are more than 200 kinds of conditions which affect the brain and nervous system and cause a staggering amount of unhappiness, helplessness, non-productivity, poverty and family and community disruption," stated Mrs. Daniel Wallner, district director.

PURPOSE OF THE state-wide scholarship program is to provide financial assistance in the form of scholarships for students in special education, encourage entrants into this field and create public interest in the need for this special training.

"The number of students entering this field is small compared to the need. Many students are already using Junior scholarships, and money is now available to freshmen," reported Mrs. Wallner. She added that there are approximately 300,000 handicapped or exceptional children in Illinois who need specially trained teachers.

THE SCHOLARSHIP Program divides its money equally between three universities: Northern Illinois at DeKalb, Illinois State at Normal and Southern Illinois at Carbondale.

Each of the nine area junior clubs has its own activities to support these two new projects. Many clubs sell purse size fire extinguishers, candy, decorative soaps, and other items while proceeds from fashion shows, bridge tournaments, dances and other social activities are also earmarked for these projects.

AAUW's Book Fair Coming Nov. 18, 19

From fiction to textbooks—from encyclopedias to collector's items—from paperbacks to children's books—all of these will be available at the annual Book Fair of the Arlington Heights branch, American Association of University Women.

Scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18 and 19, at the Randhurst Shopping Center, Book Fair hours will be 9 a.m. until 9:30 p.m. the 18th and 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. the 19th.

PROCEEDS from the Fair will be directed towards the AAUW Fellowships Program, the largest and oldest such program exclusively for women in the U.S. The Fellowships Program now provides more than 100 graduate fellowships annually to American women and women from other countries.

Last year, the Arlington Heights branch of AAUW netted more than $1,500, more than triple the amount made at 1964's Used Book Fair. Members are anxious to top their record which placed their branch first in Illinois last year.

Final plans for the Used Book Fair will be disucussed at tonight's (Thursday) general meeting at Arlington Heights' Pioneer Park at which Ray De Palam will be guest speaker.

AAUW STUDY groups are in full swing. In the morning discussion groups, Mrs. Lewis Ross will repeat her program on "Religious Symbols" at 9:30 a.m., next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ted Meyer.

The Red China study group will meet at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 16, at the home of Mrs. Charles Toot to discuss "Communist Impact on the Chinese Way of Life." (S

Curtis Twins Head Newcomer Program

"Psychotherapy for Modern Parents by Two Nervous Wrecks" is the title of the program slated for Mount Prospect Welcome Wagon Newcomers' Club on Wednesday, Nov. 16. The meeting takes place at Mount Prospect Country Club.

The program is a satirical skit by the Curtis twins, Jack and Dick, who are known in the area for their entertaining sketches on modern-day life.

THE NEWCOMERS' second coffee of the season for women who have recently moved to Mount Prospect is planned for Friday, Nov. 11, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Those wishing to attend are asked to call Mrs. Curt Dahlstrom, 259-3053.

The club is participating in this year's U. S. Marine Corps project, "Toys for Tots," in which toy donations go to under-privileged children. Final collection date locally is the club's Dec. 7 meeting.

PROCEEDS FROM the October auction night for members netted a good amount of cash to purchase office equipment for the club. The auctioneer, Mrs. Robert Walker, sold a variety of items, from bakery goods to cut glassware.

Anyone seeking information on club membership may call Mrs. Harry Popiel, 392-6682. (S

Arlington Pair Light Single Candle to Signify Marriage

During the Oct. 1 ceremony which united Trudy Joan Benson and Leonard E. Carlson of Arlington Heights, the couple each took a candle and lit the center candle on the church altar to signify "the two shall be as one." Lighted candelabra graced each side of the altar, along with baskets of white mums, snapdragons and glads, for the 7 p.m. ceremony in Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church.

The Rev. Eugene Ongna united the couple by the glow of the candlelight, and the bridal pair exchanged rings and vows before lighting the center candle which culminated the rites.

THE BRIDE IS the daughter of the Kenneth M. Bensons, 504 E. George St., and the groom's parents are the Elmer Carlsons of 836 N. Ridge Ave.

As she was given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk-faced peau de soie, fashioned with long sleeves, a natural waistline and a full skirt with a detachable chapel train. Appliqued lace leaves and seed pearls trimmed the bodice and flowing skirt.

The bride's blusher veil was held by a pearl crown set with crystal drops. She carried white mums in her bouquet.

THE BRIDE'S sister Marilyn, who was married just a year ago to Keith Hollenbeck, was her matron of honor. She wore a two-toned green dress, the empire bodice of emerald green velvet and the skirt of nile green crepe. A panel of the emerald velvet accented the back of the skirt from the beaded waistline to the floor-length hem. She wore a headpiece of nile green crepe loops with veiling and carried ellow and rust mums with a cluster of waxed green grapes.

Three bridesmaids also attended the bride, Janet Hjelm of Mount Prospect, Joan Hollenbeck of Arlington Heights and the groom's sister, Linda Carlson. They were gowned exactly like the matron of honor, but carried bouquets of yellow mums with the green grapes.

KIM AND DAWN Felleson of Arlington Heights, 4 and 5 respectively, served as flower girls. Their dresses matched those of the adult attendants, and they carried nosegays of yellow mums.

James Fernstrom of Chicago was best man, and seating the guests were Roger Anderson, Paul Nelson and Richard Swedberg, all of Chicago, John Laurin of Elk Grove and Keith Hollenbeck of Des Plaines.

A buffet dinner and reception feted the couple at Long Grove Country Club immediately after the ceremony. Receiving the 200 guests, the bride's mother was attired in a bright pink crepe gown with matching lace coat, matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid pinned to her shoulder.

The groom's mother was gowned in nile green lace and crepe with matching accessories and a cymbidium corsage for the evening festivities.

AFTER A 2-week honeymoon in Miami Beach, the newlyweds are "at home" at 742 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines.

A graduate of Arlington High School, the bride works for Northwestern Mutual Insurance Co., and the groom is employed by Rosehill Cemetery. He is a graduate of Lake View High School, Chicago. (Jenart

Sorority Activities

The Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Delta Delta Delta will have a salad bar luncheon followed by a book review at West Park Fieldhouse in Park Ridge Thursday, Nov. 17, at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Howard Ebner, Park Ridge, will review "Saints and Strangers" by George Willison.

Mrs. Ebner has held various offices in the group and is currently serving as recommendations chairman. She is also active in the League of Women Voters, Twentieth Century Juniors, the Community Church and Campfire Girls and is past president of the Jaycee Women's Club and past board member of Park Ridge Family Counseling Service.

Mrs. Donald Keane of 104 N. Waverly, Mount Prospect, is chairman of the event which will benefit the Tri Delta National Scholarship Fund and several other Tri Delta funds. All Tri Deltas in the area and their guests are welcome. Ticket information may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Keane, 259-2130, by Nov. 14.

KAPPA DELTA

"Buona sera" will be the appropriate Italian greeting to be used when members of the Northwest Suburban Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta entertain their husbands at their annual spaghetti dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Pearson of Arlington Heights will host the Saturday evening event.

DELTA GAMMAS

Because their national philanthropy is sight conservation and aid to the blind, members of the local Delta Gamma chapter look forward with special interest to next Monday's meeting.

Speaker will be John Malmazian, assistant chief of the blind rehabilitation section at Hines Hospital. Malmazian has taught mobility to incoming college students, a program sponsored by Delta Gamma in previous years, and he will explain to the group techniques used in this program.

Malmazian, a University of Illinois graduate, has been associated with the Veterans Administration since 1949 and is a part-time staff member of Western Michigan University. He has taught summer courses on mobility and conducted residential workshops for the blind.

Hostess for Monday's meeting will be Mrs. Lucky W. Somers, 608 S. Burton Place, Arlington Heights. Anyone desiring more information may call CL 9-1106.

AAUW's Book Fair Coming Nov. 18, 19

From fiction to textbooks—from encyclopedias to collector's items—from paperbacks to children's books—all of these will be available at the annual Book Fair of the Arlington Heights branch, American Association of University Women.

Scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18 and 19, at the Randhurst Shopping Center, Book Fair hours will be 9 a.m. until 9:30 p.m. the 18th and 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. the 19th.

PROCEEDS from the Fair will be directed towards the AAUW Fellowships Program, the largest and oldest such program exclusively for women in the U.S. The Fellowships Program now provides more than 100 graduate fellowships annually to American women and women from other countries.

Last year, the Arlington Heights branch of AAUW netted more than $1,500, more than triple the amount made at 1964's Used Book Fair. Members are anxious to top their record which placed their branch first in Illinois last year.

Final plans for the Used Book Fair will be disucussed at tonight's (Thursday) general meeting at Arlington Heights' Pioneer Park at which Ray De Palam will be guest speaker.

AAUW STUDY groups are in full swing. In the morning discussion groups, Mrs. Lewis Ross will repeat her program on "Religious Symbols" at 9:30 a.m., next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ted Meyer.

The Red China study group will meet at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 16, at the home of Mrs. Charles Toot to discuss "Communist Impact on the Chinese Way of Life." (S

Curtis Twins Head Newcomer Program

"Psychotherapy for Modern Parents by Two Nervous Wrecks" is the title of the program slated for Mount Prospect Welcome Wagon Newcomers' Club on Wednesday, Nov. 16. The meeting takes place at Mount Prospect Country Club.

The program is a satirical skit by the Curtis twins, Jack and Dick, who are known in the area for their entertaining sketches on modern-day life.

THE NEWCOMERS' second coffee of the season for women who have recently moved to Mount Prospect is planned for Friday, Nov. 11, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Those wishing to attend are asked to call Mrs. Curt Dahlstrom, 259-3053.

The club is participating in this year's U. S. Marine Corps project, "Toys for Tots," in which toy donations go to under-privileged children. Final collection date locally is the club's Dec. 7 meeting.

PROCEEDS FROM the October auction night for members netted a good amount of cash to purchase office equipment for the club. The auctioneer, Mrs. Robert Walker, sold a variety of items, from bakery goods to cut glassware.

Anyone seeking information on club membership may call Mrs. Harry Popiel, 392-6682. (S

WEARING A GOLD CROSS pendant studded with a diamond, Leslie Renee O'Dor, daughter of the Charles M. O'Dors of Arlington Heights, was recently married to David Edward Shepard, son of the David Shepards of Aurora. The bride carried her mother's lace wedding handkerchief and a sixpence in her shoe which her father brought from London. After the ceremony in Southminster Presbyterian Church and reception in St. Mary's Church in Mount Vernon, the couple are living in Aurora where the groom is a special education teacher. Both attended Monmouth College. (Bak Studio)

South Church Guild Sets Breakfast Meeting Nov. 15

The Woman's Guild of Mount Prospect's South Church will have a breakfast meeting on Nov. 15 at 9:30 a.m. Circle 5, with Mrs. E. H. Janssen as chairman, is planning the menu.

In connection with the theme, "Our Heritage," Mrs. Charles Baumgarten, program chairman, announces that her 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Ida Dautel, will open the meeting, and her mother-in-law, 90-year-old Mrs. Lucetta Baumgarten of Chicago, will close the meeting with a recitation of "The Flag."

An exhibit of heirlooms from members' homes will be on display in the library lounge.

MRS. A. T. WENNER, music chairman, has arranged for a choral program by Mrs. R. A. Lechner, Mrs. Ralph Riddell, Mrs. Eldon Dahl, Mrs. David Hanna, Mrs. Walter Hanshaw and Mrs. Bob Crawford.

Mrs. Harvey Theilgaard, Mrs. Bob Crawford and Mrs. E. Bogdajewicz will be dressed as cheerleaders and Mrs. Guy Courtney will be "Granny" in a student aid skit.

Mrs. Lechner is also readying an exhibit of White Cross material. A book fair display of religious and inspirational books will also be available. (S

Arlington Pair Light Single Candle to Signify Marriage

During the Oct. 1 ceremony which united Trudy Joan Benson and Leonard E. Carlson of Arlington Heights, the couple each took a candle and lit the center candle on the church altar to signify "the two shall be as one." Lighted candelabra graced each side of the altar, along with baskets of white mums, snapdragons and glads, for the 7 p.m. ceremony in Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church.

The Rev. Eugene Ongna united the couple by the glow of the candlelight, and the bridal pair exchanged rings and vows before lighting the center candle which culminated the rites.

THE BRIDE IS the daughter of the Kenneth M. Bensons, 504 E. George St., and the groom's parents are the Elmer Carlsons of 836 N. Ridge Ave.

As she was given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk-faced peau de soie, fashioned with long sleeves, a natural waistline and a full skirt with a detachable chapel train. Appliqued lace leaves and seed pearls trimmed the bodice and flowing skirt.

The bride's blusher veil was held by a pearl crown set with crystal drops. She carried white mums in her bouquet.

THE BRIDE'S sister Marilyn, who was married just a year ago to Keith Hollenbeck, was her matron of honor. She wore a two-toned green dress, the empire bodice of emerald green velvet and the skirt of nile green crepe. A panel of the emerald velvet accented the back of the skirt from the beaded waistline to the floor-length hem. She wore a headpiece of nile green crepe loops with veiling and carried ellow and rust mums with a cluster of waxed green grapes.

Three bridesmaids also attended the bride, Janet Hjelm of Mount Prospect, Joan Hollenbeck of Arlington Heights and the groom's sister, Linda Carlson. They were gowned exactly like the matron of honor, but carried bouquets of yellow mums with the green grapes.

KIM AND DAWN Felleson of Arlington Heights, 4 and 5 respectively, served as flower girls. Their dresses matched those of the adult attendants, and they carried nosegays of yellow mums.

James Fernstrom of Chicago was best man, and seating the guests were Roger Anderson, Paul Nelson and Richard Swedberg, all of Chicago, John Laurin of Elk Grove and Keith Hollenbeck of Des Plaines.

A buffet dinner and reception feted the couple at Long Grove Country Club immediately after the ceremony. Receiving the 200 guests, the bride's mother was attired in a bright pink crepe gown with matching lace coat, matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid pinned to her shoulder.

The groom's mother was gowned in nile green lace and crepe with matching accessories and a cymbidium corsage for the evening festivities.

AFTER A 2-week honeymoon in Miami Beach, the newlyweds are "at home" at 742 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines.

A graduate of Arlington High School, the bride works for Northwestern Mutual Insurance Co., and the groom is employed by Rosehill Cemetery. He is a graduate of Lake View High School, Chicago. (Jenart

LIVING IN CHICAGO since their late summer wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dean Meike. The bride is the former Louise Ellen Hoch, daughter of the Frank L. Hochs of Des Plaines, and the groom's parents are the Elmer Meikes of Palatine. The couple were married in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, and then feted at a reception at Flying Carpet Motor Inn. The groom, a graduate of Bradley University, is doing graduate work at De Paul University.

Abigail Beth Aft, 9 pound 8½ ounce daughter of the Kenneth Afts, 2401 School Drive, Rolling Meadows, was born Oct. 26 in Northwest Community Hospital. First child for the couple, Abigail's grandparents are the Edward Izens of Chicago and the Harry Afts of Franklin Park.

Stephanie Jill McGrath joins a one-year-old brother in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McGrath, 1769 Dundee, Palatine. Born Oct. 23 in Northwest Community Hospital, Stephanie weighed 7 pounds 2½ ounces. Grandparents of the baby and her brother, Daniel Craig, are the Edward McGraths of Skokie and the Erik Sholins of Chicago.

Norman Stuart Davis is the second son for the N. Scott Davises, 444 S. Dryden Place, Arlington Heights. Born Oct. 25 in Northwest Community Hospital, the baby weighed 7 pounds at birth. Scotty, 2, is Norman's brother, and the boys' grandparents are the Richard M. Millers of Yakima, Wash. and the N. L. Davises of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Emily Lindblad is the third daughter and fourth child for the Michael Lindblads, 273 Parallel Ave., Palatine. Born Oct. 24 in Northwest Community Hospital, Emly weighed 8 pounds one ounce. Her brother, Scott, is 4, and her sisters are Laurie, 6, and Julie, 2. Grandparents are Mrs. Merle Lindblad of Palatine and Mrs. H. S. Cole of Borden Springs, Ill.

William Gray Duffill is the third child and first son for the junior John W. Duffills, 1201 W. Glenn Lane, Mount Prospect. Born Oct. 12 in Lutheran General Hospital, the baby weighed 6 pounds 7½ ounces. His sisters are Lani, 9½, and Sheryl, 8. Grandparents are the E. B. Grays of Palo Alto, Calif. and Mrs. Ruth Duffill of Chicago.

Glen Allen Moehling was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Moehling, 833 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, Oct. 14 in Lutheran General Hospital. The baby weighed 6 pounds 5¾ ounces. The Moehlings also have another son, 3½-year-old Scott, and the grandparents of the boy are the Wilbert Moehlings of Mount Prospect and the Henry Pauls of Skokie.

James Paul Grulke is the second son of the George M. Grulkes, 1912 Verde Drive, Arlington Heights. Born Oct. 15 in Lutheran General Hospital, the baby weighed 8 pounds 2¾ ounces. James' big brother, Lee, is 16. Grandparents of the Grulke brothers are the Edward Schultzes of Lake Mills, Wis. and the Emil Grulkes of Lebanon, Wis.

James Donald Callanan, third child for the Robert J. Callanans, 437 S Fernandez, Arlington Heights, was born Oct. 18 in Lutheran General Hospital. His birth weight was 8 pounds 2 ounces. The couple also has a 6-year-old son, John, and a 4½-year-old daughter, Carol. The John A. Callanans of Boca Raton, Fla., and the F. C. Thomases of San Jose, Costa Rica, are the grandparents of the children.

Kristi Ann Wineinger is the new sister for Kevin, 12, and Sandra, 9, in the home of the Marvin D. Wineingers, 206 Bobby Lane, Mount Prospect. Born Oct. 18 in Lutheran General Hospital, the baby weighed 5 pounds 13 ounces. Her grandparents are Mrs. Effie Mann of Hobart, Ind. and Levi Wineinger of Gary. (S

DOING MORE THINGS FOR MORE PEOPLE AT LOWER COST
WANT ADS WORK EVERYWHERE
THAN ANY OTHER KIND OF ADVERTISING

Classified advertising now appearing in Thursday editions can also be scheduled in Sunday Suburbanite at the same time at advantageous discount. Or the ad may start Sunday and run in combination with the following Thursday. No classified advertising will be accepted for just the Sunday Suburbanite, without also appearing in the Thursday editions.

DEADLINES

TUESDAY AT 3 P.M. for Thursday editions, and for Thursday-Sunday combination. Ads received until 10 a.m. Wednesday will appear in "Too Late to Classify" section of Thursday edition.
THURSDAY AT NOON deadline for Sunday Suburbanite for Sunday-Thursday insertions.

RATES

Reader classified rates: 20c a word first insertion, 17c a word repeated consecutive insertions. Minimum charge for any ad $2.00.
Sunday Suburbanite — reader classified, IN COMBINATION WITH THURSDAY ONLY, 8½ cents a word. $1 minimum.
Display classified rates: $4.90 per col. inch first insertion, $4.20 per col. inch repeated consecutive insertions.
Sunday Suburbanite display classified IN COMBINATION WITH THURSDAY ONLY, $2.10 per column inch. One inch minimum.

If it should be necessary to cancel a Sunday-Thursday combination ad, the Thursday rate will be charged.

We also offer a Contract rate to display classified advertisers. Call the classified department for more information.

BLIND ADS

A $1 service charge will be made for all ads when replies are to be received through this newspaper.

ADJUSTMENTS

If your ad appears incorrectly, notify us immediately. We accept responsibility for the first incorrect insertion only. Such responsibility is limited to such a proportion of the entire cost of the advertisement as the space occupied by the error bears to the entire space of the advertisement.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Ads will be taken over the telephone on a charge basis if the advertiser is listed in the phone book, or a subscriber to one of our newspapers. All ads appearing under "Situations Wanted" and "Wanted to Rent" classifications must be paid in advance.

Inside Randhurst

Center Preparing For Yule Season

by MAGGIE IRWIN

The North Wind doth blow and . . . we had snow! What could be a better reminder that Christmas is fast approaching.

Behind the scenes at Randhurst, things are moving at a fast pace, getting ready for the joyous holiday season. Trucks are roaring into our truck tunnel, pulling up to the various docks and unloading many unusual, interesting and exciting looking items. From there they are transported to the various stores and are just waiting for you to make your selection for that special person.

Don't let the occasional warm days lull you into thinking Christmas is a long way off. I know there is no need to remind you that Thanksgiving is two weeks from today.

I HOPE YOU received your "November Value Days" Shopper. I just finished looking through mine, and have picked out a few items. Hickory Farms is having a sale on their wonderful Beef stick; Garfield Gifts, located on our Bazaar Level, has a genuine lead crystal Martini Set; Carson's has imported leather handbags and Frannz Creative Corner, located on our Lower Level, is giving 25 per cent off on all album cards just for the following three days, 10, 11 and 12.

From now until Christmas, most of us will do more walking, than at any other comparable time of the year. There is nothing like a comfortable pair of walking shoes, and let's face it, the pointed toed shoes just aren't. I for one am glad to see the rounder toe shoe come into style. Have you looked at the new styles lately? There are so many good looking ones, it's difficult to make a choice. There never has been such a range of color. How about stopping in one of our many shoe stores and select a pair of attractive, colorful walking shoes, and enjoy your shopping in stylish comfort. (Rh

Witnesses To Assemble At Cary High

Jehovah's Witnesses will assemble in Cary Grove High School in Cary this weekend for a series of Bible discussions, lectures and demonstrations.

Family groups of Witnesses from this area totaling about 1,500 persons are expected to attend, according to R. H. Olson, representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society.

A special film titled "Heritage" will be shown tomorrow (Friday) evening at the assembly. "It is designed to show why each family unit among Christians must learn the will of God together, the parents leading the way," Olson said.

All families in the area are invited to view the film and attend the other sessions. Admission is free and no collection will be taken. (B10

Martin Freeman

Martin Freeman, 54, an Arlington Heights resident for 26 years, died Saturday, Nov. 5, after suffering a heart attack when returning from a Notre Dame football game in South Bend, Ind.

Mr. Freeman was born April 22, 1912, in Dundee, Ill. He had been a bus driver for United Motor Coach Co. since 1954.

HE WAS AN elder and very active member of St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday by the Rev. Robert O. Bartz. Interment was at Memory Gardens Cemetery.

Mr. Freeman was active in Boy Scout leadership for the past 20 years, having served as scout leader for troop No. 7 from 1942 to 1952, and was representative of the Lutheran Laymen's League to the troop at St. Peter Church.

In addition to his wife, Dorothy, Mr. Freeman leaves a son, Eugene R. of San Francisco; a daughter, Bonnie Louise of Arlington Heights; and one sister, Emma Freeman of Dundee.

Sophie Muhl

Sophie Muhl, 800 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights, died Thursday, Nov. 3, at the Lutheran Home for the Aged, where she had been a resident for the past seven years.

Mrs. Muhl, 86 years old, was a native of Germany.

The Rev. John Kempf conducted funeral services at the home Monday, Nov. 7. Interment was at Lockport Cemetery.

She has no surviving family.

John Tertz III

John Tertz, 16, son of John Jr. and Patricia Tertz, 629 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, died from a heart ailment Sunday, Nov. 6, while on a family visit in Bryan, Ohio.

John and his family had been residents of Mount Prospect for the past eight years. He was a junior at Prospect High School.

IN ADDITION to his parents, he leaves two sisters, Patricia and Barbara; and his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Palmquist.

Funeral mass was read Wednesday at St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect. Interment was at All Saints Cemetery. (A15

Inside Randhurst

Center Preparing For Yule Season

by MAGGIE IRWIN

The North Wind doth blow and . . . we had snow! What could be a better reminder that Christmas is fast approaching.

Behind the scenes at Randhurst, things are moving at a fast pace, getting ready for the joyous holiday season. Trucks are roaring into our truck tunnel, pulling up to the various docks and unloading many unusual, interesting and exciting looking items. From there they are transported to the various stores and are just waiting for you to make your selection for that special person.

Don't let the occasional warm days lull you into thinking Christmas is a long way off. I know there is no need to remind you that Thanksgiving is two weeks from today.

I HOPE YOU received your "November Value Days" Shopper. I just finished looking through mine, and have picked out a few items. Hickory Farms is having a sale on their wonderful Beef stick; Garfield Gifts, located on our Bazaar Level, has a genuine lead crystal Martini Set; Carson's has imported leather handbags and Frannz Creative Corner, located on our Lower Level, is giving 25 per cent off on all album cards just for the following three days, 10, 11 and 12.

From now until Christmas, most of us will do more walking, than at any other comparable time of the year. There is nothing like a comfortable pair of walking shoes, and let's face it, the pointed toed shoes just aren't. I for one am glad to see the rounder toe shoe come into style. Have you looked at the new styles lately? There are so many good looking ones, it's difficult to make a choice. There never has been such a range of color. How about stopping in one of our many shoe stores and select a pair of attractive, colorful walking shoes, and enjoy your shopping in stylish comfort. (Rh

Martin Freeman

Martin Freeman, 54, an Arlington Heights resident for 26 years, died Saturday, Nov. 5, after suffering a heart attack when returning from a Notre Dame football game in South Bend, Ind.

Mr. Freeman was born April 22, 1912, in Dundee, Ill. He had been a bus driver for United Motor Coach Co. since 1954.

HE WAS AN elder and very active member of St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday by the Rev. Robert O. Bartz. Interment was at Memory Gardens Cemetery.

Mr. Freeman was active in Boy Scout leadership for the past 20 years, having served as scout leader for troop No. 7 from 1942 to 1952, and was representative of the Lutheran Laymen's League to the troop at St. Peter Church.

In addition to his wife, Dorothy, Mr. Freeman leaves a son, Eugene R. of San Francisco; a daughter, Bonnie Louise of Arlington Heights; and one sister, Emma Freeman of Dundee.

Witnesses To Assemble At Cary High

Jehovah's Witnesses will assemble in Cary Grove High School in Cary this weekend for a series of Bible discussions, lectures and demonstrations.

Family groups of Witnesses from this area totaling about 1,500 persons are expected to attend, according to R. H. Olson, representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society.

A special film titled "Heritage" will be shown tomorrow (Friday) evening at the assembly. "It is designed to show why each family unit among Christians must learn the will of God together, the parents leading the way," Olson said.

All families in the area are invited to view the film and attend the other sessions. Admission is free and no collection will be taken. (B10

Sophie Muhl

Sophie Muhl, 800 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights, died Thursday, Nov. 3, at the Lutheran Home for the Aged, where she had been a resident for the past seven years.

Mrs. Muhl, 86 years old, was a native of Germany.

The Rev. John Kempf conducted funeral services at the home Monday, Nov. 7. Interment was at Lockport Cemetery.

She has no surviving family.

John Tertz III

John Tertz, 16, son of John Jr. and Patricia Tertz, 629 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, died from a heart ailment Sunday, Nov. 6, while on a family visit in Bryan, Ohio.

John and his family had been residents of Mount Prospect for the past eight years. He was a junior at Prospect High School.

IN ADDITION to his parents, he leaves two sisters, Patricia and Barbara; and his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Palmquist.

Funeral mass was read Wednesday at St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect. Interment was at All Saints Cemetery. (A15

Victorian Frame Houses Offer Revealing Look at Days Past

Soon two houses which were built in the last century will no longer be with us; in their place at Euclid and Dunton Avenues we'll be seeing our modern library. To quote Mayor Woods in his Founders' Month proclamation (October): "— urge all citizens to reflect on our rich historical heritage and to support our village's bright and promising future."

The last look we had at the old houses on the public tours of Oct. 1-2 and Oct. 23rd respectively, gave us, the 20th Century residents of Arlington Heights, a unique picture of the past. The tour committee of the Historical Society wishes to express gratitude to the following for their contributions to our successful venture. First, few among us would have known of the public tours if it had not been for: posters created by Mrs. N. Manos and Mrs. C. Moser, and the detailed stories published in the press.

IN THE mid-Victorian Bray house the first and second floor rooms "came-alive" because of the artistry, exhibits and work of the members of the Garden Club, Salt Creek Questers, Dunton Questers and St. James Jr. High School. In the Heller house, the fact that we saw so many intriguing exhibits, we owe to the diligent scouting and hauling of Mr. and Mrs. M. Hoggay. The private collections exhibited added to the atmosphere of the 1870s.

For our listening pleasure, we thank the German Band of Arlington High and the Arlingtones, and for helpfulness as guides, the Girl and Boy Scouts, Junior Woman's and Woman's Club members.

And to whomever in 1896 was responsible for the extra-ordinary design and workmanship of the 60x40 foot attic and tower in the Bray house—the star attraction of the tours—our congratulations. Adieu.

Mrs. John Shubeck
Chairman: Tours for the
Historical Society of

Ask Return of Halloween Theft

While we fully expected our Pumpkin man to be beheaded Halloween night, and his cranium (lovingly?) smashed to bits in the driveway, we did not expect his upper anatomy to be carried off as well.

Fun is fun, guys, so please bring back his red plaid shirt and leather gloved hands.

Campus Life Piece Accurately Written

We want to thank you so very much for your accurate article regarding our recent Campus Life Co-Op. For years, we have been very fearful of having articles printed regarding our work. In other areas of the country the press, though I'm sure unintentionally, has hindered our work just by taking things out of context or not being totally familiar with our work before writing an article.

My father, Roy Baumann, has said that Paddock is completely dependable. And so we thought we would try. Your article was accurate, yet kind, and was a help to us, rather than a hinderance.

It seems to us that the confidence that local communities place in Paddock Publications is well deserved. Once again, thank you so very much.

Sabonjian Invite 'No Surprise'

The news of Mayor Sabonjian's appearance before the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors should be no surprise to anyone who has followed their activities with attention. The board has consistently opposed any enlightened approach to modern metropolitan problems; its attitude is "It's not our problem."

But let them say it for themselves. Speaking of Robert Sabonjian's views in its invitation to members to the dinner where he was to speak, the NWSBOR bulletin said, "His staunch stand in issues has been in keeping with Realtor principles."

Mayor Sabonjian's presence in the Northwest suburbs shames our village; doubly, it shames the Realtors who invited him here. Let them speak no more of "outside agitators." They've capped them all.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMER

From Kate B. McNulty, Pasadena, California: I remember, seventy-five years ago, going with my father to the little town of Washington, eight miles from our frame house on the Kansas prairie.

In the morning the faithful horses were hitched to the wagon, which had been loaded with corn we were taking to market. We also had two half gallon crocks of butter and a basket of eggs.

I climbed up beside my father on the spring seat and we were off. So many sights were exciting — beautiful wild flowers on the prairie, ground squirrels, rabbits, a bull snake crawling beside the road. There were cherry greetings from farmers along the way. They would have liked father to stop and talk, but the precious butter had to be delivered and we had no refrigerated car.

We reached town, delivered our produce, unloaded the corn, and sat in the shade of the grain elevator to eat the lunch mother had given us — dried beef sandwiches on thick slices of homemade bread, green onions, early radishes and ginger cookies.

Colonel Cook Pleased By Paddock's Awards

It gave me great pleasure to read in the Oct. 22 issue of the Publishers' Auxiliary of Stuart Paddock's election as vice president of the suburban newspaper section of the National Newspaper Association, and I was especially pleased that your newspaper was awarded the Will Loomis Memorial Trophy.

WE AT THE Brigade look forward each week to the delivery of the Arlington Heights Herald, and it comes as no surprise to us that your paper won awards from the Illinois Press Association for general excellence, best editorial page, best use of illustrative material, best women's department, best sports coverage, best classified page and the promotion of newspaper and best advertising idea awards. All these factors have been appreciated by your faithful readers at the Arlington Heights Army Air Defense Site.

Congratulations on receiving the recognition due your paper. I would like to take this occasion to thank you for the support the Paddock Publications have given the brigade in its attempts to convey its purpose and functionings to the public.

Pre-post Election Musings Reported

Some post-election 1966 musings . . . written before the finale:

How come the county's Democrat pols forgot to "dedicate" the big new Route 53 extension running north from the race track? The boys downtown must be slipping. Or was this another indication of the untypical panic shown this year by the Daley machine?

Do you suppose that the flood of Democrat candidate posters and sign boards plastered throughout the area will be removed by the same patronage workers who put 'em up? Do you suppose? After all, they did it on our time.

Now that Eugenia (more taxes) Chapman has been retired to private life (assuming the accuracy of the pre-election polls), do you suppose the High School District 214 board will bring her back to fill a vacancy?

With the election over, what do you want to bet that the usually moribund Wheeling Township Republican committeeman's office goes to sleep again for three years?

Bardiau is known locally as an "objective" painter because he paints what he sees true to life. So what's that copy of the Paddock Publications doing atop his easel? Maybe he reads it to get a true picture of what goes on in and around the Northwest Suburbs.

many things rolled into one

The other day an artist friend of ours told us that our newsmen were objectivists, our political cartoonists were abstractionists, our editorial columnists were interpretive impressionists, our display advertisers were the original Pop artists, and our Op (fashion) reporters were crazy. Just goes to show you. We've always known a great Northwest Suburban newspaper had to be many things rolled into one.

Victorian Frame Houses Offer Revealing Look at Days Past

Soon two houses which were built in the last century will no longer be with us; in their place at Euclid and Dunton Avenues we'll be seeing our modern library. To quote Mayor Woods in his Founders' Month proclamation (October): "— urge all citizens to reflect on our rich historical heritage and to support our village's bright and promising future."

The last look we had at the old houses on the public tours of Oct. 1-2 and Oct. 23rd respectively, gave us, the 20th Century residents of Arlington Heights, a unique picture of the past. The tour committee of the Historical Society wishes to express gratitude to the following for their contributions to our successful venture. First, few among us would have known of the public tours if it had not been for: posters created by Mrs. N. Manos and Mrs. C. Moser, and the detailed stories published in the press.

IN THE mid-Victorian Bray house the first and second floor rooms "came-alive" because of the artistry, exhibits and work of the members of the Garden Club, Salt Creek Questers, Dunton Questers and St. James Jr. High School. In the Heller house, the fact that we saw so many intriguing exhibits, we owe to the diligent scouting and hauling of Mr. and Mrs. M. Hoggay. The private collections exhibited added to the atmosphere of the 1870s.

For our listening pleasure, we thank the German Band of Arlington High and the Arlingtones, and for helpfulness as guides, the Girl and Boy Scouts, Junior Woman's and Woman's Club members.

And to whomever in 1896 was responsible for the extra-ordinary design and workmanship of the 60x40 foot attic and tower in the Bray house—the star attraction of the tours—our congratulations. Adieu.

Mrs. John Shubeck
Chairman: Tours for the
Historical Society of

Ask Return of Halloween Theft

While we fully expected our Pumpkin man to be beheaded Halloween night, and his cranium (lovingly?) smashed to bits in the driveway, we did not expect his upper anatomy to be carried off as well.

Fun is fun, guys, so please bring back his red plaid shirt and leather gloved hands.

Campus Life Piece Accurately Written

We want to thank you so very much for your accurate article regarding our recent Campus Life Co-Op. For years, we have been very fearful of having articles printed regarding our work. In other areas of the country the press, though I'm sure unintentionally, has hindered our work just by taking things out of context or not being totally familiar with our work before writing an article. My father, Roy Baumann, has said that Paddock is completely dependable. And so we thought we would try. Your article was accurate, yet kind, and was a help to us, rather than a hinderance.

It seems to us that the confidence that local communities place in Paddock Publications is well deserved. Once again, thank you so very much.
